LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA, SUNDAY, APRIL 6, 1919

If you don't want to be left waiting at the station with your suitcase when the big special Camera! pulls out, you'd better get your ticket now.

The printed is impatient—the Linotype people are howling for copy—the pressroom has issued its last warning—and the editor is shedding his collar.

Now listen to me—

SATURDAY NOON IS THE DEADLINE

If your little speech isn't in the office by that time, we can't save you. All the good intentions this side of Wilhelmstrasse won't get your ad printed if it doesn't get here. I'd like to wait a year for you—but it can't be done.

THE ANNUAL NUMBER WILL APPEAR IN TWO WEEKS

PRODUCTION NOTES AROUND HOLLYWOOD

Week Beginning March 30

TALMADGE TO MAKE PICTURES EAST

Constance Talmadge and all that portion of the Talmadge family still remaining in the west will flit to the east in a few days to begin work on Miss Constance's first picture with First National. Anita Loos and John Emerson have signed with the Talmadge sisters to write continuity and sub-titles and will accompany the party east. The first picturt selected for Miss Constance is Jane Cowl's stage success "Information Please." Miss Natalie Talmadge will pplay the part of the younger sister.

The New York studio will be devoted solely to the Talmadge activities, with Miss Norma working on one floor and Constance on the other. Elsa Lopez, formerly with Griffith, is at the head of the research department.

SIEGMANN RETURNING TODAY

Word from San Francisco has it that Lieutenant Siegmann is to arrive from San Francisco some time today, having been discharged day before yesterday at the Presidio.

Eddie Peil starts Monday with the Jesse D. Hampton company as a Chinese heavy with H. B. Warner. He was loaned through the courtesy of D. W. Griffith.

Joe Frantz is to direct the next William Desmond picture, to start in ten days or two weeks. Desmond is back from New York and is whipping the story into shape for production.

Elmer Clifton finished the current Dorothy Gish feature Saturday and will start the next picture in the course of another week.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. T. Bahnzaf arrived from New York this week and are stopping at the Alexandria. Mr. Bahnzaf is D. W. Griffith's legal adviser.

Jack Lloyd returned Friday night from a trip east.

Anita Loos, Mrs. Loos, John Emerson and a party of three made a complete investigation of the social and business activities of Santa Ana this week, having come to a stop in that city when the rear end of the car refused to come further without repairs. They were on their way back from a short visit to San Diego. They leave the latter part of this week for New York where they will take over the continuity and sub-title departments for the Talmadge sisters.

John T. Rankin, for several months with Goldwyn, and recently recovered from a long illness with influenza, is now with Sol Lesser writing publicity for the "Yankee Doodle in Berlin" road show. Doc Howe, formerly manager of the Temple theatre in Santa Ana and for several months with the All Star people, will have charge of the show on the road.

Clune's Broadway Theatre will change bills on Monday hereafter. The present feature, Dorothy Gish in "Boots," will remain on the calendar for eight days instead of seven.

NEW LASKY STUDIO

The Famous Players-Lasky Corporation will soon break ground in Long Island City for a studio and laboratory. The studio will be erected on the block bounded by Graham, Pierce, Seventh and Sixth Avenues and will include two large stages, one glass-covered, the other open. The laboratory will be across the street on the Pierce and Sixth Avenue corner. The plans for the plant were drawn under the direction of Frank Meyer and Ralph Kohn has charge of executing them.

The Plaza Theatre announces the intallation of an apparatus by which suitable pictures are tinted as they are thrown on the screen. It is claimed for the tinting that it not only enhances the beauty of the picture but relieves eye strain.

JOHNSONS RETURN TO SOUTH SEAS

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson, whose notable "Cannibals of the South Sea Islands" has created a sensation in travelogues, are on their way back to the South Sea to get more cannibal pictures. They expect to remain away about three years. In addition to full equipment for making pictures, they are taking with them prints of the pictures made on their first trip, a projection machine and a portable screen. They hope to entertain the savages with moving pictures of themselves and by this means explain their mission among them. Mr. Johnson is also taking cameras especially fitted for microscopic long-distance and under-sea work. The films will be developed and printed in South Sea ports and shipped from time to time to the Robertson Cole Company in New York for distribution.

A NEW INDUSTRY IN CANADA

The business men of Calgary and Edmonton have formed a company known as Canadian Photoplays Liimited, for the purpose of co-operating with the Shipman-Curwood company in financing and exploiting the filmed stories by James Oliver Curwood. Under existing contracts four feature pictures per year will be produced and marketed through the medium of the most prominent and firmly established film exchanges in the markets of the world.

Bert Lytell has started on another comedy called "The Lion's Den," by Frederick Orin Bartlett. George D. Baker wrote the entire script for "The Lion's Den" and is also directing.

AL CHRISTIE STUDIO

Four comedies are under way at the Christie studio this week. Al E. Christie is directing Fay Tincher, Patricia Palmer, Eddie Barry, Harry Depp, Marjorie Payne, Ward Caulfield and others in a two-reel special. Scott Sidney is directing a comedy in which Dorothy DeVore, Earl Rodney and Roscoe Karns are featured. Jay Belasco has taken up directorial work, putting on a picture featuring Ethel Lynne and himself. The fourth company is directed by Wm. Beaudine.

Frohman Amusement company has moved over to the Astra studios at Glendale.

Lewis Stone, under the direction of Lloyd Ingraham, is starting a picture of the northern woods.

Richard A. Rowland, president of Metro, says:

"The program system is due for a fade-out. We will drop the one-release-a-week plan entirely. During the year we will produce perhaps thirty-six or forty pictures, and we intend to sell each one separately. Of course the exhibitor demands to know what he will get. We can tell him that—so many Lytells, so many Danas, so many Allisons, and so on, during the next year. But the price will not be set until the picture is finished and we have seen what it is really worth."

Ora Carew has completed her initial own company production, and her director, Walter Wright, is now trimming the film.

TWO CAMERAS TAKE "DESERT GOLD"

Abraham Scholtz and A. L. Todd Photographed Zane Grey Novel

"Desert Gold" will be0 filmed throughout by two cameras. The cameramen, Abraham Scholtz and A. L. Todd, report from their location on the Colorado desert that atmospheric conditions have been ideal.

FINISH WITH BIG SCENES

Director T. Hayes Hunter says that, in making a screen production, it is wisest to "shoot" the big, vital and especially the dangerous scenes, last. Hunter is directing "Desert Gold," Zane Grey's novel which is being filmed by the author's own company.

Those who will take part in the big final scene are E. K. Lincoln, Russell Simpson, Arthur Morrison, W. Lawson Butt and Margery Wilson. In the book and the picture, which exactly follows the original, this is not the final scene of the book, but one of the chief climaxes.

UNIVERSAL NOTES
By Ham Beall

Mary MacLaren is vacationing in Southern California after completing "Prairie Gold," under Tod Browning's direction. Thurston Hall, Miss MacLaren's leading man, is also enjoying a brief respite from his ardent screen duties as love-maker extraordinary.

Monroe Salisbury and his company are on location at Idylwild in the San Jacinto mountains. Director Rupert Julian is shooting the scenes from a script prepared by Bernard McConville.

Francelia Billington is the feminine lead in "The Pinnacle," the snow picture which Eric Von Stroheim is producing. Sam DeGrasse and Von Stroheim, who also wrote the story, have the principal male parts.

"And the Elephant Still Pursued Her," the second of the William S. Campbell animal comedies, starring Joe the monk, Caesar the lion and Charley the elephant, is now in the cutting and titling stage. Director Campbell is collaborating with Editor in Chief Frank Lawrence in reducing the film to pr0oper footage, while Harry Burns, Campbell's assistant, is supervising the preparation of the subtitles.

"Out Wyoming Way," starring Pete Morrison and Helen Gibson, is completed and Director Jack Ford is awaiting the return of his feature western star, Harry Carey. Carey is expected soon and "A Man of Peace" has been bought from Jackson Gregory as his next vehicle. During Carey's absence touring the country making personal appearances at leading theatres, Ford has been busy directing two-reel westerns starring Morrison and Miss Gibson.

Eddie Polo is enjoying a brief vacation after finishing "Buck Lawson Rides Alone," the fourth of a series of two-reel western dramas de luxe being produced under the direction of Jacques Jaccard.

James J. Corbett is working on the ninth episode of "The Midnight Man," which James W. Horne is directing. Kathleen O'Connor is "Gentleman Jim's" leading woman.

Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran are working on a new one-reel comedy, "Get the Money," from the pen of Clyde Bruckman, former Saturday Evening Post writer.

With Josephine Hill, formerly of Gus Edwards' "School Days" vaudeville headliner, and Ann May as his leading women, Neal Burns has completed "One Lovely Night," under the direction of Al Santell.

The final episodes are being shot by Director J. P. McGowan for Marie Walcamp's new serial, "The Red Glove."

Ruby LaFayette, the little mother of "Mother of Mine," the Rupert Julian production of many moons ago, has another "little mother" role with Eddie Polo in "Buck Lawson Rides Alone."

The famous Ooasis bar at Universal City, the "set" that was as the dramatic centrifugal force for countless western stories produced at the filmland capital, is being torn down while plans for a new section of the "Western Street" are being made.

Carl Laemmle's dictum that Universal scenario writers must mark taboo all situations depending for dramatic effect on the alcoholic atmosphere of the saloon, in view of the impending dryness of the nation, has caused the wreckers to pick on the Oasis for their victim.

Walt Whitman, a character actor, is cast for the part of an ex-convict in "The Chatterbox," directed by Director Rollin Sturgeon.

Herschal Mayall has been engaged for the part of Durant, the western bad man in "The Open Road," Monroe Salisbury's play.

Jack Pickford began work Monday on his last picture under contract to the First National. Gloria Hope plays opposite, under the direction of Jack Dillon. Mary Pickford has bought "Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come" for Jack, paying $10,000 for same. John Fox, Jr., is the author.

The Frazee Film Productions, Inc., have begun work at their studio, 5821 Santa Monica boulevard, with an all-star cast, under the direction of Edwin Frazee. Victor Scheurich is the cameraman, and Fred Littlejohn the assistant director. The company will produce one and two-reel comedies. Included in the cast are Harry O'Connor, Annette De Foe, Charley Thurston and Joe Murphy.

Dustin Farnum started another picture Wednesday on the Brunton lot, under the direction of TThomas N. Heffron. He is supported by Irene Rich, Joseph Dawling, Herbert Standing and Claire DuBrey. Story and continuity were written by Tom Gerharty. Title "Harvest of Shame."

Bill Duncan completed the fourteenth episode of "The Man of Might" last week. One of the most striking sets of recent date was the volcano built in Chatsworth Park for the episode. The scene was representative of Hawaii. The eruption of the historic Hawaiian volcano was accomplished by a great blasting of rock and red fire. Three hundred Mexicans in Hawaiian costumes added to the realism.

ANENT SUB-TITLES

Having passed something like twenty minutes going through a Brander Mathews review of a recent book on the "American" language, the editor feels that certain remarks on the subject of "America as she is subtitled" would not be out of place in this column. No originality is claimed, Mr. Mathews has led the way for the writer of books and the following suggestions are but carrying his idea further:

The Encyclopedia Brittanica, somewhere in its pages mentions "It is not uncommon to meet with (American) newspaper articles of which an untraveled Englishman would hardly be able to understand a sentence."

Now if that is true of newspaper articles, the writer does not care to speculate on the degree of understanding with which the Southdown audience greets the subtitles of a Jamca Montgomery Flagg or Mack Sennett Comedy. Not that they are not well written, but they pull for comedy in real old American slang, and that statement need not be confined to comedies. Of the last seven or eight pictures the writer has reviewed, at least half have relied on purely American expresions to draw laughs.

Any company of much size or reputation is today bidding for a place in the foreign markets, and it might be well to either write a separate set of titles for foreign consumption, or else prepare the original in such manner that the foreign audience will be able to understand. At any rate, think it over.

CAMERAMEN UNITE AS CRITICS

Some of the picture photographers in Los Angeles have organized under the name of "The American Society of Cinematographers," with a view to helping the producer make better pictures. This, of course, will be a big aid to the exhibitor and in turn will mean much to the general public. Some member of the organization will be designated to see each picture produced and write a general criticism of it from the standpoint of direction, photography, story, continuity.

Philip E. Rosen is president of the organization and W. C. Foster the treasurer. The other members are Charles G. Rosher, Homer A. Scott, Victor Milner, Dal Clawson, Arthur Edeson, Eugene Gaudio, Joe August, L. Guy Wilky, Robert S. Newhard, Walter L. Griffin, Deb Jennings, Fred Granville, Roy H. Klaffki, Tom Gaudio, Hugh C. McClung, S. S. Norton, F. W. Jackman, Albert G. Heimerl, Walter Lundine, Chester A. Lyons, Charles E. Kaufman, Frank B. Good, R. H. Tothsroh, William Beckway, Gilbert Warrenton, King D. Gray, E. G. Ullman, John W. Boyle, A. Scholtz and Lewis Physioc.

George Eastman, president of the Eastman Kodak company, is to present the city of Rochester a moving picture theater, which it is said will be one of the finest in the world.

Wadsworth Harris is in the Marie Walcamp serial directed by Mr. McGowan at Universal.

It might be noted in passing that New York's female contingent is beginning to affect bobbed hair. Possibly copying Dorothy Gish. But any way, she who would be first among the Broadway favorites now has her tip.

NEW ACTOR'S ASSOCIATION

An organization known as the Actors Association has been duly organized and incorporated, a state charter obtained and temporary headquarters opened at 6408 Hollywood boulevard.

The chief purposes of the association are:

1. To maintain a co-operative exchange for the members of the association only.

2. All members' salaries to be listed in the exchange as the basis upon which to transact their business.

3. It will be the purpose of the exchange to act as a clearing house for the transaction of all business between the artist and the manager.

4. A sufficient commission only to be charged on all business transaqted through the exchange to pay the current expenses of the association, without an element of profit.

5. It is the object of the association to in every honorable way encourage the production of better pictures and to assist in improving the general conditions under which they are made.

6. Believing that the relations existing between the artists and manager are mutually dependent, it is the principle of this association to promote a better understanding in all things between the manager and the artist, for their several benefits.

7. This association is formed to encourage and promote the legitimate business interests of its members and for no other purpose.

The following qualifications are necessary for membership in this association:

1. Three years on the speaking stage and one year in motion pictures; or,

2. Four years in motion pictures during one of which at least playing responsible business; or,

3. Juvenile leads are eligible for membership providing that they can satisfy the board of directors that they are such.

4. Actors whose registered salary is less than $60 per week are not eligible to membership.

The association is not affiliated with any organization, it opposes all legislation, it provides in no way for the adjustment of grievances, real or fancied, its primary object first, last and all the time being to transact the business of the members and the members only.

Milton Sills returns to Goldwyn pictures as leading man for Pauline Frederick in a powerful emotional drama of today, this being his first work at the Culver City studios since he supported Geraldine Farrar in three productions made in the east. Others playing with the vivid star are Harry S. Northrup, Emmett King, Beverly Travers and Ernest Pasque.

Reginald Barker's cast for the Rex Beach picture at the Goldwyn studios is a long and interesting one. Clara Horton is the leading woman and Cullen Landis plays opposite her. Others are Sydney Ainsworth, Walter McNamara, Ernest Spencer, Colin Kenny, Wilton Taylor, Billie Bennett, Hallam Cooley, Bert Sprotte and Louie Cheung.

Sets are being prepared at the Brunton studio for the use of Zane Grey's "Desert Gold" company, which has been filming the novel on location in the Colorado desert. Director T. Hayes Hunter expects to bring his cast into Los Angeles to begin work upon the interiors sometime this week.

HELLFIRE AND BRIMSTONE WITH NOW AND THEN A GLIMPSE O' PARADISE

EXTRAVAGANCE

This is the best thing I have seen Miss Dalton in for many months and the chief criticism I have to make of the picture lies largely along lines that may or may not yield to argument.

The punch of the picture lies in a dream. The audience is led to believe (in my opinion) that this is real stuff, and the bridge is burned behind. The reasons follow:

First, Miss Dalton is not allowed to go to sleep. On the contrary, we are told that she cannot sleep and that she is pacing up and down the room for nervousness. The next scene shows her husband's partner calling up the husband (Clary) and telling him that he has been found to be a thief. Now this scene, in my opinion, is absolutely illegitimate and a deliberate lie. No dissolve is given, to which the audience may look back and remember, and it must be remembered that one is always present during the action of a dream. You never dream of occurences which do not directly concern you, so the telephone episode is absolutely out. The first she learns of her husband's supposed dishonesty is when he rushes into the room and levels a revolver at her. This scene is perfectly legitimate, but none of those before it are entitled to place in a dream. It is evident that this was not noticed in production, otherwise the surprise element in this scene would have been left out.

Second — (In this case I am going into futures), If a dream is to be made satisfactory to the entire aurience, it must appeal to the people who know something about dreams. Any advanced doctor will inform you that the period in which a dream takes place is but the smallest fraction of a second as an average, and it is highly improbable that any dream ever lasted over half a minute. The picture brings us to the conclusion that Miss Dalton dreamed from somewhere near midnight until breakfast time. This last one is not so bad as it sounds. The entire audience doesn't worry about it, and there were probably not over three or four in the house who even thought of it. The reason I'm calling attention to it here is because it's a common fault in many dream pictures. The Dalton picture is no worse than the others.

I don't give Miss Dalton any more in the picture than I give Clary. It's fifty-fifty and Mr. Clary worked much the harder of the two. But Miss Dalton was much better than in some of her recent releases.

It's a very entertaining picture, all in all, and should be a winner from all angles. E. M. R.

Henry McRea is to be general manager of the Universal, taking the place of Wm. Sistrom, who is going east for the Big U interests, Joe Brandt, traveling manager of the Universal serials is coming here to make L. A. his headquarters.

Carl Laemelle leaves Monday for the east to attend to some business matters pertaining to his company.

R. A. Walsh arrives Sunday and starts directing his wife, Miriam Cooper, Monday at the Fox studios in "Evangeline."

PHRENOLOGICAL STUDIES OF PEOPLE YOU KNOW IN THE MOVIES

David Wark Griffith has a high developed mental temperament. He is a keen observer, very shrewd, cold exterior, secretive and has his emotions under control at all times. The artistic side of his nature predominates, and he is impressed by beauty of form, correct attire, and refinement. He loves detail and is never satisfied with "good enough," for to him the slightest incorrect detail is inexcussible. He is his own most exacting critic. Being very individualistic he doesn't like to follow the beaten path, and with the inventive faculty highly developed he enjoys experimenting for novel and unusual effects in his art. This faculty is shown by the prominence of the upper side of the head directly back of the temples.

LILLIAN GISH

Here we have a fine type of the mental temperament. The upper lip shows individuality. The full lips show a loving nature, but to the stranger this is not apparent, for the reason that she has a full development of causality which holds the emotions under control. This faculty is situated in the upper forehead. The eyebrows are arched high over the eyes. This hows a trustful nature. Width between the eyes shows love of form. Miss Gish would make a success as a sculptress. Fullness over the eyes shows faculty of location. Well rounded chin means strength and self assurance. Fine texture of skin and hair shows a sensative disposition. Well balanced forehead denotes both deductive and inductive reasoning power. A little lacking in the ability to remember names is shown by a slight depression right in the middle of the forehead directly above the nose. Good development of the organ of cause and effect, situated on either side of the upper forehead gives the ability to reason out the why of things so that her acting will always show a logical reasoning portrayal, instead of a blind emotional insincerity.

CECIL B. DE MILLE

Note very high head over the ears, this denotes spirituality, ideality and high aspirations. This together with the mental temperament gives great love of the beautiful, grand, awesome, etc. A person with such development of the artistic faculties could not find pleasure in anything rough or course. Construction is large, see fullness at side of temples. This gives the power to devise ways and means to produce, which in Mr. De Mille's case means beautiful creations.

GERALDINE FARRAR

Miss Farrar has a well developed Motive-Mental temperament. This gives her the ability and the strength to carry out almost any amount of work she cares to undertake. In fact she can do more actual physical labor than most men. The motive temperament when accompanied with black hair shows an intense nature, and such persons generally undertake too much for their own well-being. Miss Farrar has a straight nose, well dilated nostrils, showing a fine development of lung power, this supplies her with an unlimited amount of energy. Her strong jaw further accentuates her physical power. In addition to her strength of body, Miss Farrar has a well balanced forehead which shows both reason and preception about equally developed, so that she finds no trouble in acquiring knowledge either by study or by intuition.

REX MOWBRAY.

SOCIAL FRICASSEE AND CAPER SAUCE

BY FLORENCE PORTER PARKS

HOUSE GUESTS

Mr. and Mrs. Bertram Grassby had as their house guests last week Jessie Arnold and Fern Marshall, who were on the Orpheum bill.

MASON PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Mortimer entertained eight friends at the Mason Theater Friday night. After the theater Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer took their guests to the Alexandria for supper and the dance.

AT BALL GAME

Kathlyn Curtis bought several boxes at the Salvation Army ball game Friday, and entertained several of her society friends from San Francisco and many of the film people, with whom she became acquainted when she played the lead in "The Shepherd of the Hills."

AT PICKFORD COTTAGE

Mary Pickford was hostess Friday at an informal luncheon at her cottage on the Brunton lot. Mr. and Mrs. W. G. McAdoo were her special guests. The other guests were press people and people associated with the studio. After luncheon the party adjourned to Washington Park for the ball game.

AT ARROWHEAD

Frank Keenan and Jack Cunningham spent the week at Arrowhead Springs, resting and vacationing.

ANITA LOOS ENTERTAINS

Anita Loos was hostess at a luncheon at the Hollywood Hotel last Monday. Her guests were Kathleen O'Connor, John Emerson and Grace Kingsley. Miss Loos leaves for New York Monday.

ENTERTAINS AT DINNER DANCE

Miss Rose Neacy, publicity writer for the Universal Scenario Corporation, was hostess to a few friends Saturday at a dinner-dance at the Hotel Maryland. During the day the party was entertained with several delightful little affairs at the picturesque home of Mrs. Fern Tally in Altadena. Later in the evening the party motored to the Maryland.

MISS LEONARDT HOSTESS

Marion Leonardt assembled a chosen few Thursday evening at the Hollywood Hotel for a little private dinner party, preceding the dance given weekly at the hotel. Her table was centered with American Beauty roses. Miss Leonardt was gowned in a charming white net frock.

Her guests were Madeline Traverse, Mrs. Barbara Castleton, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Warner, Mr. Alex Scott, Silas Masters and Clyde Filmore.

WEEK-END PARTY AT BEACH

Fred Palmer and his wife, who is known as "Happy Anna" Palmer, gave a house party at their Laguna Beach home over the week-end. Edmund Mitchell, purchasing agent for the Lasky company, was the guest of honor. Those who enjoyed the hospitality of the Palmers were G. De Rue, Warren Robinson, Mrs. Harold Lockwood, Babe Emerson, Harry Edwards, Dr. R. Nichol Smith, Lucile Humbert, Harold Lockwood, Jr., and little Carmen De Rue.

MAY CRUZE MARRIED

News of a wedding of interest to the colony, which took place on St. Patrick's day, is beginning to leak out and only yesterday was confirmed.

May Cruze, sister of Jimmie Cruze, director for Wallace Reid, was married to Robert L. Gollner on St. Patrick's day, at 3 o'clock at the court house. The ceremony was performed by Rev. James Myers.

The young couple succeeded in keeping their marriage a secret until the last few days. When friends learned of the marriage they in turn surprised Mr. and Mrs. Gollner by dropping in Thursday night with gifts and a wedding supper all prepared, with even the cateress ready to serve it. The Gollners have taken a charming little bungalow in El Centro street where they will make their home.

"DUG OUTT" GIRLS

The girls of the Dug Out, at 1848 Morgan Place, have totaled $1313.13 from the sale of doughnuts for the Salvation Army. C. C. Hall turned his grocery store, at 6382 Hollywood boulevard, over to the girls last Wednesday, buying the first doughnuts himself, for which he paid $10. The girls also sold the famous doughnuts on the downtown treets. Those who took active part in the sales under the supervision of "Mother" Meredith were Edna May Wilson, Agnes Lynch, Yvette Mitchell, Betty Peterson, Bernice Allen, Larna Avery, Elinor Bamber, Constance Yates, Florence Praeger and Evelyn Adamson.

AT PHELPS' HOME

One of the pleasant social affairs of the past week was that given by Mr. and Mrs. Lee Phelps at their home in Culver City. An evening of music and dancing, accompanied by a jazzy orchestra, preceded a midnight supper of huge proportions. The home was beautifully decorated with yellow flowers, the same color being carried out in the crepe paper ribbons stretched from the chandelier to the four corners of the room, and in the fluted paper lamp shades. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Jeffries, Jane Sherman, Arline Manning, Eliza Casey, Valeria Jenontrez, Earl Lynn, Billy Burran, Eric Von Stroheim and others.

BIRTHDAY DINNER

Sara Mason entertained with a dinner, Monday night, at the Studio Club. It was Miss Mason's birthday, and a great white cake bearing lighted tapers, marked her place at the table. Pink and white sweetpeas carried out the color scheme and dainty little ladies wearing Easter bonnets were the clever favors.

Those present were Mrs. Mason, from Tuscon, Arizona, who is visiting her daughter, Sara, and Joan Boisen. Za Su Pitts, Helen Eddy, Marjorie Daw, Chafe Herenden, Nell Newman, Lucita Squires, Violet Clark, Agnes Johnston, Gladys Parley, Alice Mitchell and Madga Lane.

A PRETTY WEDDING

A very pretty but quiet wedding was solemnized last Wednesday at the Church of the Angels at Garvanza, when Margaret Copeland was married to Martin Best. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Harry Thompson at high noon.

Miss Copeland was gowned in white georgette with hat to match, and carried bride's roses. The church organist played the wedding march, and soft music during the reading of the service.

A wedding luncheon at the Pig'n Whistle followed for the family and close friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Best will make their home at 761 East Kensington road.

CAMPFIRE PARTY

Zane Grey gave a campfire party at Palm Springs one night last week while the company was there on location. The decorations were plenty of choya cactus, which was uncomfortably near, and one log for the seat of honor. Desert stars hung low in lieu of lamps. Music was supplied at intervals by Mr. Grey's four pack donkeys. The refreshments were tobacco only — several brands of smoking and chewing. The feature of the evening's entertainment was the tales of adventure told by Zane Grey. The guests were Eltinge F. Warner, publisher and owner of Field and Stream, Smart Set and other publications; Eileen Percy; R. C. Prey; Nelson, Mr. Prey's guide; Tom Doyle, an Arizona rancher; a Morongo Indian, name unknown; and Jay Chapman, the poor press agent.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON MUSICALE

The Hayakawa home in Argyle street was converted into a veritable bower of fragrant cherry blossoms a week ago Sunday afternoon, when Mr. and Mrs. Sessue Hayakawa entertained about four hundred guests, complimenting Tamaki Miura, who appeared at the Mason last week with her Metropolitan company.

A musical program of unusual interest was offered the guests, several talented members of Tamaki Miura's company taking part.

NEW CLUB ROOMS

The Assistant Directors Association met Friday night for the first time in their spacious suite of offices at 5444 Hollywood boulevard. The club rooms are elaborately furnished in mahogany and reed, and comprise a library replete with research data, which is open all day to all members, a billiard hall, a lounging room, with every comfort relative to mere man's enjoyment, offices and ante-room. A monthly banquet and installation of new members will alternate with a monthly dance, to which friends of the members will be invited. Different production managers, stars and others from various branches of the industry will be invited to speak, including the local exhibitors who will give the exhibitor's viewpoint. The club has been organized for the development of better picture making. It is not a union.

GOVERNMENT WILL SHOW PICTURES THROUGH NATION TO AID VICTORY LOAN

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Resources of the motion picture industry have been mobilized for the Victory Liberty Loan drive, beginning April 21. The treasury announced that appeals which would be conveyed to bond buyers by the silent drama would form the most extensive propaganda campaign ever conducted by means of the screen theatres.

More than 2,000,000 feet of film will be employed in explaining the necessity for buying bonds, "and more bonds" now that the war has been won. All of the film has been supplied by producers at the cost of manufacturing, it was said, and the film likewise will be exhibited by theatres without charge to the government.

Show Battle Scenes

Chief among the productions will be a 5000-foot film, "The Price of Peace," which virtually is a photographic record of how the country's billions were spent. It contains thrilling battle scenes, many of which heretofore have been under the ban of the censor and shown only to military authorities. Among the incidents are the first American attack on Chateau Thierry, a German plane being destroyed in the air, a field piece with its crew being wiped out by a shell and American soldiers keeping watch in the Rhine.

This film was made by army signal corps photographers and because it is so vital a record of what American troops did in the war it will not be shown at theatres but will be exhibited in public halls with admission free. To assure wide distribution, 150 copies of the film have been made.

NEW TELEGRAPH CORRESPONDENT

Miss Margaret Ettinger of New York City is now located in the Markham building in Hollywood as the local correspondent of the New York Morning Telegraph. Her telephone has not yet been installed but the address is 320 Markham building.

HELEN JEROME EDDY

By Florence Porter Parks

Helen Eddy's personality does not present itself in dynomic fashion, instead it steals into your consciousness with a repressed magnetism. A girlish wholesomeness, combined with a retiring piquancy impresses you. Instinctively you know that she is going to do something big, that trivialities do not absorb her mentality excluding the light of more serious things.

She is a product of the Los Angeles public schools, and the University of Southern California, and in addition had three years of dramatic training in the Eagan School. And it was while in the throes of the Greek Myths at the University that she wrote her first scenario, which she submitted to Captain Melville at Lubins. When he promptly declined to produce it Helen thought less of the Captain and of the Lubin Company, but when he straightway gave her a part in a two-reel picture called "The Twig that is Bent" she thought better of him and his judgment. She signed a six months' contract with Lubin, doing twenty-two pictures with Captain Melville.

Then Helen Eddy was signed by the Morosco Company, remaining there two and a half years, terminating her contract on the Lasky lot. She did seven pictures opposite George Beban, and also took part in Cecil de Mille's "Old Wives for New."

She free lanced awhile then, doing a couple of pictures with Monroe Salisbury, and one with Henry Walthall. In "The Turn in the Road" produced by King Vidor, a picture which had an eight weeks' run at a local thatre, Helen Eddy walked away with the picture which was billed as an al-star cast.

At present she is playing a part out of her usual characterization, suggestive of rollicking comedy. It is a Lasky picture titled "A Very Good Man," with Bryant Washburn in the lead.

One of her hobbies, if it can be called a hobby, is the Community Theatre in Hollywood where she has appeared in several sketches, the most recent being opposite Henry Walthall in "Bushido," a Japanese tragedy. Her other hobby is jewelry and copper work, having executed some very good designs.

"The story is the thing," Miss Eddy declares. "It is hard to have Nazimova, Walthall, and other of your favorites, to say nothing of stars of lesser magnitude, thrust down your throat, without a story, just because they must have a vehicle. I am not an advocate of the star system, but rather of a well-rounded cast with a play or story worthy of their portrayal."

Genius is merely a capacity for taking infinite pains, and Miss Eddy has demonstrated this to a marked degree. In order to establish a firm foundation for her ambition by getting a more intimate idea of her work she served a self-imposed apprenticeship in cutting and assembling pictures. In Miss Eddy's estimation, ambition is singleness of thought and purpose combined with incessant application, and eternal sacrifice. That the goal of success can not be gained by fitful endeavors, but only by a consistent building up of every attribute you possess. The history of the lives of our great artists substantiates this theory.

Helen Eddy's ultimate aim is the legitimate stage. She feels that the time is not far distant when the spoken and silent drama will amalgamate in some artistic manner, through the efforts of some genius.

WHERE TO FIND THE PEOPLE YOU KNOW

Pick-ups Of The Staff

Elsie Jane Wilson, who was injured sometime ago, is in hopes that she can soon resume her work at the studio. About a month ago she was taking a walk about the neighborhood with her great mastiff on a chain, which she had buckled about her wrist. The mastiff suddenly conceived the idea that the pace was far too slow for him and he straightway dashed off at top speed, throwing his mistress against a stone wall and breaking several ribs. She was in the hospital for about a month and still has to take life easy, which is a trial for any one as active as Elsie Jane Wilson.

Rupert Julian is working on a story for Monroe Salisbury, whom he is directing. The plot of the story is laid in New York City, and also embraces the life of the west which is particularly adapted to Mr. Salisbury's type.

Jane Tallent, who is under contract to the William Ott's company, returned last week from Tonopah, Nev., where she has been on location for the past three weeks. Miss Tallent says that it snowed the entire time the company was there, and that it was quite a lark for a California girl to wade through great snow drifts.

Maude George fin0ished with the Earle Williams company last week.

T. H. Gibson-Gowland is working at Universal under Eric Von Stroheim's direction. Mr. Gibson-Gowland's four-year-old son, Peter, is also in the cast.

Arthur Forde is back on the Fox lot again, having recovered from a nervous breakdown. Mr. Forde spent several weeks at Elsinore in an effort to recover his strength.

Bertram Grassby is working with Peggy Hyland at the Fox studio.

Gerald Alexander finished last week with the Gladys Brockwell company. She took the part of Miss Brockwell's mother.

J. A. Berst, president of the United Picture Theaters Corporation, after nine weeks of activity in Los An geles, left for New York last week. He will return within a few weeks and at that time will have an important announcement to make that will be of interest to the industry. Is he going to open another studio in the colony?

C. E. Thurston, who is now with the Edwin Frazee company, appeared on the screen at three different local theaters, at the Alhambra, the Garrick and Grauman's.

Margaret Ettinger will arrive in Los Angeles next week to represent the New York Telegraph. She was associated with Al Cohn on the Photoplay in Chicago at one time.

Lucille Zintheo has changed her name to Lucille Carlisle. She is now leading woman for Larry Semon. Miss Carlisle won the national beauty contest of the Photoplay Magazine last year.

Dick Willis and Gus Inglis spent several days last week at Santa Barbara at the American Film company.

Mrs. Henry King and her daughter were in Los Angeles over the week-end.

Joseph Franklyn Poland, writer of Mary Miles Minter's recent stories, completed "Tiger Lady" last week, which will be Miss Minter's next feature.

Maje Hopkins, by profession designer of Theda Bara's gowns, has had very little to do of late, for Theda has taken to seaweed and pearls, so he has turned his attention to the writing of stories for Theda. The one just completed, "A Woman There Was," took him three nights to write. The beginning is a comedy, the middle a drama, and the ending a tragedy, everybody dies. Mr. Hopkins says that the third night he wrote the ending, and he was sleepy and by killing everybody off he obtained a few hours rest. The picture will be released April 15th.

Lois Wilson begins work with Dustin Farnum Monday.

Ernest Shipman arrived in Los Angeles last week. The principal object of his visit is to settle the estate of Nell Shipman's father who passed away recently. Miss Shipman is in San Francisco finishing scenes for the Oliver Curwood story. Wheeler Oakman has signed up for the lead to replace Ronald Buram, who is still too ill to work.

Will Herford, the little white haired extra, is an occasional contributor of verse. He is a brother of Oliver and Beatrice Herford.

Enid Bennett, the Thomas H. Ince photoplay star, has just purchased a new home in the Beverly Hills district of Los Angeles, which she expects to occupy about the middle of April. She is now busily engaged buying furniture and draperies. The new home is surrounded by some beautiful landscape gardens and is within a short distance of the mountains.

George J. Tuckett is appearing in a Christie comedy.

It is rumored that Winifred Westover has received an offer to go to South America to appear in pictures for a Spanish producer.

Mr. Noel Smith has joined the Vitagraph directorial forces and is now at work directing Jimmy Aubrey in Vitagraph Big V comedies.

Before coming to Vitagraph Mr. Smith was associated with Fate Lehrman.

Billie West has completed his first picture at the Vitagraph under the title of "The Artist." Mr. West is supported by Ethelyn Gibson and F. Stanton Heck and was assisted in the direction of the picture by Charlie Avery.

It is rumored that Al Cohn will represent the Hollywood Studio Club at the State Y. W. C. A. convention.

James Harrison, who before the war was a Christie juvenile, dropped in from France, where he was with the 55th Ammunition Train, Am. E. F. Jimmie will no doubt soon appear in another Christie picture. While in France Jimmie told some of the boys around the barracks at Mons that he was an actor. They didn't believe him until Jimmie led the gang into Paris one Saturday night and showed them a Christie comedy.

Nazimova's cameraman, Eugene Gaudio, wears the button of the newly organized American society of Cinematographers on his lapel, and now when he shoots a rain scene someone has to hold an umbrella over him.

Dave Thompson, Metro's studio manager, says he is going to rise in the world and take Ray Smallwood, the photographic chief, and Edward Shulter and M. P. Staulcup of the technical department with him. Two stories of offices are being constructed over the one-story concrete generator house, and when they are completed all four will move in.

Hale Hamilton blew into the Metro studios Wednesday after two weeks in the Grand Canyon of Arizona.

Frank X. Finnegan is the latest addition to the Goldwyn scenario staff and is responsible for the script of Pauline Frederick's present production. Mr. Finnegan, known as a writer of short stories, abandoned New York for Hollywood three seasons ago and until recently was with Lasky.

Mr. Wm. Clifford has just returned from San Francisco, where he has been taking scenes aboard a government boat.

Wm. Farnum has left for Palm Springs.

Theda Bara is going to be under the management of Charles Brabin.

Wanda Hawley is playing lead opposite Wallace Reid.

Tom Ashton is now at Metro.

The Robert Brunton studios are rapidly becoming one of the most beautiful motion picture plants in the world. A high brick retaining wall encloses the front line of the studio grounds. The commissary building is now being covered with rose and honeysuckle vines. All the thoroughfares of the lot are being provided with cement curbing and gravel walks.

"Brass Buttons," William Russell's latest release, has been booked for the Rivoli, New York's best theater, for April 9th.

Fred Bond, who supported William Ott as the heavy in the recent William Ott feature "Nevada," which is to be released here shortly, came back to Los Angeles yesterday after a strenuous four weeks spent in Tonopah, Nev., with the company on location.

Mr. Bond has made quite a reputation for himself as a "fighter," having been given "roughhouse" parts with Douglas Fairbanks, Warren Kerrigan and other western stars.

Georgia Woodthorpe, who earned the distinction of being the youngest Ophelia when she played the part with Edwin Booth many years ago, has supported several of the leading lights of the stage. She portrayed the drunken aunt in "Zaza" which she played with Florence Roberts for seven years. With an enthusiasm apparently increased rather than lessened by her years before the footlights, Miss Woodthorpe has recently gone into pictures, accepting an engagement to play a young old lady in King Vidor's Brentwood production.

David Butler, son of Fred J. Butler, for thirteen years stage director of the Alcazar Theater, San Francisco, and himself a member of the Alcazar Stock company which included Bessie Barriscale, Howard Hickman, Bert Lytell and Louis Bennison, has been engaged for a particularly fitting athletic part in the new comedy drama which King W. Vidor is now producing for the Brentwood.

Zasu Pitts, who has an important part in King Vidor's new Brentwood feature, "Better Times," came by her very original name quite honestly. She did not manufacture it as a press aid to screen popularity. It was thrust upon her even as yours and mine were foisted upon us by doting parents. Miss Pitts had an Aunt Eliza and an Aunt Susan. Anxious to play no favorites Miss Pitts' mother took the last syllable of Elisz and the first of Susan and from the twain made ZaSu.

Hugh Fay is the latest recruit to the airplane brigade of motion picture people. He is the proud possessor of an air-wagon and of a record to date of sixty hours up aloft, declares that aviation has motoring backed clean off the boards as a truly thrill-giving sport. He is diligently preparing himself and his machine for a race over the La Brea course to which he proposes challenging Mr. de Mille.

Having completed "Wolves of the Night" with William Farnum and "The Spite Bride" with Olive Thomas, the one at Fox and the other at the Brunton plant in Hollywood, Irene Rich is back at Fox again with Gladys Brockwell.

J. B. Chapman says: We notive that two new producing companies have been organized under the same general management, to produce under the author's own supervision the works of Stewart Edward White and Zane Grey. An altogether poor pun suggests itself: Other famous novelists will join the "produce your own book" movement. Undoubtedly they will be Messrs. Black, Brown and Green.

Tom Bates has finished with Bob Vignola at Morosco, in support of Vivian Martin. He is now with the Gladys Brockwell company, under the direction of E. J. Le Saint.

Style Accents

By Vigee

This year there is a new knitted idea introduced in sweaters. This is hand crocheted or knitted open lace design wool, forming the front of a slip or open front sleeveless sweater with the back and sash of heavy jersey weave.

Sport suits are of this character in some instances and a skirt with tunic having a deep band of this crocheted or knitted wool matches the sweater. This is really the new note of the season in sweater ideas.

Light mohair sweaters in delicate colorings accompany the skirts of Kumsi-Kussa, Fan-ta-si, Dewkist and Paulette satin, while the knitted skirts often have an open front sweater coat with collar and cuffs of angora or high-colored jersey cloth.

Knitted silk plaid sweater coats and two-tone effects have skirts of the same material. The plaid designs are unlimited, which makes for exclusiveness and individuality.

To a skirt having Oxford gray for its leading shade on a white ground relieved by a scarlet stripe, they show a coat sweater of the same material or plain scarlet in a novelty weave.

The two-tone effects are attractive also, one model in sapphire blue with gold background shimmering through, having its skirt made with panel front, into which solid stripes of the gold are woven horizontally. There is an open center vest of plain blue in the coat, which is two-toned.

One of the novelties which has proven successful is a two-piece sleeveless slipover, looped together at the sides and fastened similarly on the shoulders. Silk tassels tip the broad self sash on this knitted suit, which is shown in solid tones.

WITHOUT CLOTHES

Joe Rock, Vitagraph director, was on location the other day, when a voice came over the telephone from one of the powers that be.

"Say, Joe, I'm sending out a lady for you to use in the street car scenes at Sherman. Her name is Josephine, and she is some actress."

"How'll I know her?" demanded Joe. "What will she have on?"

"A hat and a coat," said the voice. "That's all."

"That's all!" gasped Joe. "Say, this is no steal from Salome—"

But the voice had hung up.

Joe went out to Sherman in great trepidation, and when he told Pearl Chappelle of the prospective advent of "Josephine" in nothing but a hat and coat, Pearl said she was a lady, and that she didn't intend to be compromised by being in such company.

Just then a large man strolled over to Joe and asked if this was the place where Josephine was to come. Pearl sniffed and stalked away.

Joe Rock said it was, but if the lady was just wearing a coat and hat couldn't she—that is, wouldn't it be better—

"She ain't got nothing on right now," said the large man composedly. "But I've got her things right here—"

"No, no!" cried the panic-stricken director. "I'm afraid I can't use her."

Just then there was a movement somewhere in the voluminous coat pocket of the large man, and a tiny wrinkled face peeped out, followed by a brown hand that stretched out toward the astonished Joe in an appeal for pennies.

"This is Josephine," said the man, letting the monkey come out of his pocket and clamber up on his shoulder.

"Oh, well, that's different," said Joe, wiping his moist forehead. "Boy, page Miss Chappelle and tell her that the Josephine scandal was monkey-business."

CHIT, CHAT AND CHATTER

By Harry Burns

Stanley Blystone is the new casting director at the Bull's Eye studio and is booking artists for the Chas. J. Parrott productions which has Lee White, Harry Mann, and Marie Bianci as the comics and a good cast. There is a rumor afloat at that studio that Leo White is soon to direct. It sounds good and should develop into a profitable affair for all concerned.

Allan Watt, who is the head of the Assistant Directors Association, was greeted by quite a gathering of the clans who assist in the making of the Southland's film productions, Friday evening at the regular meeting at the organization's new fuarters located at 5444 Hollywood Boulevard. After new members were given the once-over the order of business of the night was put into effect. President Allan Watt welcomed all present, capping his speech by making a motion that the association send a letter of thanks to CAMERA! for the stand it took in defending Jack Pickford, for he personally knew that Jack was clear of being guilty of any of the charges, for he himself saw his discharge papers. It was met with great approval by all present. For the rest of the evening, there was a great vaudeville show and plenty to eat and drink and all went home, satisfied that good fellowship and co-operation were on the right road, among the busy bodies of the studios and that the meeting was a great success.

James Marcus, right hand man of R. A. Walsh, arrived in Los Angeles and is ready to start the ball a-rolling for Raoul when the chief lands here Monday and starts working at the Fox studio. Mr. Marcus stands in a class by himself as an assistant for he is a trouper that has played leading parts and at the same time handles the production end of the Director Walsh subjects with a master hand.

Louis Chaudet is to hike to New York City with Billy Parsons and Billie Rhodes and make a couple of comedies for the National, which should give Director Chaudet a nice trip and a chance to meet a lot of old friends and make many new ones. About the time this goes to press, I expect they will be wending their way towards New York.

Hank Mann has been visiting his many friends about the studios, and has had fully six different producers of comedies on his heels with offers to go to work, but Hank isn't ready just yet, wishing to become acclimated and get acquainted with his charming wife, who hasn't seen him for many a day. His future actions will be watched with interest.

W. S. Campbell has written finis to the second comedy that he produced for the Universal, and the reports, give Director Campbell credit for turning out a masterful laugh producing story, full of thrills and comedy situations that have never before been done in a two-reel production. Great credit is due Dora Rogers, Bob McKenzie and Rube Miller for the excellent work they did, while Joe the Monk, and Charley the Elephant, are said to be a riot from start to finish.

Hampton Del Ruth is making 'em sit up and take notice out at Fox's. The way he is turning out comedies, makes the old timers think they are back on the Sennett lot.

Billy Mason, who originated the front handle monacher of "Smiling," is at work at the Universal in one-reel comedies with Neva Gerber, being directed by Roy Clements, who replaced Ben Wilson who was called East on account of his mother's illness.

Jack Doyle, ruler of the four-round fistic tilts de luxe, is a very much put-out man these days, for someone published a story to the effect that Vernon was closed to the movies, meaning that no moving picture company could go and take any scenes in the city limits of Vernon.

"To the contrary," chirps Jack, "we want the companies to come and take what we have to offer in the way of locations and environments that go to make their pictures. I know the trustees are just as anxious as I am to have the boys come to Vernon and obtain the scenes they need so long as there is no propaganda behind the story that might work against the government future of our community, why should we refuse permission to the greatest industry that California harbors today?" And that about hits Mr. Knocker about dead, don't you think so?

Bob McGowan is working hard to write stories for Carter De Haven and Bill Parsons. He will direct Carter De Haven, alternating with Bill Sieter. That is the extent of his labor, but the bank roll is swelling every week and he should worry.

Helen Gibson found a regular trouper to work opposite when she was cast with Pete Morrisson, the latest find in western actors, who is being featured in two-reel stories of the plains.

Mitchell Lewis, Jr., dressed in his military outfit, is a great youngster to feast one's eyes upon, when he is walking with Papa Mitchell at the Unuiversal, where the latter is producing a western picture in which Fritzi Brunette plays the girl.

Stuart Payton is at Santa Monica where he has transformed the Goodwin Cafe into a moving picture studio, is already working his company, which includes our old villain-actor, Harry Carter, and others of an equal rating in filmland.

Fred Fishbeck has put all rumors to an end by going to work at the L-KO, where he is to make 10 two-reelers. He has Earl Olin as his technical director. Since the company allows Mister Fishbeck so much per picture, his ambition to make good will cause him to spend enough for each production to make it a real one.

S. A. Franklin, his right hand bower Ward Lascalle, and their wives took a fishing trip Sunday. They chartered a real boat and went out to sea, so that they could rest their weary brains, and be full of pep to direct the sweet Mary Pickford in her present picture. So when S. A. and Ward return, the Bruntonites better have a care for they will be up and at 'em like wildcats.

Beatrice Lovejoy reports that she will be in the next animal comedy picture produced at the Universal, and expects to make her stay with that company a long one, for there are a number of stories lined up that suit her to a nicety, and she doesn't know what fear is, when it comes to working with the wild beasts.

Albert Ray is acting like a real star. He no more than landed in a top berth with the William Fox Co. than he was given publicity from Sqweedunk to Frisco that he no longer is to be known as Al Ray, but Albert if you please, and now he has gone and done it. He is about to be married and be happy ever afterwards, so, if you will note Albert knows his biz, he isn't taking any chances of going wrong. Good luck to you, and more power, Albert.

Madame Yorska, they say is to remake her last picture since she has had her nose operated on, and expects the change to make her story improve even more than her features have since the operation. Madame has many friends here who will greet this announcement with honest to goodness joy, for when she was here before, she made life worth while for a lot of folk about the Brunton studio.

Vic Potel announces that the old trio in the Snakeville Series is about to be reunited and produce pictures for a well-known corporation. Outside of Vic there are Mr. and Mrs. Todd in the troupe, and the usual cast that goes with their pictures. Let's go Vic and may success greet you on every side.

Del Harris, who pplays an important part in the William Duncan serial, says they expect to finish in about ten days, and that no one knows as yet just what is in store for them for the next story. Del has done excellent work in "The Man of Might," which they now have in the making at the V studio.

Edward Frazee is the one fellow who can come back. He is at the William Clifford studio producing comedies like E. F. has produced for some of the leading companies. But, he has always wanted to be out on his own hook and that is just what he is doing right now. Joe Murphy, that hustling feller of propville, is with Frazee and should be a great help to him.

Chas. Lynn. You know who he is? Why that is our old friend Chas. Conklin who used to make funny faces into the Fox cameras, but who changed his monacher to please Mack Sennett so that he could appear in the same pictures that Chester Conklin works in and not confuse theatregoers as to who is who. He puts over one of the funniest characters in "Yankee Doodle in Berlin" and should be given credit for it.

Walter De Coursey quit the Fox Co. and George Webster has taken his place as assistant to Edward Le Saint, the former has been with the Fox folks for some time and expects to go to work with a well-known star at the Brunton studio.

Dusty Farnum, they tell me, is cutting all braces and is getting ready to start working at the Brunton studio in an entire brand new story that will offer him proper opportunities to disport his acting wares.

Wm. Ely, who handles the casting at Brunton's, found time enough to slip up to the Assistant Directors meeting Friday evening. How he manages to do that is the mystery of film row, for he was forced to have painted on his office door a big sign "Keep Out" with a skull and cross bones to warn those that enter of the danger they are facing, so ye sons of cinema land heed the warning, unless you actually have to bother the fellow that they say is the busiest man in Los Angeles.

William Greenberger, who casts the artists out at the Universal is in the midst of a hard siege of work. Directors Allan Holubar, Rupert Julian, Paul Powell, Jas. W. Horne and an even dozen companies are al casting from time to time, types, artists, and troupers. Everything that goes to aid a picture outside of extras is up to her, and she is working single-handed, so it's not a job, it's a POSITION she is holding down.

CHAPLIN CAUSE OF DIVORCE

A wire from the United Press informed the swivel-chair occupants at the Chaplin studio last week that Charlie Chaplin was the innocent cause of a divorce in Portland, April 2nd. Lena Grippen was given her freedom from Charles Grippen, her husband, because he threw her out of the house when she insisted that her little son see a Chaplin film.

When apprised of being the cause of the sad state of affairs Charlie Chaplin was quite unhappy and was lost in thought for sometime, then he suddenly exclaimed: "Gee! But I'll bet that's 'some' boy."

CINEMA LICENSE WITHHELD

On complaint brought by the Motion Picture Players Union, Deputy Labor Commissioner Cable has held up the license of the Cinema Exchange or Motion Picture Producers Service Bureau, or whatever you call it, until instructions arrive from San Francisco.

At the hearing held in Mr. Cable's office, several players testified that they had been hired by studios and were forced to go to 616½ South Hill street for their checks.

Further testimony on the part of one young lady showed that Horace Williams had tried to secure her for a part in which she should get into bed with a man and conduct herself as an adulteress. She said she replied to the request by slapping Mr. William's face.

At the close of the hearing, Mr. Cable said he would withhold the operating license until he had received word from San Francisco.

ALLER PATENT ON THE MARKET

The following Eastman Kodak Company publicity concerns the invention of Joseph Aller, of the Griffith Laboratories, the patent being leased to the Eastman company with sole rights of manufacture:

"The Eastman Kodak Company has just made an important improvement in its perforated negative motion picture film. Hereafter all negative stock perforated by the company will be furnished, without extra cost, with consecutive edge numbers, one foot apart, which will appear upon development on the opposite edge from the usual words 'Eastman Kodak,' as, for example, '10001,' '100002, '10003.'

"By a simple change in the printing machine, which is accomplished by cutting a slit 5-64ths of an inch wide on the left side of the aperture plate, the measuring numbers can be printed and made to appear on the edge of the finished positive. The figures will run from 0 to 999999 before being duplicated.

"The advantage of this system of consecutively registering the footage of the negative and positive, is in its application to the final cutting and assembling of the successive scenes which portray or carry out the action of the story, and in addition will be invaluable when selecting scenes for duplicate prints or re-orders for making repairs.

Simplifies Assembling

"The method of locating the portion or portions of each negative scene to be used for final printing has been heretofore to compare the negative with such marks or checks as have been placed on the positive after decision on the action and footage to be used has been determined by projection.

"This method aside from being slow and tedious, particularly in the cutting and assembling of large productions, also entails frequent and often serious damage to the negative, due to the image becoming scratched or otherwise marred as the result of constant handling when comparing the negative with the positive. It is also expensive because specially skilled labor is required.

"Eastman edge numbered perforated negative motion picture film materially cheapens and simplifies the cutting and assembling, and also does away with the possibility of selecting the wrong scene, particularly if selection has to be made from among several re-takes. For example: scene No. 15 begins with footage figures 26530 and runs thirty-six feet to 26566. If re-takes are made on the same roll the numbers will be higher or possibly run into a new roll having entirely different numbers: as, for instance, thirty-six feet from 8216 to 8252.

"When it has been decided to use a particular scene and the first print has been made, it is then only necessary to rewind the negative of that scene to find the footage numbers which have been marked or checked on the positive of that scene as described above, and thus quickly arrive within the space of one foot of the point at which it has been decided to cut the action. In other words, it is simply a case of following the figures even though the action carries through several rolls each bearing entirely different figures."

Casting Directory

Copyright Applied For.

In order to be listed in this column, it is necessary that you be sufficiently well known locally that there shall be no doubt as to your ability to play the parts for which you are listed. If you have not appeared in the films recently, it will be necessary to bring proof that you have successfully filled the part under which you wish to be listed.

This precaution is taken as a safeguard for this paper and for the people who are capable. Further, this precaution has been suggested to us by casting directors, as the column was inaugurated chiefly for their information.

Abbreviations: Characters (ch.); Heavies (hv.); Juveniles (juv.); Foreign (for.); Ingennes (ing.).

Changes in this column must be reported to the office of CAMERA! not later than Friday of each week.

Charge for listing, including change each week, is $1.00 for two months.

authors!

If you are not taking advantage of our Manuscript Sales Department—you are missing more than you imagine! This Department is under the personal management of who recently resigned as Scenario Editor for Douglas Fairbanks to join our organization. Miss Allen is in constant touch with the many producing companies in Los Angeles and vicinity—is personally acquainted with the buyers of scripts—and thoroughly understands their story-requirements, which are changing from day to day.

Don't you see the tremendous advantage your story will receive in this way? It will be submitted in person to the director, star or editor for whom it is best fitted.

Better get in touch with us at once—you'll profit by it!

Where to Sell Your Scenarios

This feature is for the guidance of scenario writers who have something to sell, but who do not know just where to take it. CAMERA! keeps this column for announcements by the various studios. Some of the matter stands from week to week as a reference guide. It will be noted that many of the studios do not wish scenarios submitted by any one; some want synopses only; others wisn the continuity written.

As the difficulties of the past years in regard to the submissions of scenarios no longer exist, it is safe for any one with a good idea to send scenarios to any company mentioned in this column. While this paper is not responsible for the use or misuse of scenarios by the companies listed, it believes that any scenario sent to any of the companies will receive honest and prompt treatment. Any action to the contrary will receive full publicity if reported to this office.

MABEL CONDON EXCHANGE, 6035-37 HOLLYWOOD BLVD. Interested in 5-reel dramas, with a strong dramatic female lead; both male and female dramas. Ingenue stories; Chinese stories with female lead; 5-reel story of eccentric comedienne with dramatic touch; and comedy-dramas of 5 reels. No comedy.

MOROSCO FILM COMPANY, 201 N. OCCIDENTAL. Desires only 5-reel farce comedies and comedy-dramas for Constance Talmadge.

CHRISTIE COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. In the market for one and two reel comedies. Stories centered about the lief of young romantic lovers or newly weds. Breezy, snappy incidents must be present in a marked degree. The Christie Comedies feature Bobby Vernon, Earl Rodney, Dorothy De Vore, Jay Belasco and Ethel Lynn.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA PRODUCING COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. Scott Sydney, the producer, wants one reel stories suitable for Mutual-Strand Comedies.

WILLIS AND INGLIS, WRIGHT & CALLENDER BLDG. Neither purchasing nor accepting on consignment any original scenarios. Handling only photoplay rights to books, plays and short stories.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS COMPANY, SUNSET AND ARGYLE. Prefers considering the original work of screen authors, having always been keen to develop those writers who showed ability.

NATIONAL FILM COMPANY, 6107 SANTA MONICA BLVD. In demand for 5-reel comedy-dramas featuring "Billie" Rhodes. Also 5-reel comedies for "Smiling Bill" Parsons, and 5-reel heavy dramas for Henry Walthall.

VITAGRAPH COMPANY, 1708 TALMADGE ST. The company buys no scenarios in the West, the same being taken care of by the Eastern Vitagraph Company at East Fifteenth and Locust avenue, New York.

THE DOROTHY GISH COMPANY, SUNSET STUDIO, 4520 SUNSET BLVD. Is in the market for five and six reel comedy-dramas, featuring Miss Gish.

DAVID WARK GRIFFITH occasionally buys synopses suited to Mr. Griffith's people and style. Stories should be submitted to M. M. Stearns, 4500 Sunset Blvd.

FOX STUDIO, SUNSET AND WESTERN. The company has its own staff writers, but will consider comedy-dramas and straight dramas with a strong love element. Also Western comedy-dramas for Tom Mix. Nothing less than 5 reels.

METRO, 1025 LILLIAN WAY. Maxwell Karger is manager of productions and June Mathis is head of the scenario department. Outside material is also considered. Good live American stories with a melodramatic touch for Bert Lytell. Comedy-romances of a lighter nature for May Allison. Snappy melodramas for Hale Hamilton; comedy-romances and comedy-dramas for Viola Dana, and dramas that are typically Nazimova for Nazimova.

WILLIAM HART STUDIO, 1215 BATES ST. Maintains no scenario department, but manuscriptts for Bill Hart will be considered. The stories must not take Mr. Hart out of his characterization, but they must have new ideas, a different twist. Pays upon acceptance.

COLDWYN PICTURE CORPORATION, CULVER CITY. Will consider ingenue roles having a touch of pathos, for May Marsh; ingenue roles that are rather fantastic for Madge Kennedy; strong emotional dramas for Pauline Frederick; and dramas in which the hero is a victim of circumstances for Tom Moore. Nothing under 5 reels.

UNITED STATES MOTION PICTURE CORPORATION, WILKES-BARRE, PA. In the market for high-class, clean, society comedies, and farces, of one reel. "Slapstick" is not wanted.

TOURNEUR FILM COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Interested only inscripts of large calibre, 6 or 7 reels. No society plays and no comedy.

FATTY ARBUCKLE COMEDIES, 1723 ALLESANDRO ST. Two-reel comedies having the essentiais of a good opening and a good finish, and the gags must be unusually clever.

MUTUAL FILM COMPANY, 72 WEST TWENTY-THIRD STREET, New oYrk Will consider feature photoplays with parts suitable for Gail Kane.

BACON-PACKER FILM CORPORATION, 230 WEST THIRTY-EIGHTH ST., NEW YORK. Society dramas with women leads are needed.

LOIS WEBER, 4634 SANTA MONICA BLVD. In the market for 5-reel society-dramas for Anita Stewart.

CHAPLIN STUDIO, 1420 LA BREA. Buys no outside material. Charlie Chaplin writes his own scripts.

PALMER ADVISORY BUREAU, 585 I. W. HELLMAN BLDG. Have your scripts been returned to you? Consult the Palmer Advisory Bureau.

ZANE GREY COMPANY, not in the market; produces Mr. Grey's books.

L-KO FILM COMPANY, SUNSET AND GOWER. Buys comedy ideas. Does not want the continuity written by outside writers.

UNIVERSAL FILM CO., UNIVERSAL CITY. In the market for 1-reel comedies and 2-reel Western. Will consider Western feature stories for Harry Carey; strong emotional drama for Dorothy Phillips and Mary MacLaren; feature character stories for Priscilla Dean; and outdoor character material for Monroe Salisbury. Violet Clark is head of the reading department.

UNITED PICTURE THEATRES CORPORATION, BRUNTON STUDIOS. Strong emotional features with problem theme. Scenarios intended for Dustin Farnum should be strong Western dramas or comedy-dramas which have sufficient action for 6 reels. Address scenarios to William Lord Wright.

BRUNTON STUDIOS, 5341 MELROSE AVE. Scenarios for the following companies may be addressed to Captain R. B. Kidd, Scenario Editor, or to the individual companies.

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG is in the market for straight drama; 6 reels.

OLIVE THOMAS desires rollicking light comedies, containing youth, animation and spirit; 6 reels.

JACK PICKFORD can use stories of the good-natured, small-town boy; 6 reels.

ALMA REUBENS plays strong, emotional roles, dealing with the vigorous, healthy, out-of-doors girl; 5 or 6 reels.

BESSIE BARRISCALE will consider strong emotional roles with the society element; also comedy-dramas; 5 to 7 reels.

FRANK KEENAN'S scenarios must contain strong, virile, masterful character delineation; 6 reels.

MAYFLOWER COMPANY, GEORGE TUCKER, All Star cast, will consider 7-reel super-features dealing with society.

SESSUE HAYAKAWA plays Japanese, Chinese and Far Eastern characters. Sympathetic roles and roles having to do with self-sacrifice are preferred to sentimental parts; 6 reels.

EARL WILLIAMS uses 5 and 6-reel society plays.

ADDRESS—LOS ANGELES ATHLETIC CLUB

PRODUCTION NOTES AROUND HOLLYWOOD

Week Beginning April 13

Charles Ray and company have gone to San Francisco on location.

Pete Gerald, assistant director with Francis Ford, is busy these days and is trying to hide behind a moustache.

Tom Mix went to the coast city last week to make scenes in "The Romance of Cow Hollow," under the direction of Arthur Rosson.

Hale Hamilton, freshened by a two weeks' vacation in the Grand Canyon, starts on "Full of Pep" Monday, under the direction of Harry L. Franklin.

George Larkin of Astra company, who supports Ruth Roland in her new serial feature "The Trail of the Tiger," has just finished the tenth episode.

Lloyd Ingraham, directing Lewis S. Stone in his own company, starts work soon on "The Lincoln Highwayman," from the original Paul Dickey play.

Larry Semon has finished his third Special Unit Vitagraph comedy and after a "vacation" of several days he will start the production of the fourth comedy.

Emmy Wehlen finished "The Amateur Adventuress," Friday at Metro. Wednesday she will start "Family Trees," in which Herbert Blache will direct her.

Frank E. Woods, Famous-Lasky supervisor of production, with his attorney, is this week drafting incorporation papers for the proposed Motion Picture Fund.

Francis J. Grandon, director of many productions at National Studio, is taking a well earned vacation for one month before preparing a new feature for Billie Rhodes.

The final scenes for "The Brat," in which Nazimova appears under the supervision of Maxwell Karger, were taken at Metro Studio Thursday night. Herbert Blache directed it.

Louis Sherwin has joined the Goldwyn scenario staff. He was formerly a Los Angeles newspaper man, and until recently he was director of Goldwyn publicity in New York.

The cast in Pauline Frederick's new picture, "The Fear Woman," is Milton Sills, Walter Hiers, Beverly Travers, Emmett King and Harry Northrup. They will go to 'Frisco for exteriors.

Viola Dana was through with "Madelon of the Redwoods," in which she was directed by Edwin Carewe, the first of the week. Her director in the picture she commences next week will be Henry Otto.

George D. Baker will start production of May Allison's next picture, "Free," by Will Irwin, in a week. Mr. Baker personally adapted the story, which appeared recently in the Saturday Evening Post.

Mabel Normand, Director Victor Schertzinger, in "When Doctors Disagree." Playing opposite Miss Normand is Walter Hiers. Others in the cast are George Nicholls, William Buckley and Alex Francis.

It looks as if Al E. Christie were trying to corner the market in film juveniles. Look who he has now in his pictures: Harry Ham, Bobby Vernon, Earl Rodney, Jay Belasco, Eddie Barry, Jimmie Harrison, Harry Edwards, Roscoe Karns, Harry Depp and Al Haynes. Some line-up, eh?

S. E. Schlager, late of the Publicity Department of the Universal, has been promoted to manager of a new department formed to handle the Western stories of the company. Mr. Schlager's land training along this special line should stand him in good stead, and we shall expect to see some good stories.

John Bowers, leading man at the Goldwyn, is an English lordling in Madge Kennedy's production. Besides John Bowers, there are Herbert Standing, Lydia Yeaman Titus, Robert Bolder, Eugenie Ford, Gertrude Norman, Roger MacKinnon and Helen Muir. Clarence C. Badger is directing.

Ora Carew's first picture with her own company has been named "A Man's House," and will be finished in a few days.

Director George Holt at Universal has finished "Wanted for Murder," with Pete Morrison and Magda Lane and is preparing his next scenario. Holt says he may act in films again but thinks he will devote the future to directing only.

"Rowdy Ann" is to be the second Christie Special Comedy, following "Sally's Blighted Career," which is to be released April 20th. In "Rowdy Ann," the pricipal role is to be played by Fay Tincher, who will be supported by Katherine Lewis, Eddie Barry, Harry Depp and Patricia Palmer.

Joseph DeGrasse has been retained by Mr. Ince to direct the production. He will be assisted by Bert Siebel, and John Stumar will be the first cameraman. When the story is completely cast, it is expected a number of players will also go from Los Angeles to New York.

Tom Moore is now at Santa Barbara with his director, Harry Beaumont. Naomi Childers is his leading woman. Leslie Stuart, Jr., son of the composer of "Florodora," and himself late lieutenant in the Royal Field Artillery, plays a role for his first screen assignment. Others are Frank Leigh, William Burress of musical comedy fame, Alex B. Francis, Philo McCullough, Mabel Ballin, Kate Lester, Hal Taintor, Arthur Jorgenson and Mathew Biddulph.

Ruth S. Allen, head of the manuscript sales department of the Palmer Photoplay Corporation, has returned from a month's business trip to New York, whence she went to close negotiations with a number of authors and playwrights whose material the Palmer corporation is to exclusively handle on the west coast. She reports a most successful trip.

Miss Allen was formerly in charge of the scenario department of the Douglas Fairbanks Pictures Corporation.

The Humanity Film Corporation starts on Monday producing "When Bearcat Went Dry," under the direction of E. Mason Hopper, with J. McKendrie at the camera. Jack McClosky will assist, also look after the cast and the purchasing. Mr. Sellers, well known in Western filmdom, will again manage the company. The cast includes Birney Burning as Bearcat, Vangie Valentine playing opposite him, also the following: Lon Chaney, Walt Whitman, Winter Hall, F. Brady and B. Johns. H. Hupp will be in charge of the properties.

STUDIO CLUB DANCE

A week from next Friday night the Studio Club girls will give one of their usual tri-weekly dances at the club, 6129 Carlos street. Anita Stewart will be the special guest of the club.

SESSUE HAYAKWA

By Florence Porter Parks

An adage almost trite is that Fate hangs by a thread, which it sometimes seems to do.

The Imperial Navy of Japan had it's eye on Sessue Hayakawa and it was the ambition of Sessue's parents that he follow in the line of his Samurai fathers. He received intensive training in the largest naval academy in the country and served four years in the navy.

Sessue's future looked irrevocably anchored, but there had always hovered about him a secret longing for the stage which he had never been able to quell.

Then Fate threw a coin into the air in sheer perversity of spirit. That was the day Sessue, in making a high dive, broke one of his ear drums, which at the same time almost broke the hearts of his parents, for the accident disqualified Sessue for the navy.

Sessue Hayakawa's life then turned in it's course and sailed straight from the rigid discipline of the navy to the Land of Make-Believe.

His first dramatic experience, aside from amateur plays staged at the naval academy, was with a stock company at Tokyo, where he played for a year before coming to America to enter the University in Chicago. He remained a year at the University, translating Shakespeare, Ibsen and other great playwrights.

He returned to Japan to interest some of the Japanese producers in the production of Shakespearian plays, which, by the way, were incongruously acted in Japanese costume; but after all "The play's the thing." He did much to further a love for the drama in the land of his birth.

In 1912 he returned to the United States and organized a company of twenty players, which played the western coast for about three years, putting on such plays as "The Typhoon" and "A Heart in Pawn." The company was playing above the Lyceum Theater in Los Angeles when Thomas H. Ince decided to make a series of Japanese pictures, using for their locale the Japanese fishing village near the old Triangle ranch on the Santa Monica coast road.

Sessue Hayakawa was given a part in these pictures and attracted the attention of Mr. Ince to such an extent that he featured the Japanese actor for a year at Inceville. The first feature was "The Wrath of the Gods," with lovely Tsuru Aoki playing opposite him. It was she who turned his thoughts from his Japanese theater company to picture work.

Back in the land of cherry blossoms their families had been friends and the two played together as children. Tsuru came to America with her father and when Sessue came over their friendship was renewed. As a culmination of a happy courship they were married while with the Ince company about five years ago.

Mr. Ince picturized "The Typhoon" and "A Heart in Pawn," Mr. Hayakawa's road shows, and they were directed by Reginald Barker. Among other Ince features was "The City of Dim Faces," with Doris Pawn playing opposite.

Then Hayakawa signed a three years' contract with the Lasky company, making twenty features for the Famous Players. The first was "The Soul of Kurasan." Others were "The Honor of His House," with Florence Vidor, and "The Cheat," in which he was co-starred with Fannie Ward.

When his Lasky contract expired he started with his own company on the Brunton lot. At present he is working on an elaborate East Indian production adapted from the book by Edmund Mitchell called "Only a Niger." William Worthington is Mr. Hayakawa's director.

The greatest ambition of Sessue Hayakawa's professional career was to attain the highest point of excellency as a screen player, and the world knows that he has justified his ambitions.

"It is not Fame that affords the true thrill of glory; rather, the justification of a given talent."

THEDA NOT DEFUNCT

Mark Twain once said, when his death was reported, that the story had been "greatly exaggerated." Theda Bara might remark the same thing, as the rumor that she is dead is still hanging around more or less, despite her own vigorous protests that she was still very much alive.

The other day her scenario writer and costume designer, Neje Hopkins, was entering Grauman's theatre, and the doorman, recognizing him, said:

"Isn't it too bad about Miss Bara's death!"

Mr. Hopkins explained that to his certain knowledge she wasn't defunct, and showed, in proof, some pictures he had received that morning.

The doorman shook his head skeptically.

"But she says she's not dead!" urged Neje. The doorman merely shrugged his shoulders.

"I don't care what she says," he retored. "You can't believe anything these stars say—I don't trust 'em!"

A FEW SPLINTERS

For some time the exact width of the gate at the Chaplin studio has been a question in the minds of some few people. Alfred Reeves, studio manager for the Emminent Expressionist, recently purchased a handsome roadster. One day this past week he was given his first lesson at the wheel. Any one desiring authentic information as to the exact space from side to side of this particular gate can gain a true enlightenment from this genial executive.

VICTOR HUGO DINNER

George Larkin entertained a small group of friends at dinner Wednesday evening at the Victor Hugo. His guests were Grace Kingsley, Miss M. E. M. Gibson and Lloyd Whitlock. Mr. Larkin left at three o'clock Thursday morning for Santa Barbara, where he caught a boat for Santa Cruz Island. His company is there taking scenes for "Tiger Face." And his dinner guests, to prove their good fellowship, saw George off.

LUNCHEON FOR COMPANY

James W. Hum, secretary for the Brentwood Corporation, entertained all the members of the King Vidor company at luncheon in the sun room of the Brentwood Country Club last Saturday evening. Some interesting stills were made of King Vidor's happy family of twenty.

Kinematograph Shutters. R. Deans, 4 Christopher Road, Leeds. April 10, 1918, No. 6094. (Class 97-i).

In a kinemotograph projection shutter, means are provided whereby the area which allows light to pass to the screen, increases automatically as the speed of rotation increases and decreases as the speed decreases. A shutter comprising two disks, of which one is secured to the shaft and the other is mounted loosely on the shaft and is connected to the first disc by a spring or the like so that it is drawn round by it. Each disc has a masking blade, and an aperatured flicker blade, and the loosely mounted disc may be provided with wings acted upon by the air or with a mechanical brake or the like. At low speeds, the aperatures in each flicker blade are covered by the other flicker blade, but as the speed is increased, the loosely mounted disc lags behind and the aperatures in the flicker blades come more or less into register. In alternative constructions, the shutter may comprise a single disc having flaps over aperatures in the blades which are opened by centrifugal force or air pressure as the shutter rotates, or blades which are themselves so mounted.

Motion Picture Film Container. Leo E. Riddle and William Queviolo, San Francisco, Cal. Filed March 11, 1918. Serial No. 223,236. 4 claims. (Cl. 211-16.)

The combination with a suitable frame of a plurality of containers each having an open top and pivotally mounted within the frame at a point situated below and diagonally from its center of gravity whereby said container may be automatically retained in a vertical retaining or a substantially horizontal discharging position, said frame being arranged to limit the movement of said containers to either position; a cover hinge mounted upon the top of each container and arranged to swing open when container is in a discharging position and to swing shut when container is moved to a retaining position; and means mounted upon each cover to automatically lock said cover shut and to retain the container in a retaining position when said container is swung to said retaining position.

Method of, and Apparatus for Producing Motion-Picture Titles.—Clarence E. Eckels, Chicago, Ill. Filed April 19, 1918. Serial No. 229,580. 5 claims. (Class 88-16.)

1. The method of making screen titles which consists in preparing a miniature stage with movable scenery, displaying the desired title on a piece corresponding to a drop, then photographing the setting on the desired length of film, substantially as described.

g. A miniature stage for use in making moving picture titles, comprising in combination a box having an opening, and miniature scenery adapted to be slidably and removably mounted in the box the scenery including a transverse member corresponding to a back drop on which the title to be photographed is exposed, substantially as described.

When a teakettle boils, it sings, but the director by no means is a teakettle.—Saxon.

Hugh Saxon, who claims to be a connoisseur of feminine beauty, states that Miss Madelaine Traverse should win that beauty contest, now under way. He describes her as an ox-eyed doll, whose alabaster brow is more than magnetic. To look into her wonderful orbs, he says, and see those great eyelashes flecking a cheek of crimson down make's one heart beat like the fluttering of a sparrow's wing against a window pane.

The players around Vitagraph lot have been mystified by hearing James Young, director of Earle Williams, addressed as Chaplin. That is it sounded like Chaplin when several friends, in passing the director, hailed him with—"Hello Chaplain"—but the truth of the matter is that Mr. Young has been elected to the office of chaplain in the Motion Picture Directors Assn.

HELLFIRE AND BRIMSTONE WITH NOW AND THEN A GLIMPSE O' PARADISE

YANKEE DOODLE IN BERLIN

It's the same old Keystone hookum, but take it from me sisters, it gets over with the box office section and keeps those present in a happy frame of mind. Personally I don't like it. I sit and cuss the picture and then catch myself giggling, all of which is very embarrassing, especially when I am all prepared to say it's very bad. But those around me in the Kinema did not seem to be troubled by conscience as I was and some of them even went so far as to howl out loud, all of which I consider very bad manners and out of place in a picture house. I am saying this just to illustrate what will sometimes happen to a show that you would call a failure in the projection room. If I had seen this in the studio projection room I would undoubtedly have told Mr. Sennet that he had lost a lot of money. As it is probably Mack will have a chance to interview to the new Pierce-Arrow dealers at least once and may be able to buy a new hat.

I'll take another paragraph here to add that one of the biggest pieces of foolishness in motion pictures is to allow a critic to see a comedy picture in the projection room without an audience. In my own case I have had the disconcerting experience of having myself gloriously reversed in opinion twice, and I'm not so different from the rest of the genus but that the same thing probably holds good through the entire family. If you have a tragedy, show it to them alone. If it's comedy, let the crowd help them start laughing.

Now concerning the star in this picture—it doesn't make very much difference who Mack Senet uses, the result is usually worth the price of admission—Bothwell Browne gets over with his audience all the way and was applauded twice when I saw the feature. As a dancer he is good; as an actor—not so good. The situation in this case, based on the French farce helps Browne to go through with much more speed than I think he would ordinarily. His female impersonation is very good, but either the cameraman or the make-up artist o arranged things that Bothwell's face in this picture will never crowd the Mona Lisa out of the papers. Outside of the face, however, the male lady is remarkable, especially the arched ankle and—but why go further? Bothwell shows the real speed in the feminine stuff and that is largely what he is there for.

The best thing in the picture, to our special interest and taste, is that point where Hindy stands on the top of the stairway and motions to the space below. Following the destruction scene in the beer garden this is the best kind of suggestion that I have ever seen in a comedy.

Inasmuch as it's a road show with Sol Lesser at the head of it, it is not necessary to tell the exhibitor what to do. As far as the fan goes, the mere fact that the girls are along with the show is enough to bring in the war tax, so for my part, just tell them that I enjoyed "Yankee Doodle in Berlin."

A few ideas for the separate skirt may be of interest to those who are planning their summer apparel.

Wash skirts are made of checked pique weaves and basket cloths, both plain and striped. White serge skirts, fulled onto a belt are shown for wear with the coat, or the highly colored sweater.

Foulard in an all-over pattern, navy on a white ground, with a deep border is gathered into a crushed belt.

Fan-ta-si skirts in the satin block weave, and also in the solid color, are made with a fancy pocket, and a crushed girdle of the same fabric.

Baronet and tricolette skirts, in heavy weights, are straight and full in line, some having patch pockets and others having the pockets set in.

A flannel skirt is shown which has a white ground, with stripes of black. This is box pleated and stitched down below the hips, the white forming the inside of the pleat. Plaids are also good for the pleated model, while blocks of enormous sizes and chekcs of smaller patterns in high colors subdued with oxford, navy, and black are sought for the plainer skirt.

In the latter range, some of the blocks are used on the bias to develop diamond shaped figures, one on this order has pockets applied crosswise to make a combination of navy bottom and tan top.

For sports wear, high colored flannels and pebble-weave cotton tapestry cloth models continue as favorites.

Colonel Jasper Ewing Brady, scenario editor at Metro, is too busy appreciating his two soldier sons to talk business these days. George, the older son, is enroute to this country bringing back the Croix de Guerre with four palms, and a star, also the coc of Verdun. While driving ambulances over there, he had the experience of having five demolished while he miraculously escaped death each time. Jasper, the younger son, who received the Distinguished Service Cross, has joined the regular army and will remain abroad. This is the third generation of Bradys to be decorated. Col. Brady's father was decorated in the Civil War, the Colonel received his medal in the Spanish-American, and now his two fine sons have distinguished themselves in the present war. Both of the boys are under twenty-two and are enlisted men.

The Robert Brunton Studios have a resourceful property chief. The other day he came running up to Mr. Brunton with his hair disheveled. "Now here," he spluttered indignantly, "this is too much! I have reconstructed the lower regions according to Dante; framed the constitutional document for a play laid in Utopia, but this Mr. Brunton—this is too much!"

"What is it?" inquired the studio head.

"Why these birds begin their story at the dawn of history, then they flash to forty years later in the Garden of Eden. From there they change to Africa to show the youngest son of Noah shooting elephants. Not content with that, a title says 'Two thousand years later,' then they want a Billy Sunday revival meeting. Take a little think like a pen. I've gotta find out what kind of a pen Noah used when he wrote the note that he tied on the dove."

BY FLORENCE PORTER PARKS

BOTHWELL BROWNE SCORES IN FIRST FILM

Bothwell Browne, the actor of feminine roles, star of Mack Senetts' comedy, "Yankee Doodle in Berlin," will accompany the film and arranged an original oriental dance production which was staged in conjunction with the picture. Browne has been starred in New York productions and in vaudeville for many years.

The state right owners of "Yankee Doodle in Berlin" have arranged with Browne to make the journey east and appear in New York City at the opening of the picture there. Mr. Browne will remain east for a few months after which he will return to the coast and re-enter the picture field. To date, Browne informs us he has not signed with any company. He is ready for an offer however and claims he has on hand several novel stories that were written for his style of work.

FRANCIS FORD BUILDING OWN STUDIO

Francis Ford has started work on the new Francis Ford Studio, at Sunset Boulevard and Gower Street and if the stags and buildings are completed on schedule time, Director Ford will give an informal dance at the studio about the end of April, and start shooting about the end of April.

LANDIS-BRACKEN WEDDING

It was a simply appointed service that united in marriage Margaret Landis and Bert Bracken, on Saturday, the 5th of April, at nine o'clock in the morning. The ceremony took place in the office of Judge Carl V. Hawkins in Long Beach, the Judge officiating. The bridal couple was unattended. Miss Landis wore a stunning tailor suit of navy blue broadcloth, with a chic Spring turban. They left immediately after the ceremony for Catalina where they remained four days, returning to the Garden Court where they will make their home.

Margaret Landis was featured at one time by the Knickerbocker Company, and she has supported such stars as Mary Pickford, Mitchell Lewis and Douglas Fairbanks.

Bert Bracken is director for Henry Walthall, at the National Studio.

Mr. Bracken received a substantial raise as a wedding gift from the Studio.

They are one of the most popular young couples in the film colony to be married, and there promises to be much entertaining for them.

MRS. MORLEY HOSTESS

Mrs. Jim Morley was hostess at a dinner given last Friday evening at the Alexandria. Her guests of honor were her sister, Mrs. T. S. White, Jr., her daughter, Marjorie White, and Mrs. Ralph Hugdahl, all from St. Paul, Minnesota. Those invited to meet them were Miss Edna Mitchell, Mr. George Hugdahl Jr., Mr. and Mrs. George Ovey, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Burke, and Lucille Humbert. Mrs. Morley was becomingly gowned in a wisteria creation, with a wonderful corsage bouquet of orchids. Mrs. White wore white satin combined charmingly with lace, Marjorie White looked lovely in a dainty pink taeta frock, and Mrs. Hugdahl wore black and carried a brilliant cerise feather fan.

DISTINGUISHED GUEST

Katherine Curtis entertained with a dinner at the Alexandria complimenting Lietuenant Bradstreet, who is recuperating in Southern California after having been wounded three times and gassed once while in servive overseas. He was awarded the Croix de Guerre. Miss Curtis' friends who had the pleasure or meeting Lieutenant Bradstreet on this particular evening were Mrs. Florence Meeham, Mr. Ed Tufts and Bayard Veiller, the playwright.

DINNER AT MURRAYS

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Murray were hosts at a well-appointed dinner Friday evening at their home in South Hoover street. Mr. and Mrs. Murray are famed for their hospitality and as everyone knows Charles Murray at the head of any affair is a guarantee of success. This dinner was given for Mr. and Mrs. Barney Oldfield, who left Saturday for the east. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Jim Jeffries, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Chance and Mr. and Mrs. Long. The long mahogany dinner table was a profusion of lovely pink roses, and the favors were clever indeed considering who the honor guests were. Miniature automobile tires with a most realistic looking sales tag marked the place of each guest, and the ice cream was frozen in the shape of automobiles, a special one being frozen for "Barney" which resembled his Big Benz.

FAREWELL TO MISS MARION

As a farewell courtesy to Frances Marion, Mary Pickford gathered a few friends informally one night last week at her home in Fremont Place. A five-course dinner was served at six-thirty, with a wonderful spray of pink roses centering the table. The guests were Mrs. Charlotte Pickford, Lottie Pickford Rupp, Jack Pickford, Olive Thomas, Edward Hemmer and Lillian and Dorothy Gish.

DINNER AND THEATRE

A dinner at her flat on Hollywood boulevard, and later a box party at the Mason, where Richard Carle appeared in "Furs and Frills," was the enjoyable way Lucille Humbert entertained a few friends last Monday. Those invited were Mrs. Jim Morley, Mrs. George Ovey, Mrs. Fred Talmer, Winifred Haslan, and Mrs. Harold Lockwood.

SPOKANE SOCIETY WOMAN VISITOR IN FILM COLONY

Mrs. Sally Lundgren, widow of the late Dr. Alexander Lundgren, is a guest at the bungalow home of Irene Rich. Illness, caused by grief over the recent loss of her husband, sent Mrs. Lundgren from her home in Spokane, Washington, to Southern California. Under the cheering influence of Miss Rich and her friends, Mrs. Lundgren is recovering her health and spirits.

FRANCIS FORD WORKING ON NEW SERIAL

Director Francis Ford started shooting last week on the first episode of his new serial. Principals in the company beside Director Ford, who again plays the leading role of Phil Kelley, a scientific detective, are Rosemary Theby (leading lady), Elsie Van Name, Doris Dare, Pete Gerald, Phil Ford, Nigel DeBullier, Mark Fenton, V. Olivio, Jack Lawton and Jerry Ash and Johnny Thwaites, cameramen.

PRETTY BIRTHDAY DINNER

Rosemary Theby had a birthday yesterday and gave a party at her home at Cahuenga and Hollywood boulevard. Those present were Anna. Q. Nilsson, Luther A. Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Staulcup, and Ray Smallwood. There was music and gaiety, and Luther Reed proved himself a good mixer by raiding the ice-box and serving some concoctions not mentioned in the Bartender's Who's Who.

So successful was his mixerology that when a tapping was heard at the window and a ghostly voice wailed "who-o-o-o, lemme in, lemme in," everyone shivered and asked for another—quick. The tapping and the voice were Charlie Hundt's. He, Dave Thompson, Jimmy Dunne and Cliff Butler were returning from the fights, and wondered what the fun was. When they couldn't attract any attention there, they went next door to ask Luther Reed. Luther, being at the party, was not at home, but Charlie happened to remember that it was his (Charlie's) birthday, so he invited the bunch into Luther's house, which was unlocked.

About that time Luther looked out of the window, and seeing his place ablaze with lights, thought it was being burglarized. He organized a posse of Miss Theby and her guests and investigated.

"Welcome to our midst," cried Hundt when they entered. "Just in time for hot coffee and a feed. It's my birthday," and in honor of the newcomers, he threw a wooden rolling pin and a chopping bowl on the fire. At this Reed pulled a big grouch but was pacified with some hot coffee. Then the two birthday parties amalgamated, and a good time was had by all.

GOLLNERS ENTERTAIN

Mr. and Mrs. Gollner, who were married a week or so ago, entertained with an informal dance and musical last Saturday evening at their home in El Centro street. Mrs. Gollner before her marriage was Miss May Cruze. Wally Reid played several violin solos, which were much enjoyed. Twenty friends of the young couple participated in the pleasures of the evening, and a late supper was served by Mrs. Gollner , assisted by Mrs. Jimmie Cruze and Mrs. Wallace Reid.

Wadsworth Harris was a guest of his old friends, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Warde, the other evening. Mr. Harris was a leading member of the Warde and James Company for three seasons when those tragedians produced "The Tempest," "Alexander the Great" and "Salammbo."

Mr. Harris will be the guest of honor of the faculty and students of the Huntington School, Saturday afternoon.

WHERE TO FIND THE PEOPLE YOU KNOW

James Farley just finished heavy with Lew Stone.

James Farley is cast for a heavy part with Dorothy.

Juanita Hansen has been loaned by the Selig company to Tom Mix for one picture.

Virginia Boardman finished a picture with the Henry Walthall company last week.

Lillian Walker left today for New York, but will return within three weeks' time.

David Butler has been engaged for the role of a sheriff in support of Miss Dorothy Gish.

Calvert Carter has finished with two William Russell pictures and has returned to Hollywood.

Doris Baker has just finished "The Fall of Man," in which she will be seen as little Esther.

Frank Stockdale has been doing small-town parts with Mabel Normand. They say "he is there."

Miss Brockwell is now at work in a photoplay called "Gypsy," under the direction of Edward J. LeSaint.

Miss Joy Winthrop has finished this week with the Alma Rubens Company, under the direction of Mr. Kolker.

Emley Chichester ("Chi") is back from N. Y. B. (North Yorkshire Blvd.). She starts with Elmer Clifton Monday.

June Mathis is completing the continuity for "Pliant Patricia," in which Viola Dana will star under the direction of Henry Otto.

Alice Lake is Hale Hamilton's leading lady in "Full of Pep," which started last Tuesday under the direction of Harry L. Hamilton.

Pauline Curley, last seen on Broadway in "The Turn in the Road," has completed a special engagement with the New Art Film Company.

Eddie Bermondy is assisting Henry McRae on the Lincoln-Cunard serial, as Eddie Laemmle is taking a three years' trip around the world.

Bertram Grassby has again landed at the Fox studio and is working in a McCutcheon story under William Dowlan's direction with Peggy Hyland.

Mary Anderson is busy this week at the Horsley studios under the direction of Fred Kelsey who is making a feature for the Morgan Feature Film Company.

Earle Williams was able to be out in the sunshine last Wednesday for the first time in two weeks. He has been confined to his home with a bad case of bronchitis.

Bert Lytell is out of "The Lion's Den," only to get into a whole circus menagerie in "One-Thing-At-A-Time O'Day." He started on the new comedy Friday under the direction of John Ince.

Jack Mulhall has signed a contract to appear with Emmy Wehlen in "Family Trees," at Metro. Production began Friday, April 11, under direction of Herbert Blache and is supervised by Maxwell Karger.

Pauline Frederick's mother, Mrs. L. E. Frederick, has just arrived from New York, accompanied by Miss Frederick's aunt, Mrs. E. W. Pettingill of Boston. They will spend several weeks with Miss Fredericks at the Beverly Hills Hotel.

Fred Goodwins writes from London that he hopes to be back in the game over here early in the summer of 1919. He has written some very interesting studio chats for the English film paper "Pictures and Picturegoer." Freddie says in England they need directors.

John Gilbert has been given a peg at the Brunton studios and his fedora is now hanging there, for he is being used in a picture with Sessue Hayakawa for the Haworth corporation under the direction of William Worthington. Gilbert is one of the most popular of the young juvenile men on the coast.

Pick-ups Of The Staff

Tom Santschi, supporting Anita Stewart under Marshall Neilan's direction, worked under Neilan once before in "The Country God Forgot" for Selig. He also acted with him several times. The company goes to San Francisco for a few days to get some city and logging scenes.

Edna Mae Cooper, who is one of Cecil B. DeMille's "finds," is now playing with Vivian Martin in "The Third Kiss," which is being made at the Morosco studio. Miss Cooper began her film career as an extra girl, and DeMille picked her for a type the first time he saw her on the lot. She played "Conscience" with "The Whispering Chorus," and was the blond vampire in DeMille's "Old Wives for New."

Edfrid A. Bingham, of the Goldwyn scenario staff, is taking a much needed rest. Necessity compels him to begin his vacation with a period in the California Hospital, where he went Sunday for an operation, after which he probably will convalesce in the country and grapple mentally with his next scenario.

Dorothy Dalton left Los Angeles last Sunday accompanied by her father and mother and her maid. She will have three weeks in New York before the actual filming of her picture begins. The picture is to be de luxe in exery respect and dramatic from start to finish. New York was chosen in order to get some of the actual metropolitan atmosphere in exterior scenes.

Harry Keaton, the leading comedian with the Jim Davis company, has finished his first picture at L-KO. He now has a permanent stand in the L-KO ranks. Harry Keaton and Dick Smith are co-starred and Lois Neillson is the ingenue in the second picture.

Keaton does an Oriental dance, and, after seeing it, well—we feel bound to remark that Ruth St. Denis is due to retire.

Alfred Hollingsworth has just finished the part of Oliver Kemp, the gambler, in Alma Reuben's picture, "Destiny." He worked nights on "Destiny"—days with the Gladys Brockwell picture the "Gypsy," and while resting rehearsed and produced his own sketch, "The Crisis," at the California Temple of Arts, last Thursday night.

Hollingsworth has been urged to open a Dramatic Department in conjunction with Constantino's California Temple of Arts—and to produce one-act plays along the Community Theatre idea.

Bobby Vernon, Christie Comedian, says that after July 1st there will be fewer cases of so-called "Clicquot eyes" around the studios. He doesn't use it himself and endorses the "See America Thrist" movement quite heartily.

Speaking of hitching your wagon to a star, Frederic Starr is reversing it. He is hitching to a new "Six," which is guaranteed to amble down the Venice speedway without a single pinch. Yes, Fred has exchanged cards with the cops again.

Hugh Fay plays the role of a vaudeville agent in "His Father's Life," with May Allison. The cast includes Walter I. Percival, James Warton James, Harry Ratenbury and Frank Currier. Charles Swickard is directing under the supervision of Maxwell Karger.

William E. Wing, who caused his friends to shudder by turning from psychological features to the construction of serials, is getting ready to foist a third to-be-continued thriller upon some unsuspecting manufacturer. Bill seems to be absolutely shameless. Even lets them put his name on the screen in his serials.

Eddie Laemmle, nephew of the "U" boss, is ready for a little whizzer in foreign parts. The Orient is his destination, where the accompanying cameraman will "shoot" up dark, dank, dangerous places "never before trodden by the foot of a foreigner." We understand that the denizens of the Indian jungles will be "shot up" ruthlessly in Eddie's best style. He will be gone a year.

Katherine MacDonald has completed her first feature production, "The Thunderbolt," by J. Grubb Alexander, with a noteworthy cast. Thomas Meighan playing the leading male role, with Forrest Stanley, Adda Gleason and Spottiswood Aiken effectively cast. A society drama, "The Bleeders," from the novelette by Margery Land May, which recently appeared in Young's magazine, will be the second offering of the Katherine MacDonald Pictures Corp. Colin Campbell will direct.

Frank Keenan entertained a party of forty at the Brunton studios last Thursday evening at a pre-view showing of "The Gates of Brass." Among those at the pre-view showing were: Mr. and Mrs. Wid Gunning, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brunton, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kolker, Mrs. Sarah McLean Kerrigan, mother of Jack Warren Kerrigan, and daughter, Kathleen Kerrigan; Mrs. Keenan, L. Ernest Ouimet of Montreal, Mrs. Kate Corbaley, author of the story; Jack Cunningham, scenario writer; Ernest C. Warde, director; Charles Kaufman, cinematographist, and other members of the Keenan unit.

Carmel Myers, after a two weeks' Orpheum tour of San Francisco, Oakland, and the Valley line, is home again. I. B. Cornblum, a young attorney of Los Angeles, who has written several comic operas, wrote the music, and Zion Myers, Miss Myers brother, the lyrics for the songs Carmel sang on the Orpheum. Her contract with the Universal expired some time ago, and since then she has had several offers to go on the legitimate stage, but she states that she will remain in picture work, and that within a very short time she will announce some news of interest.

R. N. Bradbury, while directing a trap-door scene in "The Perils of Thunder Mountain" serial, was caught in the mechanism of the trap and severely hurt.

A sharp spike was driven through his upper lip and he was painfully bruised and scratched about the head and face.

CHIT, CHAT AND CHATTER

By Harry Burns

Eunice Vin Moore is in two pictures downtown this week. She is in Bessie Love's story and W. S. Hart's production, both on Broadway, which isn't a bad record for a clever character woman. What do you think?

Ford Sterling was given credit for running away with the "Yankee Doodle in Berlin" picture, and that tells the tale about straight from the shoulder, for he showed that he was a real artist when given proper vehicles to work with.

Douglas Fairbanks has taken for his next story the present Bolsheviki doings for material to afford him the opportunities to prance, jump, leap, fight, smile, act, and do all sorts of devilish tricks. He is a Jack-of-all-trades and master of everything he attempts.

Billy West, they tell me, made just one picture for the Vitagraph and is contemplating on branching out for himself, backed by Eastern capital, which listens good, for William, for he can make more money that way than he can by selling his wares at so much per week.

Louise Fazenda is taking in all the picture shows to see how she used to look in the old Keystone days when she was coming up. She claims that it aids her to improve her present work in the Sennett-Paramount comedies. That isn't a bad idea, is it, folks?

Rex Beach comes out with a very unique statement to the effect that his present cast and director, Reginald Barker, is "the best" that ever put on one of his stories. The story deals with Alaska and has many heart and soul touches, coupled with a new treatment of an interesting subject.

Bert Glasmire is back with his old chief, Mack Sennett, where he is getting into the swim once more, for he is among the girls, comedians, funsters and scenario writers that help to round out the atmosphere that makes Bert think of a lot of funny ideas, and that is what Mister Sennett wants.

Hampton Del Ruth was paid a visit by his old friend Reggie Morris, who used to work with him on the Sennett lot. Maybe Reggie is coming over to the Fox studio and make those funny Sunshine fun films smile at some of the antics he injects into his stories. Stranger things than that have happened.

Harold Lloyd must be lonesome since his director chief, Hal E. Roach, slipped away and went to New York to possibly close for another star to share honors with the clever Lloyd on the same program. At any rate, he steps out to the boxing bouts Tuesdays and acts as Beany Walker's assistant in keeping tab on the bouts, so he seems to be pretty happy.

Harry Lorain was loaned by Gale Henry to do an important bit for the Metro Corporation and is once more back on the job at the Bullseye. Harry has just picked out a new home for himself and is buying all new furniture. He will be his own landlord and pay himself rent for living in his own house, and make theatregoers laugh at his funny antics—just like that!

Billy Parsons dropped in on us Thursday and is about the National studio, full of pep and ginger and anxious to don his suit of grease and make funny faces for the camera. The trip to New York City must have been a very successful one, for he came back full of smiles and a hearty handshake for every one he came in contact with.

Scotty Beal, who besides being a first-class assistant handles the mazuma of the Assistant Directors' Association, is deserving of a lot of credit for the way he has gotten the boys together who help make the pictures produced in the Southland, and formed an organization that will be a great help to the industry and will bring about the greatest kind of co-operation between all factions.

Gus Pixley has been put in stock at the Fox Sunshine comedy lot and has joined the satisfied club that has been formed since Hampton Del Ruth took charge of the production end of the fun films.

Carl Stockdale is working with H. B. Warner at the Jesse Hampton studio, playing an important part. Carl can be expected to put over like only he can, for he has a style of his own which gets over on the screen.

Vic Potel is working with Hale Hamilton at the Metro studio. Slippery Slim seems to be in great demand among the casting directors, for they are commencing to draw straws to see who will get him the minute he gets through with his present engagement.

Scott Sidney and William Beaudine are running one another a race at the Christie studio to see which can get the prettiest girls in their pictures. Scott is making Christie Comedies and William, Mutual Strands, and theatregoers are going to see some pippins when they are finally released.

Roscoe Karns, who is Bobby Vernon's right-hand bower in his present picture, just received an offer to return to the legitimate stage, and he is at a loss what to do. He likes working with Bobby and at the Christie studio, and loves the stage proper, so what to do is his main worry.

Berney Durning leaves Tuesday for San Francisco, where he will play a leading role in a picture that Ollie Sellers is producing and E. Mason Hopper is directing. It is being made for the First National Exhibitors and will be Berney's first dip into acting since he used to be a director at the Metro studio.

George Baker, general manager of the Metro studios, is leaving us for thirty days. He is going home to Bar Harbor, Maine, for a vacation and a complete rest, and will then come back to the Hollywood plant and go at his labors like only he can when he feels like himself. Mr. Baker expects to get away about the middle of this week.

Vin Moore seems doomed to make lion pictures for the rest of his life, for he had no more than finished one the other day than he was ordered to put on another and feature Dot Farley and Bill Bevan, and lo and behold! he turned up his shirt sleeves and piled into the story like one of his wildcats go tearing through one of the sets when they run wild.

George Walsh is in Florida, where he is being directed by Eddie Dillon and is doing better than ever before, according to James Marcus, who just arrived here with the R. A. Walsh Company. George's pictures are hitting the exhibitors right square in the center of the target of success, and the Fox Company are collecting a nice revenue from his productions.

Director Walsh is very much pleased with his picture, and took some boxing scenes at Doyle's rustic temple out Vernon way with Johnny Reese as one of the principals, which goes to again prove that Vernon is not closed to the movie companies. The doors are wide open to them, and the youthful Fox director who, it is said, is the highest paid man on that company's pay roll, got some real thrills out of the bout, with real atmosphere and surroundings to back it up.

Walter McNamara and Spike Robinson have been matched to fight to a finish in the Rex Beach picture, now in the making. The pair met at the Alex the other evening and tried to kid one another out of the idea that there was a fight left in 'em. Walter says, "Spike, you're an Orangeman," and Spike said, "You're a Scandinavian." The battle was nearly on when Bull Montana stepped in and used his brains. "Wait for the camera," he chirped.

L. C. Shumway just finished a picture with Lila Lee at Lasky's and is expecting to sign with another star to play in a feature picture before the week-end comes rolling in. Mr. Shumway is a clever fellow and is in demand.

Frank Keenan returned from Arrowhead Springs and will start a new story Monday at the Brunton studio. A final run of "Gates of Brass" was given at the studio and those who saw it say it is one of Mr. Keenan's best efforts.

Lloyd Hamilton, Dame Rumor has it, severed his connections with the Sennett studio and is going to cast his lot once more with Henry Lehrman, who, 'tis said, has signed, or is about to sign, with the First National Exhibitors.

R. A. Walsh is finishing a picture that he started in the East in which his charming wife, Marian Cooper, plays the leading role and James A. Marcus, as in the past, plays his own jovial self, the old Southern darky of yesterday, today, or any time that you drop in down South.

Louis Jacobs got the scare of his life when one of the lions caught him by the tail of the coat and started working on him. Louis just made a door for himself where there never was one before, while making his exit out of harm's way. It sure gave him a thrill, also those who witnessed it.

William Farnum is one of the gamest of stars in the profession. He no more than got over an operation than he was up and demanding to go back to work on the Fox lot, and when he was barely able to stand at that. How many stars would do that? I just ask you that simple question.

W. S. Campbell is titling his present story, and then will hike up to Wheeler Springs and rest for a few days and at the same time dope out his next narrative, which will be another two-reel comedy for the Universal. The last one he made, they say, is the funniest animal comedy that was ever produced on the big "U" lot.

Joe Calder just finished some sketches for Thomas Phillips, who is to produce Pinafore at Catalina Island in June. The production will be staged upon the deck of a vessel, just like the play is put on the stage proper, only real atmosphere and nature's own background will take the place of the stage effects. A company of sixty people and an orchestra of forty-five pieces will round out the show.

Walter Long does Boston Blackie in "The Poppy Girl's Husband," a Wm. S. Hart production showing at a downtown theatre, and is now working in the Zane Grey story on the Brunton lot. Walter never remains idle long, and he no more than finishes this part and he will be lined up with some other company and working like a beaver does when he climbs a tall tree.

Earl Olin, for years technical director with the Fox Company, is holding down a similar position with the L-Ko, having complete charge of the erecting of all sets, and the way he is having them put 'em up is causing Jules Stern heart failure, for he is spending plenty of money and keeping his crews working at top speed. L-Ko comedies are to be laughed at now that they are turning out a new brand.

Charles Murray is sporting a new car. Now that all the benefits are on the last leg, he will no doubt get enough time to get acquainted with his wife and maybe take her out for a ride in his joy wagon and show her the sights. Perhaps we'll soon hear, "To my right you will see the wonder of wonders, known as the Los Angeles Longhairs, who have made us what we are today," and then see a machine whizz by—and there goes our old friend Charley Murray trying out his new car.

Allen Curtis hurried to Denver, where his brother died, and word from Allen states that he will be back among us soon and will have some live news about himself to let his friends in on his future doings in filmland.

Nazimova leaves for New York City during the week to look after some of her business interests, and at the same time get away from the daily grind of studio life so she can recuperate from the hard siege of work she has passed through at the Metro studio.

Rudolph Bylek and M. C. McCarty are making a picture that they wrote themselves, and have Troy Brown as the cameraman. The star answers to the cognomen of Gloria Holt and is a 5-year-old child artist that looms up as a bright prospect for future watching.

Norman Taurog, who assists Billy Watson in the direction of L-Ko comedies, Hughey Mack, Dan Russell, Phil Dunham, Eva Novak and others, tips me off that the last picture Director Watson made was a bearcat and will cause 'em to admit that the boy is clever. Yep, I'll say so.

Carter De Haven starts the first of the week under Bill Sieter's direction and will act his prettiest, since he doesn't have to worry about the direction of his comedies. Heretofore Carter tried to handle both jobs, and it commenced to take away his youthful appearance and make him feel like he wished he was back in vaudeville doing the two-a-day stuff. But it's going to be different from now on.

Allan Holubar, who made "The Heart of Humanity," is working like a Trojan on his present picture. Caught him with his cameraman, Harry Harris, all wrapped up in the taking of a scene that listens good for what is in store for movie fans, if the rest of the picture comes up to the standard of the scene I saw them taking.

Syd Chaplin is soon to take a rattler for the big city and look the villagers over and tell them how really funny brother Charles is getting, and a lot of inside dope about the Big Four aggregation, and everything, and when he returns—yes, when he returns—he will come back with a lot of surprises, if what I hear are cold facts.

Edward Frazee had a visitors' day at his studio on Santa Monica Boulevard and the plant was chock full of sightseers, and all wondered how the clever Edward puts his scenes over. They were handed quite a few laughs by the comics who were working. All voted Director Frazee a nice man, and clever too. So we expects the folks to boost Frazee's comedies.

Joe Von Meter has just recovered from a severe case of "flu," or something like that, and he is back on the job at the Chaplin studio. Joe is the outside man who has to worry about getting props and all sorts of things that aid the funmaker in putting his laughs over. No doubt they are glad to see him back on the job, for he knows his end of the biz from A to Z.

Scotty Dunlap needn't worry about making good as a director. Caught him working at the Majestic Theatre the other night with his troupe, and if he hasn't been in such a position before in ages gone by, he sure works like an old-timer and makes his troupe act like regulars, no matter if they are new beginners or regulars at the game of making faces for the camera.

Bobby Vernon is running Julian Eltinge a hard race for first honors as an impersonator of feminine characters in his picture at Christie's now in the making. He makes up for one of the cutest blond charmers that ever set foot on Hollywood soil, and, oh, mommer! how he makes the boys stop, look and listen; but when they see it's Robert they start making all sorts of excuses and complimenting him on his makeup.

In order to be listed in this column, it is necessary that you be sufficiently well known locally that there shall be no doubt as to your ability to play the parts for which you are listed. If you have not appeared in the films recently, it will be necessary to bring proof that you have successfully filled the part under which you wish to be listed.

This precaution is taken as a safeguard for this paper and for the people who are capable. Further, this precaution has been suggested to us by casting directors, as the column was inaugurated chiefly for their information.

Abbreviations: Characters (ch.); Heavies (hv.); Juveniles (juv.); Foreign (for.); Ingenues (ing.).

Changes in this column must be reported to the office of CAMERA! not later than Friday of each week.

Charge for listing, including change each week, is $1.00 for two months.

ROAD BULLETINS

San Diego County. San Diego to Flynn Springs, paved. San Diego to Campo by Potrero Grade, good. San Diego to National City, paved but rough. Camp Kearny road from the old town bridge, San Diego, paved. San Diego to Escondido, fair.

Riverside County. Paved from Riverside to Corona. Corona to Glen Ivy, paved. Glen Ivy to Elsinore, good dirt road. Perris to Hemet, paved. Perris to Winchester, paved; good dirt road from there to Murrietta. Road open from Hemet to Idyllwild and Keen Camp. Road from Banning to Idyllwild is only open 12 miles.

Imperial County. El Centro to Yuma, plank road is not advisable. El Centro to Brawley, good. Niland to Yuma, only advisable route through Valley. Bad the first 15 miles from Niland, thence fair to Yuma. Brawley to Niland, good. Holtville to Brawley, good. Glamis to Palo Verde, good. El Centro to Calexico, good.

Topango Canyon, excellent.

Mt. Wilson, open and in fairly good shape.

Midland Trail. This route is now open from Los Angeles over Westgard Pass to Ely, Nevada. Advisable to get in touch with Mr. G. S. Hoag regarding best route from that point to Salt Lake City. Possibility that the Milford route would be preferable, due to muddy section in the vicinity of Fish Springs.

Arrowhead Trail. Los Angeles to Salt Lake City, open and entirely passable. Good with the exception of 51 miles rough road between Newberry Springs and Amboy. Las Vegas to St. George, fair. The county maintains a team at the ford crossing of Virgin river near Bunkerville to render assistance to any desiring same.

Camp Baldy. The road is open and in good shape.

San Dimas Canyon is excellent Sunday afternoon drive.

If Monte Katterjohn looks like the photos that he is publishing of himself, it seems that he should consult an eczema specialist.—Saxon.

HUGH SAXON

From Honkytonk to Shakespeare

Yep, society is right where I live. The Blue Book can't go to press without my mug on the front cover. I'm No. 2 in the Four Hundred, because we always count in the President of the U. S. My date book is crammed till 1920 with tea fights, tango tussles, debutante roundups, polo riots, moonshine-still receptions, cider soirees and watermelon rind-fests. Mrs. Astor throws a fit trying to give me the glad fin, and I wear out six banjo-front suits during the social season.

Just finished a bit with Miss Pickford that will stand out like a rare cameo.

Where to Sell Your Scenarios

This feature is for the guidance of scenario writers who have something to sell, but who do not know just where to take it. CAMERA! keeps this column for announcements by the various studios. Some of the matter stands from week to week as a reference guide. It will be noted that many of the studios do not wish scenarios submitted by any one; some want synopses only; others wisn the continuity written.

As the difficulties of the past years in regard to the submissions of scenarios no longer exist, it is safe for any one with a good idea to send scenarios to any company mentioned in this column. While this paper is not responsible for the use or misuse of scenarios by the companies listed, it believes that any scenario sent to any of the companies will receive honest and prompt treatment. Any action to the contrary will receive full publicity if reported to this office.

MABEL CONDON EXCHANGE, 6035-37 HOLLYWOOD BLVD. Interested in 5-reel dramas, with a strong dramatic female lead; both male and female dramas. Ingenue stories; Chinese stories with female lead; 5-reel story of eccentric comedienne with dramatic touch; and comedy-dramas of 5 reels. No comedy.

MOROSCO FILM COMPANY, 201 N. OCCIDENTAL. Desires only 5-reel farce comedies and comedy-dramas for Constance Talmadge.

CHRISTIE COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. In the market for one and two reel comedies. Stories centered about the lief of young romantic lovers or newly weds. Breezy, snappy incidents must be present in a marked degree. The Christie Comedies feature Bobby Vernon, Earl Rodney, Dorothy De Vore, Jay Belasco and Ethel Lynn.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA PRODUCING COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. Scott Sydney, the producer, wants one reel stories suitable for Mutual-Strand Comedies.

WILLIS AND INGLIS, WRIGHT & CALLENDER BLDG. Neither purchasing nor accepting on consignment any original scenarios. Handling only photoplay rights to books, plays and short stories.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS COMPANY, SUNSET AND ARGYLE. Prefers considering the original work of screen authors, having always been keen to develop those writers who showed ability.

NATIONAL FILM COMPANY, 6107 SANTA MONICA BLVD. In demand for 5-reel comedy-dramas featuring "Billie" Rhodes. Also 5-reel comedies for "Smiling Bill" Parsons, and 5-reel heavy dramas for Henry Walthall.

VITAGRAPH COMPANY, 1708 TALMADGE ST. The company buys no scenarios in the West, the same being taken care of by the Eastern Vitagraph Company at East Fifteenth and Locust avenue, New York.

THE DOROTHY GISH COMPANY, SUNSET STUDIO, 4520 SUNSET BLVD. Is in the market for five and six reel comedy-dramas, featuring Miss Gish.

DAVID WARK GRIFFITH occasionally buys synopses suited to Mr. Griffith's people and style. Stories should be submitted to M. M. Stearns, 4500 Sunset Blvd.

FOX STUDIO, SUNSET AND WESTERN. The company has its own staff writers, but will consider comedy-dramas and straight dramas with a strong love element. Also Western comedy-dramas for Tom Mix. Nothing less than 5 reels.

METRO, 1025 LILLIAN WAY. Maxwell Karger is manager of productions and June Mathis is head of the scenario department. Outside material is also considered. Good live American stories with a melodramatic touch for Bert Lytell. Comedy-romances of a lighter nature for May Allison. Snappy melodramas for Hale Hamilton; comedy-romances and comedy-dramas for Viola Dana, and dramas that are typically Nazimova for Nazimova.

WILLIAM HART STUDIO, 1215 BATES ST. Maintains no scenario department, but manuscriptts for Bill Hart will be considered. The stories must not take Mr. Hart out of his characterization, but they must have new ideas, a different twist. Pays upon acceptance.

COLDWYN PICTURE CORPORATION, CULVER CITY. Will consider ingenue roles having a touch of pathos, for May Marsh; ingenue roles that are rather fantastic for Madge Kennedy; strong emotional dramas for Pauline Frederick; and dramas in which the hero is a victim of circumstances for Tom Moore. Nothing under 5 reels.

UNITED STATES MOTION PICTURE CORPORATION, WILKES-BARRE, PA. In the market for high-class, clean, society comedies, and farces, of one reel. "Slapstick" is not wanted.

TOURNEUR FILM COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Interested only inscripts of large calibre, 6 or 7 reels. No society plays and no comedy.

FATTY ARBUCKLE COMEDIES, 1723 ALLESANDRO ST. Two-reel comedies having the essentials of a good opening and a good finish, and the gags must be unusually clever.

MUTUAL FILM COMPANY, 72 WEST TWENTY-THIRD STREET, New oYrk. Will consider feature photoplays with parts suitable for Gail Kane.

BACON-PACKER FILM CORPORATION, 230 WEST THIRTY-EIGHTH ST., NEW YORK. Society dramas with women leads are needed.

LOIS WEBER, 4634 SANTA MONICA BLVD. In the market for 5-reel society-dramas for Anita Stewart.

CHAPLIN STUDIO, 1420 LA BREA. Buys no outside material. Charlie Chaplin writes his own scripts.

PALMER ADVISORY BUREAU, 585 I. W. HELLMAN BLDG. Have your scripts been returned to you? Consult the Palmer Advisory Bureau.

ZANE GREY COMPANY, not in the market; produces Mr. Grey's books.

L-KO FILM COMPANY, SUNSET AND GOWER. Buys comedy ideas. Does not want the continuity written by outside writers.

UNIVERSAL FILM CO., UNIVERSAL CITY. In the market for 1-reel comedies and 2-reel Western. Will consider Western feature stories for Harry Carey; strong emotional drama for Dorothy Phillips and Mary MacLaren; feature character stories for Priscilla Dean; and outdoor character material for Monroe Salisbury. Violet Clark is head of the reading department.

UNITED PICTURE THEATRES CORPORATION, BRUNTON STUDIOS. Strong emotional features with problem theme. Scenarios intended for Dustin Farnum should be strong Western dramas or comedy-dramas which have sufficient action for 6 reels. Address scenarios to William Lord Wright.

BRUNTON STUDIOS, 5341 MELROSE AVE. Scenarios for the following companies may be addressed to Captain R. B. Kidd, Scenario Editor, or to the individual companies.

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG is in the market for straight drama; 6 reels.

OLIVE THOMAS desires rollicking light comedies, containing youth, animation and spirit; 6 reels.

JACK PICKFORD can use stories of the good-natured, small-town boy; 6 reels.

ALMA REUBENS plays strong, emotional roles, dealing with the vigorous, healthy, out-of-doors girl; 5 or 6 reels.

BESSIE BARRISCALE will consider strong emotional roles with the society element; also comedy-dramas; 5 to 7 reels.

FRANK KEENAN'S scenarios must contain strong, virile, masterful character delineation; 6 reels.

MAYFLOWER COMPANY, GEORGE TUCKER, All Star cast, will consider 7-reel super-features dealing with society.

SESSUE HAYAKAWA plays Japanese, Chinese and Far Eastern characters. Sympathetic roles and roles having to do with self-sacrifice are preferred to sentimental parts; 6 reels.

EARL WILLIAMS uses 5 and 6-reel society plays.

REMINISCENCES
OF
SLIM PEPPERCORN

About fifteen years ago, while we were playing "The Promoter" with Chas. Crane, the popular matinee idol of that time, we hit Wichita, Kansas, on one silent summer's morn.

That night we played to a big hous of four (4) people. After the show we had about 20c in the bunch and made up our minds to pull stakes and hoof it.

It was a beautiful stormy night when we hit the ties for about ten miles. No houses in sight, but we decided to pull the sob stuff at the first one we came to. I, being the youngest of the troupe, was chosen for this emotional part. Supposedly a house, at some distance from us, proved to be a corral. Our bread baskets being empty, we resorted to making a mulligan out of the oats intended for the horses. We then bummed a ride on a slow freight to Kansas City, where we telegraphed for money which took us to Chicago.

and them's my sentiments

Joe Rock is a full-fledged director, since he is having his star, Earle Montgomery, do thrills, falls and bumps, and he stands alongside of the camera and shouts, "Hit him!" "Soak him hard!" "Laugh, Earle," and such orders, and he isn't on the receiving end. Pretty soft, Joe, hey?

Chas. Lakin met with an accident that might have proved more serious. He was shot in the foot by the accidental discharge of a revolver which, luckily for him, was only loaded with blank cartridges. It happened while rehearsing a scene in the Henry McRea serial in which Grace Cunard and Elmo Lincoln are the stellar stars.

Alice Lake is just starting her third picture with Hale Hamilton and is doing excellent work for the Metro Corporation. From what I hear, she has a life job there if she keeps up the standard of work she has been doing up to the present writing. Deserting the comedy field did Miss Lake a world of good, and she sure is a happy girl in her hour of success.

Cullen Landis and Clara Horton have been boosted to me for a place in the cinema hall of fame, not that they have reached that point as yet, but those who have seen their work in the present Rex Beach picture, in the making, predict that they will be in line for such an honor, for Reginald Barker is doing wonderful work with them.

Jack Blystone has the girliest lot of cute girls working for him in a theatre set that I have cast my optics on in many a moon. Sort of envied Jack Cooper, Glen Cavender, Chas. Dudley and Tom Kennedy, who worked in the scenes with them. May Emory was there with her wonderful smile, personality and gorgeous gowns. It was some sight, mates.

Fontine La Rue, the girl with the naughty eyes, is vamping Sessue Hayakawa in his present picture at Brunton's, where she is playing a Russian spy and wearing gowns that cause her to look like a million dollars all dressed up. A little tip about Fontine—they are saying that she will soon be the successor to Theda Bara, for she is doing great work in every picture she has appeared in up to date.

Albert E. Smith held a reunion the other day and by an even count there ware all together seated about a round table seven brothers and the father of the Smith family. It was some sight and an honest-to-goodness gathering that caused every one to smile and be happy, and all wondered when will we all meet again? Here's hoping that you will repeat the occasion for years to come, and always be as happy as you are today.

Johnny Reese for years worked with R. A. Walsh till Uncle Sam went into the conflict, when J. R. enlisted in the navy and went to France and England and did his bit to protect the seas. The war ended and Johnny was discharged and right back to his old job he went, and we have with us in our midst the same old Mister Reese who, although he licked every scrapper he met in the Queen's Tournament, still wears the same sized hat and is better liked than ever before on the Fox lot.

Francis Ford has closed a deal with William Horsley whereby he is the owner of the studio now being built by the latter on a tract of land located at Sunset Boulevard and Beechwood, which will cost $35,000 when completed and will house the serial director and his company. The work is being rushed along by Ridgley F. Taylor, who built a number of similar plants in the Southland. The contractor has promised to have the studio in readiness for occupancy about the 30th of this month. In the meantime, Ford's company is holding daily working sessions at Horsley's studio at Washington and Main streets.

....Jas. W. Horne took in the Friday night boxing show, and he came out and asked for James J. Corbett, who he directs in a serial. Maybe James W. wanted to show Mr. Corbett a few pointers about fistiana.

FRANK MAYO

MARSHALL NEILAN'S PARTY

The elaborate dinner-dance given recently by Marshall Neilan at the Alexandria Hotel placed him forever in the ranks of the best entertainers.

The many celebrities from the eastern studios who are now in the west attended the affair besides the majority of the stars and leads from the local studios. There were over two hundred guests present.

Fred Zimmerman of New York was honor guest. Miss Blanche Sweet received with Mr. Neilan.

The festivities were held in the ball room on the third floor; small tables, accomodating four guests, circled the large room.

Two orchestras supplied the dance music and special feature numbers. One incident which created much humor was occasioned when the couples took their place on the floor for a dance number. To their amazement they found that they could not keep time—something was wrong. With one accord they glanced at the balcony. There, fiddling and drumming with acceleration was a Japanese orchestra and the music was the Japiest of Jap compositions. Just a little surprise that Mr. Neilan had for the entertainment of those present.

A dinner of uncounted courses was a la carte, each ordering according to his special epicurean palate.

Then a midnight supper of chop suey was served in a Chinese room by waiters dressed in Chinese costumes. Heavy incense wound itself in thin, wiggly threads upward into the room, while a four-piece Chinese orchestra strummed queer subterranean music.

Mr. Neilan's guests left the fifth street hostelry at a very early hour in the morning, separately and collectively declaring their host to be without peer.

VICE VERSA PARTY

The affair given at the home of Jack Webster last Thursday night was one of ingenuity and innovation. It was a Vice Versa dance, the women wearing men's apparel and the men attired in feminine togs. The dance opened with a grand march, which ended in a fashion show. The prize models were Betty Peterson as a Gypsy, Gertrude Short, a hiker; James Faris, Aunt Jemia, and Charles Melon as a blushing bride. French nasturtiums and daffodils were used as the decoration motif. The feast consisted of hot slaw 'neverything. At midnight, Mr. Webster's guests received quite a fright when a dozen policemen burst through the front entrance and arrested them. But the policemen turned out to be the relief orchestra, so the dance was on.

MISS SQUIERS' BIRTHDAY

Last Wednesday was Lucita Squiers' birthday and she celebrated with a dinner party at the Studio Club. The girls who make their home at the club were present; also Miss Squiers' mother, Mrs. George Squiers, and Helen Eddy. A bowl of wonderful variegated tulips decorated the table. A huge white cake with yellow candles was cut by Miss Squiers.

MARGUERITE CLARK ARRIVES

Marguerite Clark arrives in Los Angeles this week and will begin work at the Morosco studio about the twenty-third of the month. Walter Edwards will direct.

KEWPY DOES CATALINA

On Friday last Kewpy Williams and the entire company sped in Mr. Williams' big touring car to Catalina to spend the week-end.

Burton Law is with the Wm. Dowlan Company, Fox Studio, in "Cowardice Court," accompanied by Miss Peggy Hyland, lead; Jack Livingston, male lead; Miss Adams, as Lady Bazelhurst; Arthur Hoyt, as Lord Bazelhurst. Mr. Law is playing the part of Thompkins, an acting butler's part which is full of stunts. He has not taken a bath in two weeks, as he has to be thrown in the river by Jack Livingston and he wants to be sure and feel the part.

Ben Wilson, who reformed recently and turned from directing to starring, was in the projecting room while a reel of terrific serial was being projected. There were spitting guns, powder smoke galore, heroes falling—and getting right up again, villains shot off horses—and coming alive immediately etc. After viewing these miracles, which occur only in serials, Wilson dryly remarked: "Those guys aren't using lead in their cartridges; they are shooting hop."

Herbert Heyes, who has played the leading male roles in twenty-four five-reelers during the past three years, is now to be starred at the head of his own company. He will soon be in Los Angeles to cast for the picture.

FAIRBANKS' NEW STUDIO

Carpenters, plasterers, ballyhoos and bill-posters are doing divers contortions under the able direction of Bennie Zeidman on the old Clune lot, opposite the Brunton studios. No date has yet been given for Mr. Fairbanks' dramatic entrance into the premises, but it is understood that Al Cohn will lead the reception committee and four separate and distinct firecrackers will be exploded in different parts of the city, and a well known producer will do a tail spin and a nose dive at the exact hour Mr. Fairbanks drives his Ford racing car through the new gates.

NEW STAGE FOR INCE

Work has commenced on the new stage at the Ince Culver City studio. It will be of the same size as the two now erected and will be used exclusively for night scenes.

Bert Lytell is working on a circus story under the direction of John Ince.

Henry Walthall is starting another picture at National under Bert Bracken's direction.

Alice Joyce, it is announced, will begin her first Vitagraph feature within a week or ten days.

Mabel Normand finished her current picture and is resting for a few days in the Sierra Madres.

The William Duncan Company expects to finish "The Man of Might" serial in the next few days.

Director Ford is now shooting on the second and third episodes of his new serial, "The Mystery of the 13."

Edwin Frazee Company is finishing the production of "The Haunted House." Joe Murphy is assisting and casting.

Dorothy Gish Company, now working on a comedy Western feature, is now on location in Bear Valley with about fifteen people.

Charlie Chaplin completed "Sunny Side" this week, making the third First National comedy completed during the past year.

The Bessie Love Company, with Director Dave Smith, is now in Fresno making irrigation and water scenes for "The Little Boss."

Zane Grey's first production, "Desert Gold," has been completed. No announcement has as yet been made regarding future productions.

Moon Quan, Chinese poet, who has done considerable research work, is heading a company at San Francisco to produce Chinatown locale.

Wm. De Mille, it is announced, is to direct Wanda Hawley in Artcraft Special, "Beg o' My Heart," which it is understood was bought for $50,000.

Mack Swain started April 14 at the old Bernstein Boyle Heights studios on a series of one and two reel comedies. Six girls are said to be under contract for a year.

"Trolleys and Trickery" is the name of the two-reel comedy just finished under the direction of Joe Rock. Earl Montgomery and Pearl Chappelle play the leading roles.

Bill Parsons is again at work under the direction of Harry Pollard. Parsons has but recently returned from New York. Goldause will assist Pollard. Production starts Monday.

Moving picture actors selected to support Charles Ray in the picture he is now making at the Thomas H. Ince studio include Colleen Moore, Jack Connolly, J. P. Lockney, Otto Hoffman, George Williams, Ed Jobson and Arthur Millett.

Maurice Tourneur Company left last week for San Francisco, where waterfront scenes will be taken for a forthcoming production. Those in the cast are Pauline Stark, Seena Owen, Lew Cody, Jack Holt, Wallace Beerey and Bert Apling.

A complete play in prologue form of 72 scenes was produced in twelve hours Thursday at the Hampton studio by Park Frame. It will precede J. Warren Kerrigan's production of "The Best Man." Hugh Saxon and Clyde Benson are the principals.

Comes now the announcement that Montgomery and Rock will not be rent asunder. This takes shape in a denial by the Vitagraph publicity department, all of which is very good, being the third mention of this incident made in these columns. (Business manager: Send Giegrich bill for $1.85.)

The "Pliant Patricia" company went to Catalina Thursday. Director Henry Otto instructed everyone to take a bathing suit and a sport suit outfit, and Viola Dana took the entrancnig and celebrated "keep-cool" costume she introduced during the hotweather at the Metro studio last week.

J. H. McClosky of the Humanity Film Productions was busy Monday rounding up his people for a month's location at Calistoga, 150 miles north of San Francisco, where they will make exteriors for "When Bearcat Went Dry." They have engaged James A. Brennon's string trio for the trip.

Leaving Los Angeles at 8 o'clock in the morning, Thursday, Al E. Christie, together with Bobby Vernon, Ethel Lynne, Eddie Barry, George French, Harry Edwards and others, took the day boat to San Diego with a schedule of thirty scenes for a forthcoming Christie comedy to make en route.

Dorothy Dalton and company have gone to New York to make their next picture. The story is announced as alternating between New York and Paris, with Miss Dalton in a French Apache character. Joseph De Grasse, formerly with Universal, will direct the production, assisted by Bert Sieber. John Stumar will turn the crank.

Mr. Hermann, president of the Hermann Film Corporation, will start producing on the first of next month with Margery Wilson as the star. It is the intention of the company to put on eight pictures of a series, the first two having been already sold to the Rotary Clubs of America, who will throw all their strength, financially and otherwise, behind the concern.

The tenth episode of the Astra serial, "The Trail of the Tiger," having been finished, the whole company, including George Larkin and Ruth Roland, have gone over to Santa Cruz Island for six days to make the eleventh "thrill," which is to be called "In the Breakers."

"If we go in the breakers, will we come out broke?" asks George.

Pauline Frederick and her company to the number of twenty-five left the Goldwyn Studios Thursday for Berkeley on location, to be gone a week or more. Those accompanying her are John A. Barry, her director, Milton Sills, Milton D. Gardner, Beverly Travers, Walter Hiers, Jean Long, Alice Taaffe, Graham Pettie, Count Pisani, Marie Mills, Lee Hill, Peggy Shaffer and a technical staff.

Sam E. Rork, manager of the Katherine MacDonald Productions, will leave for New York shortly to arrange for distribution. "The Bleeders," a society drama by Margery Land May, will be Miss MacDonald's next feature under the direction of Colin Campbell.

NATIONAL OPENS FIRST POT FOR VICTORY LOAN

This is the week of the fountain pen and big, large figures. The Victory Loan begins tomorrow. The Motion Picture Industry works with, but not for Los Angeles, this time. Every dollar that comes from the studios is accredited directly to the Motion Picture industry, and not lumped with the Los Angeles quota, as has been done before.

The sum allotted to the studios, immediately, is somewhat in excess of One Million, Two Hundred Thousand ($1,200,000) Dollars, in bonds. This in addition to all the sales made at public meetings at Pershing Square and Community meeting-places.

D. W. Griffith has accepted the chairmanship of the Motion Picture Committee for the Victory Loan, formal public activities beginning Monday next, when a transport will be officially launched with the breaking of a bottle of Rhine wine over the bow. Mr. Griffith will be in charge of ceremonies. Every member of the Motion Picture Industry who donned the uniform during the war is asked to appear at the transport in uniform before eight o'clock, to join in a spectacle arranged for them. J. C. Jessen has accepted the responsibility for the transport entertainments, which will include eighteen night programs and three matinees.

The detachment of the Motion Picture Industry from the bulk of Los Angeles quota, places the people of the films directly before the public. Mr. H. S. McKee, chairman of the Los Angeles Committee, has made repeated public statements in which he has pledged the Motion Picture people as being the most liberal and prompt purchasers of bonds of any industry in Los Angeles.

The present allotment is 25 per cent less than the one for the last loan and Washington has repeatedly authorized the announcement that this will be the last public loan floated to secure funds for the expenses of the war.

Scotty Beal at the National studio opened the works in a single handed campaign lasting two days and resulting in the National going over the top to the tune of $2,700 before the loan was declared open. This occurred Friday afternoon and Mr. Beal has reported that there are 26 more pledges coming, which will swell the studio quota still more.

The following have been named as chairmen for the various studios:

Metro	Mr. Butler
Lasky	Fred Kley
Fox	Mr. Lane
Goldwyn	S. Goldwyn
Ince	Clark Tromas
Brunton	Frank Keenan
Hart	E. H. Allen
Brentwood	Mr. Trude
Weber	M. Neilan
Universal	Mr. Hough
Sennet ....t	J. A. Waldron
Vitagraph	R. H. McGray
Chaplin	C. Chaplin
National	Wm. Parsons
Christy	F. L. Porter
LKO	Louis Jacobs
Astra	C. Rehfeld
Arbuckle	Lou Anger
Balboa	L. Osborne
Hampton	J. Hampton
Rolin	Hal Roach
Morosco	Chas. Eyton
Selig	Jas. McGee
MacDonald	Sam Roark
Horsley Lab	Wm. Horsley
Bloom Lab.	P. Bloom
Sanborn Lab.	P. Burk
Griffith	E. C. Bidwell
Fairbanks	John Fairbanks
Poppy Comedies
Bull's Eye Film Co.	Gus Schumaker
Frazee	E. Rankin
Francis Ford	H. E. Dean

D. W. Griffith is rehearsing what is supposed to be his last Artcraft picture, the title and character of which have not yet been announced. His finished picture, concerning which there has been many rumors, is now announced as an Artcraft special to be released under the title of "Broken Blossoms," with Lillian Gish, Donald Crisp and Richard Barthelmoss completing the cast. The date of release has not yet been given.

Scott Sidney, a director of the Christie Comedy Company, has just finished a two-reel laugh producer called "Oh, Susie, Be Careful!" with Dorothy De Vore and Earl Rodney. Dorothy says she can't see where the title applies, because Scott certainly didn't ask her to "be careful" when he told her to fall down stairs or upset over the china closet. All he said was, "Come on, make it snappy—a little more action"—not a word about being careful!

G. Allen Williams, president of the Universal Scenario Corporation, announces the completion of his new company, which has applied for articles of incorporation and which will be known as the Kewpy Komedy Kompany. The capitalization is for $50,000 and the names appearing on the list are G. Allen Williams, D. J. Malshinsky, A. F. Craig, B. E. Murray and J. Keonard De Munis. The working title of the first picture is "The Flirt," starring Mr. Williams as Kewpy. Playing opposite Kewpy will be Charlotte Chandler, the eccentric comedienne, and Ada Woods, the female Fatty Arbuckle, is also included in the cast. Actual production will begin within ten days, and the first picture will be released about the 1st of June. Guy Eakins will be the director in charge.

The important event of the week at Universal City has been the taking of final scenes for "The Chatterbox," Priscilla Dean's crook melodrama, specially written by Bayard Veiller, the playwright. The scenario was prepared by Waldemar Young. The story was produced by Rollin Sturgeon Francis McDonald plays the leading masculine role. In the cast are George McDaniels, Gertrude Astor, Walt Whitman, Claire Greenwood, Joseph Swickard and H. Milton Ross.

Mary MacLaren is half through with "The Weaker Vessel," under Paul Powell's direction, with Thurston Hall as leading man. Dorothy Phillips is still working on her dual role feature, "The Right to Happiness," with Allen J. Holubar as director. Monroe Salisbury is posing for the finishing scenes of "The Open Road," a Western play, which Rupert Julian is directing.

Eric Von Stroheim and company are at Idylwild for Alpine scenes for "The Pinnacle," a six-reel drama. Lynn Reynolds is preparing to make a six-reel production of Joseph Medill Patterson's "Little Brother of the Rich."

Jack Ford, while awaiting the starting of "A Man of Peace," Harry Carey's melodrama, is "shooting" a two-reel Western, "The Return of Striped Shirt Ransome." Jacques Jaccard is producing "Cyclone Smith Wins the Day," a 2000-foot feature, with Eddie Polo. Pete Morrison is starring in "Hate Everlastin'," a two-reeler under George Holt's directorial tutelage.

Al Santell, Ben Wilson and Lyons and Moran are concentrating on one-reel comedies. Comedy titles are being prepared for "And the Elephant Still Pursued Her," the second of the two-reel animal comedies now being produced by William S. Campbell.

James J. Corbett is working on the twelfth episode of "The Midnight Man," with James W. Horne as his mentor; while J. P. McGowan is putting the finishing touches on "The Red Glove," starring Marie Walcamp.

LILLIAN GISH STARTS LOAN

Standing on a flat car, in front of the Ferry building in San Francisco; beside a captured German tank, Miss Lillian Gish of the Griffith players last Saturday released 200 homing pigeons, sent from various parts of California, carrying the message that the Victory Loan was under way. With the release of the pigeons the Victory loan trophy train, carrying thousands of souvenirs from the French battlefields, started on the first trip through California, Arizona and Nevada. Miss Gish made the trip to San Francisco at the request of Allen L. Chickering, director of the Twelfth Loan District, comprising the seven Pacific Coast states. Several thousand spectators watched the pigeons circle above the train and start on their homeward flight.

BRUNTON CAFETERIA OPENS

The Brunton Studio cafeteria, just completed, with a seating capacity of approximately two hundred, was opened for business on Thursday. A cigar stand and soft drink dispensary are in conjunction and the best reports we have had to date indicate that the cooks know their business. This institution has been sorely needed and it is hoped that it will live up to expectations.

STUDIO IN DENVER

DENVER, April 14.—The Art-O-Graf Film Company, now operating in Denver, was organized and incorporated November 2nd, 1918, with a capital of $100,000. The president and managing director, Mr . Otis B. Thayer, is also director. Mr. Thayer was formerly an operatic comedian and an actor in legitimate, joining the motion picture industry in 1910 as a producing director for Selig-Polyscope Company, Chicago.

The first picture of the company, "Miss Arizona," a five-reel feature, is now being sold on states rights and is distributed by the Arrow Film Corporation, New York.

The next picture will be a six-reel melodramatic states rights feature, showing a struggle between a set of Bolshevist financial wolves of Wall Street and a 100 per cent American, and is entitled "Wolves in Wall Street," although the most thrilling action takes place in the mountains of Colorado. Immediately following the "Wolves in Wall Street," "Me Smith," by Caroline Lockhart, will be produced in not less than six reels.

DE REMER ASKS DIVORCE

DENVER, April 15.—"I never could get my husband to work. I told him once that if he would come to California with me I would get a position in the studios and he could find something to do, but this did not appeal to him. I don't know how he manages to live without work, but he does." Mrs. Rubye Katherine De Remer, Denver beauty, smilingly made this assertion in her application for divorce before Judge C. J. Morley of the district court at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Likes to Run Up Bills

"I have not seen my husband, Allan Thurman De Remer, since we separated three years ago," she told the court. "Yes," in answer to the question relative to his state of health, "he has always been strong and robust. He has been in the army recently, and his mother says that he is well. She has tried to get him to work. He likes to run up bills, but not to get money to pay them."

Mrs. De Remer was accompanied into court by her attorney, Francis J. Knauss, and her father, Charles Burkhardt, who testified:

"While Allan De Remer and my daughter were living together I paid the bills. I requested him more than one hundred times to go to work, but it had no effect."

Hearing Is Informal

The husband was not present at the hearing. He was served with papers in the divorce in Chicago and signed his formal answer a few days later after he had been found in Omaha.

Under examination Mrs. De Remer said that she had married De Remer June 5, 1912. During the first year, she said, he contributed occasional sums to her support, but not enough for them to live on. Thereafter, she said, he had never contributed a cent.

Mrs. De Remer expects to leave Denver within two or three days to resume her acting in Metro productions.

NOTE TO HISTORIANS

Charlie Chaplin's business manager issues the following statement which is supposed to be authorized by the comedy king in person.

"April 16, 1919. This is Charlie Chaplin's birthday, he being 30 years old. Born in London, first came to America in 1910 as the featured comedian of the Fred Kerno Comedy Company."

Alfred Whitman has two tiny daughters. The older one is very solicitous for the welfare of the younger. She saw her sister eating an apple that was a bit wormy. "Sister, I wouldn't eat that apple if I were you," she remonstrated gently. "Oh, 'atts awight," excused the little miss, "you know muvver's got some worm medicine for us anyhow." Kids!

HELLFIRE AND BRIMSTONE WITH NOW AND THEN A GLIMPSE O' PARADISE

THE UNPARDONABLE SIN

Critically speaking, this picture consists of about 500 beautifully photographed and directed separate scenes. The viewer is able to follow the story, but had it been produced six or seven years ago it is a safe bet that the audience would still be wondering what it was all about. Mickey Neilan has apparently fallen into a bad habit—that of using cutbacks all the way through his picture to carry the parallel plots simultaneously. This is fine stuff and is used by everyone in the business, but it doesn't go so well when a woman is carrying a dual role and doing it with nothing but a change of costume. An occasional dissolve, or a separating subtitle should be used to separate the characters.

Mr. Neilan's handling of the children in this picture deserves a lot of commendation. Little Mary Virginia Lee, Bobby Connally and ——— supplied relief from the harrassing incidents, of which there were certainly enough, if not too many.

I saw the last half of the picture first, which is not as I like to have it, and the reason I state this is because of Miss Sweet. Had I not seen "The Hushed Hour" at a preview, I would have left the theater, disgusted, dismayed at Miss Sweet's portrayal. This is counterbalanced, however, by her work in the opening reels. If I may give advice to the theater man who plays this picture it is that he should not seat anyone after the last part of the third reel, as the picture cannot possibly make the impression it should.

A criticism of Miss Sweet's work is that she does not differentiate enough between the characters. I confess it was somewhat difficult for me to follow the two, and if that occurred to me it must certainly have been the case with many in the audience. The facial resemblance could not be changed to such an extent that people would not know Miss Sweet was playing both parts, and for my part it would seem that the greater artistry would be shown in widening the breach of similarity.

Mr. Moore and Wallace Berry both do good work, Berry probably doing the best part in his screen career to date.

As to the character of the story—it should make its money before the peace treaty is signed.

WITH THE STUDIO AND THEATER MUSICIANS

Written by R. E. Becker

The overture to "The Bohemian Girl' is easily the most enjoyable feature of the musical program presented at Grauman's theater during the week of April 14. The players of the orchestra responded to Arthur Kay's spirited directing as one man. The entire number went over with a snap and zest seldom heard in even the largest theaters or concert halls.

C. Sharpe Minor offered as his solo number Nevin's "Rosary." It must be said that in this kind of picture theater playing Mr. Minor does not secure the telling variety of tonal effect that his predecessor at the Wurlitzer console did, nor does his phrasing conform so truly to that of the words of the song, which are thrown upon the screen.

The other special musical features consisted of two vocal selections by Cherry Hall, whose voice seemed unsteady from nervousness, and of a violin solo by Dion Romandy, concertmeister of the orchestra. Mr. Romandy revealed a beautiful tone, which makes one wonder why he did not choose a more pretentious number than "Give Me the Sunshine of Your Smile."

The musical setting of the feature "Puppy Love" was rather unsatisfactory. In general the music was too heavy and lugubrious for a picture in such a light vein. The "cue music" suggested heavy melodrama rather than the love affairs of two kids. The scene showing the two youngsters asleep in one another's arms on the darkened porch, and their discovery by the old maiden aunt, was accompanied by a bombastic organ accompaniment that must have caused even the celluloid lovers to tremble with apprehension. On the other hand, the writer never heard any finer work than that of Mr. Minor's improvisation to the scene showing Gloria's frigid reception by her maiden aunts. The particular mood of the scene was admirably suggested.

In his comedy playing Mr. Minor seems to rely almost entirely on securing initiative effects and on burlesquing well known songs. To the writer the playing of "Tipperary" for the scene in which Charlie Murray struggles with a seemingly unending skein of spaghetti seems rather far fetched. You get the idea, don't you, dear reader? It is a "long, long way to Tipperary," and a correspondingly long way from the beginning to the end of Charlie's strand of "spaghett."

The orchestral accompaniments to the scenic and other short reels were all that could be desired. Especially pleasing was the dainty "Poupee Valsante" of Poldini's.

MOTION PICTURE PATENTS

Art of Producing Theatrical Effects. Frederick C. Rockwell, West Hartford, Conn., and Wilbin N. Davis, Gloucester, Mass. Filed Dec. 17, 1917. Serial No. 207,531. Two claims (class 88-16.4.)

The art of producing composite dramatic and pictorial theatrical effects which consists in painting a portion of a fixed screen with representations of objects in full detail and enacting a physical scene in conjunction therewith, coloring the remainder of the screen in the localities and paths in which objects will appear with ground tones, blended together so there will be no line of demarcation between them of the objects to be shown thereon and projecting on the portions of the screen colored with said blended ground tones pictures of the objects having those tones.

Frank Mayo will have the leading juvenile role, while J. Barney Sherry is to play the older masculine lead. Kathryn Adams is to share feminine honors with Lillian Leslie.

Eugene Mullin, the new scenario chief, throws open the doors to scenario writers far and wide. He wants new stories from new authors.

Josephine Hill has signed a contract to co-star with Neal Burns in one-reel comedies to be made under the direction of Al Santell.

An all-star cast is being assembled by Lynn Reynolds to produce the six-reel version of Joseph Medill Patterson's novel, "A Little Brother of the Rich."

SOCIAL FRICASSEE AND CAPER SAUCE

BY FLORENCE PORTER PARKS

HOME FROM RIVERSIDE

Mrs. Lee Moran, who has been visiting relatives in Riverside for the past fortnight, is once more at home.

FRIENDS FROM TEXAS

Ethel Lynn and her mother entertained friends from Ft. Worth, Texas, over the week-end. The Lynn family were formerly from Ft. Worth.

AT KING GEORGE

A small group gathered at the King George last Sunday night for the dance. Mr. and Mrs. Slim Summerville had at their table Kate Price and Mr. and Mrs. Bordeaux.

FOR MISS WISE

Harry Northrupp entertained six friends at the Victor Hugo last Wednesday, with Mary Lee Wise as honor guest. After dinner the party left for the Alexandria where the evening was spent in dancing.

AT LOCAL CAFE

A pleasant little dinner party at one of the local cafes was given Sunday night. The guests were Mary Bixely, Eva Lewis, Andrew Arbuckle, Seymour Hastings, Harry Rattenbury and Wm. A. White, otherwise known as Bill.

MacGOWAN-RAY

Albert Ray, featured Fox player, and Roxanna MacGowan, were married Sunday, April 6th. On that date his first release was issued by Fox, entitled "Married in Haste." Oh, well, what's in a name?

FOR BEBE DANIELS

Lenadel Morris entertained with a dinner party for ten at her home, 215 Wilshire boulevard, complimenting Bebe Daniels, recently. Blue and yellow wild flowers were effectively arranged. The evening was spent in dancing.

AT THE GRANT

By way of taking a short rest between pictures Elinore Fair, who is co-starred with Albert Ray, and her mother spent the week at the Grant in San Diego. Miss Fair and Mr. Ray start a picture Monday under the direction of Scotty Dunlap.

FRIENDS OF GRASSBY'S

Mr. and Mrs. Bertram Grassby entertained as their house guests last week Mrs. Neal Murray and Doris Murray, from Butte, Montana. Mrs. Murray is a girlhood friend of Mrs. Grassby's. Their guests left for Butte on Sunday.

WEEK-END AT SANTA BARBARA

Kathlyn Kirkham spent the week-end at Santa Barbara. She was the honor guest at several social functions, including a polo party, which she enjoyed watching, as her cousin, who has recently returned from service, was one of the players.

BURBANK PARTY

Harry LaMont gave a box party at the Burbank theater last Monday night. His guests were Jimmie Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Burns, Mr. and Mrs. Bobbie Vernon and Mr. and Mrs. Reggie Morris. Mrs. LaMont, otherwise Louise LaMont, has been playing at the Burbank the past week.

DINNER PARTY

Gladys Rhodes gave a charming little dinner at her apartment at 1214 Melrose avenue, last Thursday evening. Her table was done in pink roses and violets. The guests were Lucille Humbert, Edmund Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Kelley, Mr. and Mrs. Schillingford and Walter Wehrle. The four-course dinner was served by Mrs. Rhodes' Japanese maid in Japanese costume.

ENTERTAINED RECENTLY

Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Lloyd entertained recently with a dinner party in honor of Mrs. Florence Oberle, at their home. Covers were laid for Marie Marquette, Vee Lampton, Sammy Brooks, Tom Krisler, Walter Lundeen, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Roach, Bebe Daniels and her mother, Mrs. Phylis Daniels. An evening of music and dancing was enjoyed after the dinner.

FOR HOUSE GUESTS

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Ritchie invited a few friends to have dinner at their home Thursday, to meet their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. James Fort of San Diego. Mr. Fort is a theatrical manager. Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Ritchie took their friends to the Orpheum. Those invited were Mrs. Alfred Reeves, Mrs. P. Sanderson, Mrs. Wallace Kerrigan and Mrs. Henry.

FOR WALLACE REID

Wally Reid had a birthday one day last week and by way of celebrating Mrs. Reid invited a few friends to a little informal dance that evening. The fortunate ones were Mr. and Mrs. Gene Pallette, Mr. and Mrs. James Cruze, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Macdonald, Mrs. Eddie Dillon and Mrs. Cabanne Christy. A late supper was served by Mrs. Reid, assisted by Mrs. Cruze. The color scheme was pink and yellow.

YACHTING BY MOONLIGHT

A jolly crowd left from the harbor last Sunday evening on a yachting party. They took a lunch with them and sailed by moonlight. In the party were Mrs. Carli Elinor, Mrs. Winifred Haslan, Lucille Humbert, Fern Haslan, Lieutenant Waldow, Edmund Mitchell and Foster Leonard. A Hawaiian entertainer accompanied them, and furnished music with various string instruments.

ELSIE VAN NAME GIVES THEATRE PARTY

Elsie Van Name gave a theatre party at the Mason on Saturday night. After the performance a dinner was served at her home in the West Adams section, and a dance thereafter completed a most enjoyable evening. Her guests were Francis Ford, Jack Ford, Phil Ford, Mr. and Mrs. John Feeney, Portland, Me.; Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Dean and Mr. and Mrs. Pete Gerald.

SCREAM CLUB PARTY

The Scream Club, an old organization of publicity men and newspaper people, will give a May Party at the beach the first day of May. It will be a getting together of the old bunch. Clarke Irvine, who has recently been honorably discharged from the navy, is the instigator of the affair, having been requested by some of the old members to reorganize the club. Many of the members have already sent in their reservations. Irvine is now stopping at the home of Jack Donovan, at 419 South Lorraine street.

THREE RING CABARET

A special show featuring many surprises will be given by the Theater Owner's Association at Harlow's Dome Cafe at Ocean Park soon. Forty artists from the St. Francis Follies and a chorus of twenty beautiful girls will render a continuous program from 11 o'clock until 2.

A dancing contest for the championship of motion picturedom will be held and a beautiful silver cup from Feagan's will be awarded the winner. Many from the film colony are planning to attend.

INFORMAL EVENING

Peggy Hyland gave a dinner party at her home in Carmen avenue to some of her friends last Friday evening. It was a very pleasant, informal affair, and games and dancing were enjoyed after dinner. Adele Whitley Fletcher, a writer of stories, who came out from New York last week to be with Miss Hyland for several months, furnished the dance music as well as several special numbers. Miss Fletcher was secretary to the superintending constructor of aircraft in the navy, and has only recently been released from the navy.

BENEFIT ENTERTAINMENT

The Hollywood citizens will give a benefit entertainment the second of May, for the Patriotic Mothers With Sons in Service. The affair will be held in front of the fire station on Cahuenga near Hollywood boulevard. The special feature will be street dancing. Refreshments will be served.

Send donations of cake, which will be acceptable, to C. C. Hall, or to the Hollywood National Bank.

Mrs. J. E. Ware is chairman of the committees, and her aides are C. C. Hall, G. G. Greenwood and Lieutenant Woodward.

Mrs. Christian Lynton, assisted by Lule Warrenton, is in charge of the entertainment.

MAY DAY LAWN PARTY

A May Day Party has been planned by Lottie Pickford Rupp, to be given at the home of Mary Pickford in Fremont Place. The little hostess will be Mary Pickford Rupp, and the invited guests will include all the kiddies in filmdom. The girls will be costumed as little Pierrots and the boys will wear yama yama suits. There will be a May pole on the lawn, with red, yellow and white ribbons to correspond with the costumes of the children. Mary Pickford Rupp will be queen and it is probable that Bryant Washburn, Jr., will be king. An attractive luncheon, consisting of cake, ice cream, candies and all the goodies that delight the hearts of children, will be served at small tables set on the lawn. An eight-piece Hawaiian orchestra will play during the afternoon.

ROAD CONDITIONS

The Automobile Club of Southern California announces that it has completed charting Death Valley. The same work is now being carried out in the Silver Lake region.

PEGGY HYLAND

By Florence Porter Parks

Peggy Hyland, baffling, mischievous and unimitative, is about the most adorable personality you can imagine. And this decidedly feminine dear lays claim to being a foreign growth. Think of it! And she says that she simply had to grow somewhere so she placed the curse on England.

"Vic," she called from her chair in a shady spot on the Fox lot that hot day last week, when peevish people were nursing their swollen feet, but not so Miss Hyland, she was lovely, cool and unruffled although clad in riding habit and heavy boots. "Someone please page Vic," she called out gaily.

Everybody on the lot jumped simultaneously to sleuth for Vic for Peggy is one of the best-liked girls that ever put her dainty foot on a set. A young Goliath squeezed through the door, and was immediately ordered to bring two iced drinks, by the thoughtful Peggy.

"Well, after I placed the curse on England, and she had endured me until I was quite a young lady, I left for France to enter a school there. After three years of cramming I emerged speaking French and- Ger man, dropping the latter at the outbreak of the war."

"Did you take up any of the arts seriously while there?"

"I took them all up, but they threw me down, and after breaking my nails on the piano; stretching my vocal chords in a mad endeavor to increase my range suddenly; and destroying factories full of Strathmore's watercolor paper, I reached the conclusion that the drama would afford a greater outlet for my pent-up exuberance, so I specialized in dramatic art.

"My first stage experience was with a musical comedy company in London. My aforementioned strained vocal chords must have behaved rather well for I was offered the lead with another musical comedy company. Later I became a member of the Cyril Maude Company, taking the lead in 'The Yellow Jacket.'

"Then! Oh, then!" and she clasped her hands in mock ecstasy. "The London News asked me to do some poses. And just like one of Aesops fables, the London Film Company saw the poses and touched me with a wand, converting me instantly into a motion picture star with an extra's pay.

"After making several pictures with them I affiliated with the Ideal Film Company, remaining with them until I came to the United States to work with the Famous Players in the east, about three years ago. I made 'Saints and Sinners' for them, and by mistake was cast as the saint. That was a rattling good picture, it rattled all the way through," and she giggled in a much more human way than celebrities are supposed to.

"Then I made several pictures for the eastern Vitagraph. Probably the one of most importance was 'The Chattel,' with E. H. Sothern. At the termination of my Vitagraph contract the Fox Company sent for me and I came to your lovely, sunny California. It was the longest train journey I have ever taken, having traveled almost entirely by sea."

"Will you return to the legitimate stage, Miss Hyland?"

"The future is so very uncertain," she replied, smiling evasively. "I may and then perhaps not. My ambition is to make better pictures, pictures that the public will like. It is not the part I care most to play, but the one the public wishes me to do, that I would choose."

During the war Miss Hyland was living in New York, and her very English home, with its chintz drapes and full-size fireplace, was the scene of much hospitality which she extended the English lads in this country. A Sunday dinner of huge proportions was served weekly to the lonesome boys from Peggy's little old England to which she is so devoted.

She is at present working in a picture called "Cowardice Court," adapted from George Barr McCutcheon's book. William Dowlan is Miss Hyland's director assisted by R. H. Oliphant, and Jack Livingston plays the leading male role. The cast includes Katherine Adams, Arthur Hoyt, Bertram Grassby, Mr. Lonsdale, Bull Montana, Nella Noxon, Burton Law and Mr. McKinnon, supported by Bert Wilson, Robert Dunbar, Mrs. Jack Mulhall, Bonnie Hill, Lorry Steers, Mrs. Nanine Wright, Frank Thompson and Sid de Grey.

WHERE TO FIND THE PEOPLE YOU KNOW

Walter Percival is with May Allison at Metro.

Frank Lloyd has been doing some fishing at Catalina.

Enid Bennett is moving into her new Beverley Hills home.

Ruth Roland has been vacationing at Santa Cruz Island.

Kathleen Kirkham spent the week-end at Santa Barbara.

Tom Santschi has been cast in the first Monte Katterjohn story.

Betty Peterson is doing an ingenue with Emmy Wehlen at Metro.

Wallace McDonald is playing opposite Bessie Love at Vitagraph.

Lucile Carlisle will support Larry Semon in his fourth Special Vitagraph comedy.

John Gilbert is working with Sessue Hayakawa under the direction of Wm. Worthington.

Tom Hawley has just finished a part with Lloyd Ingraham in the Lewis Stone picture.

Kitty Gordon has signed to appear in San Francisco musical comedy for several weeks.

Charles Ray is back from San Francisco, after spending a week vacationing in that city.

Jack McDonald is finishing with the Brentwood Company, after which he is signed with Jack Pickford.

Edna Mae Cooper has been loaned by Lasky to play with Vivian Martin in "The Third Kiss," at the Morosco.

Adda Gleason is finishing with "The Walkoffs" at the Morosco theater, and announces that she will return to the screen.

Vola Vale will play the lead opposite Earle Williams in his next Vitagraph production, "The Hornet's Nest." Story by Mrs. Wilson Woodrow, direction by James Young.

Fritzie Brunette was slightly injured last week when a heavy door fell on her, causing a slight scalp wound. Stitches were taken and the picture held up for a short time.

Blanche Sweet and Clara Kimball Young were San Francisco visitors last week, Miss Sweet appearing at the California theater where "The Unpardonable Sin" is being shown.

Jane Novak will leave pictures immediately, if she hasn't done so already, due to the fact that she won $55,000 in a current Lewis Stone pic- (No, operator, hold that up. Stage money!)

Guy Price, it is announced, has grown one of the most remarkable crop of whiskers in America, caused by too close association with nature (poison oak). He has refused all screen offers.

Cathrine Curtis, who took the part of "Sammy Lane" in Harold Bell Wright's screen version of "The Shepherd of the Hills," has received an offer from Mr. Wright to be the heroine of his next picture, which will be adapted from one of his novels. Mr. Wright is now at Riverside, finishing a new book, and it will be put upon the screen almost simultaneously with its publication.

Frank E. Woods is building a house. Mrs. Frank E. Woods is also building a house—that is, the same house. We are willing to gamble our interest in all future kingdoms that the said Frank E. Woods is determined to have one room in this house so built that it would satisfy the wildest desire of the most imaginative individual, but as both the Woodses are making trips daily to watch the progress of this house, we gamble further that it will not be finished like either one of them thought it would be. Did you ever build a house?

Pick-ups Of The Staff

Little Zoe Rae and Lena Baskette, the two kiddie actresses, have been cast for juvenile roles in support of Mary MacLaren.

Lois Wilson is resting for a short time, after leaving the Warren Kerrigan Company. Miss Wilson has not announced her future plans.

Style Accents

By Vigee

These warm days one's thoughts turn to the beach and bathing suits. A few of the newest ideas for bathing suits are in order. Far more interest is displayed than ever before in colorful suits.

A tangerine jersey top suit with a tunic skirt double, of orange and red changeable taffeta, with bloomers, cap and hosiery of brown is attractive. Another of green and white plaid gingham panier skirt and bright green taffeta sash is pretty.

A purple and gray striped satin suit having for its trimming a border of diamond shaped pieces appliqued on the skirt has a low draped Spanish sash of purple satin with bloomers and hosiery to match.

A black and white checked taffeta having a peg-top skirt with facings of Royal blue, matching the beach cape and large hat of black taffeta faced with the blue. This is a more conservative suit.

Some bathers will of course cling to the high neck and long sleeve models. The idea most favored in these suits is the surplice waist with a shallow V neck, the surplice ends crossed and ending in sash bow and ends at the back. Dotted Swiss or organdie turn back collars and cuffs add a trim touch.

Novelty ideas in beach hats in brilliant colors are being worn. One, a wide mushroom brim of Italian green hem sports a vegetable garden for trimming, a carrot, beet, red and white radish, purple eggplant and a green cucumber.

Another novelty ornament is a wood-carved hand painted fish, lacquered, thus giving a brilliant effect in the sun.

Then there is the hand-carved, hand-painted belt buckle for the bathing suits also.

William S. Campbell is cutting and titling a 2000-foot jungle comtdy.

Monroe Salisbury has returned from Keene Camp in the San Jacinto mountains.

Winter Hall has been engaged by Allen J. Holubar for a role in "The Right to Happiness."

Ben Wilson and Neva Gerber are working on a one-reel comedy, "Caught in the Draft." Roy Clements is directing.

Neal Burns and Josephine Hill have just completed a one-reel comedy under the comprehensive title, "Father Was Wise." Al Santell did the directing.

Dwight Cleveland, formerly with the scenario department of Vitagraph, has been placed in charge of the reading department by Eugene Mullin, the scenario editor.

"Cyclone Smith Wins the Day" is the title of the latest of the Cyclone Smith series of two-reel Westerns starring Eddie Polo which Director Jacques Jaccard is producing.

Monte Blue was out for the first time last Monday since his severe case of pneumonia contracted while on location at Truckee. He was with the Lila Lee company at Truckee making snow scenes, and caught cold.

Clyde Fillmore's mother, Mrs. Nena Hammond, who was stricken with heart failure about three weeks ago and taken to the Glendale Sanitarium, is now out of danger. Mr. Fillmore hopes to bring her home within the week.

Frances Marion has written a book which is now ready to go into the hands of the publishers. It has for its theme, vivisection, and its locale, San Francisco. Miss Marion wrote it with a view to picturizing, with Mary Pickford in the stellar role.

Wadsworth Harris, formerly a member of Madame Modjeska's company, who plays in support of Marie Walcamp, was active in forming the Southern California branch of the Mme. Helena Paderewski Relief Society for Polish war sufferers. Harris' forbears were in the Civil War.

Joseph Franklin Poland, screen author, voices the belief that the middleman can be eliminated from the screen by authors writing directly for the screen, instead of for publishing houses, the stories thus reaching the screen indirectly. Some of Mr. Poland's original stories for Mary Miles Minter have been "The Amazing Imposter," "The Intrusion of Isabel," "Reign of Coleen O'Malley" and "Yvonne Discovers America."

Through an error in last week's issue we said Rudolph Bylek and M. C. McCarty were directing Gloria Joy Holt. It should have been J. McCarty, who with Bylek is directing the Gloria productions, and William Merrill McCormack is playing the juvenile.

SOME OF THE STARS IN WATER

By VANCE VEITH

Swimming Teacher, Los Angeles Athletic Club

Editor Camera!
Los Angeles, Cal.
Dear Sir:

As I am a reader of your motion picture magazine and am well acquainted with some of the local stars, I wish to give you a little information on some of the actors and directors in regards to their athletic ability. Much is said about them in other lines but I note they receive very little publicity as to their ability as athletes.

I am director of swimming at the Los Angeles Athletic Club, and on the sixth floor of the club we have a plunge 33 by 100 feet and from ten to four deep, with springboards. In the L. A. A. C. many of the moving picture men live, they are up early in the morning and down to the plunge for a dip before they go to the studio. Their swimming gives them pep and sends them on to their day's work with a kick.

In swimming there are eight strokes and most of the men I will mention to you are pupils of mine and have mastered swimming and diving in first class form and along with it they have in many cases reduced and put their bodies in first class form.

Mack Sennett is down every other morning at eight for a lesson in swimming. I am teaching him the Trudgeon stroke, which is used in long distance swimming. Mack has now so mastered the stroke that he can swim many lengths of the tank. His diving is fine, he once hit as flat as a pan cake on the water, now he cuts the water from the springboard just like some of his diving girls. Mr. Sennett recommends swimming, and he will vouch for it as a reducer.

Bobby Harron many months ago took up swimming. He has changed in many ways and he often swims three or more times a day in the plunge. Bobby is past master of the Trudgeon stroke, Trudgeon crawl and American crawl stroke, the last named is the fastest stroke there is in swimming. To see Bobby swim now and a year ago, you would easily understand why he is everlasting tearing off lap after lap in the club plunge. He now gets pleasure and exercise out of his swimming where before he found only hard work in it.

J. Kirkwood is some duck in the water. He is often splashing around in the plunge, and can hold his own with the best of them.

Richard Pones, director for Mack Sennett never thinks of going to the studio without a swim first. He is up early and into the plunge, swimming a fast crawl-stroke. He is a bear at high diving.

R. Barthelmess swims regularly but has not as yet got the habit of sticking his head under water, this he isn't very fond of but he is living in hopes of mastering this some day soon.

W. H. Clune has about the best breast stroke any of the members have, he never misses a swim, summer or winter. Every day is the same with Bill.

Charles Chaplin was once noticed to make a dive off the springboard. We have since that day been watching and waiting to see Charlie try it again. "Shoulder Arms" has nothing on Charles' diving when it comes to a laugh. He should try a swimming picture and I am sure with Charlie in a French swimming suit about seven times too large for him and making dives, etc., would make a scream of a picture.

Ray Griffith is taking lessons as he says some day he may need help. If he cried for help now with his voice, I am sure he would drown, as no matter how loud Ray hollers, you can't hear him.

Arthur Hoyt has the market on walking in the plunge. Arthur has never been seen taking a dive. He is a regular when it comes to swimming but as for diving—NIX!

Reggie Morris and Bobby Vernon are somewhat like fish when it comes to swimming. They are speeders in the water, and Bobby Vernon is a bear of a waterman. He swims a fine crawl stroke, and is a classy little diver.

Thomas Meighan has done all of his swimming in the Turkish bath but here of late he has consented to take lessons for his own good. In three lessons Thomas has mastered the Trudgeon stroke, and is now diving from the springboard. He once jumped in the water, if he was sure it was waist deep and no more. Now he makes the ten-foot end of the plunge his bathing ground.

Eddie Sutherland is no slouch when it comes to swimming, and he will be seen this summer cutting through the waves in the ocean. He lives here at the club and swims every morning and afternoon.

Ralph Graves refuses to enter the water without a rubber cap. He doesn't believe in getting his hair wet. Wise boy, as a swimmer he is there many ways; has a good stroke, and can cut through the water in fine style.

Elliot Dexter has the making of a fine swimmer. He has received several lessons in swimming and has done well.

William Desmond is some swimmer, but to be good at swimming one must swim. Bill doesn't do enough.

MONTE M. KATTERJOHN, About to Begin Producing

Douglas Gerrard has them all stopped when it comes to ten foot springboard diving. Douglas has a swan dive that looks like a bird. He likes diving and can be seen any afternoon after work gracing the springboard at the L. A. A. C.

Chas, Gerrard, brother to Douglas, was developed in the L. A. A. C. plunge and has here of late taken to the ocean. He is a fast ocean swimmer, now making Santa Monica his headquarters, and watching his chance to be a hero, as he was taught life saving at the club and wants to show his ability.

Syd Chaplin does all the swimming for his brother. Sid is a duck in the water, and fears no depth.

Wm. L. Duffy, brother of Olive Thomas, has been living at the club since he arrived from the East some weeks ago. He couldn't swim a lick, but now he is a past master.

Jack Pickford has one of the prettiest crawl strokes ever seen in action. The only thing that ever keeps Jack from becoming a famous racer in swimming is the lack of practice. He has all the ear marks of a champion, and swims a wonderful crawl stroke.

Douglas Fairbanks is some swimmer and what a wonder he would be if he had a little coaching along the right lines. He has pep and everything, but lacks form in swimming.

Ford Sterling is one of the brightest pupils that ever took a lesson. He masters swimming like a baby cries and his diving is most excellent.

Yours very truly,
VANCE VEITH.

FRANCIS FORD SOME JOKER

"Any good news?" asked Nell Dean, publicity writer on the Francis Ford lot.

"Yes, very good news," said Director Ford. "Snyder, the carpenter, just smashed his thumb and they're taking him to the hospital."

"Well, you don't call that good news, do you?"

"Yes, very good news," said Mr. Ford, for it might have been his head."

"Mother" Anderson has just finished a picture with Bert Lytell, at Metro, and is now working at the Goldwyn studios.

NEW GOLDWYN DIRECTOR

Samuel Goldwyn announces Frank Lloyd as the newest director to join his organization. Lloyd directed William Farnum in "A Tale of Two Cities," "Les Miserables," "The Price of Silence," "American Methods," "When a Man Sees Red," "True Blue," "Riders of the Purple Sage" and "The Rainbow Trail" before he was 31. He is only that now.

Mr. Lloyd begins his new activities May 1.

SOLDIER SCENARIST RETURNS

Sergeant Julian Lamothe, formerly connected with the Robert Brunton studios in the capacity of scenario writer, has returned to Los Angeles after having spent eight months in the hospital service in France. He was met at the train by Miss Adda Gleason as well as a large coterie of personal friends from the studio. Mr. Lamothe saw active service, being under fire many times from the German bombardment of the field hospital where he was on duty. He will pay a visit to his relatives in New Orleans, his native city, and then return to Los Angeles to resume his work as a scenario writer.

WEATHER REPORT

This week's forecast for Southern California indicates that there will be rain during the early and latter parts of the week. Otherwise the forecast is generally fair weather, with temperature nearly normal. Forecast for the Rocky Mountains is generally fair, with rain during early days.

WRESTLING MATCH

Whether or not young Gotch is entitled to a match with Champion Walter Miller, will be decided at the T. M. A. Hall, 231 S. Spring street at 8:30 on the evening of the 28th, when Gotch will meet Hans Christensen, now champion middle weight wrestler of the Northwest. Miller has repeatedly refused young Gotch a chance to take away the belt, but it may be necessary for this young man to grant Gotch a match whether he is willing or not. Christensen is now working in comedy.

Billy Bevan, LKO comedian is nursing a stitched-up chin following his encounter with a tame (?) ram in his present picture with Director Vin Moore. Up to date in the one picture Billy has worked with a mule, a lion, a ram, a cat, a dog and a lizard.

Miss Betty Peterson of the Cohan and Harris "The Little Teacher" company, has signed with Metro to play in Emmy Wehlen's latest vehicle, under the direction of Herbert Blache.

In order to be listed in this column, it is necessary that you be sufficiently well known locally that there shall be no doubt as to your ability to play the parts for which you are listed. If you have not appeared in the films recently, it will be necessary to bring proof that you have successfully filled the part under which you wish to be listed.

This precaution is taken as a safeguard for this paper and for the people who are capable. Further, this precaution has been suggested to us by casting directors, as the column was inaugurated chiefly for their information.

Abbreviations: Characters (ch.); Heavies (hv.); Juveniles (juv.); Foreign (for.); Ingenues (ing.).

Changes in this column must be reported to the office of CAMERA! not later than Friday of each week.

Charge for listing, including change each week, is $1.00 for two months.

SWORN TO BY GIEGERICH

The humorous sidelight of the reunion of the Smith family took place during the past week when Mr. Albert E. Smith, Vic Smith, Dave Smith, W. S. Smith, Steve Smith, Ernie Smith and Dave Smith, Jr., were at the Vitagraph studio. One morning when Miss Bessie Love stepped from her dressing room to make some inquiry of her director in regard to the detail of her costume, she stood at the head of the stairway and called loudly: "Oh, Mr. Smith," and then to her amazement from all parts of the studio came the answer, "Yes, Miss Love, what is it you wish?"

INITIATED

Roy Meeker tells us over the telephone from the Good Samaritan hospital that he was initiated into the Assistant Directors' Association last Friday night. He hopes to be out in time for the next meeting of the organization.

Where to Sell Your Scenarios

This feature is for the guidance of scenario writers who have something to sell, but who do not know just where to take it. CAMERA! keeps this column for announcements by the various studios. Some of the matter stands from week to week as a reference guide. It will be noted that many of the studios do not wish scenarios submitted by any one; some want synopses only; others wisn the continuity written.

As the difficulties of the past years in regard to the submissions of scenarios no longer exist, it is safe for any one with a good idea to send scenarios to any company mentioned in this column. While this paper is not responsible for the use or misuse of scenarios by the companies listed, it believes that any scenario sent to any of the companies will receive honest and prompt treatment. Any action to the contrary will receive full publicity if reported to this office.

MABEL CONDON EXCHANGE, 6035-37 HOLLYWOOD BLVD. Interested in 5-reel dramas, with a strong dramatic female lead; both male and female dramas. Ingenue stories; Chinese stories with female lead; 5-reel story of eccentric comedienne with dramatic touch; and comedy-dramas of 5 reels. No comedy.

MOROSCO FILM COMPANY, 201 N. OCCIDENTAL. Desires only 5-reel farce comedies and comedy-dramas for Constance Talmadge.

CHRISTIE COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. In the market for one and two reel comedies. Stories centered about the lief of young romantic lovers or newly weds. Breezy, snappy incidents must be present in a marked degree. The Christie Comedies feature Bobby Vernon, Earl Rodney, Dorothy De Vore, Jay Belasco and Ethel Lynn.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA PRODUCING COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. Scott Sydney, the producer, wants one reel stories suitable for Mutual-Strand Comedies.

WILLIS AND INGLIS, WRIGHT & CALLENDER BLDG. Neither purchasing nor accepting on consignment any original scenarios. Handling only photoplay rights to books, plays and short stories.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS COMPANY, SUNSET AND ARGYLE. Prefers considering the original work of screen authors, having always been keen to develop those writers who showed ability.

NATIONAL FILM COMPANY, 6107 SANTA MONICA BLVD. In demand for 5-reel comedy-dramas featuring "Billie" Rhodes. Also 5-reel comedies for "Smiling Bill" Parsons, and 5-reel heavy dramas for Henry Walthall.

VITAGRAPH COMPANY, 1708 TALMADGE ST. The company buys no scenarios in the West, the same being taken care of by the Eastern Vitagraph Company at East Fifteenth and Locust avenue, New York.

THE DOROTHY GISH COMPANY, SUNSET STUDIO, 4520 SUNSET BLVD. Is in the market for five and six reel comedy-dramas, featuring Miss Gish.

DAVID WARK GRIFFITH occasionally buys synopses suited to Mr. Griffith's people and style. Stories should be submitted to M. M. Stearns, 4500 Sunset Blvd.

FOX STUDIO, SUNSET AND WESTERN. The company has its own staff writers, but will consider comedy-dramas and straight dramas with a strong love element. Also Western comedy-dramas for Tom Mix. Nothing less than 5 reels.

METRO, 1025 LILLIAN WAY. Maxwell Karger is manager of productions and June Mathis is head of the scenario department. Outside material is also considered. Good live American stories with a melodramatic touch for Bert Lytell. Comedy-romances of a lighter nature for May Allison. Snappy melodramas for Hale Hamilton; comedy-romances and comedy-dramas for Viola Dana, and dramas that are typically Nazimova for Nazimova.

WILLIAM HART STUDIO, 1215 BATES ST. Maintains no scenario department, but manuscriptts for Bill Hart will be considered. The stories must not take Mr. Hart out of his characterization, but they must have new ideas, a different twist. Pays upon acceptance.

COLDWYN PICTURE CORPORATION, CULVER CITY. Will consider ingenue roles having a touch of pathos, for May Marsh; ingenue roles that are rather fantastic for Madge Kennedy; strong emotional dramas for Pauline Frederick; and dramas in which the hero is a victim of circumstances for Tom Moore. Nothing under 5 reels.

UNITED STATES MOTION PICTURE CORPORATION, WILKES-BARRE, PA. In the market for high-class, clean, society comedies, and farces, of one reel. "Slapstick" is not wanted.

TOURNEUR FILM COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Interested only inscripts of large calibre, 6 or 7 reels. No society plays and no comedy.

FATTY ARBUCKLE COMEDIES, 1723 ALLESANDRO ST. Two-reel comedies having the essentials of a good opening and a good finish, and the gags must be unusually clever.

MUTUAL FILM COMPANY, 72 WEST TWENTY-THIRD STREET, New oYrk will consider feature photoplays with parts suitable for Gail Kane.

BACON-PACKER FILM CORPORATION, 230 WEST THIRTY-EIGHTH ST., NEW YORK. Society dramas with women leads are needed.

LOIS WEBER, 4634 SANTA MONICA BLVD. In the market for 5-reel society-dramas for Anita Stewart.

CHAPLIN STUDIO, 1420 LA BREA. Buys no outside material. Charlie Chaplin writes his own scripts.

PALMER ADVISORY BUREAU, 585 I. W. HELLMAN BLDG. Have your scripts been returned to you? Consult the Palmer Advisory Bureau.

ZANE GREY COMPANY, not in the market; produces Mr. Grey's books.

L-KO FILM COMPANY, SUNSET AND GOWER. Buys comedy ideas. Does not want the continuity written by outside writers.

UNIVERSAL FILM CO., UNIVERSAL CITY. In the market for 1-reel comedies and 2-reel Western. Will consider Western feature stories for Harry Carey; strong emotional drama for Dorothy Phillips and Mary MacLaren; feature character stories for Priscilla Dean; and outdoor character material for Monroe Salisbury. Violet Clark is head of the reading department.

UNITED PICTURE THEATRES CORPORATION, BRUNTON STUDIOS. Strong emotional features with problem theme. Scenarios intended for Dustin Farnum should be strong Western dramas or comedy-dramas which have sufficient action for 6 reels. Address scenarios to William Lord Wright.

BRUNTON STUDIOS, 5341 MELROSE AVE. Scenarios for the following companies may be addressed to Captain R. B. Kidd, Scenario Editor, or to the individual companies.

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG is in the market for straight drama; 6 reels.

OLIVE THOMAS desires rollicking light comedies, containing youth, animation and spirit; 6 reels.

JACK PICKFORD can use stories of the good-natured, small-town boy; 6 reels.

ALMA REUBENS plays strong, emotional roles, dealing with the vigorous, healthy, out-of-doors girl; 5 or 6 reels.

BESSIE BARRISCALE will consider strong emotional roles with the society element; also comedy-dramas; 5 to 7 reels.

FRANK KEENAN'S scenarios must contain strong, virile, masterful character delineation; 6 reels.

MAYFLOWER COMPANY, GEORGE TUCKER, All Star cast, will consider 7-reel super-features dealing with society.

SESSUE HAYAKAWA plays Japanese, Chinese and Far Eastern characters. Sympathetic roles and roles having to do with self-sacrifice are preferred to sentimental parts; 6 reels.

EARL WILLIAMS uses 5 and 6-reel society plays.

SLIM PEPPERCORN

About fifteen years ago, while we were playing "The Promoter" with Chas. Crane, the popular matinee idol of that time, we hit Wichita, Kansas, on one silent summer's morn.

That night we played to a big hous of four (4) people. After the show we had about 20c in the bunch and made up our minds to pull stakes and hoof it.

It was a beautiful stormy night when we hit the ties for about ten miles. No houses in sight, but we decided to pull the sob stuff at the first one we came to. I, being the youngest of the troupe, was chosen for this emotional part. Supposedly a house, at some distance from us, proved to be a corral. Our bread baskets being empty, we resorted to making a mulligan out of the oats intended for the horses. We then bummed a ride on a slow freight to Kansas City, where we telegraphed for money which took us to Chicago.

PICNIC DANCE

Jack Webster sold his home last week at 1303 North New Hampshire, and has moved to 500 South Ardmore street. Thursday night he gave the last party in his old home. There were one hundred and fifty present, each bringing his share of the big picnic lunch which was served with everyone seated on the floor, lending still more informality to the occasion. The Hollywood High School orchestra furnished the music for the dance. A pie-eating contest was held, and it was quite expected that Monte Blue should win, as he had practical experience in "Johanna Enlists," as Pie-Face.

FOR MISS TALMADGE

When is a surprise party not a surprise? Answer: When all concerned are told, but one. Last Monday afternoon Constance Talmadge, who left for New York the following day, was invited in a most casual way to stop in at the Gish home. Dick Bartlemess, Bobby Harron, Mrs. Talmadge, Dorothy Gish and Mrs. Gish had been informed that it was a "surprise dinner party" with wonderful gifts galore for Miss Talmadge. They had neglected to mention the fact to Lillian Gish that the affair was to be a complete surprise to the honoree. Lillian Gish, returning that afternoon from a shopping expedition, saw the Talmadge car outside the Gish residence, and upon entering the home, she asked Constance why she had come so early, as she would see all the decorations beforehand and the dinner would not be as attractive to her. The cat was out of the bag, clear out, but it is safe to say that Miss Constance enjoyed the affair quite as much as though she had been taken entirely by surprise.

GREEN

A baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Al Green, of 2411 Sunset boulevard, yesterday morning at eight forty-five. The young son has been named Marshall. Mrs. Green, before her marriage, was Vivian Reed.

A little bit of the East Side of New York, called the Ghetto has this week been brought to the Brunton lot. Max Parker designed a street 220 feet long by 40 feet wide. The tallest building is four stories. The set was built for "The Hoodlum," adapted from the book, "Burkeses Amy," by Julie M. Lippman. Mary Pickford stars.

Calvert Carter is now doing a butler part at Metro with Emmy Wehlan under Director Blache.

Forest Stanley has just finished with Katherine McDonald Company.

Harry Lamont is doing a crook taxicab driver for Bessie Barriscale at the Brunton studio. Lamont is said to be able to drive any motor except an aeroplane.

Charlie Rogers is with the Mary Pickford Company following a six weeks' appearance in San Francisco.

Billy Ritchie is on the convalescent list, after being confined for about three weeks. He expects to work again within a few days.

George D. Baker has laid down the megaphone and has taken up the pencil, having finished the "Lion's Den." He is now working on the continuity of Will Irwin's comedy entitled "Free." May Allison will star.

Ralph Lewis is with Mary Pickford.

Hugh Saxon is with Universal.

Thompson Buchanan, playwright, is a new edition to the Goldwyn editorial staff. Mrs. Buchanan, formerly Miss Katherine Winterbottom of Chicago, arrived with her husband. Their little daughter will join them soon.

Jack Mulhall is cast with Emmy Wehlen in "Family Trees," Metro production started April 11th under the direction of Herbert Blache.

Alice Lake is with Hale Hamilton at Metro.

D. Anthony Tauszky, subtitle artist for Metro, has been requested by the government to paint a Victory Loan poster. Mr. Tauszky was the creator of one of the Third Loan posters.

Mr. and Mrs. Tod Browning returned Wednesday from San Francisco, where they spent Mr. Browning's vacation. While there they enjoyed several good theatres, including Jack Wilson's Review, which they say is worthy of special mention.

Lieutenant Ira H. Morgan, formerly cameraman for the American Film Company, returned to Los Angeles last week with the 37th Division and First Army Corps, from overseas.

George Melford bought a poultry ranch at Van Nuys last week. He will leave some time this week for Washington state, where he will remain three weeks, looking into a matter of location.

Jack Livingstone is playing opposite Peggy Hyland in "Cowardice Court."

Gerard Alexander is playing opposite Emmy Wehlen at Metro.

PRODUCTION NOTES AROUND HOLLYWOOD

Week Beginning April 27

NEW THEATRE IN SALT LAKE

Plans are being prepared in Denver for the construction of a new theatre building to be erected "somewhere" on Main street in Salt Lake City, Utah, the approximate cost to be $750,000.

GOLDWYN GOES ABROAD

Samuel Goldwyn returned to New York Monday. He will sail for London shortly for a visit of indefinite length in order to confer with the Goldwyn representatives in Europe, particularly in England, France and Italy.

MATINEES IN SCHOOL

Castle Rock, Colo., a town of about 600 inhabitants, has just installed in the high school building an electric light system and moving picture machine. The plan is to provide the best class of pictures, both educational and entertaining, for the pupils of the school.

FARNUM CO. GAVE VAUDEVILLE

The members of the William Farnum company who are stopping at Palm Springs, Cal., gave a vaudeville entertainment and dance for the benefit of the French orphans on Thursday, April 17th. Mrs. Al. Smith, the wife of the assistant to director J. Gordon Edwards who is making "The Lone Star Ranger," at this location with William Farnum playing the title role, got up the entertainment. The property men of the company decorated the grounds of the Desert Inn where the actors are stopping with Japanese lanterns and bunting and during the evening the William Farnum string quartette played dance music for the guests. More than $300 was realized for this worthy charity. One of the interesting events of the evening was the raffling of two oil paintings which were donated by Mr. John Frost the well-known artist.

REMEMBER HOLIDAYS

"Keep track of religious holidays if you expect to be a successful motion picture producer."

This is the dictum issued by Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran after an experience which cost the team of Universal comedians a pretty penny.

In a recent comedy a church wedding was supposed to take place.

"We'll shoot that Friday," Eddie told Lee.

Fifty extras were ordered for that date, for it was to be a swell matrimonial celebration.

The company assembled and got into the cars ready to go to the church, for the exterior of a real church was to be used.

Enter excitedly the location manager. He wailed:

"We can't shoot the front of the cathedral today—it's Good Friday."

"Good Lord!" cried Eddie.

"My Heavens!" bemoaned Lee.

And extensive and intensive telephoning revealed the fact that every religious edifice was being used for actual services.

So the extras were paid off and the scenes postponed until the morrow.

E. Richard Schayer has been placed in charge of the scenario department of the Brentwood and is now collaborating with King W. Vidor on the scenario for the Brentwood's third picture in which the young director's wife, Florence Vidor, will have the main role.

Miss Sarah Y. Mason, secretary to King W. Vidor, has returned to her home and her work after several days under the surgeon's care in hospital for a successful throat operation.

James Clemens, who has been assistant to Al E. Christie for seven months, has been elevated to the position of stage manager for the Christie studio.

Edward J. LeSaint leaves this week for Cincinnati.

Thomas H. Ince has just approved plans and specifications for the construction of a new laboratory at his studio in Culver City. In about two or three months this will be finished and equipped and then Mr. Ince will make all his own release prints of film. In the past he has been making only the negative and having the numerous positive prints required for general distribution made at a commercial laboratory. Another important improvement at the Ince plant is the installation of a duplicate lighting plant so that in case one motor generator ever goes bad a second one will be in readiness for use.

Roger MacKinnon, a young Australian actor, late of the Anzacs, the Australian-New Zealand contingent that so distinguished itself for bravery in action at Gallipoli, the Dardanelles and in Egypt, is in the cast that supports Madge Kennedy. Mr. MacKinnon, who only recently returned from a British convalescent hospital where he was confined for some months with shrapnel wounds, was orderly to General Allenby on the memorable night of the capture of Jerusalem from the Turks.

Lucy Donahue did a "gossip" with Viola Dana at Metro last week.

Hugh Saxon's former vaudeville partner, Sam Adams, will appear at the Orpheum, week of the 28th, in a skit written by the versatile Hughie, entitled "A Music Lesson."

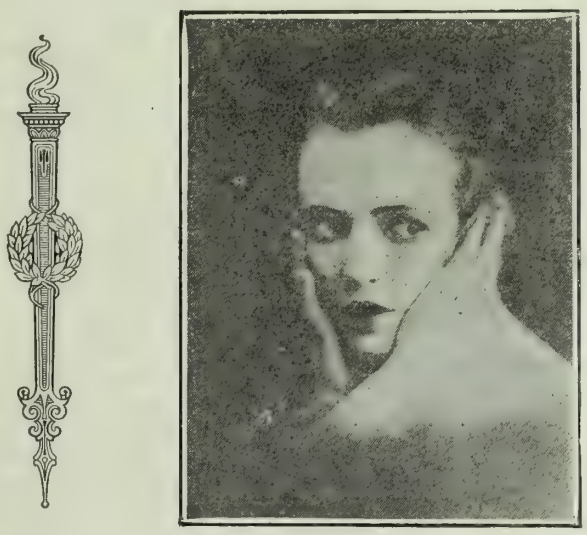
William Russell will have a new leading lady, Winifred Westover, who is now in Santa Barbara. She played two pictures some time ago with Russell.

Mary Anderson and Rosemary Theby are renewing old acquaintance at the Horsley studios. They knew each other in Brooklyn a few years ago when they first went into films.

Adda Gleason, having completed a four weeks engagement with the Morosco company in "The Walkoffs," will again work in pictures.

C. S. Widom costumer for two years with Lasky, is now with Douglas Fairbanks arranging some special costumes for Fairbanks' new picture.

Janet Sully appeared last week with Joe Hazelton in the prologue of "The Clansman" at the Mason.



Louise Du Pre, a new Hollywood arrival, stopping at the Hotel Glidden. She appears as the "tough" in "The Moral Deadline," a current World film feature.

ROAD BULLETIN

From Los Angeles to Mojave—either via the Bouquet Canyon or Mint Canyon roads the conditions are excellent—although some rough road will be found near Willow Springs—and between Lancaster and Rosamond.

Los Angeles to Needles, good all the way except for 26 miles of rough road between Ludlow and Amboy.

Pacific Highway, via Redding to Portland. If weather continues favorable, it may be possible, from the reports of the state highway commission to open this road within the next few weeks.

Los Angeles to Imperial Valley, via the Ocean Highway. To those who are used to driving desert roads, the entire route between Mecca and Brawley can be classified as fair, although at the present time a slightly rough detour will be encountered between San Felipe Wash and Kane Springs.

San Diego to Imperial Valley. It is still advisable to use Potrero and Cottonwood grades through Campo to the Imperial Valley.

San Bernardino County. Big Bear Valley is open by the way of the desert and in fair shape.

Santa Ana Canyon is open between Corona and Fullerton. El Toro to Modjeska's Home, good.

Riverside County. Idyllwild road from Hemet open and in fair shape. Banning to Palm Springs, good.

San Diego County. A new highway which branches off the main highway about a mile east of the Willows and joins the main road at Descanso, is a very excellent road and is shorter than the Descanso Grade.

Tulare County. Sequoia and General Grant National Parks will be open about May 15. No accommodations, however, will be had until May 24.

This thing is getting to be serious.

Camp Baldy, open and in good shape.

Mt. Wilson, open and in good shape.

Arrowhead Trail. Los Angeles to Salt Lake City, open and entirely passable.

SHERIDAN DUPONT ENTERTAINED

Jimmie Opdyke, who is wintering at the Beverly Hills Hotel, gave an Easter breakfast to ten guests, with Sheridan Dupont as the honor guest. Mr. Dupont was also the complimented guest one evening last week at the Santa Barbara Hotel, Santa Barbara, when Marquerita Fisher entertained a dozen or more picture people for him. Barney Sherry took a motor party from Los Angeles for Miss Fisher's dinner.

The will of Sidney Drew, olegraphic, left all his property to his wife.

This thing is getting to be serious.

UNIVERSAL NOTES
By Ham Beall

"The Red Glove" serial, starring Marie Walcamp, was completed this week under J. P. McGowan's direction.

Eddie Polo is spending a few days at Catalina Island battling with the mammoth tunas and jewfish, having finished the Cyclone Smith series of two-reel westerns under Jacques Jaccard's direction.

This week Priscilla Dean and Monroe Salisbury motored to Fresno and Bakersfield to lead the grand march at motion picture balls staged by exhibitors in the two California cities. Miss Dean just completed Bayard Veiller's "The Chatterbox," while Salisbury recently finished "The Open Road" under Rupert Julian's direction.

This thing is getting to be serious.

Harry Carey is well under way with "A Man of Peace," a six-reel western by Jackson Gregory, with Jack Ford directing.

The illness of James W. Horne, James J. Corbett's director, caused production to cease temporarily on "The Midnight Man," Corbett's serial.

Joe Martin, orang-outang, Charlie the elephant and Caesar the lion are being put through their paces preliminary to starting another William S. Campbell animal comedy.

Eric Von Stroheim, who is filming "The Pinnacle," a six-reel Alpine melodrama, has returned from Idylwild, where he has been shooting new scenes.

Director Lynn Reynolds is well into the midst of "A Little Brother of the Rich," which is being made from Joseph Medill Patterson's novel.

Allen J. Holubar has been using large mobs all week for "The Right to Happiness," starring Dorothy Phillips.

Neal Burns has just finished "Ether," a comedy showing the dreams one has while under the influence of an anaesthetic.

"Satisfying the Bride" is the title of the Lyons-Moran comedy finished this week.

Orral Humphrey has announced his permanent retirement from pictures. This fine actor, who was on Broadway for many years in legitimate stage productions and who was a Morosco leading man in Oakland, left for Happy Valley near Frisco to take up ranching.

George Seigmann is to direct Priscilla Dean in her next vehicle, "The Spitfire of Seville," from the story by Joseph Franklin Poland.

Ethel Ritchie, formerly with Balboa, has been engaged for a feminine role in support of Mary MacLarent.

James O'Shea, who started in screen life as a member of the business department at the Morosco plant, has a strong role in "Father Was Wise," starring Neal Burns and Joan Hill.

Waldemar Young is putting the story of "The Spitfire of Seville," which is J. F. Poland-created, into screen form for Priscilla Dean.

"KNOCKING THE KNOCKERS"

Written Specially by Douglas Fairbanks for Fifth Liberty Loan

How many people have said to you today, "I am not going to buy any Fifth Liberty Bonds!" And then start in to give you a lot of reasons? They complain about taxes, and say that the war is over, and that the country is no good anyway, and that the Democrats are wrong and the Republicans are wrong. In fact they can give you any number of reasons.

Where do you suppose they get them? From Knockers!

Well, Knock the Knockers!

Every reason we ever had for buying Liberty Bonds still holds good. From every angle—Investment, Patriotism, Backing up the Boys—everything—still holds good, and in addition—

Keep your patriotic slate clean!

The only thing that ever put over the first four loans was the fact that they were backed by the people's patriotic support and enthusiasm. Without these they would not have stood any chance of going over, and without the people's support and enthusiasm this coming loan may fail. They are the key to the success of the Loan.

A lot of knockers are trying to steal that key. They are a mixture of ignorance, dissension and seditious propaganda, and they have done their knocking so successfully that they have got a lot of people who ought to know better talking their way.

Let's stop them right now!

The next time they try to steal your support and your patriotism. come right back at 'em and show 'em up! Turn the tables on them! Give them some of the same medicine the doughboys gave the Huns! Throw their own arguments back at them and you can blow them up with their own stuff.

Don't let anybody get away with this under-handed criticism that has been so skillfully spread. And if you can't do anything else, for Heaven's sake don't help these people along by telling somebody else what you have just heard from one of these knockers!

Don't knock your own country. Remember every time you knock the Government of your country, you knock your country.

If the U. S. A. is worth living in, it is worth supporting, and that means you have got to support it by buying Victory Bonds.

Unlock your Patriotic Support and Enthusiasm!

Knock the Knockers!

Buy Bonds!

Come On!

ON LIBERTY BONDS

At least seventeen attractive and efficient young ladies having approached us personally and in a business-like manner in regard to the purchase of certain Government Securities, listed, we believe to draw 4¾ per cent interest, all of which sounds Greek to us, we herewith tender our humble opinion in the matter of the purchase of Victory Loan Bonds. For the first time in the history of the Motion Picture Industry some outside person with brains has been identified with the drive for funds, and has come to the film people in the right attitude, Motion Picture people are to receive their just credit, in line with other industries of the nation, for the work they do in this drive. When a star appears at the Tank the world will eventually find it out. Mrs. Valhalla D. Mahongany, if she opens her summer home for an entertainment and wants a picture personality as an added attraction will be forced. however reluctantly, to acknowledge the fact publicly that the bonds sold at her function were disposed of due largely to the efforts of the person who attracted the crowd. This may sound cold-blooded. It may appear to the uninitiated as though no picture person were willing to do anything for his or her Government unless so many columns of space were devoted to public acknowledgment of the fact. But when it is known, as everyone in the industry does know, that past efforts on the part of local picture people resulted only in the louder blowing of someone else's horn it does not seem quite so selfish. As far as Los Angeles is concerned, there is no obligation due. As far as the U. S. is concerned everything is due, and when the dues are paid the great total will be shown to the credit of the entertainers of the world. We have our receipt for the first 10 per cent. Do your Bond buying early.

THE VOLUNTEER CUTTER

It has been our privilege, from time to time, to pass certain remarks in this column in regard to the personal efforts of exhibitors who volunteer their added services with the scissors after a production has been completed in the studios. It now falls to Jesse L. Lasky, Vice-President of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation to second the motion with a lusty howl voiced in print through the columns of the New York Morning Telegraph.

Mr. Lasky cites for example the Bryant Washburn picture, called "Venus in the East" and remarks in passing that a certain exhibitor who showed this picture eliminated fifteen thousand feet of the scenes, because the picture was just that much too long for his program.

The following, quoted from the Telegraph by Mr. Lasky, is most pertinent and is qouted here with pleasure:

Not Competent to Judge

"Aside from the direct injury it works upon the producer, the difficulties it causes with stars. directors, authors and others, who are justly incensed at this mutilation of their work the ethical side of the question needs to be considered. It is a certainty that the exhibitor, even though he may consider that the film is his to do with as he wishes—and even if the terms of his contract make it possible for him to cut to his heart's content—is by no means, generally speaking, competent to judge just what parts might be eliminated without actual injury to the continuity or the effect of the picture. He has not studied the story as have those who produced it. Very likely he has not even read the original, if published in book or magazine form. He has not the time to decide what is least essential.

"What would be said of a bookseller who deliberately removed certain pages from a popular novel and then sold it to his customers at the full market price? He would soon be tabooed by all his former customers and would probably have to shut up shop unless he desisted from the practice.

"Is there any difference between this and the cutting of films by the showman who is in the final analysis the retailer who vends the product to the public?

"Take the stage play. It is rehearsed, edited, cut, and finally produced for public gaze. After the first night it may be improved by judicious cutting under the eye of the producer—all of which corresponds to the work in the laboratory and projection room of the studio. But once the play is declared "okeh" it goes forth in that form and even years later, when reproduced in stock, is seldom mutilated, the only changes being caused by the limitations of the smaller producers. Even the one-night stand companies will hesitate about deleting that which is vital. But many film exhibitors have no such scruples, apparently. with regard to their pictures.

Must Protect Stars.

"I feel certain that it is only a question of time, unless exhibitors desist from such ruinous cutting, that some action will have to be taken by producers in self-protection. They must keep faith with the people; the authors, actors and directors have reputations which they must zealously safeguard. If they are at the mercy of the exhibitors who amputate films indiscriminately they are in danger constantly.

"As I said before, I am quite willing to believe that exhibitors generally speaking mean well; that they believe they are serving their own interests and those of their patrons best by cutting down features to make room for a long and varied program. But I am satisfied that if the public was consulted, it would invariably protest against the practice. The photoplay patrons would rather see one complete and unmutilated picture than half a dozen chopped and incomplete offerings.

"Speaking for our own product, I am confident that when a photoplay leaves our laboratory for the exchange it is trimmed down to the limit. The scenes have been matched perfectly, the continuiy has been preserved. Much film has been discarded, but it has been done by those trained for the work, who have made a study of the individual picture. To cut it further is to do an injury that is far-reaching in its consequences.

"If a campaign of education does not have results in eliminating the obnoxious practice, it is evident that some other means will be necessary to curb what is unquestionably an evil."

WE SWIM AGAIN

Last week it was a pleasure to present to you an excellent article by Vance Veith, with some brand new stuff hitherto undiscovered by any press agent in the game. Mr. Veith now follows with some more interesting information as regards the swimming activities of picture people.

Miss Karla Schramm is fast coming to the front as a star swimmer. Miss Schramm is a wonderful crawl stroke swimmer, and can dive with much grace from the springboard. She is an expert aquaplane rider, and can swim in the surf. Miss Schramm advocates swimming for women, as it gives the body perfect lines and develops every muscle.

Mabel Normand is a wonder at swimming and diving, and they have done much for Mabel.

Elinore Field, of the Mutual-Strand Company, is one of the most graceful springboard divers that ever graced a board. She received her early coaching at the Los Angeles Athletic Club. when she entered pictures with Mack Sennett.

Lila Croucier is rated as the champion professional diver. Many a dive she has made from twenty to forty feet off of cliffs and boats.

Billy Williams, International diving champion, and cameraman for Mack Sennett before the war, is now acting as official cameraman for Uncle Sam. Billy is stationed at Neuwed, Germany and will dive in the Inter-Allied diving championships to be held in France in June. Billy was the first American to dive into the Rhine.

Cliff Bowes, formerly the high diving champion and Pacific Coast 50-yard holder has returned from France where he has been for the last year and a half in the navy acting as a bomber. While overseas he did a great deal of diving, mostly from his hydroplane.

Tod Burns, who before the States entered the war, enlisted in the Royal Air Service, became a captain in the flying corp. Tod wires from New York that he will be in Los Angeles within a week. He held the Southern California 150-yard championship for the back stroke for three years.

Eugene Field, brother of Elinore Field, has arrived in the States and will be in Los Angeles soon. He held the Coast championship for springboard diving.

Yours very truly,
VANCE VIETH.

IN OTHER CITIES

NEW YORK, April 23. (Special to Camera!)—Eugene O'Brien has signed a long term contract with Selznick Pictures.

Sidney Abel of Fox Pictures has left for London.

Myron Selznic is quoted as stating that the production center of the motion picture industry will soon be shifted from Los Angeles to New York, giving as his reasons: First, that the production center should be close as possible to the administrative offices and second, that a better class of professional talent can be had in the metropolis. He states that the Selznic Pictures will hereafter be filmed exclusively in the New York studios.

Robert Gordon arrived last week from Hollywood to play the leading part opposite Sylvia Breamer in the next Blackton Picture.

Monday witnessed the opening of the Select Pictures Convention for a three-day session at the Hotel Astor. Myron Selznic presided, with Miss Olive Thomas present at most of the meetings.

The New York Assembly passed a bill for the appointment of a board of motion picture censors by a vote of 77 to 57. The bill has not yet reached the Senate. Under the provisions of the act, if passed, films may be disapproved when found to be sacrilegeous, obscene, indecent or immoral or tending to debase or corrupt the morals.

Arthur Le Vey, film exporter, recently discharged from the service. is re-establishing his office and will again open negotiations for foreign markets.

C. F. Zitell Jr., nineteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Zittel, died Monday, April 16, a victim of tonsilitis.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, April 23.—A general raise in admission prices of 33 1-3 per cent was put in effect at all of the downtown motion picture theatres on Sunday.

COLUMBUS, Ohio. April 22.—The Sunday closing bill introduced into the Ohio Legislature is now in the hands of the city's committee and has been favorably reported on the floor of the house. It is expected, however, that the bill will die before coming up for discussion.

CHICAGO, Ill., April 21.—A movement is on foot to locate all film exchanges in Chicago in one building, says Chas. C. Pyle of the F. I. L. M. Club.

SOCIAL FRICASSEE AND CAPER SAUCE

BY FLORENCE PORTER PARKS

AT LAUGHTER HALL

The doors of Laughter Hall, in Wellington Road, were thrown open wide Saturday night, when the King of Laughter Hall, William A. Parsons, and his wife, Billie Rhodes, entertained with an informal dance, which was followed by a sumptuous midnight supper. The honor guests were the recently married couples in the film colony, which included Mr. and Mrs.

WILLIAM A. PARSONS

Bertram Bracken, Mr. and Mrs. Will Desmond, Mr. and Mrs. Earle Williams and Mr. and Mrs. James Young. Mr. and Mrs. Parsons were married the twelfth of February. Other guests invited were Mr. and Mrs. Isadore Bernstein, Mr. and Mrs. LaPlant, Mr. and Mrs. Ingleton, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Murray, Mr. and Mrs. Carter deHaven, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Hampton, Mr. and Mrs. Seiter, Mr. Harry Cohn, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Chaudet, Mr. and Mrs Monte B. Rice, Mr. Harry Pollard, Mr. Micky Reiffen, Mr. Larry Semon, Miss Grace Kingsley, Miss Arline Hale, Miss Marie Cumfort, Miss Sylvia Bernstein, and Mr. Guy Price.

A Jazz band of six pieces furnished the dance music, and during the evening entertainers from the local cabarets introduced surprise features. A carpeted aisle partitioned off with wide satin ribbons led to the supper table. Up this aisle walked the newly weds, the brides wearing their wedding gowns. The table was centered with a great crystal bowl filled with white roses, and smaller white roses were strewn over the cloth. The favors were sugar Kewpie novelties dressed like bride and groom. White and green wedding bells lined with roses hung from the ceiling in all the down-stair rooms, with white satin ribbons connecting one with the other. This is the first of a series of parties to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Parsons at their home, Laughter Hall.

DINNER—DANCE

Bonnie Hill and Nella Noxon gave a dinner party at their bungalow in Steward street, one night last week. American Beauty roses were arranged effectively in the home, the same flowers decorating the long table, at which twenty-five guests were seated. A string orchestra played for the informal dance which followed the dinner. Jimmie Dunn recited some original pieces, Dave Allen sang several selections, and the feature of the evening was the Egyptian dance with which Rose Mullaney pleased all present.

Harry Keaton has started his third picture with the Jim Davis company at L-KO. Keaton's last picture was a western comedy thriller, filled with stunts that kept Harry stepping.

AT CORONADO

Mr. and Mrs. Bertram Bracken will spend the week-end at Coronado.

REPRESENTATIVES

Dorothy De Vore and Ethel Lynn represented the Christy Studio at the Dome Thursday night.

DOME PARTY

One of the parties formed to attend the Theater Owners' ball Thursday night included Lucille Humbert, Gladys Rhodes, Edmund Mitchell and Walter Woherly

AT THE DOME

Lucille Carlisle and Larry Semon had as their guests Thursday night at the Theater Owners' dance at the beach, Bessie Love and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Love.

LEAVE FOR EAST

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Woods will leave for New York Saturday, where they expect to remain three weeks or longer. It will be the first vacation that Mr. Woods has taken in two years.

FEW DAYS' VACATION

King W. Vidor, his wife Florence Vidor, and little Suzanne have left for a few days' rest at Palm Springs, preparatory to starting the next Brentwood picture, in which Florence Vidor will be featured under her husband's direction.

AT THE OLD MILL

Mr. and Mrs. Christian Lynton entertained an interesting group of people in an interesting way last Tuesday evening. The party was given for Theodore Kosloff, the Russian dancer at the Orpheum, and the locale was the Old Mill at Pasadena. A Bohemian dinner was served to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lewis, Paul Weigle, J. N. Giffen of New York, Mr. and Mrs. W. Currier, Mrs. Harriett Higbee, Sheridan Dupont, Lieutenant Dubert and Lew Warrington.

HOUSE GUEST

Petty Peterson and her mother, who reside at 1735 Wilcox avenue, entertained as their house guest last week Lieutenant M. Lawrence Garlowske of Chicago, who is in Southern California recuperating after two years' service in France.

ARRIVAL FROM EAST

Mr. and Mrs. James Young are looking forward to the arrival of Mr. Young's mother from Baltimore. Mrs. Young will arrive in the city next week, and will remain some time with her son and his bride, in their new home in Vine street, which will be completed shortly.

FOR MISS HARRIS

A surprise dinner party was given by the Studio Club girls one night last week complimenting Edna Harris, secretary of the Club. Bouquets of spring flowers marked each girl's place at the table, and under a mound of the flowers at Miss Harris' plate was concealed some lovely birthday gifts.

AT HOLLYWOOD HOTEL

Clyde Fillmore was one of the hosts who gave pleasure with an attractive dinner party Thursday night at the Hollywood Hotel. Those at Mr. Fillmore's table were Miss Conroy of Chicago, who was the motif for the party, Madlaine Travers, Harry Milard and Miss M. E. M. Gibsone.

EASTER DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. George Ingleton entertained with an Easter dinner Sunday evening at their home in de Longpre avenue. The Sunday night dinners at the Ingleton home are always looked forward to with anticipation and pleasure, for they are always of an informal nature, and the hospitable couple have made a study of the comforts of their guests. Those enjoying this particular Sunday evening were Maurice Tourneur, George D. Baker, Miss Cochran, Mrs. Crofit, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mulhall.

HALE HAMILTON

By Florence Porter Parks

Hale Hamilton makes one think of fashionable summer resorts, while fashionable summer resorts, white He is a clean-cut fellow, virile and athletic. Speaking of athletics he walked away, or rather ran away, with the medal for athletics at the University of Kansas, where he was enrolled as a law student.

He was to make law his profession, as the men in the Hamilton family were wont to do, but the Dramatic Club interested him more as one semester followed another. He finally arrived at the conclusion that the stage was for him, instead of the courts. His mother became his confidante, and together they held out against the irate and much disappointed father, who had figuratively placed his son's name beneath his own on the door of his law office. He was claims attorney for the Santa Fe System and stood high in law circles.

Hale finished his law course to somewhat alleviate his father's disappointment, then, like a colt free of its halter, he plunged into the theatrical field, in a part with Louis James and Katherine Kidder in "A Midsummer Night's Dream." To take a mouthful of Shakespeare for your first bite is more confidence giving than a stomach full of other plays. The experience was good.

His father refused resolutely to participate in his son's mad venture, so Mrs. Hamilton witnessed her son's performance that night, and returning home, told her liege lord, who pretended that he was sound asleep, all about it. That he missed not a word leaked out unintentionally from time to time.

James K. Hackett engaged Hale Hamilton for a part in "The Return of Don Caesar," and in "If I Were King." Following that, he worked with Nat Goodwin in all of that actor's revivals, for three years. Then he played in the company with Wilton Lackaye, for a season.

Stock took his attention and he played in Denver, Cleveland, Baltimore and in Buffalo. Bill Farnum was a member of the same company.

For almost two years Hale Hamilton played at the New York Gaiety Theater in "Get Rich Quick Wallingford," and "The Fortune Hunter." These two productions he took to London, where he played them for a year and a half. While in London he was also featured with Fannie Brough in "Drury Lane."

Then he returned to the United States, and opened the season with "A Pair of Sixes," at the Longacre Theater in New York. "The N'er Do Well" he played at the Lyric.

He left for the Orient and Australia, playing "Twin Beds," "The Boomerang," "It Pays to Advertise," "Get Rich Quick Wallingford," and "A Full House."

Hale's success was quite gratifying by this time, and law was somewhat relegated in the office where hung the sign of John Hamilton, while the elder Hamilton discussed his son's success. And just like all men (a woman is writing this), Hale's father stuck his thumbs proudly under his armpits and told how it was his original suggestion that his son follow the calling he had exhibited so much talent for, and that in following his idea, and advising

JOY!—IT'S A GIRL—DAN HOGAN'S HAPPY

The world isn't big enough for Danny Hogan to step around on of late. He's the father of a fifteen-pound girl.

"For eighteen years I've wanted a girl, and I'm so happy I don't know what to do. We're going to name her Minette after my mother," and the former coast lightweight danced away on his toes to proclaim the glad news elsewhere on the Metro lot.

"THE GIRL WHO STAYED AT HOME"

Last Monday night at the showing of D. W. Griffith's "The Girl Who Stayed at Home," at Grauman's Theater, Clarine Seymour, who has one of the leading parts, gave a theater party to several friends, among whom were Mr. and Mrs. Ithica, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dinnon, and Mr. and Mrs Mahlon Hamilton. After the picture, a supper party was participated in by the young crowd at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dillon in the Hollywood Hills.

A LATE SUPPER

Clyde Westover, author of "The Fighter," just picturized by the Sargent Company, gave a nine o'clock supper at the Chocolate Inn Saturday night. His guests were Gertrude Hamilton, May Starbuck, Betty Martin, Dr. Deny, P. D. Sargent, Duke Morrison and Frederick Bond. The decorations were roses and cigars The supper broke up at about twelve.

MISS ROBERTS HOSTESS

Edith Roberts entertained a few friends at the Alexandria last Wednesday evening. Her dinner guests were Mr. and Mrs. B. Ascher, Lieutenant R. C. Robbins, Lieutenant Evans, Mr. Harvey Priester and Miss Roberts' mother, Mrs. J. R. Roberts. Following the dinner, the bill at the Morosco was enjoyed by the hostess and her friends.

DINNER PARTY

One of the pleasant little dinner parties preceding the dance at the Hollywood Hotel, Thursday night, was given by Marion Loenhardt. Her table was done in pink and blue, forget-me-nots and Cecil Brunner roses carrying out the color scheme, with Kewpie dolls dressed in pink and blue tulle ballet skirts and gay Easter bonnets. Her guests were Sylvia Ashton, Richard Wayne, Frances Raymond, Myrtle Anderson, Mr. Newhouse, Mr. and Mrs. Murray McEwen, Frank Wynne, Tom White, and Silas Masters.

"SHEPHERD OF THE HILLS"

Monday evening of last week Harold Bell Wright's "Shepherd of the Hills" opened at the Pomona Theater in Pomona. Cathrine Curtis, who was featured in the production, motored over with Charles Macaulay and Count and Countess Tauburini. Four hundred were turned away from the theater that night, and among those were Miss Curtis and her guests. Only by sending for Mr. Wright, who was present to make a speech, did Miss Curtis and party gain entrance. and then they stood throughout the showing of the picture.

HOLLYWOOD BENEFIT

The second of May the town of Hollywood will sponsor a benefit entertained for the Patriotic Mothers of Sons in Service, and a royal good time for returned soldiers. The affair will be held in front of the fire station at Cahuenga near Hollywood boulevard. Refreshments will be served. By the way, Ye Goode Cake Makers, donations of cake will be appreciated, and the same may be left with C. C. Hall at 6382 Hollywood boulevard, or at the Hollywood National Bank. Your cakes will be safe either place, no matter how hungry the recipients are. Mrs. J. E. Ware is the head of the committees, and Mrs. Christian Lynton is in charge of the entertainment.

Pick-ups Of The Staff

Brinsley Shaw is with Earle Williams at Vitagraph.

Edward McWade is with the James Young company in the current Earle Williams feature.

James Young, one of the few men capable of talking intelligently on the subject of Shakespeare, will deliver the last of his series of three lectures on the 29th at the Pasadena Shakespearean Club. On the 23rd he spoke before the Hollywood Women's Club and on the 25th he delivered a lecture on Hamlet at the Krotona Institute.

Wallace MacDonald, with the Bessie Love company, is recovering from an attack of redwood poison acquired on location.

"Bad Man" Joe Ryan, of Duncan serial fame, has shaved his beard.

This thing is getting to be serious.

Edgar Rice Burroughs, author of the Tarzan stories starring Elmo Lincoln, is in Hollywood this week presumably for the purpose of arranging for further film productions of his books.

Edward Piel, who has just finished a nine months engagement with the D. W. Griffith company, is now doing a Chinese heavy with the Jesse B. Hampton Productions. He is with the Warner company.

Donald Crisp, Rex Beach and party have returned from Tanforan Island after spending two weeks hunting crocodiles and tropical birds. It is rumored that Mr. Crisp has signed with Lasky for another year as director.

Truman Van Dyke reports that the "Red Glove" serial, in which he played the lead opposite Marie Walcamp, finished last Tuesday.

On Thursday evening at the Ebell Club, James Wharton presented his sketch, "Lady Gregory's Traveling Man," before the Drama League of America. This is the same sketch which Mr. Wharton presented last year at the Community Theatre. Little Ben Alexander played a prominent part.

John Gilbert has been engaged for the all-star cast at the big "U" under the direction of Lynn Reynolds.

Thomas Santschi has completed his work with Anita Stewart and is waiting for the Katterjohn director to give him "a ring."

Director Henry King has taken his company, headed by William Russell, to Yoca Lake.

Lois Wilson's sister Janice is now leading lady for Frank Keenan.

Frank Borzage enjoyed a very prosperous and happy birthday last week. He was signed to direct Fred Stone.

Leatrice Joy, who is in San Diego, writes: "We entertained the boys from the convalescent camp and gave them cigarettes—our first opportunity to thank the heroes for their wonderful services. It was a great thing to be able to entertain them, and the San Diego players are going to do it each week regularly."

Kathleen Kirkham is cast as the heavy in Bessie Barriscale's picture, "Joslyn's Wife."

King Vidor, who produced "The Turn in the Road," is locked up tightly in his cutting room this week doing the necessary removal operation on his picture.

Walter I. Percival, who played opposite May Allison in her recent picture, left today for his farm in Connecticut, where he will spend the summer. It is rumored that Mr. Percival will start a company of his own early in the Fall.

This thing is getting to be serious.

The Robert Warwick Company left the Lasky studio last Friday for the Nez Percez Indian Reservation at Lewiston, Idaho. They will be gone about three weeks. Those who accompanied Mr. Warwick were Ann Little, Eileen Percy, Tom Forman, Monty Blue, Hart Hoxie and Director George Melford.

E. Richard Schayer has been signed by J. A. Berst, president of the United Picture Theatre Owners, to do continuity for Dustin Farnum pictures.

Jack Roshelle has been signed by Harry Garson as technical director.

Clarence Burton left for the Desert Inn, Palm Springs, to join the Bill Farnum company, which is there on location.

Lillian Walker has returned to Los Angeles after a two weeks business trip to New York.

....Harry Garson, who has been producing at the Brunton lot, has taken studio space at the old Selig studio in Edendale.

Horsley Studio reports advancement of work at the downtown studio. They are raising their diffusing system to a height of 25 feet, extending the present stage 20 feet, putting up a new stage 70 by 140 feet, and altering the whole dressing-room system. Two new companies, Carlton Bros. Film Co. and the Home Art Co., have started producing, making four in all, and Mr. Davies reports more companies are seeking room there.

Charles Ray announces that he will make his own pictures, with a release on the completion of his contract with Thomas H. Ince, January, 1920.

M A Y A L L I S O N

William P. S. Earle has signed with Harry Garson to direct Blanche Sweet. Scripts with a strong comedy-drama theme by well known writers will be considered for Miss Sweet's first picture.

Kathlyn Williams will be seen in the forthcoming Katterjohn productions.

Fred Powell is organizing a comedy company to produce one-reel comedies. It will be known as the Comedy Five. Released through the Romayne Super-Film Exchange.

Lieut. George Seigman, formerly of the Griffith studio and lately returned from France, is signed with the Universal and will direct Priscilla Dean in a series of stories.

This thing is getting to be serious.

The Dorothy Gish Company finished work in Bear Valley this week, with Miss Gish absent from the scenes. The star was taken sick on Monday and rushed back to Los Angeles by automobile. Director Clifton remained in the hills to finish all scenes in which the star was not included. Medical advice informed Miss Gish that she was subject to "mountain sickness," which results in chills, fever, etc. It is probable that the scenes in which Miss Gish appeared will be finished as soon as the weather in Bear Valley is warmer.

William Duncan has finished the "Man of Might" serial and has given his company a week's vacation before starting the next production.

This thing is getting to be serious.

Cyrus Townsend Brady will again be responsible for the authorship of the Duncan serial, which starts next week.

The Bessie Love Company returned from Fresno last week after finishing the lumber-camp exteriors for her current picture.

Syn De Conde, the French actor, is forming his own company, to produce five big features a year. He has supported Nazimova, Pauline Frederick and Anita Stewart. One of his best characterizations was that of Du Clos, the Apache, in Nazimova's "Revelation."

Frank Lloyd, who directed William Farnum, has signed a contract to make special features for Goldwyn.

Fred Stone will make three or four pictures a year in the summer time. His first series will be directed by Frank Borzage.

Lloyd Ingraham, director, goes to Thomas Ince to make features with Douglas MacLean.

Mabel Normand has finished her first Goldwyn picture under the direction of Victor Schertzinger.

Edmund Lawrence, who has been directing for William Fox in the East, is now in Hollywood. Mr. Lawrence has been with the Fox firm for almost a year. Just what star he will direct has not been decided upon.

Madlaine Traverse has just finished a picture tentatively called "The High Flame," under the direction of Harry Millards.

Scott Dunlap has finished his first picture, "Words and Music," for the Fox company. His stars were Albert Ray and Elinor Fair. Others in the cast were Edwin Booth Tilton, George Hernandez and Eugene Paulette. Roy Klaffke also came in for his photography.

R. A. Walsh has begun a new Fox picture. Miriam Cooper is his star. This is the first picture Mr. Walsh has made in California in a year and a half. Besides Miss Cooper he brought from New York Jim Marcus and Johnny Reis, his assistants. Dev Jennings is doing the camera work.

Major Stewart Edward White, Mrs. White, Charles Chaplin, Rob Wagner, Benjamin B. Hampton, Director Edward Sloman and a score of other notables gathered at the Brunton studio projection room the other night to see the premier showing of "The Westerners." Among the audience were also Wilfred Luca Mildred Manning, Roy Stewart, Robert McKim and Graham Pettie, who play the star roles.

MRS. MORTIMER'S UNCLE DEAD

Mrs. Edmund Mortimer received word last week that her uncle, Capt. William Burnham, passed away at his home at Courtchester, New York. Captain Burnham was general manager of the Hawaiian-American Steamship Company, and after leaving $200,000 to charity, the residue was bequeathed to relatives.

The National Studios now have five companies operating and the sixth billed to start at once. A new feature from these studios will be "The Hall-Room Boys," adapted from the once popular cartoons of that name. There will be a series of 52 single-reel comedies.

The completion of Zane Grey's screen production, "Desert Gold," releases ten players. They are E. K. Lincoln, W. Lawson Butt, Edward Coxen, Margery Wilson, Eileen Percy, Russell Simpson, Arthur Morrison, Walter Long, Frank Brownlee and Herbert Bainbridge.

Zena Keefe has been engaged to star in light comedies for World Flms, now in production at the Fort Lee Studios.

Forrest Stanley, having finished playing with the Katherine MacDonald company, is now awaiting his next call to "make up."

CHIT, CHAT AND CHATTER

By Harry Burns

Hank Mann has formed the Hank Mann Comedies Co. and starts producing one-reel subjects at Horsley's studio with a hundred per cent lineup of service men who went across the pond and took up Uncle Sam's battle for democracy. He has Rawhide Kelley, S. Chas. Stevenson, "Ventura Mack" Mc Dermott, and cameraman Walker. All will be on the Hank Mann pay-roll and any soldier or sailor who has worked in comedies and is out of a position will get first chance at the Mann studio, according to Hank himself.

Chas. Lynn (Conklin) is pulling a Lew Cody on screen fans in his present picture, now in the making at Sennett's. Talk about the male vamp stuff, they haven't got a thing on Charles.

Dan Crimmons had an old timers reunion at the Vitagraph. On the Larry Semon set were four men who were, in his years, legitimate troupers. There were Billy McCall. Ed Moncrief and Frank Hayes and Crimmons, all working for Larry and with the Five Sylvesters acrobats and Rosa Gore also a regular trouper in on the doings. Mr. Semon can well expect to have real support, and from old timers too.

Baldy Belmont is still acting funny for Mack Sennett. Saw him all dolled up the other afternoon and he didn't look a day older than he did five years ago when he was directing at the Reliance-Majestic studios.

Harold Lloyd is to make two-reelers from now on. He hasn't made any since he gave up the character of Lonesome Luke, so we can expect the funny Harold to hand us some more real laughs. They tell me the cost of his one-reelers ran up so high that they were forced to make a double reel out of his stories in order to get the price from the Pathe Co.

Charlyn Milton, an Eastern girl who recently came out to Los Angeles to try her hand in filmland, is making good at Lasky's and is worth watching for future reference, for she is doing one of those modern day vampires, meaning up to the minute types that are true to life.

Reggie Lyons is back and will be soon working behind the camera. He did his bit over there, saw real service, and should get right back on the job where he left off to serve Uncle Sam.

Larry Semon, who makes Big V special feature comedies, is in line for quite a bit of credit for his initial production, which brings forth his latest two-reelers. stands in a class by itself. Semon's character is both clean and funny. Unlike other comedians, he doesn't resort to slapstick situations. His thrills are consistent and Clune Theatre visitors last week enjoyed his picture immensely and I number among those who were pleased.

Hugh Saxon, the silver-haired trouper, has an excellent part in the Allen Holubar-Dorothy Philips production at the Big U. If he can talk with as silver a tongue as his top piece represents, he soon should number among the stars of today. Do you follow me?

Doris Baker, who has outgrown her childhood days, meaning that she is a cute and charming girl who with proper dressing will make a leading lady for some bright individual who needs such a girl, stopped out to see some old friends at the Universal, and a wide-awake director ordered a test taken of Dora. Maybe we will hear some good news about her future doings shortly.

Francis Powers is contemplating putting on "The First Born" in a screen version and possibly Catlana Island this summer in the Greek theatre, with a great cast and he himself playing the role that he originated when he first wrote and produced the play years ago.

Joe Rock hid behind a hat out Vernon way the other night. Excuse me, folks, I should explain it more thoroughly. He was dancing and his companion wore such a large rimmed hat that you couldn't see Joe till he popped his head out at me and said, "Peek-a-boo." How Mr. Rock found his way about the floor is a mystery to me unless he used a periscope.

Mae Gaston has just recovered from a sick spell and took an auto ride the other evening full of pep and ready to go back to work. This working in serials isn't as easy as some people think it is, but Mae seems to have stuck to it as long as any of 'em outside of possibly Ruth Roland.

Harry Depp plays a very nifty floorwalker in his forthcoming release directed by William Beaudine. Caught hm working in one of the prettiest sets that the Christie-Mutual Strand technical forces have turned out, and Harry showed how good actors can perform in good sets, for he sure put his scenes over.

Len Powers is working with J. G. Blystone on the Fox Sunshine lot where he is photographing stars and near-greats with equal pains and is turning out some very good photography. Len will be remembered only five years ago as a boxer of the first water and he learned the camera game under some of the best photographers connected with filmland.

Harry Gribbon is working at the Fox Sunshine studio where he is being directed by Vic Herman.

Albert E. Smith evidently believes that there isn't anything greater than co-operation, for from morn till night he can be seen walking on the sets talking with actors, directors, assistants, in fact anyone who is drawing Vitagraph money. For a man who is up in letters and figures, he is the easiest going and most likeable that the East has sent us in many a day, and every one on the V lot are voicing such an opinion anent Mr. A. E. S.

Mal St. Clair is directing Ben Turpin, Chas, Lynn and Myrtle Lind over on the Sennett lot, and from all reports he is doing fine and dandy. Those who have seen some of the takes claim he is fast developing into one of Mack Sennett's best bets.

Jim Flynn, our old friend from Pueblo, who used to swap punches with the best of heavyweights, is working for Mack Sennett. Caught him with a make-up on the other day and it sure looked good to see old Jim still up and at 'em.

Nelson McDowell is expecting to play a western bad man tor Frank Beal at the Fox studio. Nels is right at home in such parts, for he really lives them.

Paul Willis is back after travelling with Gustave Bernard Stock Co. and will get back into the cinema field once more. Paul is sure growing fast and should make an excellent juvenile man for some company.

Irene Dale has been loaned to the Tom Mix Co. from the Sunshine lot and there lies her chance to get in line for something good, for all she needs is an opportunity.

Glenn Gano is back after serving Uncle Sam. Remember him in the old Helen Holmes serials, and with the Kalem Company? He used to do most anything from props to thrill and assisted in production from more angles than one.

Claire Alexandria has joined the L-KO acting forces and will inject her smiling personality into the comedies.

Marie Beaudet is doing an excellent gypsy part with Edward Le Saint at the Fox studio and says that she is deluged with offers of work from the different casting directors, so the girl must be clever.

Slim Peppercorn and Chas. Doherty aren't on speaking terms, for Slim was seen whispering endearing words into the pet burro's ear. Chas. feels said burro is his personal property, but in reality it belongs to the L-KO and everyone on the lot is waiting to see the outcome of the feud between the duo. Here's hoping that there isn't any bloodshed between the pair.

Jay Belasco is a sort of pack of all trades. If Al Christie wants an A-1 leading man for his picture, Jay is that. If he wants a director Mr. Belasco answers to that cognomen. What he will be expected to do next is puzzling those on the inside. But, be that as it may, I'll wager whatever it is, he can do her by heck!

Jimmy Clements and George Pearce who are just as much alike as two peas, only different in their capacities in the cinema sphere, were discussing movieland in general the other day. Finally up stepped Scott Sidney with "What are you guys arguing about now?" Joimes got his brainy cranium working and let loose a flow of language that almost had Director Sidney droy over from heart failure, and as he came out of it, he found the pair had beat it.

George Siegman no more than dropped in on us than he was signed by the Universal to direct Priscilla Dean in a Spanish story that carried one back to the days of old Madrid. "Out of the army and back to the screen studio," chirped George, "is like being thousands of miles from nowhere and finally sighting a vessel that can save you from a life of loneliness on a barren island, and you see that they have caught your signal and are heading towards your location."

Charles Arling, just returned from Canada, where he played "Blake" in "Wapi Jo" with the Curwood company, starring Nell Shipman, says the Southland is the only place for him, for home never looked so good as when he dropped off the train in Los Angeles and saw what wonderful climate we have compared with the Canuck territory.

Sessue Hayakawa slipped down to San Diego with his company, including his director, William Worthington, and photographed scenes aboard the "President" while en route to the southern city, which brought into the limelight Fontine La Rue's ability to enveigle Sessue into a net, as she portrays the Russian spy in the story.

Jack Brammell has just finished a four weeks engagement with William Russell at Santa Barbara in "Six Feet Four," with Henry King directing. Jack is one of the old school artists and is well known. He can be expected to line up with another star shortly.

Marcelle Day is doing an excellent Spanish part in the present story being produced by Director Franklin for Metro. She portrays one of those up-to-the-minute vampires that we see in every-day life about Sonoratown.

Mildred Driscoll is leaving the Metro Company and going home to Dayton, Ohio, which she calls home, sweet home. Every one is sorry, for Mildred was a pleasing girl who held a responsible position.

Bill Nye is in the Clara Barton Hospital with a sprained ankle. He was injured at Palm Springs while working with the William Farnum company and there is no telling how soon he will be out again. His many friends should take advantage of the opportunity to call on him.

Billy Foster, who is head cameraman for the Jesse Hampton studios, has as his right-hand bower and second cameraman Max Fabian, who worked with Billy at Mox's, and he swears by his boss, who, I am informed, is getting some great photography for his employer.

R. A. Walsh expects to get started Monday with his company in "Evangeline," the biblical story that he has wanted to produce for the past three years. He is going to cling to Longfellow's own interpretation of the characters, bringing them out as true, living souls, such as are described in the story. Leave it to R. A. Walsh and James Marcus to see that they are living likenesses of those in the narrative. Miriam Cooper, the charming wife of Director Walsh, will as usual play the leading feminine role.

Pat Moore has just finished a great part with Monroe Salisbury, and the little fellow's heart is almost broken to think that he can't always play with Monroe, whom he calls "Big Tony," a character in the play that Mr. Salisbury portrays, while Pat does "Little Tony." The pair were inseparable during the entire making of the picture, which was directed by Rupert Julian.

Muriel Forbes and Arthur Jorgensen were quietly married a week ago Saturday and the happy couple were out enjoying the review at Vernon. They were showered with flowers and everything by their many friends, who happened to get the information that they were heading that way the very evening that the ceremony was performed. Miss Forbes works at the Vitagraph studio, while Mr. Jorgensen is connected with Goldwyn.

Jimmy Aubry is being directed by Noel R. Smith, and the pair have just about finished their initial picture together at the Vitagraph. Noel says Jimmy is very funny. Jimmy says Noel is some director. Both are telling the truth, so what could be fairer than that?

Irene Yeager is once more happily cast in the Metro pictures and is playing an important part. Irene as a child artist has done such work as would be a credit to some of the grownups who draw down top money and are considered stars.

Bert Apling is working for Maurice Tourneur at the Goldwyn studio and says he never was treated better nor played a more likeable part than the one he portrays in the present story.

Billy Armstrong is going great guns at the Sennett studio, where William is making 'em laugh at his funny antics, and what is more, he is being asked to play the kind of a character for which he is best known, and nothing suits him better than that.

Dr. Pommeroy Cook has just finished an excellent part with Mabel Normand and is looking forward to another engagement in the same (Goldwyn(studios with another star. His work in Mabel's production evidently must have pleased Casting Director Robinson for him to figure along those lines.

W. S. Campbell slipped away to Catalina and wrote a western story that he will produce for the Universal in which Bob McKenzie, Dora Rogers and a well known comedian will play the leading roles, while Curley Steekers' animals that belong out at the Universal Zoo will do their bit towards making things hum, with the fearless Curley handling the stock.

Harry Tenbrook has been facing wild animals while working with Maj. Allen at the Universal, where the Major lasooes them and does all sorts of stunts for Big U releases.

Billy Franey is acting right out in the open at Sennett's. He and Chas. Lynn are right in the midst of their glory, for they have in years gone by worked together and they have always looked forward to working together again. Bill just got back from the navy, hence his getting back into harness once more.

Vin Moore started a rural picture at the L-KO and has Dot Farley and Bill Bevan working as his stars and the lions are the means to get the pair into all sorts of trouble, so a good picture should ensue from their doings.

In order to be listed in this column, it is necessary that you be sufficiently well known locally that there shall be no doubt as to your ability to play the parts for which you are listed. If you have not appeared in the films recently, it will be necessary to bring proof that you have successfully filled the part under which you wish to be listed.

This precaution is taken as a safeguard for this paper and for the people who are capable. Further, this precaution has been suggested to us by casting directors, as the column was inaugurated chiefly for their information.

Abbreviations: Characters (ch.); Heavies (hv.); Juveniles (juv.); Foreign (for.); Ingenues (ing.).

Changes in this column must be reported to the office of CAMERA! not later than Friday of each week.

Charge for listing, including change each week, is $1.00 for two months.

HUGH SAXON

That Never-Idle Actor

(That is, when not working, he's so busy seeking it he keeps the phone bells buzzing like a bee stingin' a brick.)

Do you need a trouper who can do a keyboard buck-and-wing as a subtitle writer, proffering language either sesquipedalian or sententious? What do I know about a vocabulary? That's where I cop the big batting average! Anything you want to know about old-time mooks like J. Caesar, Kid Brutus or Barrel-House Diogenes, just sic it on me, boh! I know Ancient Rome like the wet side of Vernon, and when it comes to jawing that Greek stuff, I can chase any fruit peddler back to the alley. And, say, I can read Egyptian carvings like a beer sign on a grain shack. Get me, Nero?

Still am riding about the country with a he ingenue and a $250 Fido in the caravan of that finished artist, Director Holubar.

HALE HAMILTON

with him, Hale had attained his success.

Well, Hale returned to New York after doing the Orient and Australia, and played at the 39th Street Theater, New York, in "What's Your Husband Doing?"

Maxwell Karger of the Metro Studio made him an offer to enter pictures, which he accepted. He is now on his fourth Metro production.

The present picture is entitled "Full of Pep," from the story by Robert F. Hill, scenariorized by A. S. Le Vino, and directed by Harry L. Franklin. It is the story of a breezy young American business man, who goes to South America, a "dry country," where he floats "Pep," a patent medicine, which is really ———, you guessed it. You can imagine the popularity of the medicine man! He puts new life into the sleepy, bored community, and with true American sovereignty, he stacks the kale, and leads the most attractive girl in the country thereabouts to the altar.

Hale Hamilton finds picture work fascinating, and says that his interest between the legitimate stage and the cinema is very evenly divided. Diplomatic? His law course was not altogether without its remunerative value, after all.

Where to Sell Your Scenarios

This feature is for the guidance of scenario writers who have something to sell, but who do not know just where to take it. CAMERA! keeps this column for announcements by the various studios. Some of the matter stands from week to week as a reference guide. It will be noted that many of the studios do not wish scenarios submitted by any one; some want synopses only; others wisn the continuity written.

As the difficulties of the past years in regard to the submissions of scenarios no longer exist, it is safe for any one with a good idea to send scenarios to any company mentioned in this column. While this paper is not responsible for the use or misuse of scenarios by the companies listed, it believes that any scenario sent to any of the companies will receive honest and prompt treatment. Any action to the contrary will receive full publicity if reported to this office.

MABEL CONDON EXCHANGE, 6035-37 HOLLYWOOD BLVD. Buying only books, plays and magazine stories, except the work of a few authors on contract.

MOROSCO FILM COMPANY, 201 N. OCCIDENTAL. See Laskey Market.

CHRISTIE COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. In the market for one and two reel comedies. Breezy, snappy incidents must be present in a marked degree. The Christie Comedies feature Bobby Vernon, Earl Rodney, Dorothy De Vore, Jay Belasco, Ethel Lynn, Fay Tincher and Patricia Palmer. Please sumbit by mail.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA PRODUCING COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. Scott Sydney, the producer, wants one reel stories suitable for Elinor Field.

WILLIS AND INGLIS, WRIGHT & CALLENDER BLDG. Neither purchasing nor accepting on consignment any original scenarios. Handling only photoplay rights to books, plays and short stories.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS COMPANY, SUNSET AND ARGYLE. Prefers considering the original work of screen authors, having always been keen to develop those writers who showed ability.

NATIONAL FILM COMPANY, 6107 SANTA MONICA BLVD. In demand for 5-reel comedy-dramas featuring "Billie" Rhodes. Also 2-reel comedies for "Smiling Bill" Parsons, and 5-reel heavy dramas for Henry Walthall, and 2-reel comedies for the de Havens, with domestic situations.

VITAGRAPH COMPANY, 1708 TALMADGE ST. The company buys no scenarios in the West, the same being taken care of by the Eastern Vitagraph Company at East Fifteenth and Locust avenue, New York.

THE DOROTHY GISH COMPANY, SUNSET STUDIO, 4520 SUNSET BLVD. Is in the market for five and six reel comedy-dramas, featuring Miss Gish.

DAVID WARK GRIFFITH occasionally buys synopses suited to Mr. Griffith's people and style. Stories should be submitted to M. M. Stearns, 4500 Sunset Blvd.

FOX STUDIO, SUNSET AND WESTERN. The company has its own staff writers, but will consider comedy-dramas and straight dramas with a strong love element. Also Western comedy-dramas for Tom Mix. Nothing less than 5 reels.

METRO, 1025 LILLIAN WAY. Maxwell Karger is manager of productions and June Mathis is head of the scenario department. Outside material is also considered. Good live American stories with a melodramatic touch for Bert Lytell. Comedy-romances of a lighter nature for May Allison. Snappy melodramas for Hale Hamilton; comedy-romances and comedy-dramas for Viola Dana, and dramas that are typically Nazimova for Nazimova.

WILLIAM HART STUDIO, 1215 BATES ST. Maintains no scenario department, but manuscriptts for Bill Hart will be considered. The stories must not take Mr. Hart out of his characterization, but they must have new ideas, a different twist. Pays upon acceptance.

GOLDWYN PICTURE CORPORATION, CULVER CITY. Will consider ingenue roles having a touch of pathos, for May Marsh; ingenue roles that are rather fantastic for Madge Kennedy; strong emotional dramas for Pauline Frederick; and 5-reel comedy for Tom Moore. Nothing under 5 reels.

THOMAS H. INCE COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Buys no outside material except from well-known writers on contract. Has own staff writers.

TOURNEUR FILM COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Interested only inscripts of large calibre, 6 or 7 reels. No society plays and no comedy.

FATTY ARBUCKLE COMEDIES, 1723 ALLESANDRO ST. Two-reel comedies having the essentials of a good opening and a good finish, and the gags must be unusually clever.

MUTUAL FILM COMPANY, 72 WEST TWENTY-THIRD STREET, New oYrk Will consider feature photoplays with parts suitable for Gail Kane.

BACON-PACKER FILM CORPORATION, 230 WEST THIRTY-EIGHTH ST., NEW YORK. Society dramas with women leads are needed.

ANITA STEWART CO., 4634 SANTA MONICA BLVD. In the market for 5-reel society dramas for Anita Stewart.

CHAPLIN STUDIO, 1420 LA BREA. Buys no outside material. Charlie Chaplin writes his own scripts.

PALMER ADVISORY BUREAU, 571-591 I. W. HELLMAN BLDG. We market material for Palmer members and recognized writers only. Have calls for all types of stories including serials.

L-KO FILM COMPANY, SUNSET AND GOWER. Buys comedy ideas. Does not want the continuity written by outside writers.

UNITED PICTURE THEATRES CORPORATION, BRUNTON STUDIOS. Buying only high-class stories having Eastern or Western atmosphere which have sufficient action for 6 reels. Address scenarios to William Lord Wright.

BRUNTON STUDIOS, 5341 MELROSE AVE. Scenarios for the following companies may be addressed to Captain R. B. Kidd, Scenario Editor, or to the individual companies.

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG is in the market for straight drama; 6 reels.

JACK PICKFORD can use stories of the good-natured, small-town boy; 6 reels.

BESSIE BARRISCALE will consider strong emotional roles with the society element; also comedy-dramas; 5 to 7 reels.

FRANK KEENAN'S scenarios must contain strong, virile, masterful character delineation; 6 reels.

MAYFLOWER COMPANY, GEORGE TUCKER, All Star cast, will consider 7-reel super-features dealing with modern society.

SESSUE HAYAKAWA plays Japanese, Chinese and Far Eastern characters. Sympathetic roles and roles having to do with self-sacrifice are preferred to sentimental parts; 6 reels.

EARLE WILLIAMS uses 5 and 6-reel society plays.

STEWART EDWARD WHITE CO. Prodyces only Mr. White's books.

ZANE GREY FILM CO. Not in market. Films Mr. Grey's novels.

MARY PICKFORD COMPANY. Not in the market at present for outside material.

FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CO., BOYLE AND STEPHENSON AVE. Two and 5-reel dramatic stories of the West for Texas Guinan. One-reel comedies for Mack Swain.

UNITED PICTURES CORPORATION, 1600 BROADWAY, N. Y. In market for strong emotional features with problem theme for Florence Reed—five reels.

JESSE D. HAMPTON CO., 1425 FLEMMING ST. Will consider scenarios suitable for H. B. Warner, W. Desmond and Jack Kerrigan; five reels.

KATHERINE MACDONALD CO., PICO AND GEORGIA STS. Society or emotional dramas of 5 reels for Miss MacDonald. Address scenarios to Ursula March.

BRENTWOOD FILM CO., 4811 FOUNTAIN AVE. In market for modern American stories, with good theme predominating. Must have human interest, with characterization true to life. Five-reel features only.

UNIVERSAL FILM CO., UNIVERSAL CITY. In the market for 1-reel comedies and 2-reel Western. Will consider Western feature stories for Harry Carey; strong emotional drama for Dorothy Phillips and Mary MacLaren; feature character stories for Priscilla Dean; and outdoor character material for Monroe Salisbury. Violet Clark is head of the reading department.

THEATER OWNERS' SHOW

The Theater Owners' Association special show and dance given at Harlow's Dome Cafe at Ocean Park, Thursday night, was attended by about two thousand people. The object of the show was to raise a fund to protect the theater owners in case another unlooked for closing of the theaters, to have on hand an emergency fund.

The entertainment committee responsible for the success of the ven ture was Glen Harper, F. N. Young, J. F. Lichtig and Charles Murray. Mr. Murray was also toastmaster.

The Dome was generously decorated with American Beauty roses. A great canopy of roses was suspended over an electrical fountain, which was also banked with the flowers.

Cabaret numbers enlivened the evening from eleven until five Friday morning. Twenty of the St. Francis Follies girls gave several numbers. Freddy Covert, the female impersonator, did an Egyptian dance, and many other surprise features were sponsored by Fred Harlow.

Several dancing contests were held, the first cup, given by the Theater Owners for the most popular studio couple, was won by Mary Anderson and Mr. Poole. Guy Gutterson won the second prize, a ukelele, given by the Exchanges. The third prize, a lady's beaded purse donated by J. F. Lichtig to the most popular Exhibitors' couple, was won by Lottie Pickford, accompanied by Kenneth Harlan.

AT THE SPRINGS

Bessie Barriscale and Anna Q. Nilsson spent last week at Arrowhead Springs resting. Miss Nilsson will return to the Springs as soon as she has completed work in the two pictures in which she is cast. She is working on the Lasky lot with Bryant Washburn, and with the Anita Stewart company also.

MOTION PICTURE PATENTS

Kinematographs. D. S. Olinda, Chester Street, Rhyl. March 13, 1918.

In kinematograph apparatus adapted to display picture-sequences comprising more than one film-set. delay due to the insertion of new sets is avoided by the provision of two projectors having a common lantern and driving mechanism so connected that movement of the lantern from one projector to the other transfer the driving-mechanism also. Mounted to slide between brackets are rods carrying a base-plate supporting a standard provided with bearings for a driving-shaft from which are driven respectively by sprocket and chain gearing and skew gearing, two shafts carried by the standard. Carried by the shaft are clutch parts, adapted to drive shafts, of the projectors and members are provided on the shaft to engage other shafts of the projectors.

Masking shutters for the projectors are carried by shafts which are mounted in lateral brackets on the standard and driven by level and chain gearing from the shaft. In operation a film is inserted in one of the projectors behind which the lamp is arranged and the motor started, a flexible connection between the lamps and the standard serving to bring the appropriate driving clutches into engagement. While this film is passing through the one projector, a second film is inserted in the other projector so that the lamp and driving-mechanism can be changed over as soon as necessary.

Motion Picture Film Container. Geo. E. Riddle and William Queirolo, San Francisco, Cal. Filed Mar. 11, 1918. Serial No. 223,236. (4 claims).

The combination with a suitable frame of a plurality of containers each having an open top and pivotally mounted within the frame at a point situated below and diagonally from its center of gravity whereby said container may be automatically retained in a vertical retaining or a substantially horizontal discharging position, said frame being arranged to limit the movement of said containers to either position; a cover hingedly mounted upon the top of each container and arranged to swing open when said container is in a discharging position and to swing shut when said container is moved to a retaining position; and means mounted upon each cover to automatically lock said cover shut and to retain the container in a retaining position when said container is swung to said retaining position.

Motion Picture Device. John T. Wells, Newport, Ky.. assignor to The Edwards Mfg. Co., Cincinnati, Ohio. Filed Jan. 31, 1916. Serial No. 75, 191. (21 claims).

A device for operating an endless record strip having a wound supply roll portion and an unwound traveling loop portion, comprising mechanism coordinating with the strip to continuously unwind from the inner periphery and rewind upon the outer periphery of said roll portion, a non-rotative roll support, and a rotary drive element frictionally engaging the side of the roll for exerting a convolving transmitting influence upon the roll convolutions maintaining a constant roll diameter.

In a device of the class described, a non-rotative translating film roll holder, a rotary driving element adjacent said holder, means yieldingly urging the holder toward the driving element to cause a cooperative frictional engagement of said driving element and the side of the film roll. and means for feeding the film.

Al St. John came near starting a riot out at the Country Club when he walked over to one of the tables wearing a beard that loks about two weeks old. No one seemed to know him and he started in talking to one of the fair sex and her companion was about to crown Al when Mr. St. John saw what was coming and told 'em who he was and all had a drink on it. Roscoe Arbuckle sure is making Al hide behind the brush for his forthcoming releases and he sure looks funny with his face covered with whiskers.

Rhea Mitchell ,one of the tair ladies who started her career at Inceville and who is now an artiste of the first waters, has just finished a picture with Monroe Salisbury, playing opposite the well-known Universal star, under the direction of Rupert Julian. Rhea is worth watching, for she screens well and is a very likeable girl.

....Edward Kull, who has been Rupert Julian's cameraman for some time, got a nice raise in salary for the earnest work that he has done right up to date. This pleased Edward and we can expect him to work harder than ever before.

Rose Mullaney is at loss what to expect next. The other day in paying off her extras she was greeted with the following people answering to the roll call for extra pay checks, John Drew, Lillian Russell, J. K. Hackett, Sarah Bernhardt, and if some one answering to the cognomen of David Belasco happened along she would have thrown both hands up and quite, for it sure made her home-sick for old New York.

Chas. Clary is in his second picture with William Farnum. In the present narrative he does a cattle rustler and those that happened to be lucky enough to be up in the hills with the well-known Charles tipped me off that he did one of the best characterizations he was ever photographed in.

Albert Ray surely has picked for himself a regular director in Scott Dunlap. The other day A. R. wanted to take in the ball game and was too proud to ask to be excused, but in a round about way he inquired if he (Dunlap) was going and Scott, scenting why the query was put to him, chirped, "No, but you can take the afternoon off and take Mrs. Ray to the game." I call that some director.

Jack Ford is writing his story for the next Harry Carey western drama, and pokerdot shirts, spotted horses and dance hall girls will soon be a daily sight to gaze upon out Universal way. Carey and Ford are great hands to inject characters true to life in their stories, and posibly Mr. Carey has brought back from his tour a whole lot of new ideas to instill into his special features.

Joe Bordeaux, who assists J. G. Blystone at the Fox Sunshine lot, is just rounding his speaking voice into form once more, he has been shouting from morn till night to keep an even two dozen ponies in line and step, while they performed in a theatre scene. Did you get me, "ponies?" I mean cute little girls of theatreland.

Among the novelties for the season is the knitted gaiter, which is pulled on over the shoe with the strap under the foot. They fit the ankle snugly and are smart. Women who are clever at knitting can create some very original pairs. They are knitted with the knit one row and purl back method.

The long bead chain is in vogue again. reaching far below the waist. The chains are made of black crochet from which, if so desired, a cross in the two colors, may be suspended.

Low shoes are preferred to high shoes, and are almost always black or brown. For afternon affairs the black ties with large cut steel buckles are given choise One smart shoe has the high tongue engirdled by a small strap, finished at the side with a fancy buckle.

Gauntlet gloves in white without buttons or strap are the new glove note for afternoon wear.

The season's swagger stick is of bamboo with a club-like end of leather.

Cotton materials are done in radiant colors with huge patterns interwoven. The spider-web design in gray or blue upon white, is well liked.

Throatlets of ribbon, usually of black velvet, fastened with a clasp, are worn with the low-necked blouse. The bead throatlet, about an inch wide woven into a garland pattern is pretty also.

Heavy crepe de Chine skirts are among the seaon's favorites.

The pique vestee is used with the suit and tailored dresses. Some end in tablier effect with the buttoned front, others cross without any fastening, and are held in place by a string belt. Pique is dyed a bright color sometimes and is embroidered.

Hand-made linen hats are being shown in the east. One. a sailor, is made with corded edges having for its only trimming a narrow bright ribbon. Large hats of linen are trimmed with ribbon bows and short perky streamers.

REMINISCENCES OF SLIM PEPPERCORN

About fifteen years ago, while we were playing "The Promoter" with Chas. Crane, the popular matinee idol of that time, we hit Wichita, Kansas, on one silent summer's morn.

That night we played to a big hous of four (4) people. After the show we had about 20c in the bunch and made up our minds to pull stakes and hoof it.

It was a beautiful stormy night when we hit the ties for about ten miles. No houses in sight, but we decided to pull the sob stuff at the first one we came to. I, being the youngest of the troupe, was chosen for this emotional part. Supposedly a house, at some distance from us, proved to be a corral. Our bread baskets being empty, we resorted to making a mulligan out of the oats intended for the horses. We then bummed a ride on a slow freight to Kansas City, where we telegraphed for money which took us to Chicago.

"Them was the Happy Days"
and them's my sentiments

PRODUCTION NOTES AROUND HOLLYWOOD

Week Beginning May 4

J. P. McGowan having completed "The Red Glove," the eighteen-episode serial starring Marie Walcamp, is now making preparations to start Eddie Polo in a new chaptered melodrama that is being specially written for "the Hercules of the films."

James J. Corbett is now working in the twelfth episode of "The Midnight Man," under James W. Horne's direction with Kathleen O'Connor as his leading lady.

William S. Campbell has started the third of his animal comedies starring Joe the monk, Charley the elephant and Caesar the lion. "Wild Lions and Fast Crooks" is the working title of this jungle fun-fest.

In "Ether," Neal Burns' new comedy, a negro is shown turning white from fright. The transformation is gradual, which is the more remarkable, and the progress of the change from hair to hand is clearly depicted on the screen.

This Thing Is Getting to Be Serious.

Beatrice Burnham, who was in Adda Gleason's support in "Ramona" and who has been featured in a series of comedies produced by the La Salle Company of Chicago, has been secured by Universal to be Eddie Polo's leading woman.

Peggy Pearce, who has been recently featured in Triangle productions, is playing opposite Harry Carey in "A Man of Peace," now being staged under Jack Ford's direction.

"Minnehaha," the Indian squaw of the films, best known for her work with Mabel Normand in "Mickey," plays an important atmospheric role in support of Pete Morrison in the two-reel western "Hate Everlastin'" which he has just completed under George Holt's direction .

Hamilton Smith, at one time general manager of Kalem, has been added to the scenario department by Eugene Mullin, script chief. Smith is perhaps best known for his "Mysteries of the Grand Hotel," which was produced as a series of two-reel episode dramas by Kalem.

George Webb has returned to the film world after a year in vaudeville. He has a role in "A Little Brother of the Rich."

Jack Gilbert is cast in "A Little Brother of the Rich."

Jay Dwiggins, the fat boy of several Douglas Fairbanks comedies, has been loaned to Universal for a fat role in "The Terrible Bandit," which George Holt is producing with Pete Morrison as the star and Magda Lane as the feminine lead.

Hedda Nova has been engaged to play the title role in "The Spitfire of Seville," Joseph Franklin Polland's photoplay. She was born in Odessa, Russia, and educated in Berlin. She scored her first big hit on the American screen in "The Barrier" with Mitchell Lewis, which Selig produced from Rex Beach's novel.

"The Spitfire of Seville" deals with a mountain girl of Old Castile with torrid blood in her veins, who stops at nothing and gives her love where her heart indicates.

Reggie Morris, who formerly directed Keystone and L-Ko comedies, has been engaged to produce one-reel comedies with George Ovey as the star. Ovey formerly headed his own mirth aggregation, releasing under the old Mutual banner.

Lloyd Carleton is filming another six-reeler in which Ruth Clifford is the star. Henry Christeen Warnack has written the story. Edward Coxen, Andrew Robson, Richard Morris and Louise Fortune are included in the supporting cast, and things are humming at the Lloyd Carleton Productions studio at Washington and Main streets.

Jess Williard, champion heavyweight prize fighter, has arrived in Hollywood to make one picture at the Brunton studios.

This thing is getting to be serious.

Flanigan and Edwards, big time vaudevillians, have been signed by Wm. Parsons and Isador Bernstein to appear in "The Hall Room Boys" series of one-reel comedies, which will be produced by the National Film Corporation. This series has been adapted for screen purposes from the cartoons of that name, the rights to which being recently acquired by Mr. Parsons while in New York.

Albert Ray and Elinor Fair have started another picture at the William Fox West Coast studios. It is called "Be a Little Sport" and is being directed by Scott Dunlap. In the cast with Ray and Miss Fair are Lulue Warrenton, George Hernandez, Leota Lorraine and Eugene Pallette. Roy Klaffki is doing the photography.

Lloyd C. Haynes, the Brentwood's president, has again left for New York to attend to the details of starting "Better Times" on the rounds of the country's picture theaters following "The Turn in the Road."

Jack Brammall has been engaged by Lasky to support Lila Lee in her forthcoming production, "Rose of the River," by Kate Douglas Wiggins. Others in the cast are Darrell Foss, Sylvia Ashton, Josephine Crowell and George Fisher.

Burton Law has just finished a six weeks' engagement at the Fox studio, with Director Wm. Dowlan.

William Russell has finished the second week of his current production, a satire by Stephen Fox. His leading woman is Winifred Westover, and the others in the cast are Mary Thurman, Charles K. French, J. Barney Sherry, Harvey Clark and J. Farrell McDonald.

William T. Dagwell, who assists in the direction of Bessie Love at the V studio, reports that they will start Monday on a new story having to do with the Buckeye State. Dave Smith will direct Bessie.

Margarita Fisher has finished the third week of her current subject, a drama by Joseph Franklin Poland. Emory Johnson is again her leading man, and the remainder of the cast consists of George Periolat, E. Alyn Warren, J. Barney Sherry, Mme. Marstini, Beatrice Van and Frank Clark. George L. Cox is the director.

"One-Thing-At-a-Time O'Day' was completed yesterday. Bert Lytell's next is "It's Easy to Make Money," by John H. Blackwood, scenariorized by Finis Fox and directed by Edwin Carewe.

May Allison's next picture is "Free',' George D. Baker's picturization of Will Irwin's story. Miss Allison is a stenographer who heeds the call of the "new freedom"—haircuts, votes and cigarettes.

John Ince will direct Emmy Wehlen's next picture, "A Favor for a Friend."

Walter Hiers has again been engaged by Thos. H. Ince. This time he will support Douglas MacLean and Doris Lee, the new Paramount stars, in "What's Your Husband Doing." Lloyd Ingraham is directing.

The Caldwell Comedy company, recently organized, starts shooting this week on the Horsley lot. Joseph Hazelton is the president, John Huber the assistant, Charles Maguire the technical man and Fred Caldwell is the director of the new company.

The Humanity Film Corporation, under the supervision of Ollie Sellers, is getting some fine exteriors for "When Bear Cat Went Dry" in the mountains near Calistoga.

Kathleen Kerrigan (sister of J. Warren), and Pal Trenton, both of whom appeared with May Allison in the original Broadway production of "Everywoman," will have roles with her in "Free."

Joseph Kilgeur's bosom diamond rivaled the spotlight glare at Victory ship.

CAROL DEMPSTER

By Karl Kremlin

There is an ancient and wonderful tale that has to do with the activities of a grasshopper, an ant and a locust. The locust spent the summer days in singing, the grasshopper got rid of an equal amount of time by dancing, but the ant, being at that time one of the most prosaic specimens of insect life existing, spent his waking hours in gathering up enough barley to take him through the coming winter.

Ever since this incident was recorded, it has been pointed out to children of a tender age, to wild youths and frivolous maidens, that if they wished to waste their heritage, one of the most efficient methods of producing the desired result would be to learn the one-step and the Hawaiian schottische.

So much for the prosecution. Enters now the defense, with a brief for one Carol Dempster, whose entrance into studio life was effected largely because the balls of her toes and the pads of her heels disliked very much to remain on earth during the same moment.

If this were a biographical sketch, it would begin by saying that "early in the twentieth century," but it is not a biographical sketch, and it is none of your business how early in the twentieth century—so, sometime, in Duluth, Minnesota, a friend of the Dempster family telephoned the census-taker that a correction should be made on the record, because there were more than there had been before.

Thus, with this dramatic announcement, Carol entered the waiting world. It might be mentioned here that the Dempster family was at that time seeking to settle down. The father had spent many years of his life at the top of the foredeck of Great Lake schooners. Incidentally he yearned for the feel of dry land and a horizon line that would stay approximately the same level, and some few years later after Carol entered into this mundane vale of sorrow, the entire Dempster family littered up the desk with road maps, a Rand-McNally atlas, a slide rule and descriptive literature sent from some 378 cities of the Pacific Coast, and decided to come to Los Angeles.

Thus it will be seen that Miss Dempster had no power over the fate that landed her in the center of the motion picture industry. Here should be recorded a time lapse of some few years during which various schools, mostly Catholic, have contributed to her literary education. The locale changes to Santa Maria, where an aunt had persuaded Miss Carol's mother to come to visit, and send her daughter to school. Right at this point there should be the planting of some ill omen, a black cat, a mirror broken, shoes hung up in the closet, or something worse. But the Dempster family had long hung to the faith of Methodism, and if anything was taboo with other Methodists, it was at least equally taboo around this fireside. And behold the aunt teaching Miss Carol to do a Grecian dance. It must be conceded by the defense that Carol made no violent protest at the lessons, in fact if we believe her own statement she rather liked the idea, and when the school entertainment was given and loud and enthusiastic applause greeted the dancer, it

From Ham Beall

Universal City is teeming with cinematic activity these days with more than a dozen companies shooting daily, and several other directors preparing stories for their stars for immediate production.

The cast for Harry Carey's picture, "A Man of Peace," by Frederick J. Jackson, has been completed with Peggy Pearce, former Triangle player, as Carey's feminine lead. The supporting cast included Joe Harris, Duke Lee, Jack Walters, Vesta Pegg, William Cartwright, Howard Enstedt and little Zoe Rae. Jack Ford is directing from the screen script prepared by George Hively and H. Tipton Steck, Universal staff authors.

Allen J. Holubar's "The Right to Happiness," starring Dorothy Phillips, will be completed within a fortnight, according to Director Holubar, who is using a very large cast in the production and several hundred players for atmosphere. William Stowell and Robert Andersen have the principal supporting roles.

"The Weaker Vessel," in which Mary MacLaren is starring, will present her in an unusual role. It has been nearly completed by Director Paul Powell, who collaborated on the story with Elmer Ellsworth. Thurston Hall is seen as Miss MacLaren's leading man.

The fashionable Midwick Country Club, where the millionaires of Pasadena and Los Angeles meet at tennis, polo and golf, has been the locale for many of the principal scenes of "A Little Brother of the Rich," now being produced by Lynn F. Reynolds from Joseph Medill Patterson's novel with Kathryn Adams, Frank Mayo, Barney Sherry and Lillian Leslie in the featured parts.

"Devils Have Their Friends" is the tentative title of the new Monroe Salisbury play which Rupert Julian is soon to direct. It was written specially for Salisbury by Elliott J. Clawson, author of "The Kaiser, the Beast of Berlin." The story is set on the border of Alaska. The cast has not yet been chosen.

"The Spitfire of Seville," a story of a Spanish she-devil by Joseph Franklin Polland, is being put into a screen script by the Universal scenario department preparatory to having it filmed under the direction of George Seigmann. It will be staged with an all-star cast.

Eric Von Stroheim, who is producing "The Pinnacle," a melodrama of the snow-clad Alps, has his company of players still in the San Jacinto mountains. Francelia Billington, Sam De Grasse and the author-director have the principal roles in the production.

Eddie Polo has just finished the two-reel western melodrama, "Cyclone Smith's Pardner," under Jacques Jaccard's directoi n with Beatrice Burnham as his leading woman.

Pete Morrison is now filming "The Terrible Bandit," a western comedy-drama in two acts, having just completed "Hate Everlastin'" with Magda Lane as his feminine lead.

SNAPPY SERVICE

Douglas Fairbanks tells this one regarding Edgar Selwyn, the noted playwright, and the latter's feelings on bidding goodbye to his famous wife, Margaret Mayo, who, you remember, went to France with the Overseas Players to entertain the soldiers in the trenches.

"How did you feel being separated from your wife after your long, happy eighteen married years?"

"Like Nathan Hale," answered Selwyn. "Sorry I had only one wife to give to my country!"

NEW YORK OR LOS ANGELES?

Studio conversation for the last few weeks has been full of persistent rumors to the effect that the production center of the Motion Picture Industry is about to shift back to the vicinity of Fort Lee, and other points near New York City.

The account giving most ground for the conclusion is that the Famous Players-Lasky people are now constructing what is said to be their largest studio, on ground recently acquired in Brooklyn, not far from the Bridge.

Further rumors, as yet not substantiated, are to the effect that Griffith, Tourneur and others are to move East in the near future.

Goldwyn people, the last to leave the East and center their production activities on this coast, state that costs are extremely lessened in this locality. Others declare this to be untrue, stating that the cost is almost equal, and that the facility with which not only extra people, but cast talent, are acquired in New York City make it more profitable to produce in the East.

To the minor actor, who has located in Hollywood, in the belief that this was to be the permanent seat of the industry, this problem cannot but present itself in a serious aspect. Many who, up until the advent of the Motion Pictures, were cast in road shows, doing short circuit vaudeville or perhaps following the canvas trail, today are paying installments on homes of their own. These same people probably for the first time in their lives, are functioning as real citizens of a community.

They are becoming familiar with the assessor, the tax collector, and local politics. They are registering and voting, two things which have been totally absent from the life of the average actor in the past.

Generally speaking, the class to which this last statement most generally applies, does not comprise the major members of the casts. Character actors,, leads and stars have been doing a great deal of commuting between the two oceans. Their railroad fare, in most cases, is paid by the Company requisitioning their services. The only difficulty to the actor has been the inconvenience of spending four or five days out of every few months in traveling one way or the other.

Among producers, it must be stated that the expense of studio building will make very little difference. Local figures show that at least 75 per cent of the operating studios are owned by other than Motion Picture capital. Studio rentals in New York are said to be lower today than they have been at any time in the past three years, and it must be remembered that the original reason given for many of the companies moving West was the coal shortage and war regulations governing artificial light and heat in the winter of 1917-18, in New York City.

None of the companies who have recently moved to the West counted on the closing of the war at such an early date, but rather believed that they would have the same trouble during the winter just closed, that they had experienced a year ago.

It is doubtful that even the producers themselves have come to any conclusion regarding what move they will make. Many reasons can be advanced for advocating either side of the case, but the producer who intends to stay in Los Angeles would do well at this time to make some preparatory move with regard to the talent he expects to employ, providing other companies return East to make their pictures.

Casting directors have never had less trouble than they are having today, but with the deletion of 50 per cent of the working studios, it must logically follow that most of the playing talent will join the exodus, leaving the local casting director in the same position he was in a few years ago.

In general, the stock company has been weighed and found wanting, with the exception of studios operating a large number of companies. Hence it would appear that should the New York move be made, there will be few companies left in Los Angeles who will be able to permanently stock the better class of bit and atmosphere players.

The average income of the recognized extra people has now reached the neighborhood of $25 weekly. Living costs make it imperative that this figure should not drop.

There should be some move made, both by the extra people and by the producing companies who expect to remain here, to make a definite decision as to the future. Otherwise, there is liable to be trouble ahead.

This thing is getting to be serious.

TREASURED LOCKS

Ever since Dorothy Gish emerged from "Hearts of the World," with her black wig and the decree of Fate that the star season had opened for brunettes, she has sighed dolefully and longed loudly to scissor off her blonde locks to the length that would insure comfort and dispense with certain troubles connected with hairdressers, mirrors, etc.

But this matter of barbering has been put off from time to time, due to the convictions on the part of Mrs. Gish, Sister Gish and divers friends of the Gish family, that no good could come of such action. Thus endeth the first chapter.

Chapter two opens with the exodus of one Constance Talmadge from the fair climes of the Southland, to invade the Selznick studios of the East. (Record time lapse of two weeks.)

Comes a ring at the doorbell of the Gish residence. Comes a uniformed messenger with the words "Wells Fargo" sewed, stamped or painted on various parts of his anatomy. Comes a package, wrapped, sent and addressed from Tiffany, to "The Little Disturber."

Business of wild hilarity, glee and joyful expectations. Close-up of same scene—opening package—inside wrapper contains box, double strings, box contains more wrapper, wrapper contains more box, box contains another box, plush lined and with the card of Constance Talmadge reposing peacefully on top. Underlined were the hand-written words, "I beat you to it!"

Business of consternation, lifting the lid, and there reposing peacefully within, were the long handsome brown curls that had once adorned the glorious head of "The Mountain Girl," of "Intolerance."

Connie has bobbed them-

Grapholigical Analyses of Famous Players and Others

No. 1. Mary Pickford

A very good-natured and easy-going hand, and the only thing which saves it from being imposed upon is the strong will power, great psychic powers, quick inspirations and ability to FEEL people's thoughts and act accordingly.

Miss Pickford is truly artistic as her very elegant capitals show. They are also emblems of creativeness, or originality, not following any copy-book style but evolved by the writer's individuality. Their height shows ambition, and the high and peculiarly formed i-dots scattered through the writing prove that Miss Pickford is idealistic. But she's a practical idealist, for her y is unlooped. Imagination and humor are both present, sensitiveness, pride, dignity and reticence mark the writing.

No. 2. Marie Walcamp

This is a very shrewd, introspective and self-protective hand, for it slants backward, and oven the word terminals curl to the left, showing thoughts frequently recurring to self or self-comunion about things which the writer has observed. That Marie Walcamp is observant one can readily see, for letter tops are pointed.

The hand is rounded, betraying good nature, but Miss Walcamp is a true psychic, very sensitive, living up to her hunches, having brilliant inspirations and flights of fancy, as her beautifully formed, long t-bar betrays. She's just a bit obstinate, for here and there one finds the d or t descending below the line, so Miss Walcamp will cling to her convictions and hunches, because experience has proven to her that they are usually reliable. She does best by taking her own advice, for backward writers, especially when intuitive, are reticent regarding personal matters, have very few true intimates, are discriminating in forming close friendships, and are deliberate in action, although their thoughts often move with lightning-like rapidity. This hand is unselfish, kind, but not very demonstrative because pride and thoughtfulness rule it strongly.

No. 3. Brinsley Shaw

This is the optimistic hand—sloping up strongly at the right. The underlined signature betrays love of approbation and applause, as well as the courage of Mr. Shaw's convictions. He is intensely original and creative, making an odd and beautiful capital S in the signature, one with dash, sparkle, courage, strength, energy and initiative.

The hand is deductive and analytical, very critical and observant, and the writer prefers quality to quantity, is a good judge of values, gets the full dollar's worth out of even money expended on pleasure. it's a talented hand, having histrionic base-lines, the letters touching an imaginary line at varying angles. He is talkative but uncommunicative about important matters, and would make a fine lawyer quite as well as a clever actor.

No. 4. John E. Bowers

This hand betrays caution, for the t-bars are stroked decidedly to the left of the letter, and as the hand is active, this could not mean procrastination, as it would indicate in a slow-moving writing. The writer tells little of his own business although cordial, loving, sympathetic and unselfish.

His one upper stroke of y being higher than the other, he has a good sense of comedy, mimicry, humor. The signature is very analytical and deductive, betrays a fondness for argument but dislike of quarrels. Mr. Bowers connects cause and effect instantly, and this is enough to make him cautious about entering new projects. He, too, would make a splendid lawyer. The writing shows mechanical ability, it's clear-cut, inventive, aspirational, and betrays the inquiring turn of mind.

No. 5. Grace Hough Price—Universal Publicity Office

A very impulsive hand, but it is protected by caution, for again one finds the left-handed t-bars. The very small o denotes love of a hobby, and the closed o, a and d show ability to mind her own business as well as to protect her own interests by not divulging secrets freely.

Mrs. Price is a very quick, industrious and energetic worker. She is routined, neat, orderly, punctual. She has a bump of suspicion and wants facts to back up arguments. She is unselfish, very sympathetic, as her long terminal strokes teach us, is critical, observant, deductive, would always be a good judge of character. and is apt to dissect people, conditions, stories, in fact anything that appeals to her studious, inquiring mind. She takes great pride in her work, and is versatile and adaptable. This is a thoroughly reliable business hand, and the writer has many vocations open to her, would make a good bank-clerk, accountant, cashier, trained nurse, teacher or writer for publication.

No. 6. Rose Neary

This is a very ambitious, proud and forceful bit of writing. Miss Neary is super-conscientious and super-sensitive, would feel neglects or slights keenly, and yet hide her feelings because she hates to wear her heart on her sleeve. The back-curling terminals and looped d show self-consciousness and the sensitive soul.

This hand has strong mental and physical vitality, is virile, energetic, industrious, quick to perceive. Miss Neary is talkative, for she writes the little initial hook at beginning of words, but her closed letters give her secretiveness, corroborated by back-curling terminals, showing shrewdness, caution. As the writing is sympathetic, impulsive, inspirational, this blending of caution gives fine mental balance. She's intuitive also, separating her letters frequently. She's had good moral and ethical training, for the d and t are tall, denoting such traits, and looking for all the world like church-spires, pointing onward and upward to better achievements.

No. 6. Norbert Lusk—Publicity for Goldwyn

This is a strongly individualistic hand, secretive, deductive, analytical, the hand of a character dissecter, of a critic, a thinker. Mr. Lusk is both intuitive and deductive, giving him fine mental balance. He is positive. for the capital N is firm, has a virile downstroke. He is argumentative and doesn't easily yield his opinions, yet he is so secretive that he may often be quite reticent and reserve such opinions for himself. He should follow his hunches, for he's quite psychic, as you'll see in his separated letters, the connected words betraying reason and connection of cause and effect. He is practical, but a lover of beauty, wants everything to be elegant, is fussy about little things, has had a quick temper, but overcame it by reason and self-control, so that the hand is outwardly deliberate, no matter how the writer might see the inwardly.

No. 7. Viola Dana

This hand with its small writing and general compactness of style suggests concentration, thoughtfulness, ability to acquire any sort of knowledge, although its impulsive style controls it so much that Miss Dana wants

SOCIAL FRICASSEE AND CAPER SAUCE

BY FLORENCE PORTER PARKS

THE HAYAKAWA PARTY

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Sessue Hayakawa at 1904 Argle street was the scene of a most enjoyable supper-dance Thursday night. Several of the talented guests present entertained with interesting music and dance numbers. Brownie Foy gave a fantastic dance, Billy Mason, accompanied by Mrs. Mason sang, and Wallace Reid played a saxophone selection.

Andrew Jackson's jazz orchestra supplied the dance music.

The buffet supper was served from a table which was covered with finest Japanese embroidered linen, with pink sweet peas effectively arranged in a rare cloisonne vase..

The affair was in honor of the fiifth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Hayakawa. Mr. Hayakawa presented his wife with a diamond and sapphire bar pin for an anniversary gift.

Those bidden to the dance, were Dick Wayne. Captain Walter Long, John Towel, Julanne Johnston, Mil-Wyant, Nell Newman, Rex Ingraham, Francis Panaka, William Crossby, Harry Edwards, Jack Payne, Jack abhe, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Reid, Mr. and Mrs. William Desmond, Mr. and Mrs. William Parsons, Mr. and Mrs. William Worthington, Jack Kerrigan, Kathleen Kerrigan, Lois ilson, Viola Dana, Antonio Moreno, Mr. and Mrs. James Young, Jack Conway, Frank Boizage, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Mason, Brownie Foy, Frances Guihan, George Fisher, Rea Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Pallett, Peggy Hagar, Captain Hawkins, Miss Whitemore, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Macdonald, Al Christy, Mr. and Mrs. George Melford, Sylvia Ashton and others.

AT CROSSLAND'S RANCH

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Crossland entertained a few friends last Sunday at their ranch near Venice. The festivities commemorated Mr. Crossland's birthday. A sumptuous rabbit dinner was served at six o'clock, which finished with a birthday cake of enormous size, covered with pink candles. The place cards painted by Mrs. Crossland were done in clever floral designs. The Crosslands are raising wild ducks, pheasants, turkeys, rabbits, and pigs. Speaking of pigs, they have two that have been named for two of their very good friends, Dorothy Dalton and Bill Ely. It's really quite a compliment, for the pigs are blue ribbon animals. and their price is figured in four figures, each.

Those who enjoyed the hospitality of the Crosslands were Nora Ely, Bill Ely, Herma Codova, Albert Cody, Aron Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. John Lynch, Dal Claussen and Mr. and Mrs. Adamson.

MISS LORRAINE IS HOSTESS

Lovely indeed was the informal dancing party given by Leota Lorraine at her home in Bronson avenue recently. Pink sweet peas were used in beautifying the home. Brown's Jazz Orchestra played for the dance. Harry McCoy and Ray Griffith gave several original sketches.

The picture people included in the guest list were Gloria Swanson, Beatrice La Pont, Harry McCoy, Ray Griffith, Bennie Rothwell, Joe Roach, Sylvia Joslan, Silo McCullough. Watkin Rudolph, Al Christl, Harry Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. Christy Cabanne, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Beaumont, Mr. and Mrs. Drew MacLaughlin and Captain Lakerman, from Kansas City, who was Miss Lorraine's honor guest. There were about twenty-five guests present and a late supper was served.

IN MELROSE AVENUE

Gladys Rhodes invited Myrtle Smith, Morey Freeman and Walter Wohrley to have dinner at her cosy flat in Melrose avenue, Friday evening and then gave them a theatre party later in the evening.

ROBINS-MacVICAR

Clarice Robins will become the wife of Lieutenant James S. MacVicar, on Saturday, May the seventeenth, at Chicago. Miss Robins came from New York about three years ago to become assistant to the publicity man at Universal. Later she was secretary to the general manager of the Chaplin Studio, and for the past year she has been William A. Parsons' secretary at the National Studio.

Lieutenant MacVicar has been stationed in South Carolina. He has recently been honorably discharged from the service.

They will make their home at Fennville, Michigan, on a farm where they intend raising rabbits.

Miss Robins will leave for Chicago the fourteenth.

DUG OUT NEWS

Saturday night the Dug Out at 1848 Morgan Place held its weekly dance, which as usual was well attended. The dances, while informal, are now invitation affairs on account of the large crowds. Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Mason, Edith Roberts, Neal Burns, Ethel Lynn and other picture people are taking an active interest in the Dug Out parties. Sunday evening Al Jennings gave about a three-quarters of an hour talk which was interesting in the extreme. Every Sunday evening some person of interest to the public is invited to talk.

Marie Louise Larkin, mascot of the 160th Artillery, and Helen Booth, daughter of Major Booth of the 160th, danced a quaint little minuet in costume. Both children are under seven.

HOUSE GUESTS

Ruth Roland, who is now entirely settled in her Wilshire home. has been busy of late making it pleasant for two house guests. Ruth Stawn of San Francisco after a week with Miss Roland left for her home in San Francisco Wednesday. Jean Darnell who came out from New York last week to handle some special publicity at the Ince Studio will remain with Miss Roland for some time. Miss Roland motored through Southern California with her guests, showing them all the principal points of interest and last Tuesday evening a dinner for eight was given at the Roland home.

MOTION PICTURE UNION

Mr. H. Alfred Hewsten, known as "Tex", entertained a large crowd at the dance given in the Auditorium of the Labor Temple last Saturday with a monologue. "Tex" is a member of the Motion Picture Players' Union.

Mr. James Welch, another member of the Union, told some very funny stories.

The Amusement Committee of the Motion Picture Players' Union annouce May 31st as the date of the coming Informal Ball, to be held in the Auditorium, Labor Temple, Maple, between 5th and 6th. Dancing. Specialties by the members.

ONE O'CLOCK LUNCHEON

Complimentary to her house guest, Mrs. Chapman, of Chicago, Mrs. Frank Hansford Johnston, gave an attractive luncheon at her home in South Hoover street recently. A centerpiece of spring flowers graced the table, which was laid with a wonderful old silver service, an heirloom of the Johnston family. The guests were Mrs. Chapman, Mrs. Edward Murphy, Mary Lee Wise and Mrs. Moore.

THE SCREEN CLUB

May tenth, at seven o'clock sharp, the Scream Club will serve supper at Harlow's Dome Cafe in Venice. The Scream Club is an old organization of publicity men and newspaper people.

DANCE AT CLUB HOUSE

Mrs. George Ralphs of 7269 Hollywood boulevard gave an informal dancing party to four hundred guests at the Hollywood Woman's Club House Saturday night. The party was in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Albert George Ralphs. Mr. Ralphs just recently returned from France. The Rose jazz band furnished the music. Refreshments were served at small tables under an arbor constructed of flowers and greenery. The picture people present were Lila Lee Clyde Fillmore and Madlaine Traverse.

DINNER PARTY

A pleasant little dinner party was given at the home of Mrs. Jeanette Donovan, 419 South Loraine street, recently by Clark Irvine who is stopping with the Donovans.

Those present were Mrs. C. B. Irvine, Mrs. Jeanette Donovan, Jack Donovan, Myra Irvine, Dick Willis, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Badger and Clark Irvine.

Dick Willis gave several of his original recitations and Myra Irvine, who is a very good musician, played.

TEA AT MISS CONSIDINE'S

Mildred Considine was hostess at an informal afternoon tea, at the Kingsley Apartments Friday. The honor guest was Mrs. E. C. Booker, a Canadian newspaper woman, who is at present collecting information regarding "The Extra Girl," for an Ontario paper. Another interesting guest of Miss Considine's was Margaret Ettinger of the New York Telegraph. Lucille Carlisle, leading woman for Larry Semon. Ramona Sharp and others were present.

C. C. HALL ELECTED

At a meeting of the Actors' Association of Los Angeles, held on Thursday evening, April 21, Mr. C. C. Hall was unanimously and enthusiastically elected an honorary member of the Association.

The actor has no better friend in Hollywood than Mr. Hall, as evidenced by his many kindnesses and courtesies to the people in the profession.

MRS. RITCHIE ENTERTAINS

Mrs. Billy Ritchie was hostess at a charming luncheon at the Victor Hugo one day last week. Her table was specially decorated in yellow and white blossoms. The guests were Mesdames Alfred Reeves, Wyn Ritchie, Ben Lilcoppand Ada White. Mrs. Ritchie took her guests to the Morosco matinee later where they saw "Daddy Long Legs."

LEE MORAN GIVES DINNER

Tuesday was Mrs. Lee Moran's birthday and she was made the honoree of a dinner party at Levy's at which her husband was host. Those invited were Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Voshen, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Mattock and Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Lyons. A loge party at Venice followed the dinner at Levy's.

A MOTOR TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cunningham are enjoying a motor trip to San Francisco. They left last week, stopping a few days in San Luis Obispo with Mr. Cunningham's brother. The scenario writer's vacation lasts two weeks longer and at the expiration of that time, Mr. Cunningham will return to his desk at the offices of the Frank Keenan Company.

INFORMAL DINNER

Sunday evening Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Mortimer were the honor guests at a dinner given by Mary Lee Wise at the Wellington. There were eight guests present. The table was beautifully decorated with yellow asters.

DINNER AT VIRGINIA

Kathleen Clifford entertained with a seven o'clock dinner Saturday last, at Hotel Virginia. Long Beach, complimenting Bebe Daniels. Those invited were Harold Lloyd, Baby Marie Osborn, Mr. and Mrs. Osborn, Mr. Grey and others. After dinner the party attended the Benefit at the Long Beach Auditorium, for Devastated France.

SOME PARTY

A loquat party was given by Edwin Carewe upon his return from his fishing trip. David Thompson, Luther Reed and Rudolph Bergquist were among those who enjoyed the luscious fruits. A pleasant time was had and the seeds were thrown into the Metro yard.

IN THE DESERT

Bill Farnum gave a dinner last Wednesday at the Palm Springs hotel in the desert, where his company is on location. Members of his cast were present, also some press people from Los Angeles, among whom were Grace Kingsley, Guy Price, William Statter, Florence Lawrence and Al Cohn.

EASTER DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chaplin entertained Blanche Sweet, Lillian Gish and Mrs. Chaplin's mother. Mrs. A. F. Harris, at dinner Easter Sunday. The lovely new home of the Chaplins in the hills is the scene of many quiet, exclusive little dinners, and Mrs. Chaplin is a charming hostess.

A LIVELY EVENING

Kathleen Clifford had as her dinner guests Wednesday night at the Bull Pen Inn in Seventh street, Bebe Daniels. Harold Lloyd and Mr. John Wilde of Chicago. The bill at the Orpheum followed dinner, and after the theatre the party danced at the Alexandria.

FOR HER MOTHER

Kathryn Adams did much toward making pleasant her mother's birthday by inviting in a few friends for a surprise dinner last Monday. Covers were laid for fifteen of her mother's friends, and after dinner an evening of music was enjoyed. Miss Adams was assisted by Miss Allen.

DINNER AND BRIDGE

At the Victor Hugo Friday night Mary Lee Wise entertained Miss M. E. M. Gibsone, Harry Northrupp and Lloyd Whitlock at dinner. After dinner they enjoyed a game of bridge in Mrs. Wise's cheery apartment at the Wellington.

THE LIMIT

Edward Peil and Rollin Sturgeon left Wednesday for Topango Canyon. They returned Friday with the limit. That evening several friends were invited informally to partake of the skill of the two hunters at the home of Mr. Peil.

FOR DESTITUTE BABIES

Caroline Rankin had charge of a program entertainment which was given for the destitute babies of the city, at Symphony Hall one night last week. Mr. Jay Dwiggins, Minna Ferny, Lilly Sylvester and Caroline Rankin also took part.

HAS GONE EAST

Jackie Saunders, who left for New York last Monday in company with her mother, entertained with an informal tea at the Beverly Hills Hotel shortly before her departure.

AT MT. WILSON

Mr. and Mrs. Lorry Seers spent the week-end at Mt. Wilson, roughing it over the Sabbath.

This Thing is Getting to be Serious.

WHERE TO FIND THE PEOPLE YOU KNOW

R. D. MacLean, of the all-star cast of Julius Caesar, with William Faversham, is in "Full of Pep," which is being directed by Harry Franklyn at the Metro.

Miss Mary McIver, late bride of Wm. Desmond, is playing the ingenue lead opposite "Smiling Bill" Parsons in his latest comedy, "Half Way Inn."

Bob Hopkins, better known as "Hoppy" in film and newspaper circles, has been engaged as title director at the National studios. Mr. Hopkins hails from San Francisco where he was prominent in newspaper work for a number of years.

Mr. and Mrs. Carter De Haven has just completed "Their Day of Rest."

Roscoe Karns has been engaged for a role in a new play to be produced by the Oliver Morosco company in Los Angeles. He will desert pictures for only a short time and will be back in Christie Comedies.

Dallas McClish, special technical man with Al E. Christie, was with the first American army in France. He enlisted on the 13th, sailed for France on the 13th, went with a convoy of 13 ships, had 13 officers in his company, started back on the 13th and was discharged on the 26th (twice 13). Each member of the army division in which McClish served has just received from the war department a letter of commendation for the valorous work of the division in the Argonne and Meuse offensives.

Hugo Ballin, Goldwyn's art director, has received a request to design for the new Art Theater, which is to become an institution in Los Angeles. Mr. Ballin, before his association with Goldwyn Pictures, was the winner of the Shore prize of the National Academy of Design, the Hallgarten prize for a figure picture, the Isadore gold medal, the Thomas B. Clark and Shaw awards, and the medal of the Architectural League of New York, for the best design throughout the country of a swimming pool.

Herbert Standing, father of Wyndham Standing and the late Jack Standing, is playing a part in Tom Moore's production being made at the Goldwyn Studios under the direction of Harry Beaumont.

That the stage settings for the coming Geraldine Farrar production at the Goldwyn Studios are to be totally different from any others ever shown on the screen, is the announcement of Art Director Hugo Ballin, who is completing the designs. Fashioned after the Bakst conception they are to be ultra-modern, and will represent a new school of cinema stagecraft.

Lieut. Leslie Stuart, late of the Royal Field Artillery, the son of the composer of "Florodora," who is playing a part in Tom Moore's production at the Goldwyn Studios, has suffered a relapse from his shrapnel wound, received some months ago, and is at present in a local hospital. Lieutenant Stuart only recently joined the Goldwyn forces, coming direct from a British convalescent hospital. His wound was received at Cambrai. The actor may have to undergo a slight operation for the removal of the slug.

Earl Montgomery of the Montgomery and Rock comedy troupe, received news of the death of his father in Juneau, Alaska, last week. The announcement came as a great shock for the elder Montgomery had been in perfect health and death overtook him after but one day of illness. Juneau is Mr. Montgomery's home and the shock of the unexpected news was intensified by the thought that distance made it impossible for the comedian to return home in time to pay his last respects.

Suffering from a nervous breakdown followed by pneumonia, is the unfortunate trouble with Bessie Barriscale, star of BB features, and her husband-director, Howard Hickman. Both are confined to their beds and are under the care of trained nurses and a doctor.

Pick-ups Of The Staff

Henry King made a flying trip to Los Angeles last week on a location hunting trip between scenes in the current picture. He had only three hours in the city, but by driving around for two and a half hours he found what he wanted, grabbed a drink of buttermilk and was off for Santa Barbara.

Vitagraph is to have Antoni Moreno for at least two more years. The new contract was signed this week at the West Coasht studio after the briefest sort of a conference between Albert E. Smith and Mr. Moreno.

Mr. Paul Weidell is playing the character of French priest in "Evangeline," being produced by Raoul Walsh at the Fox Studios.

Thomas Santschi has finished his work with Anita Stewart and is going over to the Katterjohn studios for work in the big film.

Jack Pickford has moved to Ocean Park for the summer. His city home is closed for the warm season.

Miss Lillian B. Leighton has been engaged for a part in the southern picture being produced at Morosco by Director Vignola.

Mrs. William Clifford has been quarantined with her baby daughter, Betty, who has been ill for the past few weeks with scarlet fever, at their Culver City home.

Mr. J. M. McDowell has been cast in the Gladys Brockwell picture now in course of production.

BETTY PETERSON

Betty Peterson, the Dresdon doll of filmdom, has after many months' work in local studios showed her true ability in a Metro production in which Emmy Whelen plays the stellar role.

Frank Borzage, one of the most interesting of our younger screen personalities, was one of Thomas Ince's promising leading men. Later he filled a contract with the American, making a series of westerns featuring Ann Little and himself. Recently he directed Olive Thomas in "Toton," and other features. His most recent accomplishment was the feature "Whom the Gods Would Destroy," which is being distributed by the First National. Young Borzage will most probably direct Fred Stone in two or three features this summer.

Leatrice Joy is at present appearing on the speaking stage at San Diego. She has played Rebecca in "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," which was produced by that most competent manager, John Wray.

Clarine Seymour (Cutie Beautiful), who is featured in "The Girl That Stayed at Home," now running at the Grauman theater, is doing a very clever dance with Osdolfo Di Valentina every night preceding the showing of the picture.

Adda Gleason has completed her engagement at the Morosco theater, and is planning a trip to Chicago, her old home town.

Mary's future home upon retirement is the only guess.

E. Frost, author of "Sylvia on a Spree," "Family Trees," "Such a Little Genius," and other screen productions, arrived in Los Angeles a few weeks ago, and will locate at 1735 Wilcox avenue.

Cora Drew is with Director Edmund Laurence at the Fox Studio.

Jake Abram is doing a comedy bit in the Rex Beach picture at Goldwyn's.

Irene Rich returned from her third trip to Palm Springs with the William Farnum company last Monday. On her previous visits Miss Rich had to work so hard that she did not see much of the quaint little desert town, but this time she reports having two whole days off, which she spent out riding on Mr. Farnum's favorite saddle horse.

C. Edward Raynor has been appearing personally at each showing of "The Shepherd of the Hills," in a sketch written around the characterization of "Pete," the part he played in the production.

Mary Pickford paid a little over $10,000 for a beautiful lot at Santa Monica. It overlooks the ocean, and is snuggled at the foot of the mountains, just at the top of the canyon.

Although Charles Ray returned from San Francisco several weeks ago, his luggage will be coming south for some time, for he managed to mix considerable pleasure with picture making. Ray bought a lot of rare curios from the orient, a quantity of odd and unique furniture for his home in Beverly Hills.

Wallace MacDonald is now busy on his second picture for Vitagraph as leading man for Bessie Love.

is admitted that she went home not entirely dissatisfied with the evening's success.

Up until this time she had not decided whether to become a painter, a newspaper reporter or a dressmaker. But late that evening after mamma and auntie had talked the thing over it was decided that her future lay within the borders of the Art Terpsichore.

Some people are born with a natural grace, some people are said to have acquired it, but never in our young life have we ever heard of any of them having it thrust upon them. When Ruth St. Denis greeted her new pupil she probably did it with the same misgiving with which she welcomed other pupils, but the misgivings lasted only to the beginning of the first lesson. Carol Dempster probably holds an unequalled record in the Denishawn School. She was not taught how to dance, but rather what to dance.

Three months after her initial lesson she began to be known as the Denishawn Baby, and in three months more she had been contracted by Miss St. Denis to appear as the solo dancer on the then proposed cross-country tour. And still no thought of moving pictures. Probably some people will remember that a man named Griffith once produced a picture named "Intolerance." If you look closely you will be able to see Carol Dempster dancing the street dance through a scene that must have lasted through at least six or seven feet. This happened because the aforementioned man named Griffith went out to the Denishawn lawn and brought the whole blamed school back with him. It was the first time that the young solo dancer had ever appeared before the Camera except in snapshots, and it might be added that the ten thousand people all remember Griffith but it is quite possible that Griffith on the other hand did not remember quite all of the ten thousand people, but one of them he did remember, and it so happened that after Carol Dempster, solo dancer for Miss Ruth St. Denis, returned to Los Angeles after her tour with the famous dancer that she came one day to the Griffith Studio, was given an interview, was remembered and was back the next day, playing a "bit" in "The Romance of Happy Valley."

A few weeks later she was playing a part with Dorothy Gish in "The Hope Chest," a few weeks later she was playing the lead under the direction of D. W. Griffith, in the picture that has just finished a two weeks' stay at Grauman's, called "The Girl Who Stayed at Home."

Just now she is playing another lead in a picture as yet unnamed.

Possessed of a certain sincerity of face, a grace in motion and a willingness to learn, this young lady has climbed the ladder in record time. It is scarcely six months since she made her first real appearance in motion pictures, and in two more months she will have been accredited with at least two leading parts.

Thus it becomes logical for the defense to offer that it is all right to be a grasshopper, if you know how to hop.

CHIT, CHAT AND CHATTER

By Harry Burns

Eddie Polo is getting ready to shake the dust from his "Bought in Los Angeles shoes" and take a train for the east which will finally land him at a European wharf, where he will make pictures for the Universal. Polo sent his wife and daughter to the metropolis where he will meet them, being accompanied by his leading lady, Peggy Arrup, who will make the trip abroad with him.

Chester Conklin, who has been with Mack Sennett for years, has changed his post office address to the William Fox western studio and will hereafter disport his acting wares for that company. This is one of the big surprises of the cinema Rialto, for it was predicted that Chester never would leave the Sennett fold.

Alf Goulding, after producing three pictures on his own account for the open market, has decided that he had rather leave such worries to some other individual, so signed to make pictures for the L. K. O., directing two-reel comedies.

Craig Hutchinson has started his own company at Universal, where he has Harry Gribbon, Dave Morris and others of equal reputation in the cast while William McGann is his cameraman. He is directing the comedies.

Fred Fishbach has just finished his initial picture at the L. K. O. studio in which Jimmie Adams, Edith Roberts, Bud Jamison and Charles Doherty play the stellar roles.

Jack Richardson, who is a regular he-vamp and everything, is trying his best efforts on Texas Guinan for the Frohman Amusement company. Some one tipped me off to the fact that Jack is soon to have his own company.

Peggy Arrup just finished a two-reel picture with Eddie Polo at the Big U. She is booked to go to Europe and is having a complete wardrobe made.

Irving Cummings seems to be stepping along fast and furious these days, riding in a limousine that looks like a million dollars' worth of pleasure, with a chauffeur and everything. Gee!

Juanita Hanson bought a cutey roadster. It is the classiest looking piece of machinery that ever any one wanted to set their optics on.

Beatrice Burnham is the latest acquisition to the Universal beauty row.

Kittie Howe, or as you might call him J. A., was a Universal visitor the other day. Maybe he will soon produce comedies for that corporation or maybe not.

Mack Sennett has bought a chicken farm. No, kind readers, I am not referring to the kind that sometimes cost a lot of money, but the feathered specie that sell in our home town markets for so much per pound, and it is giving the fun-film producer a lot of pleasure and pastime in between worrying over his chickens that he has appearing in his comedies.

Fontine La Rue has cast her lot once more with the Universal, where she is to be featured in two-reel animal comedies that will be directed by W. S. Campbell. Bob McKenzie is cast for heavy. Larry McGrath plays the sky pilot, and including the Universal Zoo, that has as its star performers Joe Martin and Charley the elephant.

Hank Mann has complete his first comedy and is rambling along on the second. Vincent Bryant is his right hand bower and director, and things are going at top speed at the Horsley studio. Madge Kirby is Hank's leading lady.

Reggie Morris is directing George Ovey at the Big U.

William Duncan doesn't let any grass grow under his feet. He no more than finished the last episode in "The Man of Might" serial, than he cast his new picture, and Cameraman Steve Smith is once more behind the camera.

Dick Cummins and his wife celebrated their twenty-fifth anniversary the other day, and there was plenty of silver gifts in order, for Richard is an old-timer both on the legitimate stage and the cinema field, and he has a small colony of well wishers who were on hand to help him show his friend wife that he hasn't forgotten the meaning of the day.

Albert Hale is back among us, looking spick and span. What has he in store for us, now that he is in our midst?

Marshall Lorrimer, the fellow who writes clever things about everybody worth while, has published a book of rhymes captioned "Rhymes With and Without Reason."

Bob Roberts is working with Jack Jack Pickford at the Brunton studio.

Roscoe Karns is going to work one picture with Bobby Vernon before he turns his attention to the part he is to portray at the Morosco theater in "The Eyes of Youth."

Bobby Vernon received a letter from Japan the other day, and it was written in the Nipponese language, and if any one happens to see him about the Japanese quarters don't figure anything but that Robert is looking for an interpreter.

Victor Heerman just started a new story at Fox's. Hampton Del Ruth is head of the comedy producing department.

HARRY BURNS

H. C. Raymaker is directing Mack Swain at the Boyle Heights studio, with Walter Fredericks co-directing. They finished the second story and are ready to go right after another.

William Eley, who handles the casting job at Brunton's, slipped away and got married and Ed Yeager fell into Bill's job so that friend William could enjoy the matrimonial bliss and happiness that goes with such a change in life. Mr. Eley, accept my best wishes. May you be as happy as you are today, and may your charming wife appreciate you as do your many friends in the profession.

Rose Mullaney gave the villagers a treat. She took a train for San Diego Saturday and is returning to her job Monday enlightened by some of the sights of our southern city and its environments and everything. Hence we have an opportunity to speak to Rose about something more interesting than just the weather and our beautiful city.

Hazel Deane has been resting for the past three weeks and is now ready to get back to work. She was for a long time one of the charmers in the Sunshine Comedies, and is also a clever dancer, swimmer and all-around girl.

Jess Willard, world's champion heavyweight, is said to have busted into the movies at the Brunton studio. We never will forget when Jess first landed here and begged for a fight before Uncle Tom McCarey's club. He didn't have over the suit he had on his back and not even a five-dollar bill to change. Today he has a wardrobe that would do credit to a movie star, and as to his bankroll, he isn't worrying about tomorrow or a thousand such days. So the life of a prize fighter isn't so bad after all.

Lyons and Moran, Mary MacLaren, Monroe Salisbury and any number of other stars and near greats are booked to leave Saturday night for tht north where they are to make personal appearance at a ball and dinner affair by some Oaklanders who exhibit the Big U pictures.

Al Christie has been looking sets and locations over out at Universal, being accompanied by his right hand bower, Harry Edwards and Jimmy Clements. No doubt they are figuring out how they can utilize some of the streets, nooks and corners for some of the forthcoming releases of the Christie stars who answer to the cognomens of Fay Tincher, Bobby Vernon, Jay Belasco, Harry Depp, Elanoir Fields, Ethel Lynn and others.

Jack Jaccard and Jack Ford with their respective stars and auxiliary artists, left for Arizona Sunday evening where they will film scenes. Henry Murray went ahead like a real advance man of a troupe.

Al Santell has toned down his wearing regalia. He no longer sports that green shirt and collar. He has decided that the black and white stripes, not the prison kind, look neat enough. Here's hoping that Al leaves well enough alone.

Ruth King is back among us once more and is ready to go back to work.

Ed Kennedy is still with Mack Sennett, where he is doing everything from a heavy to a juvenile.

Miriam Cooper is being directed by R. A. Walsh in "Evangeline." James Marcus is Director Walsh's right hand man and representative in the handling of the production.

Henry Lehrman is scheduled to start work at the Astra studio out at Glendale while waiting for his plant to be completed at Culver City.

Walter Wright has just finished cutting his story that he made with Ora Carew, and will soon start another picture which will be sold on the open market. Director Wright is being backed by a Pasadena millionaire in a financial, so he can put over his subjects.

Hugh McClung is going to start a two-reel comedy company at Balboa where he will produce his initial subject that will feature Jean Calhoun who has been leading lady for Frank Keenan for two pictures. Roy Meeker is to be McClung's assistant in the direction of the production.

Jack Duffy is working at the Goldwyn studio where re is doing Jockey Morley Jimett and will ride in the race scenes which will bring out close to 500 people Monday at Exposition Park.

Buddy Wales has returned to the Universal where he is turning the crank for Reggie Morris who is directing George Ovey. Mr. Wales was to have left for Alaska this month but changed his plans, owing to conditions for getting accommodations for such a trip. He hopes to go over to the zero country next year.

Bert Grasby and his wife, Gerard Grasby, are with Emmy Whalen in "Family Trees."

Gordon Marr has a part in "Family Trees," described by Finis Fox as "the shadow of the poison ivy vine that feeds upon the family trees of the wealthy."

Elizabeth Rhodes is in the "Shepherd of the Hills" cast that is to be run next week at Quinn's Rialto.

George Gebhardt, well known in the motion picture world, died Friday afternoon.

A. S. Le Vino had a birthday Tuesday and Harry L. Franklin sent him three magnificent, full grown peacocks with his compliments. "Oh, they'll be beautiful yhen I get them tamed, but just now the turkeys are roosting on the barn, the chickens won't leave their coop, the dog stays under the house and the cat up the tree."

Ed Shulter and M. P. Staulcup have moved into their new offices on the Metro stage, up twenty-eight steps. They are thinking of installing a fireman's pole to save time going down at least.

Austin Carewe has been engaged for "Free."

George D. Baker insisted on directing each "movie" at the Victory Ship Wednesday night.

Finis Fox and Bert Lytell were star speakers on the deck of the U. S. S. Victory Metro night.

Garda Kova, interpretative dancer and the wife of D. Anthony Tauszky, who does oil paintings for Metro, is at Verdun with the Pershing Players.

In order to be listed in this column, it is necessary that you be sufficiently well known locally that there shall be no doubt as to your ability to play the parts for which you are listed. If you have not appeared in the films recently, it will be necessary to bring proof that you have successfully filled the part under which you wish to be listed.

This precaution is taken as a safeguard for this paper and for the people who are capable. Further, this precaution has been suggested to us by casting directors, as the column was inaugurated chiefly for their information.

Abbreviations: Characters (ch.); Heavies (hv.); Juveniles (juv.); Foreign (for.); Ingenues (ing.).

Changes in this column must be reported to the office of CAMERA! not later than Friday of each week.

Charge for listing, including change each week, is $1.00 for two months.

Jack Doyle wishes to announce that he will run his Tuesday and Friday evening boxing shows upon schedule as he has every week and that Vernon is not closed to the movies, and that he has done about forty years business in the past two years and that he is honestly worrying a bout where he will have his next meal. for he has so many friends inviting him that he doesn't know just which one to accept first.

So, he hopes that this announcement will meet with the approval of his friends and followers so that there will be no misunderstanding as to when his shows will be staged, or where he is due to sit down to his next eatfest. I THANK YOU—THAT'S ABOUT ENOUGH OF THAT.

A consistent series of vicissitudes has been the basis of my forlorn financial condition. I now am concentrated on the task of renewing the boon of a weekly remuneration by investigating conditions which may have the edifying and blissful result of employment at a satisfactory stipend. At least, I trust such a denouement will be the fruit of my persistent and respectfully earnest applications. As there are no kale seeds coming into the shack, the wiff treats me like a stepchild and muchly menaces me with the spud cruncher.

to do things in a hurry. It is lively, vivacious, very humorous, has the histrionic base-lines, and mimicry strongly developed. She thinks fast, her head saves her feet.

When a letter-stroke curves twice or thrice, one may surely look for either love of music or actual talent along such lines. Miss Dana gives this swirling curve to most of her looped letters, so that she surely has fondness for melody. as well as talent for dancing or rhythmical motion; she is ambitious, unselfish, good-natured, will do what pleases the majority, so long as it does not interfere with her sense of morality and justice. She's inspirational and will do her best work on her own initiative, is talkative, but can keep a secret, is fond of society, a good mixer, but could always amuse herself alone because she's inventive and has a mighty fine thin-tank.

Where to Sell Your Scenarios

This feature is for the guidance of scenario writers who have something to sell, but who do not know just where to take it. CAMERA! keeps this column for announcements by the various studios. Some of the matter stands from week to week as a reference guide. It will be noted that many of the studios do not wish scenarios submitted by any one; some want synopses only; others wisn the continuity written.

As the difficulties of the past years in regard to the submissions of scenarios no longer exist, it is safe for any one with a good idea to send scenarios to any company mentioned in this column. While this paper is not responsible for the use or misuse of scenarios by the companies listed, it believes that any scenario sent to any of the companies will receive honest and prompt treatment. Any action to the contrary will receive full publicity if reported to this office.

MABEL CONDON EXCHANGE, 6035-37 HOLLYWOOD BLVD. Buying only books, plays and magazine stories, except the work of a few authors on contract.

MOROSCO FILM COMPANY, 201 N. OCCIDENTAL. See Laskey Market.

CHRISTIE COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. In the market for one and two reel comedies. Breezy, snappy incidents must be present in a marked degree. The Christie Comedies feature Bobby Vernon, Earl Rodney, Dorothy De Vore, Jay Belasco, Ethel Lynn, Fay Tincher and Patricia Palmer. Please sumbit by mail.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA PRODUCING COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. Scott Sydney, the producer, wants one reel stories suitable for Elinor Field.

WILLIS AND INGLIS, WRIGHT & CALLENDER BLDG. Neither purchasing nor accepting on consignment any original scenarios. Handling only photoplay rights to books, plays and short stories.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS COMPANY, SUNSET AND ARGYLE. Prefers considering the original work of screen authors, having always been keen to develop those writers who showed ability.

NATIONAL FILM COMPANY, 6107 SANTA MONICA BLVD. In demand for 5-reel comedy-dramas featuring "Billie" Rhodes. Also 2-reel comedies for "Smiling Bill" Parsons, and 5-reel heavy dramas for Henry Walthall, and 2-reel comedies for the de Havens, with domestic situations.

VITAGRAPH COMPANY, 1708 TALMADGE ST. The company buys no scenarios in the West, the same being taken care of by the Eastern Vitagraph Company at East Fifteenth and Locust avenue, New York.

THE DOROTHY GISH COMPANY, SUNSET STUDIO, 4520 SUNSET BLVD. Is in the market for five and six reel comedy-dramas, featuring Miss Gish.

DAVID WARK GRIFFITH occasionally buys synopses suited to Mr. Griffith's people and style. Stories should be submitted to M. M. Stearns, 4500 Sunset Blvd.

FOX STUDIO, SUNSET AND WESTERN. The company has its own staff writers, but will consider comedy-dramas and straight dramas with a strong love element. Also Western comedy-dramas for Tom Mix. Nothing less than 5 reels.

METRO, 1025 LILLIAN WAY. Maxwell Karger is manager of productions and June Mathis is head of the scenario department. Outside material is also considered. Good live American stories with a melodramatic touch for Bert Lytell. Comedy-romances of a lighter nature for May Allison. Snappy melodramas for Hale Hamilton; comedy-romances and comedy-dramas for Viola Dana, and dramas that are typically Nazimova for Nazimova.

WILLIAM HART STUDIO, 1215 BATES ST. Maintains no scenario department, but manuscriptts for Bill Hart will be considered. The stories must not take Mr. Hart out of his characterization, but they must have new ideas, a different twist. Pays upon acceptance.

GOLDWYN PICTURE CORPORATION, CULVER CITY. Will consider ingenue roles having a touch of pathos, for May Marsh; ingenue roles that are rather fantastic for Madge Kennedy; strong emotional dramas for Pauline Frederick; and 5-reel comedy for Tom Moore. Nothing under 5 reels.

THOMAS H. INCE COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Buys no outside material except from well-known writers on contract. Has own staff writers.

TOURNEUR FILM COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Interested only inscripts of large calibre, 6 or 7 reels. No society plays and no comedy.

FATTY ARBUCKLE COMEDIES, 1723 ALLESANDRO ST. Two-reel comedies having the essentials of a good opening and a good finish, and the gags must be unusually clever.

MUTUAL FILM COMPANY, 72 WEST TWENTY-THIRD STREET, New oYrk Will consider feature photoplays with parts suitable for Gail Kane.

BACON-PACKER FILM CORPORATION, 230 WEST THIRTY-EIGHTH ST., NEW YORK. Society dramas with women leads are needed.

ANITA STEWART CO., 4634 SANTA MONICA BLVD. In the market for 5-reel society dramas for Anita Stewart.

CHAPLIN STUDIO, 1420 LA BREA. Buys no outside material. Charlie Chaplin writes his own scripts.

PALMER ADVISORY BUREAU, 571-591 I. W. HELLMAN BLDG. We market material for Palmer members and recognized writers only. Have calls for all types of stories including serials.

L-KO FILM COMPANY, SUNSET AND GOWER. Buys comedy ideas. Does not want the continuity written by outside writers.

UNITED PICTURE THEATRES CORPORATION, BRUNTON STUDIOS. Buying only high-class stories having Eastern or Western atmosphere which have sufficient action for 6 reels. Address scenarios to William Lord Wright.

BRUNTON STUDIOS, 5341 MELROSE AVE. Scenarios for the following companies may be addressed to Captain R. B. Kidd, Scenario Editor, or to the individual companies.

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG is in the market for straight drama; 6 reels.

JACK PICKFORD can use stories of the good-natured, small-town boy; 6 reels.

BESSIE BARRISCALE will consider strong emotional roles with the society element; also comedy-dramas; 5 to 7 reels.

FRANK KEENAN'S scenarios must contain strong, virile, masterful character delineation; 6 reels.

MAYFLOWER COMPANY, GEORGE TUCKER, All Star cast, will consider 7-reel super-features dealing with modern society.

SESSUE HAYAKAWA plays Japanese, Chinese and Far Eastern characters. Sympathetic roles and roles having to do with self-sacrifice are preferred to sentimental parts; 6 reels.

EARLE WILLIAMS uses 5 and 6-reel society plays.

STEWART EDWARD WHITE CO. Produces only Mr. White's books.

ZANE GREY FILM CO. Not in market. Films Mr. Grey's novels.

MARY PICKFORD COMPANY. Not in the market at present for outside material.

FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CO., BOYLE AND STEPHENSON AVE. Two and 5-reel dramatic stories of the West for Texas Guinan. One-reel comedies for Mack Swain.

UNITED PICTURES CORPORATION, 1600 BROADWAY, N. Y. In market for strong emotional features with problem theme for Florence Reed—five reels.

JESSE D. HAMPTON CO., 1425 FLEMMING ST. Will consider scenarios suitable for H. B. Warner, W. Desmond and Jack Kerrigan; five reels.

KATHERINE MACDONALD CO., PICO AND GEORGIA STS. Society or emotional dramas of 5 reels for Miss MacDonald. Address scenarios to Ursula March.

BRENTWOOD FILM CO., 4811 FOUNTAIN AVE. In market for modern American stories, with good theme predominating. Must have human interest, with characterization true to life. Five-reel features only.

UNIVERSAL FILM CO., UNIVERSAL CITY. In the market for 1-reel comedies and 2-reel Western. Will consider Western feature stories for Harry Carey; strong emotional drama for Dorothy Phillips and Mary MacLaren; feature character stories for Priscilla Dean; and outdoor character material for Monroe Salisbury.

Challis again comes into life for the new spring dress. The challis dress and hat will hold an important place for spring and summer frocks. There are many designs and colorings, many of the old-fashioned designs being revived. Small floral patterns on a white or light gray background are good.

Dainty white collars and cuffs will be worn with the challis dress, also a white sash. White mull edged with Irish lace is about the most desirable material to use. Irish crochet buttons make a pretty trimming.

Then the novelty voiles and organdies are being pushed for summer wear. The organdies retain their white background and are printed in color. These are pretty trimmed with perky ruffles of the same material. Another pretty effect is obtained by using a sash os a plain color, as blue on a blue check design.

Voiles come in plain colors, with a satin stripe, or plaid, or foulard effects. Irish crochet insertion is pretty with the voile dresses. Also yokes are formed of tucks or lattice eects obtained by tucks.

The plaid and checked ginghams are being supplanted in popularity by the Roman striped gingham this summer.

White gabardines will be the biggest sellers in wash skirts for summer wear, made on simple lines, some being embroidered. Light blue, pink or navy blue wheel designs on a white ground is stunning. These are made with odd pockets which are easy to launder and are trimmed with crochet buttons.

ROAD BULLETIN

Los Angeles to San Francisco via Coast Route. The entire Coast Road is in splendid condition. There is a choice of two routes—one the regular State Highway via Hollywood, Cahuenga Pass and Calabasas, the other via Chatsworth, Santa Susannah and Moorpark. The latter route is receiving the major portion of the travel due to the rough condition of the pavement on the main State Highway between the junction of the Lankershim Road and Calabasas.

Inland Route North. Los Angeles to Saugus via the San Fernando Boulevard, paved. From here a choice of two routes is had to Bailey's Ranch—one via Bouquet Canyon, which is the shortest, and which is used by the majority of travel, and the other via Mint Canyon to Palmdale, thence to Elizabeth Lake. This route is approximately 20 miles longer than the Bouquet Canyon Road.

San Diego Coast Route. This route is splendid throughout.

San Diego Inland Route. Paved Los Angeles to the San Diego County line via Pomona.

Yosemite National Park. Camp Curry in Yosemite will be open for business on May 1st. The Wawona Road is now open to travel.

Lake Tahoe. According to present indications, it is expected that the roads leading into Lake Tahoe—both from Sacramento—and from Bishop north via Mono Lake will be open about May 25th or possibly June 1st.

Huntington Lake. Reached via Fresno, will probably be open about June 1st.

Mt. Wilson Road. Open and in fair condition.

Camp Baldy Road. Open and in good shape—no accommodations or meals at hotel until opening date, May 1st, 1919.

Topanga Canyon. Open and in good condition.

Burbank to Cahuenga Pass via Dark Canyon. Road open and paved.

Griffith and Elysian Parks. Open and in excellent shape.

SUNDAY IN THE HILLS

Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Biby and Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Mills took a sixty-mile drive Sunday and made a day of it in the hills, with their picnic lunch.

"THE SHEPHERD OF THE HILLS"

Wednesday, Harold Bell Wright entertained the members of his cast at dinner, at the Mission Inn, Riverside, where Mr. Wright has been for the past few months writing another book. It is Mr. Wright's intention to picturize his book as soon as it leaves the publisher's hands.

There were twenty-one present at dinner, which was an old-fashioned Southern repast, served on checked table cloths, by waitresses in gingham dresses. Great pitchers of cider were set on the tables, also platters of red apples and home-made candy. The table groaned with roasted chickens, hams broiled whole stuck full of cloves, vegetables, cornbread, pickles and apple pie. After dinner Mr. Wright and his cast appeared in person at the Riverside Theatre where "The Shepherd of the Hills" was being run. The picture is running this week at Quinn's Rialto in the city.

HARRY KEATON

Harry Keaton is flirting with death these balmy days for if he lives through the series of stunts lined up for him in the forthcoming L-KO comedies he'll never look the same.

Here are some of the stunts layed out for him by his friend director: wrestle with an African lion, leap off of a fast moving train from the San Pedro bridge, drop from a balloon with a parachute to aid him, swing down the side of a 100-foot cliff and rescue his sweetheart, dive off of one of coast going steamers into the ocean, make a running jump from one roof top to another both buildings about 10 stories high and if he misses he can fall into the alley below.

All these thrills are not worrying him so much as is where his friends can address his mail when he completes his present picture. Some one was mean enough to suggest the Sisters' Hospital. This thing is getting to be serious.

ASSISTANT DIRECTORS' ASSOCIATION NOTES

By Harry Burns

Allen Watt, president of the organization, is full of pep and ready to get back to work, so we can expect to hear of him being up and at 'em soon.

George Webster informs me that Tom Mix will do a picture replete with western stunts and athletics in general, including a prize fight. Juanita Hansen will in all likelihood be Tom's leading lady.

Scott Beal is going to New York with Louis Chaudet who is to direct Billie Rhoades, while 'tis said Billy Parsons is to make a couple of pictures under Harry Pollard's direction.

C. J. Crone, who assists Lloyd Ingraham, reports that they are about to start work at Ince's at Culver City, the stars being Douglas McLean and Doris Lee.

Fred Croft informs me that Howard Hickman has just recovered from a serious siege of illness, and that Henry Kolkher had to finish the picture, but that he expects Director Hickman to be back at work soon. Mr. Croft is the capable assistant who looks after his end of the work in the making of the Bessie B. stories.

PRODUCTION NOTES AROUND HOLLYWOOD

The Mayflower Photoplay company will begin production some time soon, at the Lois Weber studio. The first feature will be an adaptation from the book of Richard Harding Davis titled "Soldiers of Fortune." It will be an all-star cast and the directors engaged by the company are Emile Chautard, Reginald Barker and George Loan Tucker.

Tom Santschi is back on the Fox lot. He is playing the lead with Madlaine Traverse in a play temporarily called "Until Eternity."

Gladys Brockwell has gone to a location outside of Barstow to make scenes for her William Fox play "Sadie," under the direction of Frank Beal. Among those in the cast who were taken along are William Scott, Richard Rosson, Harry Dunkinson, Irene Aldwyn, Walter Long and Claire McDowell.

Eugene Pallette, who has just returned from the army, has a big role in "Be a Little Sport," the William Fox play that Scott Dunlap is putting on with Albert Ray and Elinor Fair.

Harry L. Franklin is working out novel double exposure effects for Hale Hamilton's new picture, "In His Brother's Place."

May Allison starts work in "Free," the Will Irwin story picturized by George D. Baker, this week. Herbert Blache will direct her.

Bert Lytell starts in "It's Easy to Make Money" under the direction of Edwin Carewe tomorrow.

Emmy Wehlen commences "A Favor For a Friend," directed by John Ince, tomorrow.

Hale Hamilton begins work in "In His Brother's Place," under Harry Franklin's direction tomorrow.

June Mathis received a wire from Maxwell Karger Thursday notifying her that Henry Altimus' story in the May Ainslee's Magazine, "The Microbe," had been purchased for Viola Dana.

Howard Gaye will probably be May Allison's lead in "Free."

Earle Williams, under the direction of James Young, is well along with the production of "The Hornet's Nest," Mrs. Wilson Woodrow's popular novel.

Antonio Moreno and Carol Holloway are working on four episodes of "The Perils of Thunder Mountain." Episodes eight, nine, ten, eleven and twelve are all in course of production.

Madge Kennedy has gone to Bear Valley with a company of twenty-five to begin a production. Clarence G. Badger is her director and once more John Bowers is leading man. Others are Lieut. G. B. Manly, the American ace who distinguished himself overseas, and the two Goldwyn favorites, Kate Lester and Alec B. Francis.

Frederick Caldwell, head of the Caldwell Comedy company, has just announced that the company has made an agreement with the Romayne Super-Film company of this city to produce twenty-six one-reel comedies. The comedies to be produced by the Caldwell company will be of the "rube" style. Director Caldwell has started shooting on his first comedy on the lot of the Motion Picture studio (formerly the David Horsley studio), corner of South Main and Washington streets. All of the pictures are to be sold on the rights basis both in the United States and Canada, by the Romayne Super-Film company of this city, and to their special representatives in France, England, Spain, Norway, Switzerland and in South America as well. Director Caldwell will make two negatives of his pictures. One will be used for home use while the other one will be for the use of the foreign rights. The subtitles in the pictures will be translated into the foreign languages in the Los Angeles offices of the Romayne company, in the Marsh-Strong building, corner of Ninth and South Main streets.

Week Beginning May 11

Enid Bennett has started work at the Thomas H. Ince studio on a story written by C. Gardner Sullivan that deals with real red blooded human people, living in Flatbush New York. The picture is being produced under the direction of Fred Niblo and the supervision of Mr. Ince.

Director Joseph De Grasse, Assistant Director Bert Siebel and Cameraman John Stumar have left the Thomas H. Ince studio for New York City to commence work on a big Apache story in which Dorothy Dalton is to be starred.

C. S. Widom, formerly with Lasky, is in charge of the costuming for Douglas Fairbanks' new picture. The story deals with an imaginary kingdom, and arrangements for some very elaborate costumes have been completed.

Kewpy Komedy Kompany started work Monday at the Horsley studios, at Main and Washington, under the direction of Guy Eakins.

The Horsley Studio is enlarging its stage space, doubling its props and raising its diffusing system twenty-four feet. Business offices for the individual companies are being built.

King Vidor starts shooting on his third Brentwood picture this week. He announces "The Other Half" as the title for his new picture.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Parsons and Isadore Bernstein left for New York on a hurried business trip. They expect to be gone about five weeks. It is rumored that a big deal in the interests of the National Film Corporation is the cause for their very sudden departure.

Henry Walthall has been working overtime this week at the National studios, many night scenes being necessary in filming an enormous street set for his latest feature, "The Parted Curtains," directed by Bertram Bracken. This set, erected by Martin Doner, art director, depicts the typical New York Bowery in the dead of winter, and is one of the most elaborate ever attempted.

Billie Rhodes, who in private life is Mrs. Wm. Parsons, had planned to leave for the east with her company next week to film the first scenes of her next feature picture, "The Blue Bonnet," written by Magnus Ingleton, but owing to the sudden change in plans she will meet them there later.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Mason are leaving for San Francisco the tenth of August, where they will play for two weeks at the Orpheum, before returning to Los Angeles on the circuit. They go east by way of Salt Lake.

Clarence Burton called us up Saturday, to say that while on location on the desert, with William Farnum, he was shot in the face with a blank cartridge. He believes that the wound will leave no scars, and that the publicity will not hurt him. This thing is getting to be serious.

Lule Warrenton is with Fox, supporting Albert Ray under the direction of Scott Dunlap.

Al Henderson is second cameraman with the Earle Williams company.

Marie Benson is working at the Horsley Studio this week.

Frank Currier is in the cast of Bert Lytell's new story, "It's Easy to Make Money."

Interesting Universal Notes

From Ham Beall

The big event of the week has been the starting of production on "The Petal on the Current," a Fannie Hust Cosmopolitan magazine novelette which is to be turned by Director Tod Browning into a Mary MacLaren starring vehicle. She will have as her leading man Robert Andersen, best known for his work in "Hearts of the World" and "The Heart of Humanity."

Allen Holubar is nearing completion of his current super-feature, "The Right to Happiness," with an all-star cast headed by Dorothy Phillips playing a double role, William Stowell, Robert Andersen, Hecter Sarno, Winter Hall, Henry Barrows, Margaret Mann, Stanhope Wheatcroft and Alma Bennett.

Hedda Nova, the distinguished Russian actress, is playing the featured role in a six-reel special production, "The Spitfire of Seville," under the direction of George Seigmann. Thurston Hall plays opposite Mlle. Nova. Others in the cast are Claire Anderson, Marion Skinner, Alfred Allen, Leo Maloney, Robert Gray and Edgar Allen. The story was written by Joseph Franklin Poland, and put into scenario form by Waldemar Young.

Eric Von Stroheim, author, star and director of "The Pinnacle," is taking the final scenes for this six-reel feature. Francelia Billington plays the leading feminine role opposite Von Stroheim. Others in the cast are Sam De Grasse, H. Gibson-Gowland, Jack Perrin, Valerie Germonprez, and Bob, a huge St. Bernard dog.

Paul Powell is about to start production on a new Monroe Salisbury feature, entitled "Devils Have Their Friends." The story was written especially for Salisbury by Elliott J. Clawson. Important members of the cast are William Stowell, Colleen Moore, Ethel Ritchie, Virginia Foltz, Sydney Franklin, Harry DuRoy and Arthur Jassman.

Joseph Medill Patterson's well known story, "A Little Brother of the Rich," is now well under production by Lynn F. Reynolds. Frank Mayo is playing the title role with J. Barney Sherry, Kathryn Adams, Lily Leslie, George Webb and Jack Gilbert in his support.

Harry Carey and his band of cowboys are attending a big round-up in Arizona, shooting sensational western scenes for "A Man of Peace," his latest starring vehicle which Jack Ford is directing from an original script by Frederick J. Jackson. Supporting Carey are Joe Harris, Duke Lee, Peggy Pearce, Jack Walters, Vesta Pegg, William Cartwright, Zola Rae and Howard Enstedt.

Neal Burns and Josephine Hill are working in a one-reel comedy, "Whose Job's Hardest," under Al Santell.

William S. Campbell has started work on a new animal comedy, "Wild Lions and Loose Bandits." Joe the monk, Charley the Elephant and Caesar the lion have the principal jungle roles, while the actors supporting them are Dora Rogers, Bob McKenzie, F. A. Ritter, Larry MacGrath, Clarence Sovrin, George Allen and W. E. Paquett.

Reggie Morris, formerly with Sennett and the L-KO, has just finished a one-reel comedy entitled "Double Trouble." George Ovey, Fay Holderness and Delia Trombley played the leading roles.

"The Professional Elopers" is the working title of the Lyons-Moran comedy which Eddie and Lee are making with Mildred Moore as their feminine foil.

Claire Anderson will play a second lead to Hedda Nova in "The Spitfire of Seville," which George Seigmann is producing.

William Stowell has been chosen for an important part in the all-star cast which is to surround Monroe Salisbury in "Devils Have Their Friends," a Rupert Julian production.

George Holt has just finished filming a two-reel western, "The Terrible Bandit." The principal roles are being played by Pete Morrison, Magda Lane, Jay Dwiggins, Janet Eastman and Louis Fitzroy. Judith and Eric Howard wrote the story.

Eddie Polo and his new leading woman, Peggy Aarup, are at Kingman, Ariz., taking the opening scenes for the first episode of a new serial international in scope, which J. P. McGowan is to produce.

Owing to the illness of James J. Corbett the filming of "The Midnight Man," under James W. Horne's direction has been somewhat delayed this week.

Robert Andersen, who first rose to prominence as Monsieur Cuckoo in Griffith's "Hearts of the World" and who reached the zenith of his cinema fame in Allen Holubar's "Heart of Humanity" as Paul, the fourth son of the Widow Patricia, has been cast to play opposite Mary MacLaren in her next production, "The Petal on the Current."

Frederick Bennett, who was Fatty Arbuckle's scenario chief for some time, is to augment the authorial talent Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran are employing. Bennett is the third writer in the Lyons-Moran service, Melville Brown and Clyde Bruckman being the other two. Bruckman will devote his time exclusively to writing sub-titles hereafter.

At the grand western ball staged Saturday night after the first day's activities Miss Walcamp led the grand march, and interpreted for the benefit of the broncho busters the latest interpolated steps of terpsichore's newest creation, "Shake the Shimmie."

L. C. Shumway, who will be remembered as a former leading man with Marie Walcamp, has been engaged for a part in "A Little Brother of the Rich," which Lynn F. Reynolds is producing from the novel by Joseph Medill Patterson with Kathryn Adams and Frank Mayo in the leading roles.

Fay Holderness, formerly with Lasky and L-KO, has been chosen to play the feminine lead opposite George Ovey. "Double Trouble" is its tentative title.

INCE BALL TEAM

Employees at the Thomas H. Ince studio in Culver City are organizing a baseball team. It is their intention to challenge similar teams of other studios for the West Coast Championship. All players are to be bona-fide employees of the studio. One team that will be of special interest is the actors' nine. The players on this are Charles Ray, Douglas MacLean, Niles Welch, Lloyd Hughes, Otto Hoffman, J. P. Lockney, Fred Niblo and Jerry Storm. Other teams are the art, business, laboratory, scenario, and film cutting departments.

Corporal Sid Smith and Sergeant Bob Landers are home from overseas. They were pals on the Selig lot, before the war, and also in the Argonne. The last time Bob saw Sid, was on the morning of the 28th of September. They went over the top together at 5:30 a. m. Bob yelled, "Hey, Sid, what do you say?" "Save your cookies, boys, save your cookies," yelled Sid in return.

After the battle, the report was circulated that Sid Smith had been killed, and this report, together with the one that Bob Landers' leg had been shot off, in time reached Los Angeles.

However, a few days ago, the two veterans met on Broadway (L. A.) and since then have spent most of their time convincing their friends that they are neither dead, nor irreparably damaged.

Tom Moore's brother, Joseph, youngest of the Moore quartet, has returned from distinguished service overseas.

Kathleen Kirkham has joined the Katherine MacDonald company and will play in a forthcoming picture.

FRECKLES GETS THE ATTENTION

"Oh girls, see who is here!" And the lovely lady motioned to her chauffeur to stop right then and there. And they took it upon themselves to find out just what Charlie Chaplin might be doing out in the wild woods trying to coax cute little cows to follow a narrow path.

When they learned that he was making a scene for his new picture, "Sunnyside," they also learned that making pictures is a business and not an afternoon tea, because the gentleman of "syncopated strides" gave the demonstrative little dears but three minutes of his time and returned to the camera.

Of course they realized perfectly that Mr. Chaplin's time is valuable and reluctantly departed. But if they only knew that—

A few minutes later a freckle-faced kid with a "fleet-footed" nose came riding by on a sway-backed mule and bounced a challenge upon the head of the very busy man:

"He'll carry double—wanta take a canter?"

"Well I should say so."

And he was gone for three hours.

ELOISE CLEMENT HERE

During the past week, Louise Du Pre, "The Cinema Cameo," who is a newcomer in Hollywood, entertained Miss Eloise Clement, one of the World Film Company's well known emotional artists, at her apartments in the Hotel Glidden in Hollywood.

Miss Clement came to California for a visit to Miss DuPre. but has become so enthusiastic over this part of the country that she is considering remaining here and taking advantage of an offer to form her own film company.

BILL DUNCAN'S GUESTS

During the past week, William Duncan entertained "Chick" and "Tiny" Harvey, two of his former theatrical associates, who were in Los Angeles at the Orpheum with their vaudeville act. In company with the Harveys, Mr. Duncan "trouped" all over the United States, and reminiscences were indulged in of the many times that salaries were delayed while appetites were always on time.

MISS MACDONALD HOME

After a trip east filled with brilliant entertainment, Katherine MacDonald arrived Monday and on Thursday evening was hostess at a dinner party at her home. Her guests were: Captain and Mrs. F. J. Dicksen, the Misses Elizabeth Porter, Jean Sumner, Messrs. Parker, Allen, William Porter, Miss MacDonald's mother, and two charming sisters. Spring flowers were used most attractively.

Harry Keaton wishes to announce that he is still among the living and that outside of almost falling into the ocean while fishing on the Santa Monica pier, he hasn't had any hair-raising thrills this week, outside of being told by his employers that his salary has been raised, so he can buy all the victory liberty bonds he wants, so he should worry.

D. W. Griffith and party left Monday morning for New York, where Mr. Griffith will personally attend to the opening presentation of "Broken Blossoms," his Chinese picture recently completed as an Artcraft Special. Among those who were with Mr. Griffith, were Richard Barthlemess, Geo. W. Bitzer, and Miss Agnes Wiener, Mr. Griffith's private secretary.

Taking advantage of the chief's absence, Clarine Seymour left Wednesday for a short visit to Eastern relatives, and on Friday Miss Lillian Gish and her mother left via the Santa Fe, to attend the New York opening of the picture. As Miss Gish is not cast in the next Griffith feature, she will probably remain in New York for a few weeks, attending to the season s shopping.

FOR HUMANITY COMPANY

The town of Calistoga entertained the Humanity Company when the company was there on location last week. A dinner was served at seven-thirty at the Hotel Calistoga, thirty members of the company being present.

After the dinner a dance was given at the Odd Fellows' Hall under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce. About two hundred of the influential people of the town attended and a big reception was accorded the members of the Humanity Company.

THEATRE OWNER HERE

During the past week Mr. L. D. Kenworthy, proprietor of the Vaudette Theatre at Seattle, visited the West Coast Studio of the Vitagraph. Mr. Kenworthy was accompanied by Mrs. Kenworthy and his father and mother.

EDWARD PEIL

FOR ELEANOR FAIR

Elinor Fair was guest of honor at a delightful dinner party given by Kenneth Mason of New York. Covers were laid for seven and among those present were: Mrs. Mason, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ford, Julia Westover and John Bennent. The dinner took place at Marcell's, afterwards going to Miss Fair's home for an enjoyable evening.

Monroe Salisbury left Sunday for Big Bear where he starts a new picture under the direction of Paul Powell, which has as a working title "Devils Have Their Friends." Arthur Jasmine has been engaged to play the juvenile role of a Canadian heart breaker. He has the looks, without any makeup, and as for the actions, I'll let Arthur speak for himself.

Marshall Neilan brought his company out to the Universal Saturday and photographed some of the sets. Al Green as usual was on the job and had his hands full looking after the business end of assisting Director Neilan, and when the day's work was done, stars and extras alike admitted that they were stepping fast, and getting some great scenes.

Eddie Polo returns Monday from Arizona where he has been with Director J. P. McGowan finishing up his last picture in the good old U. S. A., for he and his directorial staff are due to leave for New York and then sail across the briny sea to foreign shores to make pictures for the Universal.

George Holt has had Pete Morrissen assigned to him as the star in a series of two-reel western stories, and Chas. Hall is making all sorts of records for getting sets, locations, people, horses ready for the scenes that will answer as atmosphere for the latest western star to come to the public attention.

Ford Sterling is still with the Sennett studios, and intends to stay there and all reports to the contrary aren't true. This comes direct from F. S. himself, so this should put to an end all rumors that he is going to cast his lot with the Fox Corporation.

Bob McKenzie is working his third picture with the Universal, appearing in the W. S. Campbell Comedies. Playing the villian in the story, he has as associated players, Larry McGrath, Alfred McKennon, Clarence Sovrin and others. Dora Rogers is the leading lady. The working title of the story is "Wild Lions and Loose Bandits.

FILM STARS AID TRIUMPHANT TOUR OF VETERAN BATTLESHIP

While a group of film people sold Victory Bonds from the deck of the submarine H-8 and from the dock at San Pedro, the veteran battleship "Oregon" which has been famous since 1898, closed its triumphant tour along the Pacific Coast as the final feature of the drive for the fifth Victory Loan.

Citizens of the Harbor welcomed the battleship "Oregon" yesterday on its Victory Loan journey down the Pacific Coast, and on what will probably be the last official cruise of the famous fighting ship before the vessel is retired and the name "Oregon" is given to a new super-dreadnaught. The vessel on which Rear-Admiral, then Capt. Clark, made his famous trip in 1898, docked at the foot of Fifth street, San Pedro, and was welcomed by the sailors of the Submarine Base, soldiers from Fort McArthur, Boy Scouts, school children and music.

The submarine H-8, under command of Lieut. J. B. Cooke, was also moored near the dock and Bobby Vernon. Dorothy DeVore and Ethel Lynne, Christie players, and Gloria Swanson, Lasky leading woman, sold $10,000 worth of Liberty Bonds to crowd from the deck, after which visitors were admitted to the "Oregon."

When Dorothy DeVore and Ethel Lynne offered a kiss to the first bond customer, the first man to respond was a youthful sailor from the submarine H-8 who had already bought bonds in the $7,000 quota of his ship. After the drive was closed, the film people who had participated were entertained on the battleship "Oregon" by Capt. Tarrant and Capt. Chauncey Shackford, commanding officer of the submarine base.

HOUSE GUESTS

Mrs. Gladys Rhodes of 1214 Melrose Avenue is entertaining as her house guests, Dr. and Mrs. R. L. Smith of Chicago. Recently she took her guests to the Horse Show at Santa Barbara, all being great lovers of horses. Mrs. Rhodes, when living in New Orleans, always attended the famous horse shows there, but she says that the horses at Santa Barbara were the most beautiful she ever saw. Myrtle Smith, Morey Freeman and Walter Wehrle accompanied the Santa Barbara party.

PEGGY HYLAND PARTY

Peggy Hyland transplanted her servants and much food to a big and spacious house in the mountains one night last week, where she played hostess to about a dozen friends at what she termed a "picnic supper." Many of the guests were motion picture folks, who enjoyed the dancing and story-telling before the huge fire-place, after supper. A party that is enjoyable in being different is what dainty Peggy generally strives to give her friends, and it is the unanimous opinion that she succeeds.

MISS STONEHOUSE RETURNS

A certain attractive house in Laurel Canyon is being put into apple pie order and holiday attire—Ruth Stonehouse has wired her friends in Hollywood that she is about to return after a year's absence, during which time she played in the serials, "The Master Mystery" and "The Masked Rider." She is now in Texas completing her work in the latter and when she deposits herself, bag and baggage, at "Stonehouse Castle,' she will find many friends waiting to welcome her.

AT THE SHIP

A little supper party at The Ship last Sunday night included Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gollner, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Reid. and Mr. and Mrs. James Cruze.

NOVEL ENTERTAINMENT

Jack Donovan and Clark Irvine gave a dinner at the Donovan home, 419 South Loraine street, Tuesday night.

Those included in the guest list were Gus Inglis, Grace Anderson, Billy Garwood, Benny Rothwell, Ann May and Mrs. Jeanette Donovan.

A clever feature of the evening was promoted by Gus Inglis who brought his projection machine, and for the entertainment of the guests the picture made by Jack Donovan, titled "Dan Cupid," was run on the front door. Mr. Donovan's picture featured "Sweet William," the famous pit-bull. Those present say that the evident approval of "Sweet William" who viewed his own antics afforded much merriment.

THE DESMONDS ENTERTAIN

At the Friday night dinner-dance, given weekly by the Athletic Club, Mr. and Mrs. William Desmond entertained as their guests, Grace La Rue and Hale Hamilton.

Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Desmond entertained Tony Moreno and Viola Dana at The Ship.

GUESTS IN FILM COLONY

Major Clarence Leonard, with his wife and family, is to be a guest in the film colony this week, enroute from San Francisco to Riverside, where he will be military instructor of the high schools and institute. The Leonards will be the guests of Irene Rich and her mother at their Hollywood home.

FOR MISS MORAN

A party of girls attended the Orpheum Monday night to see Polly Moran, a friend of theirs, who, before her Orpheum contract, was with the Keystone Company in the city. Those in the party were Mrs. Harold Lockwood, Fern Haslan, Winifred Haslan, Lila Elinore, Lucille Humbert, Mrs. Fred Palmer and Mrs. Alta Carter. After the theater they greeted Miss Moran and presented her with gifts of flowers and candies.

Miss Moran goes to Salt Lake and then to Denver, where she will finish her tour. At that time she will return to her bungalow in Laurel Canyon Drive, where she makes her home with her mother and father. Miss Moran has signed up again with the Keystone Company and will begin work immediately upon her return to the city.

GUESTS FROM CANADA

Mr. and Mrs. George Melford, of 1954 Hillcrest Road are expecting Miss Alice Melford, and Mrs. Frederick Melford to arrive the twenty-third of the month from Ottawa, Canada. They will remain in the Melford home for a month or so.

WILFRED LUCAS JR.

A six-pound baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Lucas last Thursday at the Sisters' Hospital. The young son is named Wilfred Meredyth Lucas, taking for his middle name the professional name of his talented mother, Bess Meredyth.

EARLE WILLIAMS

By Florence Porter Parks

Tautological though it be, we will say that Earle Williams is decidedly a masculine man. At the same time it would not be difficult to imagine him the reincarnation of one Monsieur Beaucaire. nonchalantly sauntering down the wide stairs into a ballroom, clad in velvet coat and breeches, with frills of finest lace about his aristocratically slender hands, and a kerchief stuck in his brocaded waistcoat, the cynosure for all the fair ones present.

But those slender hands also suggest the flashing blade wielded in defense of milady's honor. Why dally in the days of duels and minuets! We'll bring our story up to the present day—the day of moving pictures, at which the charming dames and gallants would marvel.

Earle Williams, after eight years' affiliation with the Vitagraph, now has his own company, and is producing pictures under the direction of James Young, at the Brunton Studio.

"The Wolf," a story of the Canadian woods, written by Eugene Walter, will be Mr. Williams' next picture, taking him out of his spotless linen and perfectly tailored clothes, placing him in the unbecoming trappings of the Canadian woodsman. Another story bought by him, to be produced soon, is "The Fortune Hunter," a comedy-drama by Winchell Smith. The stories purchased for future production will display his versatility more than those in the past have done.

Like many in the profession, Mr. Williams received his training on the legitimate stage. His first appearance, at a very early age, was with the Balwin-Melville Stock Company, in New Orleans, in "Siberia," a blood-curdling "meller." Mr. Williams, during his ten years experience on the stage, always played the heavy, but when he entered pictures by way of the Vitagraph, he was immediately given the part of leading man, with Helen Case, wife of Director Robert Thornby, for his leading woman. The cream of the company, so to speak, was served to Mr. Williams at his first breakfast in picture-land, for he was cast as leading man on the spot, in which capacity he served the Vitagraph company eight years, making in all about two hundred pictures.

Earle Williams was born of American parents in Sacramento, in the sunny Sacramento Valley, where the elder Williams laid by goodly sums of money in the grape season. This father fought in thirty-two battles in the Civil War, and the same patriotism was instilled in the young son.

The family moved to Oakland when Earle was about eight, and it was there, and in San Francisco, that he received his education. He lays no claim to having been the teacher's pet, nor to having been at any time at the head of his class in the acquisition of knowledge. He is a very human person, utterly devoid of all affectation and pretense.

"What was your early ambition, Mr. Williams?" an interviewer asked him one day recently at the Brunton Studio.

"My ambition was to become an actor; and I'm sorry that it was not realized," he answered seriously.

The questioner studied his face keenly, to bring to light a desire for praise. It was not there. And it wasn't there because Earle Williams lacks the egotism that oftens accompanies success and a big salary.

"But," he continued, "unconsciously I was working toward the picture business, for when I was about fourteen I got my first job with the Chicago Portrait Company, in San Francisco and Oakland. They made those queer starey, enlarged portraits, which at that time were as necessary in the home as the family album. We always landed orders if there were any dear departed ones in the family. The more recent the departure, the larger the portrait. We assumed the undertakers forced grief, and sympathetic, dry hand-washing, and in that way worked up quite a trade in the 'dear departed' end of the business. I

AT "SUNNYEASE"

Jack Webster entertained Tuesday evening in his new home at 500 South Ardmore street. About three hundred guests were present. The living room, which is done in Egyptian style, was decorated with sweet peas, and in the blue and gold dining room jonquils were used. The conservatory was a blaze of yellow acacia blossoms. A five-piece orchestra played for the informal dance. Orange Ambrosia, a Roman dish, was served, also candies and smokes.

Mr. Webster offered a prize to the one who could guess what he had named his house, giving only the information that "sun" formed part of the name. Clara Horton won the prize, which was a lovely silver bon bon dish. Mr. Webster has named his home "Sunnyease."

He is planning an afternoon tea, to be given in his Japanese garden in the near future.

JOHNNIE COMES MARCHING

Sergeant Johnnie Douglas former secretary to Mabel Normand, who has been in France for the past year, will reach Camp Kearny Saturday.

Billy Otts, who is being featured as "The Fighter." by the William Otts Film Company, is one of several that will motor down to see Johnnie come marching home. As Mr. Ott's new car is a "Roamer," and as Johnnie has traveled "quite some" the occasion should be of much moment to the two "fighters."

Other friends making up parties for the trip are Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Reeves, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Biby, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Mills.

THE MORLEYS

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Morley, who are entertaining Mrs. Morley's sisters, Mrs. Hugdhal and Mrs. Whyte of St. Paul, took them to Levy's for dinner and later to Vernon last Sunday. Mrs. Morley says that she is in "all wrong" with the family now as they are leaders of the Prayer Meeting at home. And now Jim Morley after buying ten thousand dollars worth of angels is taking them to Oakland and San Francisco Monday, where the Angels will play Oakland. After a week's engagement there he will return to Los Angeles with them and play at the Washington street ball grounds for two weeks. While the manager of the Angels is away Mrs. Morley will wear the veil and skid chains.

DUG OUT

Miss Edwards wishes mention made of the fact that the Dug Out dances have always been invitational affairs, excepting for men in service.

On Tuesday evening, May 13th, a School-Day dance will be given at the Dug Out Club. The hostesses for the evening are: Miss Florence Prager, Miss Agnes Lowatny, Miss Marriet Wilbur, Miss Gladys James, Miss Murtall, Miss Curtyne Englar, Miss Elinor Bamber. Hosts: Messrs. A. V. Nelson, Muller, Wm. Yardley, Stockton Quincy, Fred Burnsworth, Draper, Ross Le Londe.

A FISHING PARTY

A group of jolly campers left the city Wednesday for Santa Ynez Canyon for the week-end. The machines held Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Peebles, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Reed. Frank Alexander, Lucile Carlisle and Larry Semon. A card received yesterday stated that fish were plentiful and the men in the party were bringback the limit.

A LOS ANGELES VISITOR

A visitor at the Goldwyn Studio during the week was Miss Nora Barker, cousin of Director Reginald Barker of the Rex Beach productions. Miss Barker, whose home is in San Francisco, is spending some time in the Southland.

WHERE TO FIND THE PEOPLE YOU KNOW

With the Loan drive not yet at an end, the Goldwyn Studios already have been awarded the 100 per cent subscription flag. Goldwyn to date is credited with $67,000.

The Brentwood Film Company, a company having very few employees, has up to date raised $9,700, five times the quota they thought they could raise for the Loan.

The Charlie Chaplin Company, having thirty-two employees, raised $32,000, totaling $1,000 for each person. Charlie Chaplin night at the Victory Ship, last week, $163,000 was raised, the amount being the highest scored at Pershing Square in the First, Second, Third and Fourth Loan Drive, and in the Fifth, up to date. A beautiful silken Victory Loan flag, signifying that the Chaplin employees had gone "over the top" 100 per cent, arrived Saturday morning, and was immediately raised over the Chaplin Studios.

Bert Lytell gave a short talk at a luncheon of the Los Angeles Advertising Club, recently, and the 150 men who heard him subscribed $48,000 within the following twenty minutes.

Francis Ford is now located at his new studio, Sunset boulevard and Beechwood street, Hollywood.

Mrs. Charlotte Pickford left last week for New York, in search of stories for her daughter, Mary Pickford. She was accompanied as far as Buffalo by Mrs. F. E. Benson, her niece, wife of studio manager for Mary. Mrs. Pickford will remain in New York for six weeks, before going to Toronto, Canada, where she will visit her sister, Mrs. E. Watson.

Sidney Franklin finished the part of Pierre Delorne, with Monroe Salisbury, last week, under the direction of Paul Powell.

Josephine Crowell finished with Lila Lee, Thursday.

Sylvia Ednay, at one time leading lady for Jack Pickford and Carmel Fischer, leading lady in Jack Webster's productions, have left for New York, where they will join the Zeigfield Follies.

Clara Horton finished at Goldwyn last week.

Joseph Strauss, assistant director at Metro, is having his troubles trying to figure out a way to photograph a clinical thermometer rising to 108 degrees for the current Viola Dana Production.

Mrs. Celeste Meade, age 76, was struck by a beach car at Gower and Hollywood, at 7:30 Monday night. It is said that the car was making up time, and that the woman was struck before the air-brakes were applied. She died at her home, 6053 Hollywood boulevard, twenty-four hours later, without regaining consciousness. She leaves one daughter, Adeline Alvord, scenario reader at the Metro Studio. Interment took place Thursday, in the Hollywood cemetery, with only the family and a few friends present.

Ernest Pasque, the Blenshop of "False Faces," has just finished a similar character with the Earle Williams Company, and is now playing a Spanish heavy with Bryant Washburn, at Lasky.

Preparations for the arrival of Geraldine Farrar at the Goldwyn Studio are being made. Final touches have been given Miss Farrar's suite. The suite is done in the popular putty shade, with dashes of brilliant contrast—violet, black and gold. Taffeta covers the walls in pleats, and a velvet rug of the same tone matches the chairs and chaise-lounge, upon which are many cushions of silk, in futuristic design, corresponding with the hangings and reading-lamp shades, which are softened by chiffon. The windows are hung with embroidered net, and Miss Farrar's favorite baby grand piano, occupies a corner of the room.

Pick-ups Of The Staff

Jack Jaffre, of the photographic staff of the Lafayette Division, stationed at Camp Maryland, near Baltimore, returned to Los Angeles, last week. He was honorably discharged with a perfectly good appetite, and he says that he is "almost ready to go to work."

Elmer Forst last week sold to the Fox Company a scenario entitled "Flesh and Blood." One of his stories, "Family Tree," featuring Emmy Wehlen, was finished last week at Metro; another, "The Social Pirate," starring June Elvidge, is now being produced in the East by the World Film Corporation.

Edwin Carewe, Finis Fox, Robert B. Kurrle and Bert Lytell, the same four associated in Lytell's first picture for Metro a year ago, are together again in "It's Easy to Make Money." Carewe is the director, Fox the script scribe, Kurrle the camera cranker, and Lytell the star—the same team that made "The Trail to Yesterday" with the exception that Finis Fox is making the scenario instead of assisting in the direction.

Edwin Carewe, Luther A. Reed, Harry L. Franklin and Eddie Shulter are among those who were installed in new office by Metro Studio Manager David Thompson last week.

RICHARD BARTHELMESS

Clyde McAtee is now doing the commander, with Miriam Cooper, in "Evangeline," at Fox.

Lois Zellner has gone to Santa Barbara for a short visit.

Arthur Zellner is now the scenario editor with the American Film Company at Santa Barbara.

Jake Abraham has just finished with Barker, in a Rex Beach picture for Goldwyn. He is now at Vitagraph, with Bessie Love.

Hampton Del Ruth, who is editor and supervising director of the William Fox Sunshine Comedies, is picking new material every day. His latest acquisition to put more sun in Sunshine Comedies are Chester Conklin and Billy Armstrong.

Count F. Pisani, the French actor, is kept busy these days with foreign characterizations. He no sooner returned from location with the Pauline Frederick Company, than his services were commandeered by Frank Keenan, for the part of a Bolshevist, and emissary of Trotzky, in his latest production.

Col. Jasper E. Brady, head of the Metro reading department, is carrying his left thumb in a sling as the result of tearing a ligiment. Col. Brady diesn't know how the accident happened, but it is suspected that it happened when he was thumbing over a new novel, his 47th in two weeks.

Edward Connelly will be in Bert Lytell's support in "It's Easy to Make Money."

Jack Webster has completed the last picture under his present contract, "An Honest Liar," a Saturday Evening Post story. His plans for the future are indefinite.

"Wonderful Harry," proprietor of the Little Metro Cafe, received a surprise visit from Ben Turpin and about fifty of his company Tuesday noon. As seventy-five artists in evening costume from Emmy Wehlen's picture dropped in at the same time, the S. R. O. sign hung outside the cafe door.

There is great rivalry in the Tom Mix company as to who can wear the loudest hats and coats. Tom Mix himself set the example. Now Arthur Rossin parades around with a green and red checked golf jacket, Fred Granville, the cameraman, almost blinds people with a yellow, black and red striped cap. Pat Chrisman goes in for gaury handkerchiefs to tie around his neck. Lee Moore sports a dazzling red sweater and Ed Rosenbaum wears a yellow and green vest. Some days they have to tie the horses to stout posts for fear of a stampede.

NEW GOLDWYN WRITER

The newest addition to the Goldwyn scenario force is Harvey Gates. His most notable achievements perhaps are "Hell Morgan's Girl" and "The Wildcat of Paris," plays which put both Dorothy Phillips and Priscilla Dean onto the star market. In addition, Mr. Gates adapted Harry Carey's first big feature, "The Three Godfathers," from a Peter B. Kyne story. Before his affiliation as a staff writer, Mr. Gates was a newspaper man, reviewer and special writer for the Dramatic Mirror, publicity director for a big motion picture concern, and free-lance scenario writer.

J. B. Laflin has just finished a five weeks' engagement with Fatty Arbuckle, as Sheriff in "The Desert Hill," his latest comedy, and is now under contract with Wm. Hart, for the present production.

WAS HEAD "JOEY"

A. H. Wheeler, assistant to the chief of the Metro photographic department, was formerly head clown, or joey, with the Ringling circus. He put on his wig and makeup for old time's sake and rode with the clown troupe in Metro's Victory Loan parade.

Denver, May 5.—Gwyn Chambers and Flo Doerr, moving picture actresses with the Art-O-Graf company of Denver, were slightly injured when the street car on which they were riding collided with a switch engine near the Moffat depot yesterday morning.

The actresses were hurrying to join the Art-O-Graf company, which was about to leave for Steamboat Springs, where scenes of one of their pictures are to be filmed this week. One of the young women was assisted from the street car by Edmond Cobb, the leading man of the company.

Both women refused to be taken to the hospital and insisted on accompanying the company to Steamboat Springs.

Frank E. Woods, the supervising director of Paramount productions, has the following to say regarding writers:

"Seventy per cent of the population write a scenario—once.

"Sixty-nine of that seventy per cent receives its scenario back, with regrets.

"One half of one per cent says its brain child was ruined.

"The other half (minus a fraction) never sees its story produced.

"The fraction receives a check and becomes a regular offender.

"The sixty-nine per cent thereupon says its idea was stolen, its 'idea' being the eternal triangle with variations; also said sixty-nine per cent wrote on both sides of the paper with a pen or pencil and did not enclose stamps for return.

"The Scenario Editor has no profit in his own company."

CHIT, CHAT AND CHATTER

By Harry Burns

William Farnum and his company, who are at Palm Springs, 'tis said will journey to Lake Tahoe for such scenes as are needed to complete the present picture, in the making, under the direction of J. Gordon Edwards.

Geraldine Farrar, I'm told, is to play most of her exteriors in her initial picture for Goldwyn around the salmon fishing country of The Dalles, with Frank Lloyd as the man who handles the directorial part of her production.

Frank Lloyd has gone and done it. He has bought a ranch out Lankershim way and will devote most of his spare hours living close to nature, and he hopes this will serve to make his life about the studio just one round of pleasure, for he will look forward to his return home after he has ordered his staff to strike the set for the day.

Lloyd Hamilton is to cast his lot with the First National Exhibitors and will be directed by Henry Lehrman, who will have Jack White as one of his associate directors and will no doubt alternate in the handling of the famous "Ham" of cinemaland.

Jess Willard leaves Sunday for Tia Juana, where he will pose in some race-track scenes, with Harry Revere as director-in-chief. Big Jess, they tell me, is stepping fast at Brunton's. When he isn't engaged in the making of some scene, he's shadow boxing, wrestling or sparring with some of his boxing partners. Pretty soft for Mr. Willard, but not for his handlers.

Flanigan and Edwards, "Those Hallroom Boys," start working Monday at the National studio, where they are to turn out a picture every seven days.

Frank Hayes no more than finishes his part Monday with Director Dave Smith and Bessie Love at the Vitagraph than he comes over to the Big U and joins the W. S. Campbell Comedies, playing an old maid character which he has made famous in filmland.

Vin Moore brought his troupe out to the Universal Zoo and brought along for good company the lion, Vonitee, which he turned loose and ran up and down the boulevard, and had some of his comics try to capture the beast. The fun the onlookers had wasn't half the amusement the audience will get out of the scenes that were filmed.

Lyons and Moran have sworn off working with animals. While using a trained bulldog in some scenes they forgot to show the animal the script, which called for no biting, and the two actors have the teeth marks of the canine on more places than one to show where the animal had left his trade mark. Both raised their right hand and chirped, "Never again!"

Billy Franey expects to start working at the Fox studio, for they have had him try out some of his makeups to see which photographs the best. Hence Hampton Del Ruth's decision, and Billy will once more be up and at 'em on a regular job.

Mrs. Ford, who does the casting at Morosco's studio, I am told has taken a vacation, for she figures that handling actors and actresses isn't the easiest task in the world, and that when one stays with it as steadily as she did, a rest is the best answer before she becomes a nervous wreck.

Jack Blystone started another double reel comedy for the Fox. This time he directs Glen Cavender, who for years did characters with Mack Sennett and Jack Cooper, a well known funster. The girl in the story answers to the name of Marvel Rea, and she is said to be a real dream for looks.

Harry Lamont is the busiest man this side of Petaluma, outside of raising chickens, making Victory Loan speeches, singing to Central Park gatherings, helping Roy Meeker at Balboa, acting in the picture by day, and working at some other studio at night, he wonders what he can do with his spare time.

Vic Potel has just finished a picture with the Metro Corporation and is doing a sneaky part entitled "Touring the Studios," so that he can sign the different contracts that have been presented to him, which figure from reviving the Snakeville Series to a comedy sheriff for some of our leading stars.

Slim Peppercorn admits that since Charles Doherty bought his new car he and Charles haven't been on speaking terms, for when he owned a Ford he would take Slim sight-seeing, but now he passes him by and doesn't even notice him. Doherty denies that he is doing it intentionally. Someone was mean enough to say that they fell out over a burro that is owned by the studio that they work in. However, the feud is on—and we'd better call the cops.

Peggy Pearce, who used to work in comedies, is now a western cowgirl and everything out at the U, where she is spreading her winning smile opposite Harry Carey under the direction of Jack Ford.

Baby Marie Osborne is sharing the Balboa studio with the Hugh McClung Company, and there is some talk of a couple more producing factions making the beach city studio their post office address, and where you will find them working.

Bill Sieter has written finis to his initial Carter De Haven-Flora Parker story, and if Bob McGowan's word is worth anything, he has turned out a bearcat of a story. Here is a case of an author praising a producer for Robert wrote the narrative, while William directed it.

GEORGE HACKATHORN

Scott Beal leaves our fair city for New York today, going with the National aggregation that are departing from these shores to make pictures in the metropolis. The stars will answer to the names of Billie Rhodes and Bill Parsons, or, as you might refer to them, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Parsons, and the director-in-chief will be Louis Chaudet. Pretty soft for some people outside of Scotty, who as usual will have the burden of looking after all details while away. He has the good wishes of every one, especially the members of the Assistant Directors' Association, and will have Roy Marshall act in that capacity until Mr. Beal returns to our fold.

Park J. Ries is Mack Swain's comeraman and he reports that every thing is running ship shape in the making of the "Poppy Comedies" over on the Boyle Heights studio grounds. "They are making them funny and fast," chirps Park, and that explains everything.

Winifred Westover left Los Angeles to play opposite William Russell. A few days later she came back home on location, as the company is shooting every night from twelve to six in the lobby of a Los Angeles hotel.

Hal Roach takes occasional trips to catch some fish, and by the way, let it also be known that he usually brings back a new idea or two for Harold Lloyd Comedies, which he directs for his (Roach's) Rolin Film Company, where they turn out the subjects one sees on the Pathe program.

George Siegman isn't losing any time to get under way out at the Universal studio, for he and his capable assistant, Jimmie O'Shay, can be seen with their heads together figuring out sets, locations, and settings that would make one think that they have been working together for years. Class will tell, and George is making 'em sit up and take notice and Jimmie is running him a hard race for first honors.

Larry Semon starts a new picture Monday at the Vitagraph, where he is turning out his Big V Special Comedies via the two-reel route. His last story, according to those who saw it projected upon the studio screen, will make them sit up and take notice.

The Bryant Washburn company, with Lois Wilson playing the lead opposite the young star, is in Coronado this week doing some scenes. Lois says by notepaper that San Diego is a great place.

W. S. Campbell started his third animal comedy at the Big U. He has been given the entire back ranch of the studio for his own personal use, so that he can practically have a plant all of his own to make his pictures in, and things are just humming along and everybody's happy.

Slim Summerville and Frank Coleman are being directed by Frank Griffin in a two-reel comedy on the Fox lot. There is a good combination; Slim, tall, lean and lanky; Frank just plump, but mighty. The former is a comic, the latter a villian. What more could be asked for a fun film?

May Emeroy has been engaged to play opposite George Ovey at the Big U under the direction of Reggie Morris. This makes the latter's second picture; his initial effort evidently must have struck home.

Mildred Reardon, dame rumor has it, is about to close a deal whereby she will disport her acting wares on the Vitagraph lot. Miss Reardon has been keeping busy these days, working opposite Roscoe Arbuckle. She then signed with the Fox Sunshine comedies, and now she is contemplating on making a change, so it is said.

Billy Armstrong followed his side partner, Chester Conklin, over to Fox's and is now making funny faces for Director Victor Heerman. Billy used to be one of the Fred Karno comics, but he figured that filmland offered him better inducements, hence his casting his lot along those lines.

Vera Steadman has signed with the L. K.-O. and is being directed by Billy Watson, playing with Phil Dunham, Dan Russell, and others. Norman Taurog is Director Watson's right hand bower.

Tom Mix wore a checkered coat out to the boxing bouts Tuesday night that caught every one's eye. If contests ever get uninteresting Tom can peel the coat, place it on his lap, and the boys in his row can play a game of checkers. But I guess we'll never see that for up to date the scraps have been right up to the high standard.

Montgomery and Rock are doing a story that deals with Oriental settings and Gilbert Pratt who directs them is having his hands full with his comedians who are lovers of antiques, for Irving Luddy no more than gets the set dressed than the boys are trying to beat one another's time in selecting the freakiest looking objects, and giving an order to have that charged to them at the completion of the picture, and sent to their homes.

Paul Powell will in all likelihiod go to Big Bear for his next exterior settings for his present picture. He has had a man up there for three days picking out locations and making necessary arrangements, and we can expect to hear of him wending his way towards the mountainous country most any day.

Madge Kennedy just returned from Big Bear, where she and Director Clarence Badger showed the townspeople how the Goldwyn troupes act out in the open and make pictures, and from all reports they brought back with them as nice a set of pictures as were ever photographed thereabouts.

Reginald Barker has been working at the Fisherman's Villafe down along Santa Monica Bay. Many familiar faces that have walked up and down that path were in Director Barker's line-up, and it's the old story of the old picture with a new frame, that never looks the same.

Joe McDonough, who assists Al Santell, is busying himself getting ready to start another picture on the Universal lot, and Jose will no doubt be up and at them and going like a house afire, with a fifty mile gale blowing about the time this goes to press. Here's hoping he never slows down.

In order to be listed in this column, it is necessary that you be sufficiently well known locally that there shall be no doubt as to your ability to play the parts for which you are listed. If you have not appeared in the films recently, it will be necessary to bring proof that you have successfully filled the part under which you wish to be listed.

This precaution is taken as a safeguard for this paper and for the people who are capable. Further, this precaution has been suggested to us by casting directors, as the column was inaugurated chiefly for their information.

Abbreviations: Characters (ch.); Heavies (hv.); Juveniles (juv.); Foreign (for.); Ingenues (ing.).

Changes in this column must be reported to the office of CAMERA! not later than Friday of each week.

Charge for listing, including change each week, is $1.00 for two months.

ASSISTANT DIRECTORS' ASSOCIATION NOTES

By Harry Burns

Harry Tenbrook has been busy as a bird dog on the trail of some game, hunting dancers, musicians, actors and types for a swell cafe set for Director Reggie Morris at the U. And to say he succeeded would be putting it mildly.

Douglas Dawson, who works with Noel R. Smith at the Vitagraph, is the proud record holder of being one fellow who has worked in everything from slap-stick comedy to a serial, as an assistant, so he can be called "Jack of All Trades."

Walter De Coursey was offered a position with a New York company, but he hated to leave sunny California and the local film; hence he is holding daily talkfests with some of our leading directors anent a job with them here.

Art Flavin has been so busy trying to keep James J. Corbett and Director James W. Horne happy in the making of "The Midnight Man" that he hasn't been able to attend the meetings of the A. D. A. Here's hoping, Art, that you soon get a breathing spell.

Ernest Traxler is only looking after fifteen companies out at the Universal as production manager. If they add any more work to the hard-working Ernest he will be able to weigh in at 105 ringside for one of Jack Doyle's fistic events.

William Eley is to be congratulated on his selection of such a charming bride as Miss Herma Cordova, and he has the good wishes of the A. D. A. members and every one that he has come in contact with during his routine of work at the Brunton studio. They don't make 'em any more popular than W. E.

Harry Schenck is arranging a Sunday outing for the members, their wives and sweethearts, which calls for a trip to Catalina, lots of good eats, plenty of music, and a general good time. Listens good, Harry.

ARRIVAL OF CAPITALIST

Samuel Heilner, New York capitalist, arrived in Los Angeles in time to witness the completion of Zane Grey's feature, "Desert Gold." Mr. Heilner is financially interested in the production. His son, Van Campen Heilner, one of the editors of "Field and Stream," and a noted authority on outing subjects, served as one of the assistant directors of the feature. Having finished his work, he is taking an outing in Catalina with Zane Grey, swordfish hunting. His parents are staying in Pasadena.

Jim Farley is playing with Dorothy Gish in the capacity of heavy with the Dorothy Gish Company.

James B. Leong finished a part last week at the Jesse B. Hampton Studio.

Yep, as a youthful yap I'm mother's pet monk, leader of the peacock-harness brigade. My bean cover is the latest in nobby chapeaux. It's some skull skiff for style. It looks like it had been leaned on by an iron safe and used as a doormat by a troupe of soused elephants. My Borealis blouse fits like sox on a rooster. The vest is a wallpaper weave or soiled dove's dream. The junipers fit so tight that I walk like a knee-sprung hay limousine. My trotting cases are the fushiest pair of sole-mates that ever kicked a Bokhara. Uh hu, in this makeup all the squaws want to Hobsonize me with the yumyum salute.

learned the printing and retouching part of the work, and have always liked photography. Any innovation in picture photography interests me greatly."

"What do you think of future picture photography, Mr. Williams?"

"I'm not much of an authority, but I shouldn't be at all surprised if in time some of the photographic sets in this business would elicit enthusiastic praise from a Bougereau or a Whistler. Some of the best artists of America are trying their brushes on art titles now. Colored photography springs into being every so often, then flickers out because it is not a complete success, but the day will come when picture photography will justly rank with the great arts.

"The poets tell us that Prometheus, having made a beautiful statue of Minerva, the goddess, was so delighted that she offered to bring down from Heaven anything that would add to its perfection. Prometheus asked her to take him there, so that he might choose for himself. This Minerva did, and Prometheus, finding that in Heaven all things were animated by fire, brought back a spark, with which he gave life to his work. Some great genius will bring back with him the spark which will give perfection to picture photography, I believe."

This thing is getting to be serious.

Where to Sell Your Scenarios

This feature is for the guidance of scenario writers who have something to sell, but who do not know just where to take it. CAMERA! keeps this column for announcements by the various studios. Some of the matter stands from week to week as a reference guide. It will be noted that many of the studios do not wish scenarios submitted by any one; some want synopses only; others wisn the continuity written.

As the difficulties of the past years in regard to the submissions of scenarios no longer exist, it is safe for any one with a good idea to send scenarios to any company mentioned in this column. While this paper is not responsible for the use or misuse of scenarios by the companies listed, it believes that any scenario sent to any of the companies will receive honest and prompt treatment. Any action to the contrary will receive full publicity if reported to this office.

MABEL CONDON EXCHANGE, 6035-37 HOLLYWOOD BLVD. Buying only books, plays and magazine stories, except the work of a few authors on contract.

MOROSCO FILM COMPANY, 201 N. OCCIDENTAL. See Laskey Market.

CHRISTIE COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. In the market for one and two reel comedies. Breezy, snappy incidents must be present in a marked degree. The Christie Comedies feature Bobby Vernon, Earl Rodney, Dorothy De Vore, Jay Belasco, Ethel Lynn, Fay Tincher and Patricia Palmer. Please sumbit by mail.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA PRODUCING COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. Scott Sydney, the producer, wants one reel stories suitable for Elinor Field.

WILLIS AND INGLIS, WRIGHT & CALLENDER BLDG. Neither purchasing nor accepting on consignment any original scenarios. Handling only photoplay rights to books, plays and short stories.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS COMPANY, SUNSET AND ARGYLE. Prefers considering the original work of screen authors, having always been keen to develop those writers who showed ability.

NATIONAL FILM COMPANY, 6107 SANTA MONICA BLVD. In demand for 5-reel comedy-dramas featuring "Billie" Rhodes. Also 2-reel comedies for "Smiling Bill" Parsons, and 5-reel heavy dramas for Henry Walthall, and 2-reel comedies for the de Havens, with domestic situations.

VITAGRAPH COMPANY, 1708 TALMADGE ST. The company buys no scenarios in the West, the same being taken care of by the Eastern Vitagraph Company at East Fifteenth and Locust avenue, New York.

THE DOROTHY GISH COMPANY, SUNSET STUDIO, 4520 SUNSET BLVD. Is in the market for five and six reel comedy-dramas, featuring Miss Gish.

DAVID WARK GRIFFITH occasionally buys synopses suited to Mr. Griffith's people and style. Stories should be submitted to M. M. Stearns, 4500 Sunset Blvd.

FOX STUDIO, SUNSET AND WESTERN. The company has its own staff writers, but will consider comedy-dramas and straight dramas with a strong love element. Also Western comedy-dramas for Tom Mix. Nothing less than 5 reels.

METRO, 1025 LILLIAN WAY. Maxwell Karger is manager of productions and June Mathis is head of the scenario department. Outside material is also considered. Good live American stories with a melodramatic touch for Bert Lytell. Comedy-romances of a lighter nature for May Allison. Snappy melodramas for Hale Hamilton; comedy-romances and comedy-dramas for Viola Dana, and dramas that are typically Nazimova for Nazimova.

WILLIAM HART STUDIO, 1215 BATES ST. Maintains no scenario department, but manuscriptts for Bill Hart will be considered. The stories must not take Mr. Hart out of his characterization, but they must have new ideas, a different twist. Pays upon acceptance.

GOLDWYN PICTURE CORPORATION, CULVER CITY. Will consider ingenue roles having a touch of pathos, for May Marsh; ingenue roles that are rather fantastic for Madge Kennedy; strong emotional dramas for Pauline Frederick; and 5-reel comedy for Tom Moore. Nothing under 5 reels.

THE AMERICAN FILM COMPANY. SANTA BARBARA, CAL., is in the market for five-reel photoplays suitable for either male or female leads; also for strong stories requiring balanced casts. Arthur J. Zellner is head of the Scenario Department.

THOMAS H. INCE COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Buys no outside material except from well-known writers on contract. Has own staff writers.

TOURNEUR FILM COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Interested only inscripts of large calibre, 6 or 7 reels. No society plays and no comedy.

FATTY ARBUCKLE COMEDIES, 1723 ALLESANDRO ST. Two-reel comedies having the essentiais of a good opening and a good finish, and the gags must be unusually clever.

MUTUAL FILM COMPANY, 72 WEST TWENTY-THIRD STREET, New oYrk Will consider feature photoplays with parts suitable for Gail Kane.

BACON-PACKER FILM CORPORATION, 230 WEST THIRTY-EIGHTH ST., NEW YORK. Society dramas with women leads are needed.

CHAPLIN STUDIO, 1420 LA BREA. Buys no outside material. Charlie Chaplin writes his own scripts.

PALMER ADVISORY BUREAU, 571-591 I. W. HELLMAN BLDG. We market material for Palmer members and recognized writers only. Have calls for all types of stories including serials.

L-KO FILM COMPANY, SUNSET AND GOWER. Buys comedy ideas. Does not want the continuity written by outside writers.

UNITED PICTURE THEATRES CORPORATION, BRUNTON STUDIOS. Buying only high-class stories having Eastern or Western atmosphere which have sufficient action for 6 reels. Address scenarios to William Lord Wright.

BRUNTON STUDIOS, 5341 MELROSE AVE. Scenarios for the following companies may be addressed to Captain R. B. Kidd, Scenario Editor, or to the individual companies.

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG is in the market for straight drama; 6 reels.

JACK PICKFORD can use stories of the good-natured, small-town boy; 6 reels.

BESSIE BARRISCALE will consider strong emotional roles with the society element; also comedy-dramas; 5 to 7 reels.

FRANK KEENAN'S scenarios must contain strong, virile, masterful character delineation; 6 reels.

MAYFLOWER COMPANY, GEORGE TUCKER, All Star cast, will consider 7-reel super-features dealing with modern society.

SESSUE HAYAKAWA plays Japanese, Chinese and Far Eastern characters. Sympathetic roles and roles having to do with self-sacrifice are preferred to sentimental parts; 6 reels.

EARLE WILLIAMS uses 5 and 6-reel society plays.

STEWART EDWARD WHITE CO. Produces only Mr. White's books.

ZANE GREY FILM CO. Not in market. Films Mr. Grey's novels.

MARY PICKFORD COMPANY. Not in the market at present for outside material.

The demand for waistcoats still prevails. One pretty model for the dark suit is of orchid-colored silk, with a cuff at the lower end of orchid velvet. Another is of gold and black brocade. with a large, flat sailor collar. But with the summer months there comes the tendency to do away with the silk numbers and give place to those made of washable fabrics.

One smart waistcoat of organdie is made in the double-br easted effect, developed in all colors, with a fluted frill around it, fastened with four large pearl buttons. Colored linens are smart and there are tailored waistcoats of a striped lawn fastened like a man's vest, with large crochet buttons.

WITH THE THEATER AND STUDIO MUSICIANS

By R. E. Becker

For his opening number of the program for the week of May 5, Mr. Donatelli chose some selections from "The Chimes of Normandy." The work, being of an unpretentious nature, does not give the orchestra or conductor much opportunity to display their respective talents. The numbers were brightly played and the work of Miss Dohrmann, who sang the interspersed vocal number, was very satisfactory.

Mr. Donatelli's orchestral accompaniments for the feature, "The Test of Honor," was very dignified and altogether in keeping with the atmosphere of the play. The work of the men in the orchestra was marked by great alertness in following their director and by smoothness in playing.

If anything reveals the great care Mr. Donatelli exercises in cueing his pictures, it is the careful timing of the little Drdla Serenade to the playing of a violin number by a character on the screen. Also nothing more appropriate could have been used than the number played for the scene in which the false wife first meets her husband, unexpectedly returned from prison.

Mr. Crawford, the organist, played about half of the feature. Mr. Crawford is not what is known as a "schooled" organist; nevertheless his work shows the true instincts of a born musician. One adverse criticism that one might make of the particular performance at which the writer was present is that in his registration he used the soft flutes and the string tones almost exclusively, except when working up his climaxes. In working up to his big scenes, Mr. Crawford wisely reserves the full resources of the organ for a few very dramatic scenes and secures a correspondingly bigger effect.

The comedy which followed the feature was also played on the organ. To the writer, Mr. Crawford's improvised fox-trots become a little tiresome. One would like to hear a popular number interspersed occasionally. The organist had a difficult nut to crack in having to bring out the old English atmosphere of the Drew comedy and still burlesque the same. This was done very well.

HER FIRST OFFER IS FROM GRIFFITH

Minette, daughter of Danny (Kid) Hogan, has received her first offer to act in the movies. The offer is from D. W. Griffith, and is for $50 a day. Minette is only five days old. The Metro prop man declined the offer regretfully on his daughter's behalf, saying, however, that perhaps Minette would accept some time when her mother would be able to attend her studio debut.

VITAGRAPH HEAD HERE

Mr. John M. Quinn, General Manager of Vitagraph's sales organization, arrived in Los Angeles this week for a personal inspection of the Western territory. Mr. Quinn is a former Angeleno who during his residence here was general manager of the Griffith studio.

ELINOR FAIR ENTERTAINS

Elinor Fair gave a one o'clock luncheon at her home Monday, complimentary to Lila Rand, who is visiting in the city from Seattle. Miss Rand's approaching marriage was the motif for the affair. The Fair home was beautifully decorated with Cecil Brunner roses, the same flowers centering the table, at which twelve girls were seated. Many lovely gifts of lingerie presented to Miss Rand.

"HELP YOURSELF"

David Thompson, manager of the Metro studios, sometimes has brilliant ideas.

"California is the land of cafeterias, and grocerterias, the basic principle of which is 'help yourself,'" he remarked the other day. "Now if some enterprising financier would only open a banketeria, I would be perfectly happy."

ADVICE TO SCENARISTS

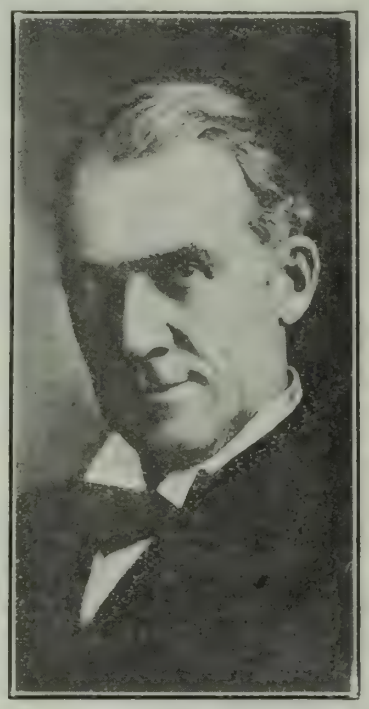
Will M. Ritchey, who writes scenarios for the Paramount, says many amateur writers have a ton of "meat" in their plots, but they do not properly parade it. There is positively a crying need for screen material.

STERN RETURNS

Charles K. Stern, assistant treasurer of the Metro Pictures Corporation, after five days in Los Angeles on business connected with the Harold Lockwood estate, left Friday for New York.

DIRECTOR PLAYS ROLE

Thomas Richetts, well known motion picture director and former stage actor of route, has ben secured by Al E. Christie to play a leading role in the third of the Christie Specials. In the cast with Fay Tincher are Mr. Rickets, Harry Ham, Katharine Lewis, Eddie Barry and Patricia Palmer.



FRED HUNTLY

CHARLIE IS RESTING

Having transferred his picture, "Sunnyside," from his mind to the celluloid, Charlie Chaplin is now resting "at ease" on the "sunnyside" of Catalina.

UP IN THE AIR

Paul Eagler, head cameraman, and Reve Houck, chief electrician, went up in an aeroplane this week, and took a birds-eye view of the new Ince studio.

Jimmie Smith, George Beranger, and "Dutch," who presides over the night shift as Griffith's private driver, left Tuesday for Big Bear, where they will attempt to extradite sufficient trout to keep from paying bacon bills. They expect to be gone a week or more.

Rhea Haines, who will be remembered for several good bits of characterization, in Griffith and Fairbanks releases, has been cast as a Mexican type for Mr. Griffith's final Artcraft picture, production of which was begun just before his departure for New York.

Lloyd Ingraham is making a picture, "What's Your Husband Doing?" at the Ince studios with Douglas MacLean. "So far," says the witty director, "I have failed to find out, but I'm in hopes of getting at the bottom of the matter in a few days."

Frank G. Baum, creator of the world famous "Wizard of Oz" stories, died on the coast Tuesday, May 6. Many of his books were picturized, and greatly enjoyed by young and old.

Al Whitman remembers playing in stock in Minneapolis with his wife; they got $75.00 a week joint and counted themselves rich when they were raised to $90.00 joint. Mrs. W. has gone into private life now and Al earns far more today by himself than they ever did together in the good old days.

Another nimrod to return with a full basket was Director Frank Lloyd, who, bye the bye, is having a lovely rest, vacation, and house-cleaning fiesta while awaiting Geraldine Farrar's arrival upon the coast. He will direct her at Goldwyn.

Tom Santschi, renowned for his fighting qualities, says that he is tired of hearing of that fight he and William Farnum did in "The Spoilers." In his latest work he does an entirely different scrap, a long range battle with revolvers, and the easy part is that not a fist is raised.

Maurice Tourneur left for New York to complete important arrangements for his future pictures. He has finished "Romany Rye" with a splendid cast, including Jack Holt and Pauline Stark, Lew Cody, Wallace Beery and Seena Owen. Mr. Tourneur will return to the coast soon.

PRODUCTION NOTES AROUND HOLLYWOOD

Week Beginning May 18

Director Reggie Morris had a masked ball in his comedy, "Double Trouble," and he didn't have to spend a cent for extras—for his assistant went around the studio requesting everybody he met—and goodness knows they wore every sort of costume imaginable—to step onto the Morris set he secured all the people he wanted. There were Hindus, Poles, Bolsheviki and What-Not, all working in other pictures; but who'd know they were not dressed up just for the comedy production?

Frederick Bennett is writing comedies for Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran at Universal City. Bennett got his start on the old Chicago Journal at—ahem!—eight dollars a week, was raised to ten a few days after he went to work by scooping the town on a notorious murder and was fired the morning of its publication because Chicago refused to believe the story!

Virginia Foltz, the former musical comedy star in "Madame Sherry" and other Savage successes, has been engaged to play in support of Monroe Salisbury in "Devils Have Their Friends," which Paul Powell is producing from the story by Elliott J. Clawson.

Thomas Ince has signed Henry King on a long time contract.

Frank Beal is directing Gladys Brockwell in the William Fox production, "Sadie."

The Bertram Bracken company are finishing up the last scenes of "The Parted Curtains," starring Henry Walthall. and will soon begin on their next dramatic feature, "The Confession," adapted for screen use by Wm. Clifford from the stage success of that time.

Flanagan and Edwards are injecting an unlimited amount of pep into the making of their first picture in the "Hall Room Boys" series.

Director Archie McMackin is directing.

Peggy Hyland has started a new picture under the direction of Edmund Lawrence at the Fox Studios. The story is called "The Bed She Made," written by Charles Mortimer Peck. Ruth Ann Baldwin wrote the scenario and King Grey is doing the photography. In the cast with Miss Hyland are Harry Hilliard, Molly McConnell, Mrs. Jack Mulhall, William Elmer, Edwin Booth Tilton and Edward Jobson.

Bobbie Harron is resting, in the absence of D. W. Griffith.

Kenneth McGaffey has quit the subtitle business to take up aviation. Going UP!

Bill Farnum and company are at The Palms this week.

The Carlton Productions, starring Ruth Clifford, with Lloyd Carlton directing, starts work this week at the Horsley Studio.

Lila Lee's company left the latter part of the week for Yosemite. where they will make their headquarters at the Elks Hotel while there on loca tion.

Nell Shipman, Director Dave Hartford and company are on location at Kern River.

Francis Ford is now working at his new studio. 6040 Hollywood boulevard.

Herbert Prior, who appeared in the heavy role with Mary MacLaren in "A Model's Confession," has been engaged for a part in "A Little Brother of the Rich," which Lynn Reynolds is filming with an all-star cast. from the well-known story by Joseph Medill Patterson.

"Anybody's Widow." a Christie Comedy, which is being directed by Al E. Christie, featuring Dorothy DeVore with Earle Rodney, marks the return of Jimmie Harrison to the screen after an absence of eighteen months in the army, part of which Harrison spent with the 55th Ammunition Trains in France.

VITAGRAPH COMING WEST

In company with John M. Quinn, general manager of the Vitagraph Sales organization. Mr. Albert E. Smith, president of the company, returned to the East last week after a month's visit to the Los Angeles studio.

Mr. Smith left here more enthusiastic than ever over Los Angeles as a producing center and he intends bringing the entire producing force West, in the early Fall.

The stars that will come West are: Alice Joyce, Harry Morey, Corinne Griffith, Gladys Leslie and four or five new stars with whom the Vitagraph has already opened negotiations.

MADGE KENNEDY SPECIALS!

"The New Lady Bantock," Goldwyn's latest Madge Kennedy picture, has just been completed under the direction of Clarence G. Badger. The picture has been seen in the projection room.

RHODES COMPANY IN EAST

Louis Chaudet has left for New York with several members of his company to film the first scenes of the next de luxe feature starring Billie Rhodes. They expect to be gone eight or nine weeks, returning by way of New Orleans, where numerous episodes of the story will be taken.

Mr. Chaudet has assembled an all-star cast in support of Miss Rhodes which includes, in part, Irene Rich, Allene Hale, Stanhope Wheatcroft and Ben Wilson. The remainder of the cast wil be selected in New York.

DORIS LEE—DORIS MAY

Thomas H. Ince announces the presentation during the coming year through Paramount, a series of productions featuring as co-stars Douglas MacLean and Doris May.

Miss May, who has been appearing under the name of Doris Lee, was leading lady for Charles Ray in six of his productions.

FAY LEMPORT, at The Kinema

NEW LEADING LADY

Tom Mix has discovered a new leading lady, Eva Novak, sister of Jane Novak. Miss Eva will play opposite Mix in his next production, "High Speed," written by H. H. Van Loan. Edward J. Le Saint will direct the picture.

VIDOR TO START

King W. Vidor spent the greater part of last week with his wife, Florence Vidor, his secretary Sarah Mason, and Dick Morgan his assistant, up at Forest Home, to complete the continuity of the story on which he now expects to be ready to start shooting early in the coming week.

MADELINE THOMPSON HURT

Madeline Thompson, 8-year-old daughter of David Thompson, manager of the Metro studios in Hollywood, broke her arm in a fall. The little maid's arm was put in splints and a sling by Metro Surgeon Sidney Broadbont.

COMMUNITY THEATRE

Dick Morgan, King W. Vidor's assistant director, will play the title role of Holland Hudson's "The Shepherd in the Distance" at the Community Theatre. Hollywood, during June. Julanne Johnson and Olive Burton, who appeared in the last Brentwood picture, will take the parts of The Princess and The Slave, respectively, in the same Oriental pantomime for the nine scenes of which a lavish setting and gorgeous colorings are promised.

It is reported that Harry Carson has purchased the old Selig studio in Edendale and will alter it to suit his future production plans.

Bill parsons, Mrs. Bill and Isidore Bernstein took train last week for New York to attend to National business.

For the second time Edwin Carewe is directing Bert Lytell in a Metro picture. The first time was fourteen months ago when Bert Lytell made his first picture for Metro.

UNIVERSAL NOTES

By Ham Beall

There is a little Indian baby in the San Jacinto mountains of Southern California who is named after Monroe Salisbury. The Indian family, of which the baby is boss, lives on Salisbury's ranch. Naturally Salisbury is terrifically proud.

Salisbury was recently Stutzing along the boulevards in Los Angeles with little Indian Monroe on the seat besides him.

Suddendy the baby waved a pudgy little fist and shouted:

"Skllibooch! Wawa Phmmpk!"

"Yes. Monroe," answered Salisbury with great dignity, "the building we are now passing is the research laboratory of the University of Southern California; you are very observing for a little chap."

Gertrude Claire has been engaged for the role of Mary MacLaren's mother in "The Petal on the Current" which Tod Browning is producing from the well-known Cosmopolitan magazine story by Fannie Hurst.

Fritzie Ridgway, who has previously been seen in many "Big U" features, is to have the role of Cora, the hard-boiled department store girl, who gives Mary in the heroine's role the benefit of her out-of-focus philosophy of life.

C. H. CHRISTIE BACK

C. H. Christie, of the Christie Film Co.. closed his most successful tour of the United States in the interest of Christie Specials and Christie Comedies, arriving in Los Angeles last week. Mr. Christie made the announcement that the entire world rights to the new Christie Svecials had been sold.

His eastern tour included visits to the Christie exchanges at Chicago. Cleveland, New York, Boston, Philadelphia and other large distributing centers. The programme of Special Comedies will include twelve pictures for the coming year, according to Mr. Christie's announcement. Al E. Christie has just begun the production of the third Christie Special which will also have a feature cast including Fay Tincher, Harry Ham, Eddie Barry, Katherine Lewis and Patricia Palmer.

METRO LOT EXPANDS

With the purchase by Metro Pictures Corporation of the five-acre square across Cahuenga Avenue to the east of the main lot in Hollywood, the studios now cover twelve acres. The addition will be used for street scenes and outdoor sets. Space is being cleared on the main lot for new buildings for indoor. scenario offices and property department, in line with the extensive plans laid out by Richard A. Rowland, president of Metro, during his visit to Los Angeles a few weeks ago.

MISS DARLING INJURED

Riding down one of the canyons in Griffith Park when making a scene for the third Christie Special, Helen Darling was thrown from her horse, sustaining a fractured ankle. Miss Darling's injury will prevent her picture appearance for the next three or four weeks. Miss Darling joined the Christie Company only two months ago.

BUGS!

Henry Otto is reading all the books on bacteriology he can find in preparation for his direction of "The Microbe" in which Viola Dana will star.

SKINNED KNEES

Harry Tedd, veteran comedian. fell during a chase in Bert Lytell's picture, "One-Thing-At-A-Time O'Day," and skinned both knees. After Metro Surgeon Sidney Broadbent had dressed the injured parts, Tedd asked him "now which leg should I limp on?"

FOREIGN FLIMS

Now that the smoke of battles has apparently ceased and the lines of industry in foreign countries are once more beginning to assume a pre-war aspect, it is only logical to suppose that we will begin to receive many foreign-made pictures. What the effect will be on the domestic output is to be watched with interest.

A few years ago the American-made film was easily and by far ahead of the greater portion of the imported product. The old French school of acting, once thought to be the most finished of any in existence, was shown to be not so good as the art of this country, and a few years of comparison resulted in a change of the foreign method of production. Then the war put a stop to all motion picture manufacture in France and England, and the American pictures took the field.

It is not illogical to suppose that the artists who have been watching American pictures abroad have done so with the idea of making pictures just a little bit better, and when the films commence to come over the sea, it would not be surprising if some of them at least made us sit up and take notice.

At any rate, we are interested in what is going to happen.

THE GRIFFITH SEASON IN NEW YORK BEGINS TUESDAY

A distinct innovation will be offered in New York next Tuesday evening at the George M. Cohan Theatre when David Wark Griffith will present, for the first time in the history of the theatre, a program embracing motion pictures and diversions of the speaking stage, inaugurating a repertory season that gives promise of many interesting and worth-while features.

The initial production of the Griffith season will be "Broken Blossoms," a Chinese romance based on a story by Thomas Burke and presented by the Griffith Players, an organization especially assembled for the New York repertory. The play is described as a drama of profound emotion, exquisite delicacy and terrific strength, and a worthy expression of Mr. Griffith's great talents in their rich maturity.

The Griffith repertory season is the first expression of recognition of the genuine value of motion pictures as related to the functions of the spoken play, and will undoubtedly serve to cement the relations between the "movies" and the "talkies." As Mr. Griffith recently has concerned himself with the affairs of the speaking stage it is quite probable that he will give considerable attention to this feature during his season in New York.

Following Tuesday evening's premier there will be an afternoon and evening performance daily, including Sundays, at 2:45 and 8:45 o'clock.

THE CELLULOID DIGEST

The Exhibitor's Trade Review announces a boom in theater building throughout the United States. "Nearly a dozen new theaters in New York, six in Philadelphia and either one or two in almost every other city of importance."

NEW PRODUCING COMPANY FORMED IN SEATTLE

Seattle, May 15.—The Adventures Picture Co. has been formed by John Rentz, president; J. G. Sill, maker of the Bruce scenics, producing manager, and H. N. Brownell, Seattle office manager of the Exhibitors' Mutual system, general manager.

Mr. Sill has photographed the greatest successes of the Robert C. Bruce series, including the first, "When the Mountains Call." He is particularly successful in photographing cloud effects and silhouettes.

Mr. Brownell is resigning as manager of the Seattle office of Exhibitors' Mutual, in order to take over the general management of the company. He will take an active part in the producing and photographing of the pictures the new company will make.

L. C. Wingham will replace him in the Seattle office.

NEW COMPANY IN DENVER

Denver, Colo., May 15.—The National Film Corporation of Denver will soon begin production of pictures. Albert W. Hale, who comes to Denver from Los Angeles, will direct. W. H. Ender will be the manager of the company.

Mr. Hale has made a tentative agreement with Eddie Foy and family to produce this summer a series of two-reel comedies, to be known as the Foy Fun films.

TITLES

Motion picture photographers insist upon being called Cinematographers and the bird who turns the crank at the movie theatre won't answer to anything but Projection Engineer, so Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran are titling the whole industry. The list of heraldry follows, with their royal degrees indicated:

Director: Glittering Potentate Over Gleaming Stars; B.A.A.

Property Man: Custodian of the Sacred Warming Pan; B.V.D.

Scenario Writer: Wielder of the Dripping Pen; I.N.K.

Location Manager: Plenipotentiary Extraordinary to Bungy & Environs; D.D.

Film Cutter: Honorable Mutilator Indeed; F.O.O.E.Y.

Call Boy: Silver Throated Buzzard-Thrush; B.R.A.T.

Janitor: Most Exalted Broomist; D.U.S.T.

Chauffeur: Charioteer and Master of Kitchen Mechanics; H.E.V.A.M.P.

Wardrobe Woman: Queen of the Most High Panties; T.I.G.H.T.S.

Publicity Man: Princely Purveyor of Punk Piffle; B.U.N.K.

The Exhibitor: Master of Cinematographic Destiny; C.O.I.N.

THE LAMBS CLUB

Edward Connelly, Bert Lytell, Hale Hamilton, Frank Currier, Joseph Kilgour, Edwin Carewe and John Ince are all watching anxiously for the decision of the Lamb's Club in the matter of the proposed gambol to be staged in Los Angeles in June. If it materializes the gambol will be held at the same time as the All-Star Gambol in New York, and the same dramatic material will be used. It is expected that Tom Wise, who will be here in June with the "Cappy Rick's" company, will probably be appointed Shepherd pro tem for the entertainment.

Jack Mulhall will be Emmy Wehlen's leading man for "A Favor for a Friend," production on which started this week under the direction of John Ince. This is twice in succession for Jack, as he was Miss Wehlen's lead in "Fools and Their Money," just finished under the tentative title, "Family Trees."

Roy Marshall has had a lot of worry wished on him. The latest was the position of Secretary and Treasurer of the A. D. A. in the absence of Scott Beall. This and his daily worries at Lasky's should keep him stepping fast.

Norman Taroug says L-Ko comedies, the kind turned out by Billy Watson, are to be laughed at, for they are funny, and that he has never worked harder or was happier than he is with his present connections.

MOTION PICTURE PATENTS

Film-Guide for Motion-Picture Cameras

Carl E. Akeley, New Pork, N. Y., assignor to Akeley Camera, Inc., New York. Original application filed April 27, 1916. Serial No. 93,929.

In a motion picture camera, the combination with the film and an opposite side of the field of exposure, of guides between which the edges of the film pass, said guides forming curved paths to impart a correspondingly curvature to the edges only of the film while causing the intermediate portions to be projected in a plane away from the lens. Anti-friction rollers disposed in front of the film and adapted to receive any contact on that side from the film, and springs for maintaining said rollers in position.

Kinematograph Apparatus

H. Workman, 12 University Gardens, Kelvinside, Glasgow. August 11, 1917. No. 11584.

Relates to intermittent feed-mechanism for kinematograph apparatus of the Maltese-cross type, and consists in imparting a variable angular velocity to the finger-wheel by mounting it with the axis, parallel to but out of line with the axis of the driving spindle, the finger-wheel being driven by a link connecting two crank-pins or the driving-spindle and the finger-wheel respectively. The disk on the driving-spindle and the finger-wheel have crank-pins, mounted thereon connected by a link, the arrangement being such that the finger-wheel has maximum angular velocity when the finger is in engagement with the slots of the Maltese-cross. The finger-wheel rotates on a spindle having an accentric extension, the rotation of which provides a fine adjustment between the finger-wheel and the Maltese-cross, the spindle being locked in position by means of a pin engaging a circular slot in the plate. With this apparatus, the cover section and anti-flicker sector of the shutter are reduced in proportion to the amount by which the film-movement period has been accelerated relatively to the film-rest period.

SIGNS "U" CONTRACT

Rollin Sturgeon, who recently finished Priscilla Dean's vehicle, "The Chatterbox," specially written by Bayard Veiller, has just signed a year's contract to direct.

FOOTHILL BILL

Bill Duncan played a scene in his new serial this week in which he didn't have to call upon his dramatic training for any help to make it real. Bill was captain of a football team and the game was played on the gridiron of the University of Southern California in Los Angeles. In making the scene Bill merely stepped back over the years to the days when he played on the team of the Univrsity of Penn and just acted "natural."

GOLDWYN-METRO

The Goldwyn Nine is coming back for more. Last Sunday they met the superb Metro aggregation of baseball talent and were defeated 12 to 10. It might have been 12 to 9 on account of the magnificent catch Teddy Marshall made in center field, only he dropped the ball. Walter Jolley has taken the management of the Metro line-up. Arthur Ripley tore the ligaments in his wrist.

Madge Hunt has just finished a picture with Viola Dana and was immediately signed by Universal for an important part in the Eric Von Stroheim story, which is the latter's initial effort as a director. Mrs. Hunt is very much in demand these days, and she states that her daughter, Irene Hunt, will soon be heard from, as she will soon have her own producing company. Which listens good to all who remember Irene from even as far back as the old Reliance-Majestic days.

Chester Bennett, who helps James Young keep Earle Williams in good humor during the making of his pictures, is to Director Young what an ordinary man's right hand is to him, and is deserving of a whole lot of credit.

WITH THE STUDIO AND THEATER MUSICIANS

By R. E. Becker

Kinema Theater, Week of May 11.

The writer arrived just as the feature went on. With the very first number it was patent that Conductor Mulford has a very fine company of musicians under him. The strings seem better than those of any other theater in the city. Mr. Mulford's selections were varied and altogether charming. The love theme, for which Mr. Mulford used Augusta Holmes' "La Nuit et L'Amour," was particularly beautiful. This is a number for 'cello solo, accompanied by muted strings and harp. The use of such numbers adds tonal variety to the program, a fact which ought to be borne in mind by all theater directors, since the ear soon tires where music is continuous.

Mr. Schinhan's work at the organ was very tasteful. He registers carefully and with discrimination. Mr. Schinhan, it seems to us, uses solo stops more effectively than perhaps any of the other better known theater organists. In Mr. Schinhan we have the happy combination of a thoroughly schooled musician and the practical theater organist. Usually one finds either of two extremes—the so-called "Faker," or the "Church Organist."

Perhaps the only thing that the reviewer might add to the above is that as the film play, which was Artcraft's "For Better, For Worse," unfolded itself, he gradually ceased making notations and just leaned back to enjoy the program, the music being always in keeping with the various moods and never obtrusive.

Studio Notes

Jimmie Brennan and George Cox, he of the weepy 'cello, are back from 'Frisco with the Humanity company.

Out at Universal, Charlie Silliman, who has charge of the musicians there, has four trios busy. The directors using music are Allen Holubar, Mr. Reynolds, Jack Ford and Eric Von Stroheim.

NOTES BY VANCE VEITH

Frances Crowell will begin work in a few days with Victor Heerman of the Fox Film Co.; she will execute a series of dives from a ten-foot springboard. Her diving won for her a place at the Fox Film Co.

Eleanor Field is now working at the beach mastering a sixteen-foot dive, getting ready for a picture at the Mutual-Strand Co.

Mack Sennet has mastered a perfect trudgeon stroke and has taken to the surf at Del Rey, where he opened his house for the summer. Mack believes in safety first, so he mastered a good ocean swimming stroke before he ventured out where rip-tides and under tows are.

Marie Prevost is doing a great deal of swimming at the beach now. She is an advocate of swimming.

Bobby Harron has taken up water polo and life-saving. He can be seen almost any afternoon throwing the ball or demonstrating the holds and releases as taught by the American Red Cross.

Aileen Allen has signed with the Herman Film Co. at Long Beach. She is the national high diving champion, and has worked for several seasons with Mack Sennett and the Triangle Film Co.

Eddie Sutherland is getting well acquainted with Father Neptune. Eddie is at Del Rey breasting the big waves and swimming.

SOCIAL FRICASSEE AND CAPER SAUCE

BY FLORENCE PORTER PARKS

SCREAM CLUB HOLDS AFTER-WAR REUNION

Seventy-five lusty Scream Club members and their friends gathered at the Dome Cafe, Ocean Park, California, Saturday night, May 10, for a grand reunion and May Party. Clarke Irvine was the "instigator" of the enjoyable affair.

The party served the instigator's purpose, which was to stage a comeback among the quill-pushing members. Everyone present had the maximum of pleasure. An excellent dinner was followed by dancing. "It was just like old times." was heard on all sides. An old-fashioned Paul Jones dance was conducted by William E. Wing, the dollar-per-word scenarioist. Other parties are now on schedule, and the come-back of this unique organization was a real success.

The Screamers is a mighty queer club. It originated back in 1913 in the publicity offices of the old Universal studios in Hollywood. Clarke Irvine, Don Meaney, Bennie Zeidman, William E. Wing, J. C. Jessen, Clem Pope, Gene Lowry, and Tom Walsh were the prime movers. A dinner followed at the office, then came a dinner-dance, then they hired a hall and gave a big party, and it has been going ever since. except that no parties were held during the war. The main creed is Goodfellowship, Informality, and Refreshment. The club has no officers, no meetings, no dues, no constitution, no laws and no regularity.

SEAL BEACH OPEN

Seal Beach opened Saturday night with a special program in charge of Mrs. Christian Lynton. About fifteen hundred people were present. Many attended from Hotel Virginia, the Maryland, the Huntington and from the Belvedere at Santa Barbara.

The successful affair was the first of a series planned for Seal Beach this summer. The Bayside Land Company is made up of H. E. Huntington, Marco Hellman, and P. E. Stanton is sponsoring the social affairs.

The Louis Myers orchestra played for the dance, which was informal. On the program was Sheridan Du Pont, who did an interpretative solo dance called "The Arab." Then, assisted by Fanchon Royer, he gave the Valse Classique. Miss Royer just completed the part of a dancing girl in the Madge Kennedy picture.

Leona Fay rendered a vocal solo.

Doris Baker gave several songs and dances. Leona Schaffer, a pupil of Mr. Du Pont's, danced "The Dance of the Hours."

A profusion of choice pink roses filled the resort, also centering each table.

IN NEW HOME

Mrs. Gladys Rhodes, who moved into her new home at 515 North Hobart street last week, entertained a few friends at dinner Thursday evening. Roses from Mrs. Rhodes' own garden were used in decorating her home. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Smith, Mr. and Mrs. R. Cresey, Misses Myrtle Smith. Lucille Humbert and Messrs. Edmund Mitchell and Waltz Wehrle.

KEENAN'S SON RETURNED

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Keenan, 1437 Laurel avenue, Hollywood, received a telegram from New York yesterday, announcing the arrival there of their son-in-law, Major Frank Anderson Sloan, who was in active service in France for twenty-one months.

AT VICTOR HUGO

Edmund Mortimer dined with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Holt at the Victor Hugo, Wednesday.

GERALDINE FARRAR ARRIVES

Geraldine Farrar, accompanied by Lou-Tellegen, her husband, arrived in Los Angeles, May 14, to spend the summer at the Goldwyn studios. Coincident with their coming, Samuel Goldwyn sprang a big surprise in making known the fact that Lou-Tellegen will play opposite Geraldine Farrar in a modern play of a spectacular nature, written for them by Thompson Buchanan, the Kentucky playwright, who recently joined the Goldwyn editorial staff. Frank Lloyd will direct.

A LILAC TEA

Mrs. Vera Lewis entertained with a lovely lilac tea Monday. Lilacs were arranged artistically in the various rooms, and the purple color scheme was carried out in the refreshments. Tea was served at noon, after which the afternoon was spent playing bridge. The guest list included Mesdames Guy Price, Tod Browning, Lloyd Ingraham, Richard Schayer, Fred Butler, Peggy Urson and Miss Juanita Hansen.

ENTERTAINS ST. LOUIS FRIENDS

One of the attractive affairs of the week was the dinner at which Miss Katherine Adams entertained a group of friends from St. Louis last Sunday. Pink roses and daisies were used in the table decoration, while the rooms of the Adams' home were a profusion of ferns and flowers. Miss Allen assisted Miss Adams.

MISS BROCKWELL'S GUESTS

Miss Gladys Brockwell has been entertaining Ethel Davis, and her husband, who are touring the Orpheum circuit. Miss Davis is thinking seriously of purchasing a home in Los Angeles, and with this in view, she has spent much of her spare time in the Brockwell car, seeking a desirable location.

MUSICALE AND SUPPER

Mrs. Ferdinand Pinney Earle entertained with a musicale and supper one evening last week. Seventy-five guests were present.

The Zoellner Quartette furnished the music.

FONTINE LA RUE

LEFT FOR TEXAS

Ethel Lynne is taking her first vacation in three years. She left for Dallas, Texas, last week, in company with her mother. Miss Lynne has been with the Christie firm constantly since its inception as an independent film making organization. She has appeared in more than seventy-five Christie Comedies.

TUESDAY AT NOON

At the Alexandria, Tuesday at noon, was Mary Lee Wise lunching with Miss M. E. M. Gibsone. Thomas Meighan and Edna Purviance were at another table. Jack Holt was enjoying his lunch alone, so also was Syd Grauman. Lonesome men should advertise in Camera! Fritzie Brunette was entertaining some friends from out of the city.

THE HAYAKAWA VACATION

Mr. and Mrs. Sessue Hayakawa spent several days last week at Camp Baldy. Friday, Mr. Hayakawa left for Zaca Lake, in the San Bernardino mountains, on a hunting trip. Frank Williams, his cameraman, and Jack Abbe of the Hayakawa company, accompanied him. They expect to return the first of the week.

WEDNESDAY NIGHT DINNER

Mr. Clarence Badger gave a dinner Wednesday night at his home in the Hollywood Hills. Roy Gallager, who recently returned from the service, was guest of honor.

WEEK-END AT CATALINA

George Hackathorne has returned from Catalina, where he has been vacationing for the last week.

MITCHELL LEWIS IN WASHINGTON

Armed with a large amount of fishing tackle and an untouched motion picture script, Mitchell Lewis, with his company, leaves Saturday of this week for the Columbia River, Washington, with the dual objective of an unprecedented trout fishing season and the filming of his fourth feature to be released by the Select Pictures Corporation.

With Mitchell Lewis is Robert Bradbury, who steps into a new position as director for the Lewis producing company. Bradbury has written and directed a number of productions of the rugged type in which Lewis frequently stars.

Before leaving, Mitchell Lewis went to Oakland, at the request of the Ad Club of that city. He sold $300,000 worth of Victory Bonds at two great rally meetings in the Bay City.

CARLI ELINOR RETURNS

Carli D. Elinor, who has been in the service overseas, returned to Los Angeles, Saturday, and his return was the occasion for a dinner party at The Ship, Saturday evening. Those in the party were Fern Haslan, Lucille Humbert, Winifred Haslan, Edmund Mitchell and Lieutenant Waldon.

STUDIO CLUB NEWS

One of the most enjoyable of recent affairs at the Studio Club was an informal dance given last Saturday night with Miss Anita Stewart as guest of honor. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Sessue Hayakawa, Miss Mildred Considine, Mrs. Gale and Miss Gale of Minneapolis, Mr. Marshall Neilan, Tom Moore, R. Cameron, R. McFarland and many others.

Tuesday night an informal dinner given in honor of Miss Violet Clark's birthday, and as a farewell compliment to Miss Lucita Squiers. Guests other than the girls of the club were the Misses Betty Bouton, Anne Bauchens, Mildred Bell, Mabelle Lewis, Helen Eddy and Zasu Pitts.

Miss Margaret Ettinger of New York, western representative of the Morning Telegraph, is now living at the club.

Miss Lucita Squiers left Tuesday for New York where she will assume charge of Marshall Neilan's eastern office.

Mrs. Squiers, of Pasadena, spent the week-end with her daughter, Lucita, before the latter's departure for the East.

Miss Sara Mason was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. King Vidor on a motor trip to Forest Home.

Miss McElvaney was a guest of relatives at Long Beach over the week-end.

Miss Caroline Diggs, former dramatic art teacher at the Hollywood School for Girls, was a guest for tea Sunday night.

Mr. Rob Wagner, the well-known writer, will be guest of the club Sunday night, for tea.

Miss Edna Harris, secretary of the club, will leave Sunday for a week's vacation in the mountains.

The Actors' Association of Los Angeles, Inc., holds its regular meeting every Thursday evening, at 8 o'clock, at temporary headquarters. 6408 Hollywood Blvd. President, George Webb; Vice President, C. E. Thurston; Treasurer, Mrs. Lizette Thorne. Board of Directors: Frank Brownlee, C. E. Thurston, Lillian Leighton, Geo. Webb, John Steppling. Phone, Hollywood 1946.

RUTH ROLAND

By Florence Porter Parks

Ruth Roland left for New York City today, on a business trip, the nature of which Miss Roland does not wish to divulge. But that it has to do with the production of her own pictures is pretty certain, for she has been contemplating such a move for sometime.

Friday, she completed the final scenes of "The Tiger's Trail," a serial which has taken the company five months to make. It also finishes Miss Roland's Pathe contract which was signed four years ago. She has made six serials for the company in addition to many other pictures.

Ruth Roland entered pictures eight years ago, and during that time she has observed and studied the production end of the business in which she has always been deeply interested. She has worked, not merely to draw her weekly check. but to progress.

From her observations she has drawn the following conclusion: Time is the most expensive thing in the production of pictures.

One great trouble is that money has simply rolled up hill in the picture business," said Miss Roland, "and the amounts have been so stupendous that attention to small expenditures has been grossly neglected. True, the returns are enormous, but they would be just that much greater if 'the little losses' were profits.

"The more money saved the more there is to invest in your production, and the better will be your pictures. Just as with a tailor. If he delivers a suit that is made in a hurry, without the necessary thought and attention to details, he will in time go out of business. If he turns out satisfactory suits he will build up a trade that boosts his production, and will also recommend him to others.

"Personally I think it better to turn out fewer pictures, and have them produced with care and precision. It is a detriment to any company to give to the public a purely commercialized picture, one poorly and hastily produced."

Ruth Roland is a girl who fairly radiates executive ability and a well-poised mentality. That she possesses the qualifications for success, and the attainment of her hopes and plans is certain.

Miss Roland was asked to cite incidents familiar to her which have caused loss of time. and consequently a loss of money.

"The other day fifteen head of horses, a stage coach with driver, and fifteen cowboys were supposed to be at Newhall Tunnel at nine o'clock in the morning. Ten members of my company, and I waited for them, we could do nothing without them. Finally someone was sent back to the studio where he learned that they had misunderstood orders and were in Newhall mountains. By the time word was sent to them, and they arrived it was too late to take any scenes that day. Lack of detail, you see.

"Another day the property men were told to erect a bed room set. They did. Such a bed room as you might find over a garage, and the exterior of the home was magnificent. While the set was torn down and another built half a dozen people including myself, waited. The day was practically lost.

"Another fault sometimes met with occurs when the story is written around a location some three thousand miles away, the writer perhaps having no knowledge of the country where the picture is to be produced. One, I remember distinctly. It had its humorous side too. The story called for two canoes and a rushing waterfall. The price of a location man's salary was being frugally saved by the company, so someone obtained a picture of just such a location, only the scenery thereabouts exceeded our wildest hopes. So a car was chartered for six hundred dollars. The entire company. and freight which in-

ADULTS JOIN BOY SCOUTS

William G. McAdoo, chairman of the Citizens Committee who is shouldering the responsibility of the Boy Scout Campaign, assured James E. West, chief of the Boy Scouts, that he could secure the co-operative service of Fairbanks and Chaplin. Doug and Charlie have consented to stage a special picture of a comedy nature to include myriads of Boy Scouts.

Both Doug and Charlie will take turns at directing each other. Fairbanks and Chaplin are to be enrolled as life members of the Boy Scout organization, which they have accepted as a tremendous compliment from "Young America."

The week beginning June 8th and ending June 14th, according to Mr. McAdoo, has been set apart as Boy Scout week for the purpose of enlarging and strengthening the Boy Scout organization. Associate membership in the Boy Scout organization will be offered to the mothers and fathers of American boys and to other adult American citizens. This, if successful, will provide a supporting adult organization to the Boy Scouts of America which will ensure the enlarged usefulness and effectiveness of the Boy Scout movement.

MOVED TO LOS ANGELES

H. E. Lotz, formerly manager for the Denver Exchange. has been promoted to district manager for Select. His wife and family will arrive this week. A home on Wilshire boulevard has been rented by Mr. Lotz.

"DUSTY'S YACHT REPAIRED

Dustin Farnum has not only started work on his next United feature, but has also found time to re-fit his seagoing yacht, "The Ding," which is in the harbor at Wilmington. A new motor has been installed, the interior refinished. It is all newly furnished and a coat of marine paint shines in pristine beauty on the sides.

SIX-SHOOTER FOR STEWART

The beautiful pearl-handled six-shooter which occupies such a prominent place in Roy Stewart's cowboy outfit, was given him by Pawnee Bill, and bears the gift subscription plate. Mr. Stewart's latest appearance is as Cheyanne Harry in Stewart Edward White's feature, "The Westerners."

EARLE WILLIAMS AT TAHOE

Earle Williams, who completed the production of "The Hornet's Nest," this week has left for Lake Tahoe, where most of the scenes will be made for the next production, a picturization of "The Wolf."

HERE COMES A ROLLING STONE

Fred Stone, the celebrated speaking stage star, will be in Los Angeles before very long and will spend the summer acting in his own features. Mr. A. J. Callaghan is associated with Mr. Stone and acts as manager.

Frank Borzage has been engaged as director and is hard at work preparing the stories.

LLOYD BUYS HOME

Frank Lloyd has purchased a large ranch in the mountains. The place is ideal for a sportsman like Lloyd. as it is within a few minutes' drive from the sea, where boating and fishing are to be found. The deer country is but a few hours removed from the auto road, and much small game abounds in the immediate vicinity. Lloyd is happier than ever these days—why not?

BILL "SHIMMIES"

"Smilng Bill" Parsons, now in New York, is devoting his spare time in learning the intricacies of that latest of dance crazes, the "shimmey." It is especially effective when danced by rotund people.

CHIT, CHAT AND CHATTER

By Harry Burns

Vn Moore has taken a step higher in filmdom. He has been signed by the Fox Corporation to produce two-reel comedies. He will direct Chester Conklin. It fell to the lot of Hampton Del Ruth to see in Director Moore the man to handle the well-known comedian, hence his resigning from the L-KO, where he was directing Dot Farley and illy Bevan.

Spike Robinson has shaken the dust from his bought in L. A. shoes and departed for the Yosemite Valley with the Lila Lee Company which is in the capable hands of Robert Thornby. Spike, as usual, is to battle some leading man in a mountaineer scene for the love of Lila, and who wouldn't do that?

Henry Lehrman has at last come out of his hiding place and announced through eastern periodicals that he has signed with the First National Exhibitors, and is thanking exhibitors throughout the civilized globe for their past support and hopes to produce even better comedies than he did for his Sunshine-Lehrman-Fox productions.

Fontine La Rue has a standing order with a vegetable peddler to leave a dozen apples. the same amount of bananas, and buys a similar amount of bags of peanuts every morning before she goes to work. This has been the talk of the Big U lot, until Curley Stecker who has charge of the Universal Zoo and who trains all the animals for the W. S. Campbell Comedies came fourth with the information that Fontinue feeds these luxuries to the animals so they will feel kindly towards her when they work in the scenes.

Hank Mann is a very happy man these days. He was no more than discharged from the army when a small colony of financial backers sprung up and wanted him to produce his own pictures. He listened to the suggestions and finally formed the Hank Mann Comedies Company and now he is ready to put his three pictures that he made, take a train to New York and show them to the powers that be and sign some real contracts for his futre outputs.

Noel R. Smith, who directs Jimmy Aubry at the Vitagraph, is turning out some excellent comedies, if what is being said about him, both on the lot and along film row on Olive street, is to be taken as a criterion. Noel has had quite a schooling and should make good.

Max Asher reports that he is getting in great shape with the Montgomery & Rock aggregation, and that they are giving him every opportunity to put over some laugh-provoking scenes for their big V comedies.

Ida McKenzie and Arthur Nowell are doing excellent work in the two reel animal comedy now being produced by W. S. Campbell for the Universal. The children work in the scenes with Joe The Monk, Charley the Elephant, and Buster, the horse with the human brains. and the way they are performing is the talk of the lot.

Allen Ruoff, who formerly was Fannie Ward's technical director, is at present working with Mr. Ballin at the Goldwyn studio, and is said to be giving satisfaction to his employers.

Lynn Reynolds rented the Morosco Theatre for a large audience scene with the usual full dress brigade on the job. This is part of his present picture that he is making for the Universal. Actors, artists, and even technical staff say that Lynn is putting over a very good picture; some even go a bit further by saying that it is one of his best.

Jack Jaccard is to leave our midst soon and take his company to Sonora where he will film four two-reel stories, and then return to the studio to cut them. There are few directors today that a corporation would entrust with such a large undertaking.

George Siegman was amazed the other day when one of the near-great actors said: "Heard you were going to work in some Nigger saloons tomorrow Mr. Seigman." For a moment he was flusterated and then it burst upon him. That fellow meant Nigger Slough, a location near San Pedro, and he informed the artist of his mistake and at the same time enjoyed the best laugh that has been handed him since he was discharged from the army and started as director for the Universal.

Fred Tyler is once more back with Tod Browning as assistant and Ernest Traxler has lost an excellent right-hand man. This fellow Tyler is one of those "Never-said-die" chaps, who usualy puts in forty-eight hours in every twenty-four, and comes back smiling and shouting for more, and for that reason the minute Tod looks like he is going to start a picture he hollers right out. "Where's Fred Tyler?" and things start moving.

Alfred McKennon, for years with the leading comedy producers and directors of the Southland, has cast his lot with W. S. Campbell Comedies out Universal way, and is doing one of his best characters in the present picture now in the making. He is sharing honors with Fontine La Rue, Bob McKenzie, Larry McGrath and Frank Hayes, in a western story, which embodies the animal stars, Joe Martin and Charlie the Elephant.

Billy Watson, who directs L-KO comedies, handed me the biggest laugh that ever fell to my lot, when the other day he told me a tale about two comedians on the lot who weren't on speaking terms over a burro. and how one wore funny mustaches, and the other fellow charges him with getting the hair from the animal, while this chap says that the other fellow who is long, lean and lanky, is trying to steal his stuff. Well, folks, I could tell you more—but I will continue this in my next issue of the column.

Eddie Foy, 'tis rumored, after he finishes his tour of the Orpheum Circuit, will once more cast his lot with the movies. Certain folks out this way have made overtures to the famous Eddie for he and his family, and my informant leads me to believe that Mr. Foy has not loaned him his ear for more than just a wee bit of talk, but is actually interested.

Allen Holubar. who is directing Dorothy Phillips in a super-de luxe production, has encountered all sorts of difficulties while using hundreds of auxiliary artists. He has real Russian types that do not understand our good old U. S. A. lingo. Between giving his instructions to interpreters and getting away from the studio at sunrise and coming home after the last ray of Old Sol has dropped below the hills, he's having the time of his life.

Hampton Del Ruth, who is the "Sunny Jim" of comedy row, seems to have a knack of surrounding himself with the pick of comedians, for he no more than signed with the Fox Corporation than funsters, directors, assistants and cameramen flocked to him from every corner of studioland.

Dave Morris and Harry Gribbon seem to be a good combination for Director Craig Hutchinson for he is getting more real laughs out of them for his comedy now in the making out at the Universal, than usually falls to the lot of a director, and things just seem to go along smoothly.

Mike Miggons and Al Smith are J. Gordon Edward's right-hand bowers. They came in from Palm Springs the other day and report that everything is going fine with the William Farnum troupe. Mike says that outside of being laid up with the "flu", pneumonia and a few other minor ailments, he has been getting on fine. Mike always was a cheerful sort of fellow.

R. A. Walsh is getting on fine and dandy with his story now in the making for the Fox Corporation. He has been working at San Pedro during the past week and photographing some great scenes with Marian Cooper as "Evangaline."

Slim Peppercorn has been engaged to play an important part in the W. S. Campbell Comedies, having severed his connections with the L K-O. He can be expected to be kept busy out at the Universal.

Vic Potel didn't remain idle long, for he no more than finished at Metro then Lillian Greenberger signed him up to play a part in the Ted Browning picture that is now in the making out at the Big U. The Slippery Slim chap can't get any rest, his life is just one job after another. That's what he gets for being popular.

Rose Mullaney is on the warpath. and anyone that crosses in front of her these days had better have a good alibi. She can't rent a suitable bungalow, and she wants a place that she can call home. for she finds enough work and trouble while on the job. She has honest-to-goodness real money to pay for it. But, no one can adjust her worries.

Beatrice Lovejoy has been engaged to play leads with the Bull's Eye. After much dickering and conversation with agents and exchanges she finally closed with the aforenamed parties and will more than likely share screen honors with Harry Mann and under Chas. J. Parrott's direction.

Gen Turpin is figuring on starting a mint of his own, since his increase in salary has been i norder. Ben has been laying low and spending his money on gas for his joy wagon. taking Mrs. T. out for a spin. Mr. Sennett better be careful or Ben will run wild one of these days, and start to taking in the picture shows.

Louise Fazenda says that Sennett's is getting to look like a chicken farm these days; that she never casts her optics on more loveliness than the bevy of peaches that are daily seen roaming about the stages, dressed for everything from a swim to a grand reception. She admits that it is some sight, and poor Louise has to walk about in her comedy makeup, but even the grease paint can't kill her personality.

Henry Walthall is nearing the point where he can write finis to his present picture, and has already arranged for his next narrative which was written by William H. Clifford, and has a title of "The Confession" for the working monacher. The biggest sets and most elaboratel of any that have been erected on the National lot are scheduled for this production.

William Sistrom, manager of the Universal studio, has been on the sick list for the past three days. From reports handed out from his offices he is getting on very nicely, and is expected back on the job most any day.

Joe Brandt, who took a flying trip East in the interests of the Big U, is back among us and is busying himself out at the studio, and everybody seems to be glad that Mister Brandt is back, and is up and at 'em once more.

Carl Stockdale is working for his old-time friend, George Siegman, doing an excellent part. His makeup is the talk of the Universal studio, for he seems to be a living likeness of the character he is engaged to portray.

Dot Farley has been receiving overtures from the First National representatives to cast her lot with them and to disport her acting wares in two-reel comedies. She is on the verge of signing with them. Dot seems to improve with age—meaning that the longer she stays in filmland the better she seems to be getting.

Clarence Badger, who is directing Goldwyn pictures, believes in living in one of those quiet homes, away from the city's rustle and bustle, for he figures he gets enough of that at the studio, hence his fitting up a home that would do proud to some of our millionaires, just off of Cauhenga Pass, and every evening after working hours one can find him speeding towards what he calls "home sweet home."

Dan Crimmons and Rosa Gore threaten to hire a private secretary unless studios and filmland agents stop calling up their homes at all hours of the night and inquire if they are working. Dan and Rosa seem to have built themselves up to being very valuable cinema performers and are in great demand. They haven't lost a full week in over twelve months. Some record!

Albert Ray feels that Roscoe Arbuckle might own a ball team if he cared to, but he derives more pleasure out of the national game than the funster does, by actually taking part in the Fox-Sunshine baseball club as an active member. "You know me Al" is the side line chatter on the diamond.

George Ovey is on the home stretch of his second picture out at the Big U under the direction of Reggie Morris, and sems to be better contented at present than I have ever seen him, while working in and about the studio.

Priscila Dean is getting on very nicely at her Cahuenga Pass home, where she has been indisposed for the past two weeks. A friend called on her the other day and found her sitting up and in a very happy state of mind, looking fine and dandy and anxious to bet back to work.

Jess Willard, who outside of beinb the heavyweight champion of the fistic world, is trying to steal the screen honors of some of our brightest stars. He was a visitor at the Alexandria last Sunday and sat very lose to the million dollar rug, possibly he was thinking of the $100,000 that he is going to get for rossing arms with a gentleman by the name of Jack Dempsey, who has a bad habit of knocking over everyone he lays his hands on.

Jifm Adams, who is Fred Fishbach's chief funster, wishes to announce that he has no connection with the chewing gum that yas nafed after him, that he can't stop people from using his monacher, when they were born that way. So he ask me to make this simple announcement.

Howard Davies is getting the habit. Springing a new car on their fellow workers is just one of the every-day jokes, and Howard has followed in the footsteps of his predecessors.

Betty Peterson finished her first picture with the Metro and did herself justice, so much so that they are prevailing upon the authors of the picture about to be started, to write in a cute ingenue part for the charming Betty, who has been nicknamed "The Dresdon Doll of Filmdom."

Bessie Love has one of the cutest parts in her present picture now in the making at the Vitagraph studio. Surrounded by a wonderful cast, she will make theatregoers appreciate her true ability as a portrayer of characters that are true to life, and bring forth her real charm, for which she has become noted.

Bobby Vernon seems to be in a very dejected mood these days. The reason for this is that Director-in-Chief Al Christie has notified him that he won't work for a week. Now if you were laid off for seven days and your pay went on, you'd be happy. But, Robert is such a worrying sort of a chap when he isn't up and at 'em that he can't find things to do until he gets to going again. Cheer up, Bob; you'll soon make up for it. You know Al rambles when he works, for speed is his middle name. Labor and Al walk hand in hand.

Casting Directory

Copyright Applied For.

In order to be listed in this column, it is necessary that you be sufficiently well known locally that there shall be no doubt as to your ability to play the parts for which you are listed. If you have not appeared in the films recently, it will be necessary to bring proof that you have successfully filled the part under which you wish to be listed.

This precaution is taken as a safeguard for this paper and for the people who are capable. Further, this precaution has been suggested to us by casting directors, as the column was inaugurated chiefly for their information.

Abbreviations: Characters (ch.); Heavies (hv.); Juveniles (juv.); Foreign (for.); Ingenues (ing.).

Changes in this column must be reported to the office of CAMERA! not later than Friday of each week.

Charge for listing, including change each week, is $1.00 for two months.

WEATHER REPORT FOR WEEK OF MAY 18

In the Rocky Mountains, normal temperature will prevail throughout the week.

Pacific Coast States will be fair, with normal temperature except for light showers in the northern parts, during early days of week.

Maybe Wanda Hawley doesn't know it, but when they picked her out to play Peg in "Peg o' my Heart," they handed her a package that not less than a hundred ladies we know would have given their right eye for a chance at.

Wm. Fox has returned to New York from Europe.

The Selzwick company is now using ...rk studio.

That Peerless Protean Player

I'm tying the baking-powder vase to my roughneck chatter this week so's you can take an eyefull of the following on-the-level googoogram from an Oklahoma filly:

"Dear Mr. Saxon: I admired you greatly in 'The Model's Confession,' with Mary MacLaren. . . . Please send me your photo. . . . Your face is so kind, so tender, so sincere, so noble, that you must be the embodiment of MIND, SPIRIT and SOUL. . . . INA M——, Altus, Okla."

Oh, Bullfrogs' Busts and Gnats' Knuckles! Oh, kitchen stills and cookin' whisky! Wouldn't that Kleig your Bowlights! (NOTE: Situation wanted.)

Henry Murray is all tanned up from Old Sol's rays. He went location hunting for Director Powell and walked almost every foot of Big Bear Valley. Came home, arranged for the troupe, and went back up there to shoot the scenes.

Arthur Rose is around with a chip on his shoulder, for the Mabel Normand pictures have been improving with each production, and he says if they get to be any better they will have to call a doctor and find out what is wrong with the entire staff. They are sure making a masterpiece every time out.

Nazimova leaves New York for Los Angeles in two weeks.

Ward Lascalle, who assists S. A. Franklin, has acquired his only bad habit—he is a regular Tuesday night fan at the Doyle fistic events. The trouble with Ward is that he usually misses the first bout, which usually ends in a knockout, because he is so b-u-s-y, and he loves to see them topple over.

Eugene De Rue has gone and done it. He has bought himself a new car and isn't at all stingy with it, either, for coming to work or going home from Universal he usually brings a load of greats and near-stars to or from their daily labors. That's what I call a real man.

"The Shepherd of the Hills" opens today at the Randolph in Chicago.

Organizations

• • •

The Motion Picture Directors' Association meets at its office in room 381 of the Alexandria Hotel every other Thursday evening at 8:00. The officers of the organization are: Wm. D. Taylor, director; Raymond West, assistant director; Murdock MacQuarrie, technical director; Roy Clements, secretary, and Charles Swickard, treasurer.

The Assistant Directors Association meets every other Friday night at the Hayward Hotel. The officers are: Allan Watt, president; Harry Schenck and Rex Hodge, vice-president, and Scott R. Beal, secretary-treasurer; Art Flaven, sergeant-at-arms.

The Motion Picture Producers' Association new officers are: Charles H. Christie, president; W. S. Smith, first vice-president; Wm. Sistrom, second vice-president; Thos. H. Ince, third vice-president; Frank A. Garbutt, treasurer; and W. J. Reynolds, secretary.

Los Angeles Theater Owners' Association meets every other Wednesday at 12 o'clock noon at Christopher's. A luncheon is held, at which some studio is invited to send artists as guests. The business meeting follows the luncheon, which is open to any one at 60 cents per plate. F. A. MacDonald is president of the association and Glenn Harper, secretary. The secretary may be reached at the Rosebud theater, 20th and Central.

Where to Sell Your Scenarios

This feature is for the guidance of scenario writers who have something to sell, but who do not know just where to take it. CAMERA! keeps this column for announcements by the various studios. Some of the matter stands from week to week as a reference guide. It will be noted that many of the studios do not wish scenarios submitted by any one; some want synopses only; others wisn the continuity written.

As the difficulties of the past years in regard to the submissions of scenarios no longer exist, it is safe for any one with a good idea to send scenarios to any company mentioned in this column. While this paper is not responsible for the use or misuse of scenarios by the companies listed, it believes that any scenario sent to any of the companies will receive honest and prompt treatment. Any action to the contrary will receive full publicity if reported to this office.

MABEL CONDON EXCHANGE, 6035-37 HOLLYWOOD BLVD. Buying only books, plays and magazine stories, except the work of a few authors on contract.

MOROSCO FILM COMPANY, 201 N. OCCIDENTAL. See Laskey Market.

CHRISTIE COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. In the market for one and two reel comedies. Breezy, snappy incidents must be present in a marked degree. The Christie Comedies feature Bobby Vernon, Earl Rodney, Dorothy De Vore, Jay Belasco, Ethel Lynn, Fay Tincher and Patricia Palmer. Please sumbit by mail.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA PRODUCING COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. Scott Sydney, the producer, wants one reel stories suitable for Elinor Field.

WILLIS AND INGLIS, WRIGHT & CALLENDER BLDG. Neither purchasing nor accepting on consignment any original scenarios. Handling only photoplay rights to books, plays and short stories.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS COMPANY, SUNSET AND ARGYLE. Prefers considering the original work of screen authors, having always been keen to develop those writers who showed ability.

NATIONAL FILM COMPANY, 6107 SANTA MONICA BLVD. In demand for 5-reel comedy-dramas featuring "Billie" Rhodes. Also 2-reel comedies for "Smiling Bill" Parsons, and 5-reel heavy dramas for Henry Walthall, and 2-reel comedies for the de Havens, with domestic situations.

VITAGRAPH COMPANY, 1708 TALMADGE ST. The company buys no scenarios in the West, the same being taken care of by the Eastern Vitagraph Company at East Fifteenth and Locust avenue, New York.

THE DOROTHY GISH COMPANY, SUNSET STUDIO, 4520 SUNSET BLVD. Is in the market for five and six reel comedy-dramas, featuring Miss Gish.

DAVID WARK GRIFFITH occasionally buys synopses suited to Mr. Griffith's people and style. Stories should be submitted to M. M. Stearns, 4500 Sunset Blvd.

FOX STUDIO, SUNSET AND WESTERN. The company has its own staff writers, but will consider comedy-dramas and straight dramas with a strong love element. Also Western comedy-dramas for Tom Mix. Nothing less than 5 reels.

METRO, 1025 LILLIAN WAY. Maxwell Karger is manager of productions and June Mathis is head of the scenario department. Outside material is also considered. Good live American stories with a melodramatic touch for Bert Lytell. Comedy-romances of a lighter nature for May Allison. Snappy melodramas for Hale Hamilton; comedy-romances and comedy-dramas for Viola Dana, and dramas that are typically Nazimova for Nazimova.

WILLIAM HART STUDIO, 1215 BATES ST. Maintains no scenario department, but manuscriptts for Bill Hart will be considered. The stories must not take Mr. Hart out of his characterization, but they must have new ideas, a different twist. Pays upon acceptance.

GOLDWYN PICTURE CORPORATION, CULVER CITY. Will consider ingenue roles having a touch of pathos, for May Marsh; ingenue roles that are rather fantastic for Madge Kennedy; strong emotional dramas for Pauline Frederick; and 5-reel comedy for Tom Moore. Nothing under 5 reels.

THE AMERICAN FILM COMPANY. SANTA BARBARA, CAL., is in the market for five-reel photoplays suitable for either male or female leads; also for strong stories requiring balanced casts. Arthur J. Zellner is head of the Scenario Department.

THOMAS H. INCE COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Buys no outside material except from well-known writers on contract. Has own staff writers.

TOURNEUR FILM COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Interested only inscripts of large calibre, 6 or 7 reels. No society plays and no comedy.

FATTY ARBUCKLE COMEDIES, 1723 ALLESANDRO ST. Two-reel comedies having the essentials of a good opening and a good finish, and the gags must be unusually clever.

MUTUAL FILM COMPANY, 72 WEST TWENTY-THIRD STREET, New oYrk. Will consider feature photoplays with parts suitable for Gail Kane.

BACON-PACKER FILM CORPORATION, 230 WEST THIRTY-EIGHTH ST., NEW YORK. Society dramas with women leads are needed.

ANITA STEWART CO., 4634 SANTA MONICA BLVD. In the market for 5-reel society dramas for Anita Stewart.

CHAPLIN STUDIO, 1420 LA BREA. Buys no outside material. Charlie Chaplin writes his own scripts.

PALMER ADVISORY BUREAU, 571-591 I. W. HELLMAN BLDG. We market material for Palmer members and recognized writers only. Have calls for all types of stories including serials.

L-KO FILM COMPANY, SUNSET AND GOWER. Buys comedy ideas. Does not want the continuity written by outside writers.

UNITED PICTURE THEATRES CORPORATION, BRUNTON STUDIOS. Buying only high-class stories having Eastern or Western atmosphere which have sufficient action for 6 reels. Address scenarios to William Lord Wright.

BRUNTON STUDIOS, 5341 MELROSE AVE. Scenarios for the following companies may be addressed to Captain R. B. Kidd, Scenario Editor, or to the individual companies.

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG is in the market for straight drama; 6 reels.

JACK PICKFORD can use stories of the good-natured, small-town boy; 6 reels.

BESSIE BARRISCALE will consider strong emotional roles with the society element; also comedy-dramas; 5 to 7 reels.

FRANK KEENAN'S scenarios must contain strong, virile, masterful character delineation; 6 reels.

MAYFLOWER COMPANY, GEORGE TUCKER, All Star cast, will consider 7-reel super-features dealing with modern society.

SESSUE HAYAKAWA plays Japanese, Chinese and Far Eastern characters. Sympathetic roles and roles having to do with self-sacrifice are preferred to sentimental parts; 6 reels.

EARLE WILLIAMS uses 5 and 6-reel society plays.

STEWART EDWARD WHITE CO. Produces only Mr. White's books.

ZANE GREY FILM CO. Not in market. Films Mr. Grey's novels.

MARY PICKFORD COMPANY. Not in the market at present for outside material.

FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CO., BOYLE AND STEPHENSON AVE. Two and 5-reel dramatic stories of the West for Texas Guinan. One-reel comedies for Mack Swain.

UNITED PICTURES CORPORATION, 1600 BROADWAY, N. Y. In market for strong emotional features with problem theme for Florence Reed—five reels.

JESSE D. HAMPTON CO., 1425 FLEMMING ST. Will consider scenarios suitable for H. B. Warner, W. Desmond and Jack Kerrigan; five reels.

KATHERINE MACDONALD CO., PICO AND GEORGIA STS. Society or emotional dramas of 5 reels for Miss MacDonald. Address scenarios to Ursula March.

BRENTWOOD FILM CO., 4811 FOUNTAIN AVE. In market for modern American stories, with good theme predominating. Must have human interest, with characterization true to life. Five-reel features only.

UNIVERSAL FILM CO., UNIVERSAL CITY. In the market for 1-reel comedies and 2-reel Western. Will consider Western feature stories for Harry Carey; strong emotional drama for Dorothy Phillips and Mary MacLaren; feature character stories for Priscilla Dean; and outdoor character material for Monroe Salisbury.

RUTH ROLAND

cluded the two birch back canoes, was loaded. We had to change at Fresno. Well, to make a long story short, the picture was one of many circulated by a certain real estate firm that was promoting the sale of the barren and waterless country. The expense of that trip would have paid the salary of an efficient location man for sometime.

"Take for instance smoke pots that won't smoke, and six-shooters that won't shoot, having been bought second-hand to inconsistently economize. Then too, the tires on the location busses—seconds—a blow-out holds a company back, which costs much more than dependable tires in the first place. One man claimed that he had saved $28.00 on two tires, and it cost the company close to $600 in loss of time.

"The other day, the cameras were loaded in a Packard which carried 'seconds' all around. The company started to work at nine, and it was one-thirty when the crank actually turned.

"Another time a member of the company didn't bring certain wearing apparel called for, he wasn't told about it. Carelessness and lack of detail combined.

"Then you know, that often the lights aren't ready at nine o'clock. Perhaps only one hour is lost. but that is one-sixth of a day's work. And no matter if your picture makes you thousands of dollars that overhead expense is absolutely lost to you.

"One afternoon, on location, members of another company took three-quarters of an hour to pick flowers in a vacant lot, instead of ordering them from a florist and having them on hand—ready to shoot.

"While taking a scene in 'Hands Up,' I almost lost my life, due to thoughtlessness on the part of the man who was directing me at that time. I was placed upon the back of a temperamental stunt horse which was blindfolded and reinless. It was to run along a narrow trail with me. A thirty-five foot drop was on one side and a fifty foot drop on the other. Instead of placing cowboys on each side, no preparation was made. Upon a jab in the ribs, the animal ran—not along the trail but over. It's the biggest wonder in the world that I wasn't killed. The flesh was all torn away from the inside of my left leg below the knee, and the chords were jammed. I was laid up a long time, and after shooting all the scenes they could which did not necessitate my presence, the company had to wait. Lack of detail once more.

"When I have my own company," and Miss Roland stopped herself, "I mean if I should ever have my own company. harmony will be the keynote from the property man to the smallest boy on the lot. It will be THEIR picture, and I will gladly consider any suggestions from them on efficiency in their department. If there is one person who is not in harmony with the mechanism of my productions—he must go. Like a rotten apple in a barrel of good ones, it is likely to spoil the others."

Ruth Roland is one of the very few who has made the jump from comedy to straight drama, and did it satisfactorily. She was a Kalem comedienne, when doubles were unheard of, which may account for her willingness to perform the hazardous work herself.

Miss Roland is expected back in about a month and we will know more then about her future plans.

The Metro publicity office was honored by being the scene of a conference of scribes this week. Rob Wagner of the Saturday Evening Post; E. A. Barrymore of the Dramatic Mirror; and Edward C. Thomas of the Exhibitors' Trade Review, being the said conference.

Anne Schaefer was the leading lady sent west by the Vitagraph Company in 1911.

STATEMENT OF THE OWNERSHIP, MANAGEMENT, CIRGULATION, ETC., REQUIRED BY THE ACT OF CONGRESS OF AUGUST 24, 1912

Of Camera!, published weekly at 4513 Sunset Blvd., Los Angeles, California. for April 1, 1919.

State of California. County of oLs Angeles. ss.

Before me. a Notary Public. in and for the State and County aforesaid, personaly appeared Elmer M. Robbins, who, having been duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that he is the editor of the "Camera!" and that the following is, to the best of his knowledge and belief. a true statement of the ownership, management (and if a daily paper, the circulation). etc., of the aforesaid publication for the date shown in the above caption, required by the Act of August 24, 1912, embodied in section 443, Postal Laws and Regulations, printed on the reverse of this form, to-wit:

1. That the names and addresses of the publisher, editor, managing editor, and business manager sare: Publisher, E. M. Robbins and Raymond Cannon, Los Angeles, Cal.; Editor, T. M. Robbins, Los Angeles, Cal.; Managing Editor, E. M. Robbins, Los Angeles, Cal.; Business Manager, Raymond Cannon, Los Angeles, Cal.

2. That the owner is E. M. Robbins, Los Angeles, Cal.

3. That the known bondholders mortgagees, and either security holders owning or holding 1 per cent or more of total amount of bonds, mortgages or other securities are Raymond Cannon, Los Angeles, Cal.

4. That the two paragraphs next above, giving the names of the owners, stockholders, and security holders, if any. contain not only the list of stockholders and security holders as they appear upon the books of the company but also, in cases where the stockholder or security holder appears upon the books of the company as trustee or in any other fiduciary relation, the name of the person or corporation for whom such trustee is acting, is given; also that the said two paragraphs contain statements embracing affiant's full knowledge and belief as to the circumstances and conditions under which stockholders are security holders who do not appear upon the books of the company as trustees, hold stock and securities in a capacity other than that of a bona fide owner; and this affiant has no reason to believe that any other person, association, or corporation has any interest direct or indirect in the said stock, bonds, or other securities than as so stated by him.

PRODUCTION NOTES AROUND HOLLYWOOD

Week Beginning May 25

DUNCAN GOES NORTH

William Duncan leaves this week for Huntington Lake near Fresno, to look over the ground for locations that will suit the major portions of the new Vitagraph serial. If the region is found suitable the company will follow him there within a few days and will remain in the big woods for several months.

"THE FIGHTERS

P. D. Sargent presented Clyde Westover's story, "The Fighters," in the form of a six-reel photoplay for preview at Tally's Broadway Theatre, Saturday night. It is a story of a prize-fighter who went to one of the Nevada mining camps to engage in a finish fight with the local champion, and who was the victim of a frame-up as soon as he struck town.

AMERICAN LIFOGRAPH CO.

Jean Hersholt writes us from Portland, Oregon, to say he is co-directing with Raymond Wells and also assisting in the production of "Martyrs of Yesterday" an historical Indian melodrama of eight reels. Lew H. Moomaw, late of Burton Holmes Travelogues, is turning the crank. The leads will be Barney H. Sherry, Jean Hersholt and Melbourne McDowell.

IN "MICROBE" CAST

Kenneth Harlan has signed a contract to appear as leading man for Viola Dana in "The Microbe." This talented young actor just finished a leading part with Mary Pickford, and is well known as a Lois Weber star. The cast also includes Arthur Maude, who has been associated with Constance Crawley in Shakespearean productions; Henry Otto, Ned Horworth and Lucy Donahue.

A NEW COMPANY

Upton Sinclair, Walter McNamara and the Romayne Superfilm Company have amalgamated.

It is the purpose of the organization to blaze new trails in the way of productions.

Mr. Sinclair's name is familiar all over the world as the author of such famous novels as "The Jungle," etc. Mr. McNamara is also internationally famous as author, director, war correspondent and humorist.

AT SANTA BARBARA

The casting department of the American Studios at Santa Barbara is being re-organized and enlarged by Studio Manger A. L. Thompson, who is making a special effort to obtain complete data pertaining to every experienced photoplayer in Southern California. In all of the American productions great care is taken to make the cast fit the story perfectly, and all players that may be individually suited for a part are given careful consideration before the selection is finally made.

TO SUPPORT FARRAR

The cast selected to support Geraldine Farrar in her first Goldwyn Picture made in California includes Lou-Tellegen, who has just finished his second season with "Blind Youth." Others include W. Lawson Butt, Naomi Childers, Lydia Yeamans Titus, Arthur Carew, Alec B. Francis, E. J. Connelly, May Giraci, Frances Marion, Mlle. Dione and Hazel Brennon. Mr. Connelly plays with Goldwyn through the courtesy of Metro.

Hazel Brennon is a young Australian actress who is a new screen personality. The role with Miss Farrar is her first important one on the screen.

KERRIGAN BECOMES BRUNTON STAR

J. Warren Kerrigan will in the future appear as a Brunton star. Production arrangements between Mr. Kerrigan and Robert Brunton, covering at present a schedule of ten pictures, have been made. The new company will have its headquarters at the Brunton Studios, and all of the star's pictures are to be personally supervised and produced by Mr. Brunton. The series will be released through the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation.

The initial production, the working title of which is "A White Man's Chance," was started this week under the direction of Ernest C. Warde. The locale is Old Mexico, and the story is one of the vivid romance, love and adventure sort particularly suited to Mr. Kerrigan's personality. "A White Chance" was taken from the magazine story by Johnston McCulley, and put into scenario form by Clifford Howard.

WAYNE MACK BACK ON COAST AGAIN

Wayne Mack has returned to the Pacific coast to make his own pictures. Mack is one of the old-timers who helped put the motion in motion pictures.

Mr. Mack has surrounded himself with a capable crew, including "Bud" Erickson, Harvey Libby handling the purchasing of properties; H. Teichman, technical director, with Steve Norton and Bob Kline on the cameras.

Sunshine Mary Anderson, who has just finished with Henry Walthall's company, has been signed by Mr. Mack to star in his productions. In the first, which, by the way, is Mack's original story, Jack Connelly will play opposite Miss Anderson. The supporting cast is equally well chosen, including Jack Mower, Adelaid Elliott, Fred Gamble, Lillian Rosine, Arthur Mallette and Bert Wooduff.

The old Essanay Studio at Culver City, which has long lain idle, has been leased by Mr. Mack and he and his "family" are now cosily installed and hard at work.

The cast for May Allison's picture, "Free,' is completed.

Kathline Kerrigan, sister of J. Warren Kerrigan, has an excellent serio-comic part as the Czarine of "The New Freedom."

Charles Ray has just completed a photoplay under the title of "Whistling Jim," in which he had to appear as a prize-fighter. After many strenuous rounds in the arena, the scenes were secured and Charles Ray is still safe and sound. He had the distinction of boxing, during the production of this picture, with such famous fighters as Al Kauffman, Cliff Jordan, Ray Kirkwood and Jimmie Fortney.

Interesting Universal Notes

From Ham Beall

The Eddie Polo serial organization has left for New York on the first lap of a globe-circling tour, during which "Trailed Around the World," the serial to be launched by Carl Laemmle, will be filmed under the direction of J. B. McGowan. Peggy Aarup, the blonde beauty, will play beside Polo.

William S. Campbell, the animal comedy producer, has resumed the making of "Wild Lions and Loose Bandits," his forthcoming two-reel release. The illness of Joe Martin, Universal's precious orang-outang, and his subsequent trip to the hospital, where he underwent an operation, held up the picture.

Hundreds of extras are being used for atmosphere by Eric Von Stroheim in his screen play, "The Pinnacle," and an enormous architectural accomplishment has been expressed by Universal's technical corps in a Tyrolean village erected for Von Stroheim at an expenditure of several thousand dollars.

Two items of interest to the exhibitor appear in the fact that Allen J. Holubar and Jack Ford have practically completed their latest productions. Holubar directed Dorothy Phillips in "The Right to Happiness," in which scintillate half a score of filmland's most prominent actor-folk and impressive mobs of extras, and Ford produced "A Man of Peace," starring Harry Carey with Peggy Pearce in the feminine leading part.

Mary MacLaren, Robert Andersen and other members of Tod Browning's company, that is making Fannie Hurst's story, "The Petal on the Current," for the screen, have gone to San Francisco for exterior scenes.

"Devil's Have Their Friends," the Monroe vehicle, which took the star and his big company to Big Bear in the San Bernardino mountains, has brought them back to take interior scenes under Paul Powells direction. Colleen Moore is playing opposite Salisbury.

Jacques Jaccard, directing Marie Walcamp, has taken his organization to Sonora, Northern California, to shoot western scenes for "Tempest Cody Hits the Back Trail," the first of the new Marie Walcamp series of short, rapid-action western dramas.

Pete Morrison, supported by Magda Lane, is producing, under George Holt's direction, a new western play written by William Pigott. It is called "A Fortune at Stake."

The famous Joseph Medill Patterson story, "A Little Brother of the "Rich," is being completed under Lynn Reynold's direction. Frank Mayo and Kathryn Adams are being featured.

A tremendous fight between Hedda Nova, Leo Maloney and a score of others who figure in Mlle. Nova's new screen play, marked activities in the George Seigmann producing camp the last week. "The Spitfire of Saville," which was written by J. F. Poland, is nearing completion.

Al Santell is making a Neal Burns-Josephine Hill comedy called "Babies Is Babies," and Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran have cut loose with another one-reel joy drama, "Watch Your Step, Children." "Heart Troubles" has just been finished by the twin-funster-stars.

David Butler, who played the part of the "boob" husband in Mary MacLaren's "The Unpainted Woman," has been engaged for a role in "The Petal on the Current,' which Tod Browning is making with Miss MacLaren in the title role.

Vic Potel of "Slippery Slim" comedy film fame will have a humorous role in "The Petal on the Current."

Anthony W. Coldewey is the newest addition to the continuity staff. Coldewey started in the film game as a Universal staff writer, then went to American under William Piggott, who is now manager of Universal's serial organizations. He was responsible for the screen adaptation of the Richard Bennett plays and for a number of William Russell productions. He also wrote and directed for L-KO and Mack Sennett. He is now doing western scenarios for the "Big U."

"Sundown Trail" has been purchased for Monroe Salisbury's next starring vehicle.

The story is by J. C. Hawks, who has written a number of William H. Hart's and Dorothy Dalton's best known screen successes.

Marie Walcamp and her entire company, including a cavalcade of cowpunchers, left this week for the old mining country of Northern California, made famous during the days of the gold rush of '49.

This locale near Sonora will be used for the setting of the "Tempest Cody" series of two-reel westerns, which Marie Walcamp is to produce before starting on her next serial vehicle.

Eugene Gaudio is Miss Allison's cameraman.

Howard Gaye has signed a contract with Metro to appear as Miss Allison's leading man in the role of an eccentric college-bred Bolshevik.

Herbert Blache, who directed Mme. Nazimova in "The Brat," is directing May Allison in "Free," under the personal supervision of Maxwell Karger.

Pell Trenton, who with Miss Allison and Miss Kerrigan appeared in the original New York production of the musical morality play, "Everywoman," has a role in "Free."

Earle Williams will begin work in "The Wolf" within a couple of weeks at Lake Tahoe. Jane Novak will play opposite Mr. Williams. Others in the cast are Brinsley Shaw, Robert McKim, and George Nichols.

Jesse D. Hapmton leaves for San Quentin this week. He is not being sent, but goes of his own volition. The purpose of his trip is to film some scenes for "Dead Men's Shoes," which was written by M. E. M. Gibsone.

The first co-star vehicle selected by Thomas H. Ince for Douglas MacLean and Doris May, is "What's Your Husband Doing," from the pen of George V. Hobart. A strong cast with all young players has been selected. Besides Mr. MacLean and Miss May this includes Walter Hiers, Alice Wilson, Norris Johnson, Alice Elliot, William Buckley, Margaret Livingston and J. P. Lockney.

Katherine MacDonald has started work on her second feature production, "The Bleeders," under the direction of Colin Campbell. A number of well-known screen actors have been engaged for the production. Roy Stewart will play the lead in the supporting cast. Kathleen Kirkham, Carlissa Sylwynn, Winter Hall and Wedgewood Nowell all have prominent roles. The story is a drama of social life by Margery Land May, adapted for the screen by J. Grubb Alexander.

Wm. Otts appears in the name part. Texas Magraw is played by Frederick Bond. Jane Tallent portrays Gracie Dupree, the dance-hall girl. Richard Morris is H. Dolliver Gray, the District Attorney. L. M. Wells, as Uncle Dud Wilkins, who is "sager than the sagebrush," is unctuous and lovable. Others were J. V. Ray, humorous in Duke Morrison; Clifford West, Louise Fortune and Albano Luiz.

Lloyd B. Carlton directed the picture, and the camera work was done by Fred G. Hartman.

"The Westerners," Benjamin B. Hampton's special production of Stewart Edward White's famous novel, has been completed at the Brunton Studios, and shipped East for release through the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation. The picture was produced for Great Authors Pictures, Inc., under the direction of Edward Sloman, with an all-star cast of players. "Desert Gold," a special all-star production of Zane Grey's great novel of that title, has been cut and assembled ready for shipment in a few days. "Desert Gold" was directed by T. Hayes Hunter, and produced by Mr. Hampton for Zane Grey Pictures, Inc.

Frank Keenan, star and head of Frank Keenan Productions, Inc., entertained a party of 30 at a pre-view of "The Trap," a five-part drama, at the Robert Brunton studios, the evening of May 21. "The Trap" deals with a phase of the shipping industry on the West Coast. Mr. Keenan is seen as John Benton, a shipbuilder, who is the victim of plotters. The scenario was prepared by Jack Cunningham from an original story by Mrs. Kate Corbaley. Ernest C. Warde staged and directed the production, the third of a series of eight dramas to be distributed by Pathe, under Mr. Keenan's personal supervision. In the cast are: Myles McCarthy, Joseph J. Dowling, Clyde Benson, Edward Brady, T. D. Crittenden, Helene Sullivan, Irene Yaeger, Jean Calhoun, Pell Trenton and Fannie Midgeley.

GET YOUR RELIGION RIGHT

The Reverend Neal Dodd, rector, sponsor, builder and presiding genius over the Motion Picture People's Little Church Around The Corner, has burst forth in the movies in proper style, having during the past week supervised two wedding ceremonies for the pictures.

Father Dodd offers further that any director who is up against it in the matter of detail with regard to weddings, baptisms, christenings and funerals may annihilate his ignorance by calling 599530. This is very generous of Father Dodd, and all directors are advised to take advantage of his offer.

On the Q. T., we might aud that it would be a good idea to have the check book along in order to pass out a few cold samoleons to the treasury of the Motion Picture People's Little Church Around The Corner.

Dear Mr. Robbins:

In your recent issue you made editorial comment on the Eastern movement of several film companies and asked the question, "Does this mean that New York will again be the picture producing center?" It seems to me that there is little prospect of California losing its natural hold on the production of picture plays unless Californians make conditions unbearable.

The present movement East is the regular exodus that takes place each year at this time and that fact that Mr. Griffith has gone to New York has I believe no other significance than the specific requirements of whatever production he has immediately in mind. There will always be companies working in the East and certain stories that will be produced will demand Eastern settings but the majority of the film productions will continue to be produced in California unless as I stated before humanly imposed conditions become such that they out-weigh the natural advantages of the topography and the climate.

When the film companies first came here they were received with open arms and made to feel at home but gradually this has changed until in certain sections and among a certain class, the industry is looked upon as legitimate prey and is often subjected to open abuse.

Certain persons, notably house owners, have even gone so far as to place the motion picture player in the class of undesirables. This condition has been brought about undoubtedly by the unverified reports published of depredations committed by persons, whom when apprehended claim to be members of the profession when in reality they have no occupation and may never have been inside a motion picture studio.

I have personally been present in court when cases of lawlessness have been called and have heard the guilty parties claim to be motion picture players when in truth they were social parasites without occupation.

It is difficult to prevent this blackening of the character of a hard working conscientious profession but with the facts known, it would be well for the citizen to take most of the stories of misconduct layed at the doors of the motion picture profession, with the proverbial "grain of salt." It is well to carefully consider any tale that tends to condemn any profession and greater leniency should be shown to the motion picture fraternity when it is a known fact that membership in their ranks is so glibly claimed by any and every person caught at a loss to account for their support.

There are undesirables in the ranks of the motion players but no more so than in any other line of endeavor and discrimination should be made individually and not as a class.

California will continue to hold the motion picture industry as long as Californians make it welcome.

Very sincerely yours,
WM. S. SMITH,
Vice President Vitagraph Company of California.

BEYOND THE ALEX RUG

At the Alexandria the other noon Sid Grauman and Architect Woolett discussed numerous telegrams over the china. Looks as if Sid might be considering another palace.

IN RETURN

The curtain has dropped on the Theatre of War, the players have dispersed, and the applause is over.

But—do you know that there are players—soldiers who played their part well, that are seemingly forgotten by the audience that but a short time ago took personal pride in the stalwart boys in khaki, and blistered their hands at a showing of a soldier pictograph.

Crocker Hospital, at 418 Crocker street, located here in the wholesale district of Los Angeles, has many lonely soldier boys within its not too cheerful walls. The majority are overseas boys, who have been gassed and wounded, and are still, after all these months of service, far from their homes. Several will be crippled for life, and some will not get well.

"In Return"—a friendly, cheery call, accompanied by home-made jellies, cookies, a little cooking "like mother's"—the calling hours are from two to four every afternoon, and in the evening from seven to eight, that hour when its always sort of lonely, especially if you are a bit downcast anyway.

War work did not end with the closing of the tea rooms.

AN AMERICAN ACE

Lieut. Burnell Manly, one of the leading American aces, who has two Hun planes officially to his credit in addition to several that are now being "traced," is the newest Goldwyn player. He has been engaged for a part in Madge Kennedy's production under the direction of Clarence G. Badger. Lieut. Manly, who has just returned from overseas, enlisted in the aviation service the day after war declared, and became a member of the First Aero Squad. In France with his contingent he was at one time with Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, later leaving to be transferred to the Twenty-fifth Squadron.

The officer fought in the battles of Chauteau Thierry, Champagne and at the second engagement at the Marne. During the first encounter his plane was in action against 11 of the enemy, who were using Allied planes captured at Chateau Thierry. As he was sailing about the clouds, he saw a group of supposedly friendly machines flying below him, and drove to get into formation with them. He did not discover the ruse until almost too late, when five Teuton flyers swooped on top of him. Lieut. Manly managed to escape.

Lighting three cigarettes on one match caused him his only mishap, he says. At Chateau Thierry the night before going into the air Lieut. Manly got a light together with two other of his confreres rom the same match.

"Next day I was shot down," he remarked, "I got another plane and went into action. The following day I was shot down agin, but fortunately was only bruised. Don't tell me that I haven't grounds or superstition."

ROAD BULLETIN

The famous Placerville route leading to Lake Tahoe is now open.

Motorists will also be able to reach Tahoe via the Bishop-Mono Lake route at the presnt time.

Every motorists in the southern part of the state is called upon to help build a road for all-year travel into the Yosemite Valley.

The campaign to raise $1,000,000 is now under way throughout California, and for the southern sections, the Automobile Club of California is actively engaged.

Big Bear Valley. All main roads leading to Big Bear are now open to travel. with the exception of the new City Creek Road which is expected to be completed and open to motorists on June 1. Style Accents

By Vigee

Short Dolmans of velveteen are among the favorites as sports wraps.

The soft, unpressed bottom of suit skirts and wraps are prominent features of late imports.

Semi-fitted lines are introduced in many of the new French frocks.

The sheer frocks for summer have increased the interest in petticoats and many are trimmed with lace and tiny flowers.

There is a decided trend toward the fuller skirt, although the tight foundation stil persists.

If a woman wears furs in August and low shoes in February—why shouldn't she be permitted to wear high shoes in summer.

"Teddy" is a new shade in Fall materials and is of a soft chestnut brown, showing a tinge of old rose.

The burnt and glycerine ostrich trim is bound to be popular throughout the season.

The overblouse, which the French have worn for several seasons, is shown more than ever. Some of them are very long, others show crushed girdle effect, while a number have long sides only.

It is a fact that the longer skirts are adopted by American women only. The frocks designed by Paris cannot be lengthened without spoiling the intended effect. They are drawn in and caught up and paneled in a way that is awkward when length ened.

Pencil-like slimness seems to be the aim of many tailored models. Some of these being so tight the wearer is scarcely able to mount an ordinary stair.

Coral and peach shades are used in place of the more usual pink this season.

Ribbons and flowers are used in profusion on the dance frock, while the more formal evening gowns rely upon their drapery and beauty of material for their decoration.

Linen frocks with organdie collar and cuffs will be immensely smart this summer.

Smart hat bands are being made in felt with wool flowers. Some are cut flowers, while others are embroidered on the band.

Short sleeves and round or oval necks are strong features of the new Paris blouses.

Black satin wraps and coats, banded and trimmed with Hudson seal are smart indeed.

Chambray frocks are noticeable among the ginghams and organdies.

Cording on tailored models is a favorite trimming of the moment.

A navy top coat is a favorite with checked or striped skirts and they are always short and mostly full. A simple tailored hat is correct with this outfit.

The new veils are alluring. The Butterfly designs are good and some of the figured meshes are so strong as to make it almost impossible to recognize the wearer.

A large white season is predicted in summer millinery.

Natural leghorns and tuscans are exceptionally good for the coming warm days.

Black flowers and black fruit will be a new note in trimming the tailored hats.

SOCIAL FRICASSEE AND CAPER SAUCE

BY FLORENCE PORTER PARKS

FRANK E. WOODS RETURNS TO COAST

Supervising Director Frank E. Woods of Paramount productions returned to Los Angeles this week after a business and vacation trip to New York. He was accompanied by Mrs. Woods.

RETURNS FROM FISHING TRIP

Sessue Hayakawa returned last week from Vaca Lake where he spent several days fishing, and resting between pictures. He brought back about a hundred fish which included bass and mountain trout.

FOR MISS FAIR

Elinor Fair was guest of honor at a pretty reception given last week by Miss Fair's cousin, Miss Adelaide Hall, at her home on Hobart Boulevard. The house was decorated in yellow daisies and baby breath. Among the guests were Mrs Arthur Ford, Misses Lila Rand, Julia Westover, Mary Alice Kirby, Constance Dearborn, the latter the daughter of Webster Dearborn, a wealthy Seattle man.

ENTERTAINED AT CLUB

Mrs. Earle Williams entertained six of her Pasadena friends at luncheon Wednesday, at the Athletic Club. An Orpheum party followed. The Williams left for San Francisco Friday, on their second honeymoon. They will stop at the St. Francis a week or so before going to Lake Tahoe.

SIXTH ANNIVERSARY

On June 1st, Otto Lederer, the character actor of Vitagraph's western forces, will celebrate the sixth anniversary of his association with Vitagraph Company and in appreciation of the event Mr. W. S. Smith, studio manager, presented him with a reel of film showing Mr. Lederer in the several hundred characters he has played since joining the company in 1913.

ON THE SANTA YNEZ

Director George L. Cox, assistant V. O. Smith and cameraman R. E. Irish, all of the Margarita Fisher company, enjoyed an outing on the Santa Ynez river last week. The party returned to the American studios Tuesday with a long string of stories about the wonderful fishing, but failed to produce a string of trout to prove the truth of their assertions.

PRESS AGENT JITNEYS

Report comes that J. B. Chapman, press agent for divers Brunton, Hampton, Pathe and special producing companies, has taken unto himself a Ford, and a week's vacation in which to learn to drive. The genial P. A. has just completed the West Coast publicity campaign on "Desert Gold," a Zane Grey production, and "The Westerners," a Stewart Edward White special.

HOME FROM FRANCE

Director William Desmond Taylor is in Los Angeles once more. He returned a Captain although he started out as "Tommy", which is typical of Taylor. He served a year overseas in the Royal Artillery Service Corps and was in England, France, Belgium and Germany.

Director Taylor is again with the Famous-Lasky-Artcraft combination and will direct an all-star cast in an Artcraft special, "Huckleberry Finn," at the Morosco studios.

A FISH STORY

Kathleen Clifford spent the week-end at Catalina. While there Commodore Wriggley handed her a fishing pole and the first thing the fair angler did was to land a baby man-eating shark. And now she doesn't know what to do with the beastie, as it has already outgrown the Hotel Virginia, where Miss Clifford resides, and she declares that she positively will not have him splashing around in her bath tub. Some shark!

THE COMMUNITY THEATRE

The Brentwood studio will be strongly represented on the June program of the Community Theatre, Hollywood. Through the courtesy of King W. Vidor, his assistant, Dick Morgan, will essay the title role of "The Shepherd in the Distance," an Oriental pantomime by Holland Hudson, originally played by the Washington Square Players in New York. The Misses Julanne Johnson and Olive Burton, who appeared in King Vidor's last picture, will take the parts of The Princess and The Slave, respectively. Lavish staging and gorgeous oriental colorings are promised for the nine scenes of this act.

HOW MANY?

Pat Dowling has been host almost every day recently at a waffle feed, at the studio lunchroom. Monday, at high-noon he entertained Clarke Irvine at the wale board. Pat has a little joke all his own, and it proved successful until he sprung it on Irvine. After his guest devours the waffle, Pat makes a bet that the puzzled guest cannot tell how many holes there were in the waffle he ate. In this particular TWO—8350 E M ROBBINS 5-23 Camercase Bennie Ziedman was the stakeholder. Irvine demanded the stakes, because he explained that a waffle has no holes—they are merely dents. He won, and Pat hasn't invited any guests for tomorrow noon.

BILLY RHODES

OPEN HOUSE

Sunday of each week is open-house at the hospitable home of Al Semnacher, at 909 South Ardmore avenue. Last Sunday afternoon the friends who gathered to make merry were Charles Swickard, Bill Duncan, Beverly Travers, Vera Lewis, Ralph Lewis and Nena Dunn.

DINNER AT CLUB

Last Friday evening Douglas Gerard entertained as his dinner guests at the Athletic Club, Pauline Fredericks, Grace Darmond, Dr. Griffith and Robert Graves.

AT THE BUTLER HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Butler were hosts at a dinner party given recently at their home in the West Lake district. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Guy Price, Thurston Hall, Hector Sarno and Mr. and Mrs. Tod Browning. After dinner the evening was spent with cards and music.

CLOSES DANCE STUDIO

Mrs. Christian Lynton closed her studio for classic dancing the middle of the week. Her classes have outgrown the present studio, and in the fall Mrs. Lynton will open her classes on a much more extensive scale. She has taken a cottage at Santa Monica for the summer, and will reside at her home in Hollywood part of the time.

Catherine Curtis entertained several Pasadena friends at dinner Tuesday evening.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. Robert Gollner celebrated her birthday Saturday evening with an informal dinner party at her home. Bidden were Mr. and Mrs. Hesse of San Diego, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Cruze, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Morris and Mr. and Mrs. Pat Kelly.

FUDGE PARTY

Tuesday night Jack Webster gave a Fudge Party at his home on South Ardmore avenue. The feature of the evening was a fudge eating competition, in which about two hundred guests participated. Gertrude Short won the prize. Later there was a dancing contest, at which Sylvia Edney and Antrim Short won. Clara Horton and George Barry drew the consolation prize because they would not dance. Yellow roses were used effectively in decorating Mr. Webster's lovely home.

STUDIO CLUB NOTES

The Misses Marjorie Daw, Chase Herendeen, Julanne Johnston, Shirley Mason, Gladys Carley, Violet Clark, Sarah Mason, Agnes Johnston and Nell Newman assisted Donald Crisp in selling tickets for the Aviator's Memorial Fund at the Aviation Meet on Sunday afternoon at the deMille field.

Miss Marjorie Daw held the lucky number winning a ride in one of the army aeroplanes.

The Woman's Club of Hollywood gave a Victory Fete for returned soldiers, Saturday.

PETE GERALD INJURED

Pete Gerald, Assistant Director of the Francis Ford Studio, was the victim of a Surprise Birthday Party, Saturday night at California Hall, West 30th and Main Streets, in which Director Francis Ford, and his entire company, including the Mysterious 13, participated, the company appearing in black robes. On entering the Hall the "Dirty Dozen of the Mysterious 13," grabbed and blind-folded Mr. Gerald. During the scuffle he was presented with "one black eye," a few minor injuries and a gold watch and chain. Investigation showed that he was not the only one injured in the surprise attack. The presentation, which was made by Director Ford, was followed by a dance, stunts by the company, and a midnight banquet, the table being beautifully decorated and set for fifty members of the silent drama.

SMALL DINNER PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. William Desmond had as their dinner guests Saturday evening at the Athletic Club, Reverend and Mrs. James Neill, of Pasadena, at whose home they were married on the twenty-second of March. Mrs. B. MacIvor, Mrs. Desmond's mother, was also a guest

PHOTOPLAYERS' NIGHT

Last Thursday night was Photoplayers' night at The Ship, the picture people having been especially invited by the management. In one little party were Wanda Hawley, Lila Lee, Minnie Jewell, Sylvia Ashton, Marion Leonhardt, George Fisher, Mr. Mayo, Mr. Masters, Richard Wayne and Cullen Tate. At another table sat Ethel Flemming, Joe King, May Bush, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Reid and Mr. and Mrs. James Cruze. Among others present were Jim Corbett, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Meighan, Shirley Mason, Viola Dana, Lottie Pickford, Jack Pickford and Fatty Arbuckle. The Ship was decorated with pink roses, and at each individual place had some clever favor. Balls of colored confetti and other paper novelties were passed through the crowd. Special cabaret numbers were given, and the regular orchestra was increased by three pieces.

IRENE RICH GOES EAST

Miss Irene Rich, of the Los Angeles film colony, has gone to New York to play a leading role in Billie Rhode's picture. She left last week on the Santa Fe Limited.

After completing scenes in New York, New Orleans and the Key West Islands, all of which figure in the Billie Rhode's picture, Miss Rich will return to her home in Los Angeles.

An informal dance will be given Friday evening with Miss Shirley Mason as guest of honor. All members o the club and friends are cordially invited.

Wednesday night an informal dinner was given in honor of Miss Magda Lane's birthday. The guests were the girls of the club and the Misses Helen Eddy, Zasu Pitts, Julanne Johnston.

Tuesday night Miss Rose Mullaney, Miss Betty Bouton and Mr. Harry Lichtig were guests for dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Biby dined and wined several friends Monday night complimentary to Johnny Douglas who returned from the service last week.

At the Dug-Out, 1848 Morgan Place, Saturday night, Mildred Richter, who "cuts" the Dorothy Gish pictures, was hostess. She was assisted by Irene and Elinore Moore, Virginia Bellas, Louise Bechtoe, Margaret Booth, Frances St. George, Emily Chichester, Mrs. Elmer Clifton, and Mr. and Mrs. James Smith.

WHERE TO FIND THE PEOPLE YOU KNOW

Pick-ups Of The Staff

The Humanity Company is making rapid strides with the present production, which when finished will be one of the best pictures produced on the Coast for a long time, but how can they help it when the leads are supported by such people as Lon Chaney, Walt Whitman, Winter Hall and Mrs. Knott.

A. H. Stuart, CAMERA'S! general utility reporter, is registering a peeve at present. Director Mason Hopper places him behind giants like Burney Durning, Captain Anderson or Milt Brown then he stops the scene while all hands hunt for him and then asks him what he is holding up the picture for.

The Mitchell Lewis Productions Co. have gone to Hemet to stage the exteriors of their new picture. The cast places Gloria Payton playing opposite Mitchell Lewis. Frank Whitson heavy, Patricia Palmer ingenue, Mr. Bradbury directing, Cliff Elfeld assistant, Bob MacManigal at the camera.

Mr. F. S. Reed and Miss Bonnie have bought the Ray's Garden Theatre and are changing the name to The Bonnie Theatre. Give them a visit as they are an old producing firm running the studio at Niles for many years. This week they will give all film folks a chance to say goodbye to the late Hal Lockwood in his last production.

From the way members of the Humanity Company are being approached by other concerns it seems as if Superviser Ollie Sellers and Assistant McClosky must have an edge on the cream at present.

Emmett C. King has the role of the father to Hale Hamilton in "In His Brother's Place."

Ruby LaFayette is the mother in the same Metro picture.

Henry Miller, Jr., has signed to appear with Emmy Wehlen in "A Favor For a Friend."

June Mathis is nearly finished with the scenario for Viola Dana's new picture, "The Microbe," and is nearly through with the cutting and titling of Miss Allison's last picture, "Some Bride."

Lovely Mollie McConnell has just finished a picture with Emmy Whelen in which Mollie played opposite Emmett King, who has recently come out from New York. Mrs. McConnell is now making a picture at the Fox studio in which Peggy Hyland is be ing featured.

Col. Jasper E. Brady has been sporting a cane at the Metro studios this week—not for looks but for lumbago.

D. Anthony Tauszky has moved all his canvases into the administration building at the Metro and is doing his oil painting there. He also moved his residence from the Hotel Clark and is sharing Luther A. Reed's bungalow.

Elmer Clode, hand lettering expert, moved likewise, but only into a new office at the studio.

Edward Connelly has been loaned by Metro to Goldwyn for a role in the picture with Geraldine Farrar.

June Mathis' sister, Laura, is on her way here from Salt Lake City. W. D. Mathis, father of the Metro scen arioist is also here, leaving her grand mother and her pet collie dog the only members of the family in New York.

E. A. Barrymore of the Dramatic Mirror informs us that he has moved his smile and his stenographer to the Markham building, and is now a neighbor to Al Cohn and Miss Margaret Ettinger.

Jack Wilson, popular member of the Charlie Chaplin camera staff, is really not attempting to appropriate the genial countenance of his celebrated employer, because Jack's big smile honestly belongs to him. It came in the wee hours of the morning. A girl, weight eight pounds and two ounces, and Jack says every ounce is worth a million.

Elsie Codd of London, England, who has been Charlie Chaplin's British press representative for the past two years, arrived in Los Angeles Satur day. Miss Codd will be associated with Mr. Chaplin in secretarial and foreign press capacities.

To use a season expression, Charlie Chaplin is certainly "Hitting the ball" for right on the heels of "Sunnyside's" completion, he has started another picture with a vim that bespeaks an early finish.

Tom Gibson, author of "High Speed," "The Midnight Man," "The Bull's Eye," and other screen dramas, has completed the working script for King Vidor's next Brentwood production and rehearsals, prior to screening, are under way.

Florence Vidor, talented wife of her director husband, will return to the screen in this story, the tile of which has not been decided upon. David Butler and Zasu Pitts will be prominent in the supporting players.

Tom Gibson, who collaborated with Mr. Vidor on the story as well as pre pared the continuity, has just returned from Colorado where the production of his story, "The Wolves in Wall Street," is under way by the Art-O-Graf Film Company.

Fred Stone has moved over to the Brunton studios, and with Frank Borzage as director, will make two six-reel Western Comedies.

Monte Banks is with the Bull's Eye Comedy Company, under Chas. Parrot's direction.

C. S. Widom, costumer with the Douglas Fairbanks Company, has been stepping some this past week. Mr. Henabery, who is directing Mr. Fairbanks, is the one to blame. Mr. Widom, otherwise known as Widdy, was with the Famous Players-Lasky corporation for nearly three years, and costumed the Fairbanks productions, in addition to all the other stars, and also had charge of the costuming and properties in May Allison's production, "His Father's Wife," for Metro.

Lucy Donahue is now playing the housekeeper with Viola Dana at Metro.

No, Earle Lynn has not changed his given name to "Jack." It was our mistake, and we herewith apologize.

Tom Ashton is playing a Mexican youth for William Desmond at the Hampton studio.

Frank Good, camera man for Madlaine Traverse, is on his honeymoon. He has taken his wife to Huntington Lake where Miss Traverse is now making scenes for "Until Eternity" under the direction of Harry Millards.

Gladys Brockwell has gone to Tucson to make more Western scenes for her picture, "Sadie" which is being directed by Frank Beal. They will be away a week.

Bill Seiter, director of the De Haven feature comedies, is cutting his latest production, "After the Bawl." Work will commence shortly on a new comedy, the De Havsn indulging in a short vacation during the interval between pictures.

"Smiling Bill" Parsons will film a pair of comedies during his sojourn in the eastern metropolis, under the direction of Louis Chaudet.

Henry Walthall has finished his latest feature, "The Parted Curtains," and after a short vacation will start on his new vehicle, "The Confession," under the direction of Bertram Bracken.

Charles Meredith comes to the Brentwood from the Morosco Theatre Stock Company and will support Florence Vidor in King W. Vidor's next picture.

David Butler comes back to the Brentwood for the next King Vidor picture with Florence Vidor, Zasu Pitts and Charles Meredith.

Emily Chichester will leave for New York City when she finishes work in the present Dorothy Gish picture.

Alice Wilson is working at the Ince studio with the MacLean-May company.

Edna Harris, "Little Mother of the Studio Club," will leave Monday for Laguna in company with her mother, to spend a week in relaxation and rest.

Cullen Landis has signed a five-year contract with Goldwyn, and is to play opposite Mabel Normand in her forthcoming production under the direction of Victor Schertzinger. This is the result of his capital work in the Rex Beach production which Reginald Barker has just completed, and a part is being written for him in the first Will Rogers play.

Thomas H. Ince will show to the public in the forthcoming Dorothy Dalton picture, "The Market of Souls," what is said to be the most pretentious set ever constructed within a moving picure studio.

Pauline Fredericks' choice of leading men seems to have settled on Milton Sills, who is to appear opposite her in her next Goldwyn picture under the guidance of Reginald Barker. He has just completed "The Fear Woman" with Miss Frederick.

Jesse D. Hampton returned to the studio after having suffered for more than a week with tonsilitis.

Lloyd Whitlock arrived in Los Angeles last week, from Kansas City where he was called on account of the ilness of his mother. He will play opposite Bessie Love in her next production.

Bessie Barriscale and her company are in La Jolla, down the California coast a hundred miles, on her new picture. Howard Hickman is able to be with the company, but is not working because he is too weak from his recent attack of pneumonia.

Lois Wilson is now working with Bryant Washburn, and may remain for two or more pictures.

Fritzi Brunette, having five days between pictures, is taking a vaction.

Bertram Grassby starts work at the Brunton studios with Sessue Hayakawa this week.

Mary Anderson started work this week in the old S & A studios at Culver City with the Wayne Mack comedy players.

Tom Santschi is again on the Fox cast list, being on location at Huntington Lake with Madalaine Traverse and company.

Director Henry King, who signed with Ince, came to Los Angeles this week with Mrs. King and their little daughter, where he left them to pick out a bungalow, for June first he starts work at the Ince plant.

Alfred Whitman has signed a contract to appear in stock at the Los Angeles Morosco Theatre.

Doris Baker is now in stock at the William Fox studios.

Jack Gilbert has joined the Morosco studios and will be working with Marguerite Clark under the direction of Walter Edwards.

Ora Carew, one of the latest independent stars to have her own company, starts work next week on her second production.

Lewis J. Cody, the he-vamp of the screen, has gone to New York to give Broadway a treat.

Mitchell Lewis and his players have gone up to Oregon to get some timber scenes.

Jimmy Aubrey, Vitagraph's eccentric comedian, went on a fishing trip over the week end.

Patricia Palmer, who has been playing leads in many recent Christie Comedies, has been loaned by the Christie Company to play the leading role in support of Mitchell Lewis in a story being made at the Columbia River in Washington.

Hampton Del Ruth, editor and supervising director of William Fox Sunshine Comedies has added Bin Moore to his directoria staff. This makes four directors now working under Del Ruth.

Hoppy Hopkins, late of San Francisco, is busily engaged on the titles of the National productions.

Isidore Bernstein, production manager at the National studios, has returned from a most successful trip to New York. He is fired with his usual enthusiasm, an asset that has done much to further the success of National productions.

It is reported that "Smiling Bill" Parsons is smiling all over New York since the latest news pertaining to Presisent Wilson's recommendations.

Bilie Rhodes and company are hard at work in New York on her new feature de luxe, "The Blue Bonnet," under the direction of Louis Chaudet.

Harry Lictig, casting director of the Mary Pickford Company, has severed his connections, and is now a personal representative for some of the leading lights of filmdom.

Maxwell Karger left New York Wednesday en route to Los Angeles with a pocketful of contract to produce seven-reel features commencing the middle of June, which includes such Broadway successes as "Fair and Warmer," "Willow Tree," and others. The old Metro lot has been added to the new plant, and things are due to hum out that way.

E. V. Durling, well known as an author, press representative, and general booster for cinemaland, is now acting as a personal representative for stars and near-greats of the profession.

IRVING CUMMINGS quit Saturday night at Oakland, where he had a ten-weeks' stock engagement, and can be expected to be back among us and once more appearing before a movie camera at so much per week.

Charles Merdith is leaving Morosco's, and has a number of inviting picture offers, which means that Charles won't be idle long.

Edwin Carewe is directing Bert Lytell at the Metro, which means that the theatregoers will be in for a treat in the form of A1 production.

Mary McIvor has been cast by Rose Mullaney to play leads with Hale Hamilton at the Metro studio. Rose has a faculty for cornering live ones.

Ethel Spurgeon, well known in musical comedy, is appearing in the W. S. Campbell comedies at the Universal. Playing with the lions and everything, so she should worry about the footlights.

Eddie Polo is still one of our residents; he is appearing in Universal pictures under the direction of J. P. McGowan, and expects soon to go to Europe.

Peggy Arrup leaves Sunday with the J. P. McGowan Company for New York and sails June 7 for Europe as leading lady to Eddie Polo, where she will appear in Universal Special Features.

Rose Mullaney and a party of friends motored Saturday evening to San Diego, spending the week-end in the southern city. Pretty soft, R. M.

Mack Wayne has in his cast at Culver City such well-known artists as Sunshine Mary Anderson, Jack Connelly, Jack Mower, Adelaide Elliott, Fred Gamble, Lillian Rosine, Arthur Mallette and Bert Wooduff, using the old Essaney studio. Bud Erickson is the assistant, while Steve Norton and Bob Kline are the comeramen.

Jack Glavey is making the rounds of the studios in the interest of Meredith P. Snyder, for the coming election, on the subject of settling who is to be our mayor. He's more than making good for Mister Snyder.

James J. Corbett was given the thrill of his life when a gopher snake in a box got away from Fontine La Rue while the pair were riding in a machine into Hollywood. James J. almost made a new door for himself getting out of the car. It was some excitement for the ex-champion.

CHIT, CHAT AND CHATTER

By Harry Burns

Mitchell Lewis and his company are comfortably located at Keene's Camp, near Idylwild. Cliff Elfeldt is assisting Edward Bradbury who is directing. Patricia Palmer is the leading lady, and they expect to stay up in the hills for three weeks.

Mack Swain, dame rumor has it, will move his troupe over to the Brunton studio where he will produce his "Poppy Brand" of comedies, which are being directed by R. J. Raymaker.

Sam Woods, who assists Cecil B. de Mille, points to six proluctions that his chief has put over the past year, and says that his next one will be even greater than any he has made, for he has an excellent story and that they are going to Santa Cruz Islands for quite a spell.

Lou Howland, who used to sign Lasky checks as an assistant director and held such a job down for three years there, is now continuity clerk and scenario reader with the Douglas Fairbanks Co. and doing fine.

Jane Talent is playing leads with Pete Morrisson out at the Universal. She has been trying to get an opportunity for some time, and George Holt finally agreed to give her a chance and to say she is making good is putting it mildly.

Jack Cooper, that funny fellow who used to cut capers in the Keystone days, is now being featured in Fox-Sunshine Comedies. He signed a year's contract with the Fox corporation, which is in itself enough recommendation for the laddie who has a twang to conversation that listens very much like his Hinglish was made abroad and almost forgotten here.

Larry McGrath, who is doing the well meaning minister in the two-reel western comedy that gets into all sorts of difficulties in the W. S. Campbell story now in the making. Used to be a physical director of one of the leading New York athletic clubs, of which George Walsh at one time held the very same position. Larry sure is a fighting sky pilot.

William Farnum is nearing the end of his third picture since his coming back to the Southland, and will take a two weeks' vaction at the completion of his present story. This will give the hard working director, J. Gordon Edwards, and his right hand men, Al Smith and Mike Miggons, a breathing spell. Which they will greet with open arms, for they have been going some.

Chas. Clary dropped in from Palm Springs where he has been playing opposite Wiliam Farnum and to hear the well known artist tell some of the tales of the hills would make one feel that it was the only place in he world to live if one wants complete rest and comfort. But, when a director wakes you up a 5 a. m. so that you will be ready to work at 7 o'clock as the sun creeps o'er the hills. 'Tis a good place to stay away from. What say you?

Frank B. Good, who is famed as an auto racer, and who has been also making a name for himself as a cameraman, is in line for congratulations from his many friends, for about a month ago he slipped away and married Dot Clare, whom he has known for three years, and has awaited this opportunity and only by accident did his friends get in on his secret, and now the happy pair are spending their prolonged honeymoon at Huntington Lake where Frank is photographing Madaline Travers and her company in exterior scenes for the William Fox Corporation.

Clarence Sovrin, who feels as much at home on a horse leaping a chasm as the ordinary man does while walking along the street, has been engaged by W. S. Campbell to do some of his favorite stunts in his present picture in the making at the Big U. The other day Clarence rode a horse up a flight of stairs on to a balcony out on to a porch and leaped to a near-by roof top.

Joe Martin for the past week has been suffering from a severe cold and has had his head bandaged up. His daily playmate in the Universal pictures, Arthur Newell, called on him. Joe heard his voice, reached out felt his hand and kissed it. That's appreciation from a orang tang.

The Motion Picture Players' Union are going to give an informal ball Saturday night, May 31st, at the Auditorium of Labor Temple, which no doubt will be attended by a great gathering of the clans who make photoplays for outside of their membership, the union has a great following and I for one look forward to an excellent evening's pleasure and a sort of a get-together of everybody worth while in the profession.

Gilbert Pratt, who directs Montgomery and Rock at the big V studio informs me that he is getting fat on the job, both in bank roll and waist line, not that he boys doesn't keep him hopping sideways to keep them supplied with stories, gags and situations, but its like one big happy family to work with them.

William Duncan, who's middle name is "serial" is up to his old tricks in his present story. Theatre-goers have been flocking to see "The Man of Might," his latest picture, and if he keeps up his present pace that he is setting in the one now in the making, he will be in line for a place in the filmland hall of fame.

Isadore Bernstien, general manager of the National, is once more on the job, having returned from the metropolis Wednesday night and from now on we can expect to see fellows who draw National checks step high and speedy to show Mr. Bernstien that they haven't lost any of their old time pep while he was away.

Hugh McClung has written finis to his initial comedy that he made at the Balboa studio and now he will show it to the powers that be and if they like the story he will be given a contract to produce some more.

Jess Willard went to Balboa with a bunch of cowboys to film some scenes the other day, and from what I heard about the trip the heavyweight champ got more excitement from it than he will derive out of his fistic tilt with Jack Dempsey.

W. S. Campbell is on the last lap of his third story out at the Universal and reports that his present production is going to be by far superior to any that he has yet made. He also announces that he has surrounded himself with one of the strongest comedy casts that has yet been rounded together for a two-reel subject.

Slim Peppercorn denies that he left the L K-O on account of a quarrel with Chas. Doherty over that now famous burro, but because he was offered better inducements. There is all sorts of rumors anent the pair and some even have gone so far to say that Charles has a detective watching the animal fearing that Slim will lead it astray from his present home.

Bob Vernon and Reggie Morris, "those nifty boys" and their wives had a narrow escape last Sunday when there was a continual stream towards De Mille Aviation Field of autos past Western Avenue. One of those harem skarem fellows who has a special permit to break all speed records shot right in front of their car and almost turned them over and wrecked himself turning out of the way while trying to beat them across the crossing. It was their lucky day, that's all, folks.

Chas. J. Parrott is doing a rain storm picture, working nights, since nature was so good to him to allow a down pour of water a number of evenings last week. The Bull's Eye Co. was saved some expenses of making make-believe rain.

Craig Hutchinson started his second picture out at the Universal, and seems very much pleased with his surroundings, for he finds every facility there for picture making, hence the outcome is just one round of pleasure for all concerned.

James Young and his assistant, Chester Bennett, were Universal visitors the other day. They looked over some sets, evidentally for future use in the Earle Williams stories.

Marshall Neilan, 'tis said, is to produce "In Old Kentucky," taking his company to New Orleans to film the race track scenes. Here is an instance of one being paid for taking a pleasure jaunt, for who wouldn't like to go across the Mason and Dixon line and take in the king of sports amid the Southern atmosphere? And to Mister Neilan they owe that vote of thanks.

Charles Murray slipped out to Vernon Tuesday night with Daddy Murray and took a peek at the fistic doings. To see the pair together is one big pleasure, for if ever there was a devoted son, the well-known comedian sets an example for others to follow; for he and Murray senior are just like two faithful pals.

Charles Doherty was out to Vernon Tuesday night celebrating his birthday. He refused to say how many milestones he had passed, but he said that by the time his next day of celebration comes around, he will own a real car, and have all the luxuries becoming of a star, and that he doesn't expect to stick to slapstick comedies. Listens good at that.

Max Davidson expects to get started again in about a week, making his own pictures. Satisfied with the success he had in his last two releases, he feels that he can step right out now and show his townspeople that he can be his own boss, and turn out regular pictures.

Troy Brown, a well-known cameraman, has formed a motion picture photography company with J. E. Roberson and Rudolph Bylek, which promises to be a new innovation in the film game. He has the support of some influential people and backing and will exhibit his pictures throughout the country on an independent basis.

Wallace Reid just finished a picture under the direction of James Cruze, and 'tis said his next narrative will be "The Lottery Man," which suits his acting prowess to a nicety.

Al Jennings is doing "A Mexican Badman" with the Jess Willard Co. over at Brunton's, which carries him throughout the story. Al is a good character heavy and is very much in demand these days.

Charles Conklin has bought a new car and introduced it to the Vernon path, stopping at Doyle's to take in the fistic doings. On the way home that night the machine brought home an awful load. No, kind readers, it was a number of friends that saw the show —not the kind you thought I was going to write about; for Charles isn't that kind of a man.

Gladys Brockwell showed that she is chuck full of fighting spirit when she had to turn loose. The other day she swung a haymaker on the jaw of one Nelson McDowell, which caused the said gentleman to miss a few meals, for, oh mommer, how that jaw did ache! Her director shouted "Make it look real, Gladys," and she did as she was instructed.

William Elmer has cast his lot with the Fox Company, and will play opposite Peggy Hyland. While he is picking up this money his friend wife is looking after his interests in the Burbank Theatre. Pretty soft for some people, but Billy is a deserving fellow, and more power to him!

Directors Holubar, Browning and Siegman have been causing the auxiliary artists of the Universal to lose many hours of sleep these nights, for they have been burning midnight oil, in order to finish up their stories, and the way the busses have been rambling out to the B U loaded down with actors and actresses, one would commence to think that all Europe has been transferred out that way, for types and representatives of every nation seem to be headed that way, and all fit into the stories beautifully.

Peggy Pearce says she is having the time of her young life as leading lady for Harry Carey. She can shoot a six-shooter, ride a bucking broncho, jump from a fast-moving stage, or any simple trick like that, without half trying. "Why, those wonderful cowboys just inspire you with the dare-devil-try of the western girl!" chirped Peggy. And here let it be stated, she told the absolute truth, for Harry Carey has the pick of the Coast when it comes to riders and bowboys, who will do almost anything. Not overlooking Mister Carey himself, who ranks with the finest of western artists.

King Baggot, Dame Rumor has it, is soon to be in our midst and appear in a serial, which will be backed by Eastern capital. A studio on Sunset Boulevard is to be used, and the famous old-timer will once more be on the path to success.

Jack Woods, who draws pay for being a villian in western dramas, was injured the other day at Carey's Ranch, where a horse that he was riding fell with him and rolled on top of him. Jack is about, but has to use a cane and expects to be up and at 'em shortly.

Elmo Lincoln, they tell me, has just signed a contract which runs him into 1921 as a serial star. So great is his success in the Grace Cunard picture that he is co-starring in it. Happy Elmo Don't blame you.

Bert Apling is playing the heavy in the Pete Morrisson-George Holt two-reel western story, and what a villain he is proving himself! He looks so mean that all the Universal girls are giving him the go-by, and this isn't pleasing Bert at all.

Russ Powell, having finished his engagement with W. S. Campbell comedies, was immediately engaged by Hank Mann, who is working at Horsley's.

Dorothy Vernon is playing an excellent character with the W. S. Campbell Comedies; this makes her third picture that she has appeared in with that aggregation.

Frank Hayes has started working for the W. S. Campbell Comedies Co. out Universal way, and has his charming daughter, Venice, also cast in the production, which makes things loom up very nicely for the Hayes family.

Hazel Dean's father ran down from San Francisco and paid her and her mother a visit, spending a week in the Southland, and then hurried north, where he is in business.

The Antonio Moreno-Carol Holloway serial company is making preparations to return to Truckee, California, California, where the concluding episodes of the Vitagraph serial, "The Perils of Thunder Mountain," will be filmed.

Thomas H. Ince has just purchased a new speed motorboat, sixteen feet over all, with a thirty horsepower engine, which skips the Pacific waves to the tune of thirty-two miles per hour. He also has a large sea-going yacht.

Four new buildings have been erected on the lot of the Thomas H. Ince studios in Culver City within the last ten days, and now a greenhouse for keeping foliage and flowers of all kinds, to be used in pictures, is being completed, in the center of the grounds.

In order to be listed in this column, it is necessary that you be sufficiently well known locally that there shall be no doubt as to your ability to play the parts for which you are listed. If you have not appeared in the films recently, it will be necessary to bring proof that you have successfully filled the part under which you wish to be listed.

This precaution is taken as a safeguard for this paper and for the people who are capable. Further, this precaution has been suggested to us by casting directors, as the column was inaugurated chiefly for their information.

Abbreviations: Characters (ch.); Heavies (hv.); Juveniles (juv.); Foreign (for.); Ingenues (ing.).

Changes in this column must be reported to the office of CAMERA! not later than Friday of each week.

Charge for listing, including change each week, is $1.00 for two months.

A THRILLER

A story of the neurasthenic Southern negro soldier is related by Lieut. Louis D. Lighton, son of William R. Lighton, who has come to the Goldwyn studios to write the subtitles for the forthcoming Will Rogers production.

The officer, who was sent from Illinois to Park Field, Memphis, Tenn., one day took a negro sergeant for a ride with him in his plane. Noticing a crowd of spectators clustered in the street watching their aerial progress, Lieut. Lighton decided on a thrill. Diving directly toward the crowd, he flew only about 30 feet above their heads, the spectators at once scattering light frightened chickens. Later a fellow airman remarked to Lieut. Lighton that about 95 per cent of the crowd were "scared to death."

'Yes, suh," interrupted the officer's passenger, "and jes' 'zactly 50 percent them in the airplane wuz in de same condishun."

That Talented Thespian

A phrenologist pawed my conk last week and said I was born of friendly parents in a bed shaped like a pretzel. That's why I play crooked as well as straight parts. The sky lamps were busy that night. They had to cram a muzzle on the Dog Star, the Little Bear danced a Grizzly, the Big Dipper did the Boston Dip and the moon got a new crop o' freckles; that directors ought to keep me as busy as a tambourine doing a shimmie in a spook cabinet.

Directors: Do you need an assistant who's a good swindle-sheet manipulator? I guarantee a new rubber hoop for your gas-gig once a week and coin for yourself and squaw at the Vernon stew station, Saturday nights.

GOLDWYN BASEBALL TEAM

Mayor Day of the Board of Trustees of Culver City are considering the matter of a permanent diamond for the Goldwyn Studio baseball team, at the sugestion of Harry Culver.

With Mabel Normand as mascot and Tom Reagan, assistant director, as business manager, the team is both extending to and accepting from other studio teams, challenges for a series of motion picture championship ball games.

The team's personnel, unique in the motion picture industry, is made up of men from every branch of the studio organization and is reported to be the first team of such a nature in the country.

Tom Reagan, organizer and business manager, is assistant to Harry Beaumont, who directs Tom Moore; W. G. Harkness and Joe Delfino are catchers; Arden Cripe, property man, is pitcher; Harry Fink, first base; F. Carpenter, second base; James Kennedy, assistant to Cameraman Percy Hilburn, third base; M. Dameron, shortstop; George Carpenter, right field; W. Hutchinson, center field; June Barnett, left field, and A. Wurtemburg is substitute.

At the end of the season the team is to be awarded a perpetual pennant by executives of Goldwyn, on which will appear the names of the players. The season's first game was played last Sunday with the Metro team at the Venice High School, and was won by Goldwyn, score 6-4.

Where to Sell Your Scenarios

This feature is for the guidance of scenario writers who have something to sell, but who do not know just where to take it. CAMERA! keeps this column for announcements by the various studios. Some of the matter stands from week to week as a reference guide. It will be noted that many of the studios do not wish scenarios submitted by any one; some want synopses only; others wisn the continuity written.

As the difficulties of the past years in regard to the submissions of scenarios no longer exist, it is safe for any one with a good idea to send scenarios to any company mentioned in this column. While this paper is not responsible for the use or misuse of scenarios by the companies listed, it believes that any scenario sent to any of the companies will receive honest and prompt treatment. Any action to the contrary will receive full publicity if reported to this office.

MABEL CONDON EXCHANGE, 6035-37 HOLLYWOOD BLVD. Buying only books, plays and magazine stories, except the work of a few authors on contract.

MOROSCO FILM COMPANY, 201 N. OCCIDENTAL. See Laskey Market.

CHRISTIE COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. In the market for one and two reel comedies. Breezy, snappy incidents must be present in a marked degree. The Christie Comedies feature Bobby Vernon, Earl Rodney, Dorothy De Vore, Jay Belasco, Ethel Lynn, Fay Tincher and Patricia Palmer. Please sumbit by mail.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA PRODUCING COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. Scott Sydney, the producer, wants one reel stories suitable for Elinor Field.

WILLIS AND INGLIS, WRIGHT & CALLENDER BLDG. Neither purchasing nor accepting on consignment any original scenarios. Handling only photoplay rights to books, plays and short stories.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS COMPANY, SUNSET AND ARGYLE. Prefers considering the original work of screen authors, having always been keen to develop those writers who showed ability.

NATIONAL FILM COMPANY, 6107 SANTA MONICA BLVD. In demand for 5-reel comedy-dramas featuring "Billie" Rhodes. Also 2-reel comedies for "Smiling Bill" Parsons, and 5-reel heavy dramas for Henry Walthall, and 2-reel comedies for the de Havens, with domestic situations.

VITAGRAPH COMPANY, 1708 TALMADGE ST. The company buys no scenarios in the West, the same being taken care of by the Eastern Vitagraph Company at East Fifteenth and Locust avenue, New York.

THE DOROTHY GISH COMPANY, SUNSET STUDIO, 4520 SUNSET BLVD. Is in the market for five and six reel comedy-dramas, featuring Miss Gish.

DAVID WARK GRIFFITH occasionally buys synopses suited to Mr. Griffith's people and style. Stories should be submitted to M. M. Stearns, 4500 Sunset Blvd.

FOX STUDIO, SUNSET AND WESTERN. The company has its own staff writers, but will consider comedy-dramas and straight dramas with a strong love element. Also Western comedy-dramas for Tom Mix. Nothing less than 5 reels.

METRO, 1025 LILLIAN WAY. Maxwell Karger is manager of productions and June Mathis is head of the scenario department. Outside material is also considered. Good live American stories with a melodramatic touch for Bert Lytell. Comedy-romances of a lighter nature for May Allison. Snappy melodramas for Hale Hamilton; comedy-romances and comedy-dramas for Viola Dana, and dramas that are typically Nazimova for Nazimova.

WILLIAM HART STUDIO, 1215 BATES ST. Maintains no scenario department, but manuscriptts for Bill Hart will be considered. The stories must not take Mr. Hart out of his characterization, but they must have new ideas, a different twist. Pays upon acceptance.

GOLDWYN PICTURE CORPORATION, CULVER CITY. Will consider good comedies for Mabel Normand; ingenue roles having a touch of pathos, for May Marsh; ingenue roles that are rather fantastic, for Madge Kennedy; strong emotional dramas for Pauline Frederick; 5-reel comedies for Tom Moore; strong emotional dramas for Geraldine Farrar. Nothing under 5 reels.

THE AMERICAN FILM COMPANY. SANTA BARBARA, CAL., is in the market for five-reel photoplays suitable for either male or female leads; also for strong stories requiring balanced casts. Arthur J. Zellner is head of the Scenario Department.

THOMAS H. INCE COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Buys no outside material except from well-known writers on contract. Has own staff writers.

TOURNEUR FILM COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Interested only inscripts of large calibre, 6 or 7 reels. No society plays and no comedy.

FATTY ARBUCKLE COMEDIES, 1723 ALLESANDRO ST. Two-reel comedies having the essentiais of a good opening and a good finish, and the gags must be unusually clever.

MUTUAL FILM COMPANY, 72 WEST TWENTY-THIRD ST., NEW YORK. Will consider feature photoplays with parts suitable for Gail Kane.

BACON-PACKER FILM CORPORATION, 230 WEST THIRTY-EIGHTH ST., NEW YORK. Society dramas with women leads are needed.

ANITA STEWART CO., 4634 SANTA MONICA BLVD. In the market for 5-reel society dramas for Anita Stewart.

CHAPLIN STUDIO, 1420 LA BREA. Buys no outside material. Charlie Chaplin writes his own scripts.

PALMER ADVISORY BUREAU, 571-591 I. W. HELLMAN BLDG. We market material for Palmer members and recognized writers only. Have calls for all types of stories including serials.

L-KO FILM COMPANY, SUNSET AND GOWER. Not in the market for outside material.

UNITED PICTURE THEATRES CORPORATION, BRUNTON STUDIOS. Buying only high-class stories having Eastern or Western atmosphere which have sufficient action for 6 reels. Address scenarios to William Lord Wright.

BRUNTON STUDIOS, 5341 MELROSE AVE. Scenarios for the following companies may be addressed to R. B. Kidd, Scenario Editor, or to the individual companies.

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG is in the market for straight drama; 6 reels.

JACK PICKFORD can use stories of the good-natured, small-town boy; 6 reels.

BESSIE BARRISCALE will consider strong emotional roles with the society element; also comedy-dramas; 5 to 7 reels.

FRANK KEENAN'S scenarios must contain strong, virile, masterful character delineation; 6 reels.

MAYFLOWER COMPANY, GEORGE TUCKER, All Star cast, will consider 7-reel super-features dealing with modern society.

SESSUE HAYAKAWA plays Japanese, Chinese and Far Eastern characters. Sympathetic roles and roles having to do with self-sacrifice are preferred to sentimental parts; 6 reels.

J. WARREN KERRIGAN—Six-reel dramas with marked romantic element.

EARLE WILLIAMS uses 5 and 6-reel society plays.

STEWART EDWARD WHITE CO. Produces only Mr. White's books.

ZANE GREY FILM CO. Not in market. Films Mr. Grey's novels.

MARY PICKFORD COMPANY. Not in the market at present for outside material.

FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CO., BOYLE AND STEPHENSON AVE. Two and 5-reel dramatic stories of the West for Texas Guinan. One-reel comedies for Mack Swain.

UNITED PICTURES CORPORATION, 1600 BROADWAY, N. Y. In market for strong emotional features with problem theme for Florence Reed—five reels.

JESSE D. HAMPTON CO., 1425 FLEMMING ST. Will consider scenarios suitable for H. B. Warner, W. Desmond and Jack Kerrigan; five reels.

KATHERINE MACDONALD CO., PICO AND GEORGIA STS. Society or emotional dramas of 5 reels for Miss MacDonald. Address scenarios to Ursula March.

BRENTWOOD FILM CO., 4811 FOUNTAIN AVE. In market for modern American stories, with good theme predomination, and also good 5-reel comedy-dramas. Must have human interest, with characterization true to life. Five-reel features only.

UNIVERSAL FILM CO., UNIVERSAL CITY. In the market for 1-reel comedies and 2-reel Western. Will consider Western feature stories for Harry Carey; strong emotional drama for Dorothy Phillips and Mary MacLaren; feature character stories for Priscilla Dean; and outdoor character material for Monroe Salisbury.

Photoplayers, Attention!

The American Film Company Studio at Santa Barbara is reorganizing its casting department and desires to secure from leads and all photoplayers a straight photograph with the following information written on the back:

Name, address, telephone number, color eyes, color hair, height, weight, age, salary. State whether you can ride, swim, row, dance, box, fence, or have any other specialty. Give condition and extent of your wardrobe. Recent parts played and names of productions should also be given.

Players who already have photographs on file are requested to give prompt advice of any change of telephone number.

Interviews are not necessary, as each player is assured of every possible consideration in the casting of parts for which they may be individually suited.

LAMAR JOHNSTONE

Lamare Johnstone, one of the most widely known and best liked of the younger film actors of Los Angeles, was found dead in his room at the Desert Inn, Palm Springs, early Saturday morning. Mr. Johnstone had accompanied the Wm. Farnum Co. to Palm Springs, and was cast in the principal heavy role in the production now being filmed there. Physicians state that death was due to heart disease.

Born in Fairfax, Virginia, in 1886, Mr. Johnstone early in life chose the stage as his profession. His first appearance was in juvenile roles, in Rome, Georgia, with a summer stock company, in 1908. In 1910 he entered vaudeville, touring the Orpheum circuit, and a year later joined the Kalem Company, of New York.

For several years he played leads with various companies, in New York and Los Angeles, and in 1917 toured the Orpheum circuit with Maude George, in "The Actor and the Critic."

Returning to pictures, Mr. Johnstone was cast in heavy roles in many of the late productions, one of the most recent being "The Man in the Open," with Dustin Farnum, in which he played the part of the suave "Brooks" a role demanding unusually careful delineation.

Mr. Johnstone is survived by his wife.

Assistant Directors Association Notes

Fred Croft says that Brunton's studio is commencing to look like a gathering of Broadway stars, for any afternoon you can see more class in one nook and corner working, than you will find on a metropolis sidewalk, holding a similar conversation.

Bill Crinley is having a great time up in Huntington Lake with the Fox Company, where they are filming some scenes with Madaline Travers.

Claude Mitchell says he didn't ask for a job when he agreed to take Scott Beal's place as secretary and treasurer of the A. D. A. during his absence, but it sure has turned into a lot of hard work.

Bob McGowan comes forward with an announcement that he for one can be expected to be on deck when the boat pulls out of the San Pedro harbor for Catalina for the A. D. A. clambake that will soon be pulled off.

Allen Watt wishes to announce that next Friday night at the club rooms the regular meeting of the organization will be in order and that at 8 p. m. he expects to start things moving, as the boys will be entertained by a special guest after the regular business has been gone over, and he would like to see every member present that can be there.

George Webster says if he doesn't get a streak of better weather he will be able to play character parts, for his hair will be turning grey from worry over climatic conditions. The word "camera" is music to his ears, and when his director can't shoot, the gloom is on.

WHERE TO FIND THE PEOPLE YOU KNOW

Pick-ups Of The Staff

Mrs. Tod Browning returned from a weeks jaunt in San Francisco, Saturday morning. Mr. Browning was there on location and Mrs. Browning joined him. She attended to some summer shopping and together they took in the best theatre bills of the week.

Mrs. Edward A. Biby has been suffering from an attack of ptomaine poisoning the past week, but is able to be out again. One of the hot days last week she drank some lemonade at one of the corner drug stores, and she says that the only safe place to drink pink lemo which carries a guarantee is under a circus tent.

Mrs. Thurston Hall arrived from New York Sunday morning.

Mrs. Charles A. Murray, who has been confined to her bed for the past three weeks with complete exhaustion of the nerves, is able to be about the house again.

Walt Whitman left Los Angeles on Monday for New Orleans to join the Wm. Hart Company, which has engaged him for their present production.

Ollie Sellers and his able assistant, J. McClosky (Mac), are hard at it considering a new story and will not be able to rest between pictures.

In two previous issues we gave Tony Gaudio credit for the camera work of "The Red Lantern." It should have been Eugene Gaudio, his brother.

Fred Niblo, who is directing the Enid Bennett Productions at the Ince studio in Culver City, has a very rare collection of photographs of the natives in the South Sea Islands. Long before the motion picture came into use, Mr. Niblo collected these photos for making stereopticon slides to illustrate his travel lectures. He claims to have visited many of the islands inhabited by the wild black men long before explorers, who have recently obtained motion pictures of them. As proof of his claim, Mr. Niblo has "still" photos which he himself took of the natives, while excursioning from his then Australian home.

"La Apache" is the title of the story written by Adele Buffington, one of Thomas H. Ince's recent scenario discoveries, in which Dorothy Dalton is starring and being produced in the east.

Enid Bennett has allied herself with the Boy Scouts of America and is going to help them "put over" their national campaign, which begins June 8th. Miss Bennett began her activities with an early morning matinee, a private showing of "Partners Three" at the California Theatre, Saturday morning, May 21st, to all the Boy Scouts of Los Angeles County.

Walter Hiers, the fat boy, appearing in photoplays which are being produced at the Thomas H. Ince studio, is looking for the "feller" who sent him a treatise on "How to Grow Thin."

Bertie Johns has just finished the part of Saunders in "When Bearcat Went Dry."

John Steppling has just finished an engagement with Madge Kennedy at Goldwyn and was instantly snapped up by Maurice Tourneur for the leading character comedy part of Otis Turner in "County Fair."

Inez Gomez is coming to the front in fine style lately. She finished a part with the Jess Willard Company and has been cast for the part of a maid with J. Warren Kerrigan, which shows that Bill Ely is always on the watch for new talent.

Charles Rosher dropped in to tell us about the photography of "Daddy Longlegs," for which he is responsible, but says the Max Handschiegl color process added greatly to the beauty of the work. Thank you, Charles, for coming in; after looking at your work we agree with Wid.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Brainbridge left the Garden Court last week for Hotel Stewart in San Francisco, where they will make their home in the future. Mr. Brainbridge, who has been successful in the mining business, has returned to that profession. Mrs. Brainbridge was a Christian Science practitioner for many of the motion picture people.

Billie Mason is with the Earle Williams company at Lake Tahoe on location.

La Mar Patterson of Chicago is the house guest of Jack Webster.

Marguerite De La Motte is with the H. B. Warner company.

Clara Horton began work last week with the Gold Star company at the Brunton Studio.

Pauline Starke returned last week from locateion with the Mayflower company.

Mr. and Mrs. Pickering are leaving the first of the week for San Francisco and points north on a visit. Their daughter, Aurethea Pickering, will remain at the Hollywood Hotel.

Lillian Gish and her mother, Mrs. Gish, returned from New York Saturday morning at 10:30.

Finis Fox is on the job with his head swathed in bandages. His auto overturned downtown last Monday and he suffered a nasty cut on the head and a number of bruises. He boarded at the California Hospital for two days.

Franklyn Hall has been given charge of the scenario department of the National Film corporation.

Bebe Daniels has been signed up by Laskys, her present contract expiring the 17th of this month. She will begin work on the Lasky lot about the 20th. Her contract is for four years, and she will be under the personal direction of Mr. de Mille.

Kitty Rose and John Schroeder arrived in Los Angeles last week from the east. They have had their own stock company throughout the east for the past few years. Since their arrival in the city Mr. Schroeder has affiliated with the Christie company and Miss Rose is debating between several offers.

Pat Moore is enjoying a well earned rest for a few days, this being the first vacation in twelve months. Pat has just finished playing with Gladys Brockwell in "Sadie."

Little Micky Moore is very busy these days. He is playing an important part with Henry Walthall and is also working with Dorothy Gish.

Rose Mullaney announces that her nickname is Pat.

Ensign Harold Winstrom, of the Navy Signal Corps, assigned to President Wilson's party as official cinematographer during the nation executive's European jaunt, arrived in Los Angeles last Wednesday. Mr. Winstrom was mustered out a week ago. He was cameraman for Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew before his enlistment.

N. W. Aronson has purchased the negatives of all productions that have been made by the Jungle Film company, which includes many of the most popular animal pictures that have been made during the past year. These pictures will be re-edited and placed on the market for European exploitation.

Robert Thornby can be found at the Lasky studios these days, directing Lila Lee.

W. Christy Cabane is working hard these days at the Lois Weber studio where he is to direct a series of pictures under the general supervision of Marshall Neilan.

Bob Hunter is with Super Art Productions at Culver City. Aside from writing continuity, publicity and editing film, Bob does nothing to earn the weekly wage.

Frances Crowell is now working with Hampton Del Ruth.

Bob Carson, cameraman, has finished with the Mitchell Lewis company, and is open for an engagement.

C. Edward Hatton has just finished two pictures with William Farnum, "The Lone Star Ranger" and "Last of the Duanes." Mr. Hatton was on location for seven weeks at Palm Springs with the Farnum company.

Master Richard Stoner, one of the "kiddies" in the first Franklin Brothers' pictures at Fine Arts, is at present playing in Von Stroheim's picture at Universal City.

Arthur Allard has returned from Pine Crest, where he was on location with the Vivian Martin company. Mrs. Allard accompanied him on the trip.

Marion Feducha is one of the five "kidies" whom Charlie Chaplin is using in his new picture.

Wallace MacDonald has finished his Vitagraph engagement as leading man to Bessie Love. Mr. MacDonald's engagement covered a period of sixteen weeks.

Fay Lemport is one of the principals in the all-star Morosco cast which will produce "Huckleberry Finn," under the direction of Wm. D. Taylor. The company will leave for location within a few days.

George Melford returned from Idaho last week where he has been with the Robert Warwick company, taking scenes for "Told in the Hills."

Ward Wing is playing juvenile lead with Hale Hamilton at the Metro studio, under the direction of Sidney Franklin.

David Butler having helped King W. Vidor produce "Better Times," will now show its effect upon "The Other Half"—the "masses" as opposed to the "classes"—supporting ZaSu Pitts opposite Florence Vidor and Charles Meredith, in the next Brentwood picture.

Sarah Y. Mason, secretary to King W. Vidor, and Marjorie Daw of the Douglas Fairbanks company claim the proud distinction of being the first girls in the whole State of California to go aloft in a United States army plane. Their thrilling elevation occurred during the large aviation meet held at the DeMille field recently.

Dick Morgan is dividing his days and nights between arranging production details for King W. Vidor's newest photodrama and rehearsing for the part he is himself to play in the feature number of the June program at the Communiter Theatre, Hollywood.

Roy H. Marshall, who was mustered out from the army with the rank of lieutenant and who has divided the last five years of his time between the work of an assistant director at the Lasky studios and that of a soldier, is now assistant to King W. Vidor at the Brentwood.

Lloyd C. Haynes, president of the Brentwood, has returned to the coast from New York with very definitely formulated plans for an extensive production program of King W. Vidor pictures to be handled by the Robertson-Cole company and released through the Exhibitors Mutual.

Lieut. I. H. Morgan, who was photographic officer with the American forces, first throughout the St. Mihiel offensive and afterwards on the Flanedrs front, has returned from the army to civil life and is now handling one of the two cameras which are filming the picture now being produced for the Brentwood by King W. Vidor.

Florence Vidor has been a hard work ing woman now for a little over a week after being away from the screen for nearly a year. She is appearing with Charles Meredith opposite ZaSu Pitts and David Butler before the cameras which are recording the story of "The Other Half" for the Brentwood under the direction of her husband, King W. Vidor.

Nancy Chase, who adds to her knowledge of clothes and the photographic values of their color combinations, the ability to set them off to the best advantage before the camera, will appear in King W. Vidor's next Brentwood picture as soon as she has completed her work as modiste's model in a Dorothy Gish production.

Larry Semon started a new comedy with opening scenes of true Semonesque style. The very first piece of business to be photographed was the wreck of five automobiles.

Director Frank Beal of the Fox studios has secured Tom Santschi to appear in the next Gladys Brockwell story which will be started at once. Tom just returned from Huntington Lake where he was on location with Madlaine Traverse and company.

Madge Kennedy and her husband, Capt. Harold Bolster, are on their way to the east, having completed "The Wrong Doer," which was directed by Clarence G. Badger.

Bertram Grassby, after a week's vacation, joins the Sessue Hayakawa players to appear in a new story under the direction of William Worthington.

John Gilbert buys a set of golf timber and goes to the Los Angeles Country Club with Eddie Ring Sutherland to play the good game.

Billy Evans, who for thirty weeks played at the Liberty Theatre, Camp Kearny, has returned to Los Angeles and again takes up his work in motion pictures.

At the Katherine MacDonald studios, which formerly were used by the Biograph, Kathleen Kirkham is "knocking 'em dead," they say, with her vamping.

BUYS ORANGE GROVE

William Lord Wright, scenario representative of United Picture Theatres of America, with the Dustin Farnum company at the Brunton studios, has purchased an orange grove in Fullerton. He is building a country home there, and at the same time is learning the art of running an auto. He announces that he will shortly put on a gripping melodrama called "Terrors of the Traffic;" another called "The Speed Cop's Revenge," a comedy entitled "Citrus Fruits of California" and the vaudeville act, "Grafting Wax and Building Contractors."

WILL LOCATE HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Evans have leased a home at 1500 Elevado street, Mabery Heights, for the summer. Mrs. Evans, who is Helena Phillips, a member of the David Belasco company, arrived in the city Monday evening. Charles E. Evans is the president of the Katherine MacDonald Pictures corporation.

RANCHING "THE BUNK"

Bert LeVine, Metro scenarioist, has decided that ranching is "the bunk," and his 5½-acre tract out in Burbank is now in other hands. The ranch contains peach and quince trees, turkeys and chickens and three peacocks. The peacocks will go to Harry L. Franklin, who presented them to Bert (if he can catch them). Fifteen of the chickens go to Hollywood to furnish fresh eggs for Mr. and Mrs. LeVine and little Shelby LeVine.

DINNER WITH IRVINE

Clarke Irvine gave one of his charming little dinner parties Wednesday evening to which were bidden the following guests: Bebe Daniels, Mrs. Phyllis Daniels, Gilbert Harleman, Margaret Ettinger, Miss Considine, Jack Donovan, Myra Irvine and Mrs. Janette Donovan. After dinner some special musical numbers were given by Myra Irvine.

CHIT, CHAT AND CHATTER

BY HARRY BURNS

Priscilla Dean is up and around once more. Saw her come out of her home the other afternoon and she sure looked in bettter health than ever before, and her many friends I am sure will be glad to know that she has recovered from that serious siege of sickness.

Ida McKenzie has just completed an excellent part with the W. S. Campbell Comedies out at the Universal, in which she had to do some real acting, not forgetting a race for life on a fast horse along the road and up over the hills. She sure surprised some of the real cowboys the way she handled the animal.

Dan Crimmons and Rosa Gore are once more cast for leading parts in the Larry Semon Comedies, as well as has Danny, Jr., who is fast following in the footsteps of his day. This trio of artists are trying to arrange to produce some independent comedies, and should land with some corporation within a short time, for to my way of thinking they deserve such an opportunity.

James Parrott is being directed by his brother, Charles J., and from all reports Joimes is as good an actor as his brother is a director, which is saying some for both. The pair are working for the Bulls Eye studio.

J. G. Blystone staged a battle royal the other day between Tom Kennedy and a goat, and the way the animal acted had every one's mind in a state of unrest. Bobby Dunn advised Tom to use an uppercut; Slim Summerville shouted sidestep; Len Powers, who used to be a pug in his time, came forth with a clever remark, "Use your own Judgment, Tom." Director Blystone looked on and enjoyed the stunt, which will soon be part of one of his comedies that he is making for the Fox-Sunshine corporation.

Ma Lavarnie is happily engaged at the Fox-Sunshine studio, where she is playing a character part, and is scheduled to be busy for some time.

Marjorie Rambeau is spending her summer in Hollywood, and it wouldn't take a world of conversation to entice her back on to the silent stage, for her heart leans that way. She is accompanied by her charming mother, Lillian Kemble, who is also a character actress in her own right.

Polly Moran is back in town. Yes, she is working at the Fox Sunshine studio, dressed as of yore and full of pep and ginger, like only Polly can be, and there are a lot of happy hearts out Western Avenue way, for she's a jolly good fellow and some artiste.

Glen Cavender was visited by a burglar the other night, and outside of stealing some Liberty Bonds and other valuable things, he helped himself to some of the goodies in the ice box. Wonder just what they could have been? No, guess again. It will be extinct after———

Vin Moore is finishing the picture started and almost finished by Victor Herman at the Fox Sunshine studio, and is working like a trojan. Such a start for Vin isn't treating him fair, but leave it to him to put 'em over, no matter if he is handicaped.

Hank Mann celebrated his —— birthday the other evening, and he had as his guests a number of friends who have been his right hand bowers for years, and Mrs. Mann had any number of novelties in the way of good eats and ways and means of handling such an affair, and every one present voted her one of the finest of good fellows and wished Hank the best this old world has in store for any one.

Hoot Gibson is working with Tom Mix. He is driving a racing car and is right at home, for put Hoot on a wild and wooly horse, a snorting racing car or a wild steer, and he's a rambling fool—he can't help it, for he was born that way, and Mix has engaged a real prize winner..

Eddie Cline, for a long time Mack Sennett's pet director, has moved his bag and baggage and ability to direct comedies to the Sunshine lot. He will be aided and abetted in his daily doings by Hampton Del Ruth, who supervises the making of all fun-films for the Fox corporation.

Fred Stone is back among our good townspeople and acting right out in the open at Bruntons, where our old side partner, Frank Borzage, is directing. There is a combination that is hard to beat.

William Christy Cabanne they tell me is co-directing with Marshall Neilan. The pair have been working up north in Big Bear Valley, where they are getting scenes for "In Old Kentucky." It should be some picture, with such a duo of directors at the helm.

Blanche Sweet is up at Barker's Camp, located at Big Bear, where also is Wallace Reid and a number of other celebrities, who have been in between play working a wee bit so that the companies they are laboring for will receive enough finished negative of their acting ability to feel that the trip is worth while. Pretty soft for some actors. What do you think?

Jimmy Adams reports that the famous burro that Chas. Doherty has been having so much trouble about is the saddest animal in town, for since Doherty has moved over to the Bulls Eye studio and deserted the L. K. O., friend burro comes to the old dressing room now occupied by Jimmy and cries. The other day Adams heard the crying burro and set out a pair of Charles' old shoes. This caused the animal to stop and he laid down alongside the shoes and went to sleep contented. And so we ring down the curtain on Episode 100,000,000.

Carl Laemmle is back on the Pacific Coast, after making a hurried trip east, and when the truth comes out in print we will see a great improvement in the forthcoming releases of the Universal, for the head of the Big U has has been working hard to raise the class of productions of his organization and William Sistrom, who has charge of the coast studios, has accomplished great things in the past twelve months.

William Duncan has moved his troupe to Huntington Lake, where he will stay almost a half year, for his story deals with such locations as are up that way. The actors who return with W. D. to the Vitagraph lot will be in a position to buy a half interest in the United States mint, for they will have enough money saved out of their salaries to lay off for a while. Nothing to do but work, and no place to go to spend your money. That's some combination.

W. S. Campbell received a wire from New York City to the effect that his initial animal comedy that he made for the Universal was shown at the Strand Theatre and was a knockout. Campbell's informant was one of the leading exchange managers of an opposition company, so that listens great.

Kittie Howe has undertaken a job that is by far the hardest he has yet attempted. He is trying to make L. K. O. lions act funny. He is being aided and abetted by Jimmy Davis and Walter Stevens. It can't be done, not even with a makeup.

Assistant Directors Association Doings

By Harry Burns

The fellow who used to say that an assistant director was nothing more or less a script bearer to the director, sure mhst be looking for a hiding place these days, for they no longer are call boys, or if you will go deeper messenger boys, who not only are denied credit on the screen for their efforts, but are the Patsys of every department and artist connected with the making of motion pictures.

Kahki clad and with tight fitting puttees, today they dress spick and span and have been surrounded with a routine of aides that makes their position that much more responsible, and you might term an assistant to the cognomen of surplanter, he gives birth to the greater portion of ideas that the theatre-goer finally places their approval on.

Assisting in the direction of a production is no simple task, for to be a real help to the producer, the fellow who used to handle the script and check the scenes off after they were taken, acting as a sort of a company clerk, has to see to the casting of the artists for the picture about to be made, orders the sets that the story calls for is a sort of a business manager for his organization.

The cost of the production lies in the hands of the assistant, he can allow a leakage of funds, a waste of time, that will figure up in to the thousands, and where the corporations used to be so very careful in the selection of their directors, they realize today, that the assistant can make or break a picture. And the wise prodcuers are lending every aid they can to make the assistants feel like they appreciate them as real human beings, who hold a more responsible position than just a figurehead.

The Assistant Directors Association are deserving of a great deal of credit for this change in affairs, for they have been striving with their members to make better pictures and they hold a meeting every first and third Friday of the month. „

Roy Marshall, who used to assist Irvin Willett at Lasky's, has transferred his business connections to the Brentwood Corp, assisting King Vidor and Roy's many friends should get in touch with him, for he will be in a better position to take care of artists who number among those who have worked for him before, and Roy just simply invites them to call upon him.

Scott Beall, who went East with the National Corp stars, Billie Rhodes and Bill Parsons, will soon be back among us, according to word at hand from the hard-working Scott, who is giving the New Yorkers a chance to gaze upon a California bred assistant director, of real class.

Eddie Laemmle writes from Yokahama that he has just completed a two weeks' cruise across the Pacific and that every one has been treating him lovely while en route. This should gladen the heart of Carl Laemmle, who is among those present in the Southland, as it was he who sent Eddie abroad.

Walter De Coursey is assisting Park Frame at the Jesse Hampton stldio where the duo are looking after the screen interests of H. B. Warner. This is the third picture that Director Frame has handled Mr. H. B., and from what Walter De Coursey says, I gather that Mr. Hampton has a great find in both the man who handles the megaphone and the star. Walter, every one knows, is in a class by himself, so what could be fairer than that

Harry Carey started a new picture under Jack Ford's direction out at the U and found time enough to drop in to the Superba Theatre and make a personal appearance the other night and tell of some of the funny things that some of his pet cowboys do in his pictures. He's the one fellow who talks favorably about every one else but himself.

Bobby Vernon is doing a western comedy under the direction of Scott Sidney. He makes the cutest looking Fairbanks in chaps and spurs with the broad rimmed hat and everything. Caught him working at the Big U on the Canadian street and Bob sure was stepping fast and making 'em sit up and take notice.

Leigh Smith is the proud daddy of a bouncing 7½-pound baby boy and the mother and little one are resting very nicely at the Sisters Hospital from all reports. Bert Sutch is responsible for this news item, and was walking about with a chip on his shoulder, prouder than even Leigh. Such are the ties of friendship.

Hugh McClung is starting his second comedy at the Balboa studio Wednesday and will have Roy Meeker as his right hand bower. The first picture was quite a success. The one about to be started will feature Gene Crosby and Eddie Hearne.

Madaline Travers, the Fox star, returned from Huntington Lake where she has been for the past two weeks. Wm. Crinley, who is Director Millard's assistant, returned brown as a berry from being out in the open and allowing Old Sol to smile down upon him.

Hampton Del Ruth struts about the Fox Sunshine lot as if he was walking on the Sennett grounds. To look his galaxy of stars, cameramen, actors and actresses over, one need just forget where they are and suddenly open their optics and if any one tell you it's Fox's you'll be willing to gamble that you are on the old Keystone-Sennett grounds, for the old familiar faces of yore are drawing down Fox checks, under the supervision of Hampton Del Ruth in their every move and action.

Allen Holubar has written finis to his initial picture that he has made since "The Heart of Humanity" production that is the talk of the country.

Neal Burns is resting between pictures while Director Al Santell and Joe McDonough, the assistants, are cutting and titling their last effort.

Beatrice Lovejoy is still working with the Bulls Eye studio, being directed by Chas. J. Parrott, playing opposite Harry Mann and Chas. Doherty.

Bert Apling is to play the heavy in all union cast that will soon be produced by a 100 per cent union corporation, this being the first picture of its kind ever produced in the United States.

Slim Peppercorn has gone back to his old love, the L. K. O. Somehow or other he likes to get the bumps and rolls of the clowns at that studio.

Harry Schenck has arranged an excursion for the Assistant Directors' Association which will take all its members to Catalina starting the evening of the 21st and returning the next night. What a time they are scheduled to have. You can guess for yourself.

Edward Frazee' tis said, is going to start working at Riverside with Joe Murphy as his right hand man. This time Edw. hopes to keep busy, for he seems to go just so far and then stop. What's the matter, Ed?

Abe Alt reports that Fred Fischbach is going to make a western story this time with Jimmy Adams and Edith Roberts as the stars. Since the theatregoers crave western narratives, they all seem to be making 'em. W. S. Campbell just finished one using the animals in it out at the Universal.

PRODUCTION

By King W. Vidor

The one single word which occurs to me as most fitting to describe my conception of the very foundation of motion picture production is "naturalness."

And I would apply the word to every detail of the work or carrying an idea through to its final completion for projection on the silver sheet.

The demand for naturalness first arises in the story to be picturized. I feel that the main object of a producer being to reach the innermost heart recesses of an audience through his drama, or the center of centers of its risibilities through his comedy, his battle is half won when the motives of the story and the laying of the situations are as nearly as possible such as a large percentage of the audience will have actually experienced. In other words I try to guide myself by the historical fact that the biggest or shall I say, the most lasting successes of literature and the stage through all the ages, have been those which most closely depicted thoughts, feelings, and conditions realized and experienced by the greatest number of people.

Granted then a story true to the life of the time, the people and the conditions to be pictured, still greater naturalness if that be possible, is needed in each player before the camera both as to his or her personal and temperamental fitness for the character to be portrayed and as to the naturalness of the actual portrayal. If I were to post any mottoes on the stage bulletin board of the Brentwood I think the first would be "Be Natural" and the second "The newest trick in acting is to forget the trick!"

As providing "food for thought" and encouragement of all the great army engaged in moving picture production, I think it would be an excellent idea if we could occasionally see a clever screen burlesque of picturizing a story. Some of us would be surprised to find how great has been the artistic growth of our industry and others of us might realize that we still obstinately cling to certain of the old tricks. Tricks not only of acting but also of other branches of production, have spoilt many an otherwise good picture. In the vernacular, "the public is on to 'em" and even a faint suggestion of one by an actor approaching a well worked up climax, has the immediate effect of a wet blanket upon the rising emotions of an audience.

The best way I know of forgetting tricks in every department, is that of developing in all concerned in a production, the spirit of the story, the force of the theme and a proper appreciation of the value of sincerity—and naturalness.

Well, sir I've been jolted right and left in this game, but the worst wallop I ever got on my thinking works has just been pulled. Thus: Dimples Pratt, South Bend spoke-polisher, but now a sideline suitcase soubrette, had a three-day bit handed her on the Brunton lot last week. The bit consisted of being dressed like the man that leads the camel and throwing a fit on a merry-go-round—plenty of action. I piped her on the set. I approached with my usual sanfroid (meaning bulling the bartender), raised my conk cover and started to congratulate her on her wonderful work of uplifting animated photography, etc. Oh, boy- This is what she handed me:

"Well, I like your crust! Are you the gink what put the brass in doorknobs? The idear of addressin' muh in a public drag without first gettin' the office through a mutual sidekick and glommin' permission to give me the pumphandle mitt. Wedge this through your bean: No heifer-hunter can make good with this dame by handin' out a friendly stare and a parcel of airy remarks. Any boob that gits a knockdown with me has got to be once-overed by my chaperone through her lorgnetty."

Oh, suffering sass-parilla!

Charlie Millsfield, better known as "Ooom Pompom," is walking around with the aid of a cane. His legs is either cork, or he has only one foot and lots of children, but advising anyone not to ask Charlie anything about his misfortune. I did, and here is what he handed me in his choicest Choctaw:

"You should evince concern. Really, you kidnap my emblem of Capricornus. You overgrown and flagrant example of cerebular inefficacy within an atrophied cranium. I hereby advise you to chastise the paving materail whilst your footgear is still in an undepreciated condition. Else it may be incumbent upon me to rebound an oblong object of architectural utility upon your superstructure of alleged intelligence."

When with Jess Willard at San Balboa, we found it necessary to throw a firkin of speed syrup into the food garage. We had a 5:15 waiter and found it necessary to admonish him as follows:

"Now, lok look here, jobbie, we ordered regular eats—not a dish of snail pie. Chuck the slow drag and the liver feet specialty and put a windshield on those mutton chops. Whatcha tryin' to do—wait for that sheep to grow a new tangle of wool before your butcher gives it the raspberry? Or, maybe you're waitin for the head gravy slinger to get back from his vacation. Now, you just horn into the sizzle parlor and glom us the grub. Speedy with the chow, kid."

Then we pulled the big walkout.

Harry Burns, assistant director at Universal, is an authority on animal actors, but he dislikes cats. In his neighborhood he recently beaned a prize kittie with an alarm clock. Kittie's lean-lunged owner gave Harry a word bouquet that gave his brainspring an extra twist—and Harry, old silence and fun, shot the following comeback:

"Say, how to you expect me to kip in peace when those ashcan tigers are doing a catnip yodle on the fence? I guess I've got a right to pelt 'em with a few clocks and swell statuary. I've got to pull the curtain on that bum serenade some way. Say, I'm going to queer that mewfest if I have to tip the whole shack over on those alley nightingales."

MAURICE TOURNEUR

By Richard Willis

Maurice Tourneur is a "character." His outstanding characteristic is honesty. He is outspoken as to his own work and that of his brother producers. He is thoroughly appreciative of good pictures made by others and does not hesitate to criticise those pictures which he considers inferior.

Mr. Tourneur is one of the most interesting men I know and to possess his friendship is a privilege worth while; ask any of the many artists who have worked for and with him. He has theories which he puts into practice. He does not believe in making an actor go through stilted actions; he believes in giving his artists his thoughts, in instilling into them the spirit of what they are characterizing and then letting them give their interpretation of the character they are impersonating. He demands earnestness and grasp of characterization and wants his co-workers, as he calls them, to get into the spirit of their parts; the rest is easy, he says.

He has all the ingredients which go to the making of a really great producer; this many sided man. He was a producer and an actor with Antoine in Paris and has over four hundred stage productions to his credit.

He was chosen by Rejane as her stage director and also played in support of the great French actress.

He was and still is an artist and started out in life as a designer and illustrator. He was associated with the greatest sculptor of them all, Rodin, and worked with Puvius de Chavannes on the mural decorations of the Boston Library.

Maurice Tourneur has consolidated his many gifts for the screen and his dramatic instinct and artistry stand out boldly in his pictures. Among these gifts may be numbered originality possesses his features with entertaining qualities which are unusual and of course the artist of the paint brush sticks out in every thing he gives us.

It is somewhat hackneyed to speak of a man being wedded to his art, but it is very true in the case of Maurice Tourneur. He actually devotes all his time and thought to his work and as he puts it himself; he "thinks pictures."

If he had his own way he would make what are known as artistic features all the time, but in order to be able to do this he must make the pictures which the public will go and see; the ones with plenty of melodrama and with a happy ending, when a happy ending is not logical—that bane of the genius! Of all his pictures, Mr. Tourneur likes "The Blue Bird," "Prunella," "Barbary Sheep," "Woman," "Trilby," and "The Closed Road" the best but admits that his melodramas have made more money than his more artistic endeavors.

Mr. Tourneur believes that the public should be educated to enjoy better pictures and claims that they could readily be so educated and that they prefer the more lurid features because they are fed them by the manufacturers. He thinks the exhibitors are largely to blame and looks forward to the time when the theatre-going public will demand the best—it is coming fact.

He would like to be a many times millionaire; and at that he is no lover of money, because he is emphatically not, but he would like to make beautiful pictures without any thought of commercialism, make them for the love of the work and for the good he feels they might do.

He does not believe in the star system; he is strong for the combination of story and director, with intelligent assistance from carefully chosen artists. He is a great admirer, for all that, of Mary Pickford and Elsie Ferguson. He admires the work of David Griffith, especially his "Birth of a Nation," "The Escape," and "Avenging Conscience." He will surely like this director's "Broken Blossoms," for it is the sort of production which has been created by the producer in his own way and without any thought as to whether the many will like it or not. I am anxious to get his opinion of this picture.

Director Tourneur is a scholar and a gentleman, strong of purpose, imaginative and a conscientious craftsman. He is young in spirit and I do not believe he has given us the best there is in him yet; I think we can look forward to further great pictures from him.

It is too bad we cannot subsidize such artists as Tourneur and let them follow their ideals; we would surely get some things worth while.

MOTION PICTURE PATENTS

Kinematograph films. S. A. Flower, 17 Nunham Rd., Wood Green, London. March 12, 1918. No. 4375.

In kinematograph films, the pictures are illustrated by the application thereto of words or numerals, so disposed that they appear to issue from the speaker's mouth, the word or the separate letters of the word being successively displaced. The words disappear when the mouth is closed and may be produced on the film by employing a negative bearing the word either in conjunction with, or separate from, the negative of the picture, successive displacement of the word negative being necessary between each printing. Alternatively, a negative film bearing the words, etcetera, of the same length as the picture may be employed. In a second modification, the words may be printed on the negative or film, or the sensitive surface may be removed. An apparatus for printing the words passes the film over a toothed roller from the shaft of which a type roller is driven by gearing. Displacement of the type roller is effected by a half-nut engaging screw-threads on the roller shaft. During printing the nut is lifted out of engagement by a cam driven by gearing from the roller, the cam serving to rock a lever connected by a link to the half-nut. Where the sensitive surface is to be removed, the type roller is dispensed with and graduations are formed on the shaft. Instead of printing the words on the picture film, two projecting apparatus may be employed to produce the one picture.

Kinematograph. E. Schieroni and R. Frigerio, 17 via Lazzaretto, Milan, Italy. March 15, 1918. No. 4625.

In machines for films with several horizontal sets of photograms the slide carrying the films is horizontally displaced by means which serve also as a guide during the longitudinal displacement of the film. In the construction which is for use with films having two sets of photograms, the film carrying slide has the sides or ribs engaged by a cam keyed on the spindle of a Maltese cross actuated by means of a pawl on a disk connected by bevel and spur gearing as shown to the shaft rotated by a handle. Two opposite parts of the cam are arc-shaped so that the slide may be held still during the longitudinal movement of the film by means of a shaft driven from the main shaft and acting intermittingly upon a countershat controlling the film. Horizontal and vertical ribs corresponding to the partition lines of the film projecting from the surface of the slide are provided to hold the film away rom the slide. The shutter is keyed upon the shaft and comprises two parts, adjustably connected by a pin and slot so that either three openings or a single one may be formed according as the apparatus is used for projecting or taking. The film case has a spring-pressed sliding lid which normally closes a slot in the cover below but is pushed by the door of the apparatus when that is being closed so as to bring a slot in the lid into register with the slot in the cover.

William Selter, director of the De Haven comedies at the National, has completed "After the Bawl," and is shooting the first scenes of a new feature written by him in collaboration with Bob McGowan.

GOOD LUCK SYMBOL HANGS HIGH AT FRANCIS FORD STUDIO CELEBRATION

A thousand or more picture folks thronged the stage of the handsome new Francis Ford Studio at 6040 Sunset boulevard, Hollywood, on Saturday evening, May 31st, in celebration of the Studio's official opening. Handshaking, dancing and a buffet lunch kept the party going long past midnight. Members of the Ford "Mystery of 13" serial company acted as guides for the guests through the elaborate dressing rooms and the well contrived practical gardens, still in the course of adornment. After Pete Gerald, Mr. Ford's assistant director, handed over the "Lucky Horseshoe" which General Manager Harry Ellis Dean has recommended as bringing luck to everything except the horse that mislaid it, Ford acted upon Al. Christie's dramatic thought of nailing the symbol high on the middle support of the covered stage. Among those who liked the party and the punch were: Mr. and Mrs. Louis Burston, the Misses Burston, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Horsley, Mr. and Mrs. Raschmuier, Mr. and Mrs. Austin, Jack Ford and Miss Pierce, Julius and Abe Stern, Louis Jacobs, Mary Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Taylor, Harry Cohen, Mr. Carl Johnston, Mrs. W. H. Hay, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Clifford, Mr. and Mrs. Calnan, Rosemary Theby, Elsie Van Name, Doris Dare, Pete Gerald, Phil Ford, Nigel DeBrullier, Mark Fenton, Jerry Ash, Mark Thwaites, Tommy West, Arthur Troutt and V. Olivo.

ORPHANS BENEFIT

A benefit is being rehearsed at Senator Clark's home, for the French War Orphans. A Shakspearian play is being staged, in which the following picture people will take part: Tully Marshall, Mrs. Wallace Worsley, Thomas Holding, Jack Webster and Mr. Martell.

INFORMAL DINNER PARTY

Dorothy Gish gave a little dinner party at her home, Friday night, with an evening of music following for which special professional talent was engaged. Among her guests were: Frances Parks, Emily Chichester, Mrs. Christy Cabanne, Mrs. Elmer Clifton, Rea Haynes and Mary Harron.

OPENS SCHOOL OF DANCING

Jimmie Mitchell, a returned boy, who was first lieutenant while in service, is opening a school of modern ball-room dancing in the Wilcox Hall, 6380 Hollywood boulevard. The tenth of June he will give his first dancing party.

SPECIAL BEACH ENTERTAINMENT

Mrs. Christian Lynton has signed a contract whereby she assumes charge of the summer entertainment at Santa Monica, in addition to the several big entertainments she will put on at Seal Beach during the season. At Santa Monica there will be the open air band concerts, and special dance and musical numbers arranged for by Mrs. Lynton, beginning July first.

AFTERNOON AT HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Al Semnacher were at home to a few friends last Sunday afternoon. Those who sat down informally to a one o'clock repast were Mrs. Beverly Travis, Charles Swikart, Vera Lewis, Ralph Lewis, Fritzie Remont, Mr. and Mrs. James Clay, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Duncan, Constance Clibe and Hooper Churchill.

Mr. and Mrs. Semnacher had engaged the services of a fortune teller for the afternoon, which is a source of interest and affords entertainment for all humans, whether they admit it or not.

EVENING OF CARDS

Miss Georgie Griffin and Mr. Hal Griffen were hosts at an evening of cards and music Thursday last. Progressive Rum was the game of cards, the first prize being won by Tom Krisler and the consolation prize by Mrs. Eugene Morris. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. George Hernandez, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Swain, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Wilson, Marie Mosquini, Estella Harrison, Harold Lloyd, Gilbert Pratt, Mrs. Phyllis Daniels, Bebe Daniels, Tom Krizler and Mrs. Eugene Morris.

ORPHEUM ACT

Jack Webster is directing a dance act for the Orpheum Circuit with Francis Rob and Marjorie Dawn as the principal dancers. There are twelve other dancers in the act. The try-out was given at the Dug-Out last Saturday night. They will open in three weeks at San Francisco. The costumes are of futuristic design and four special sets of scenery will be carried.

FOR MRS. DANIELS

Saturday was the birthday of Mrs. Phyllis Daniels, and her daughter, Bebe, invited Marie Mosquini and her mother to take lunch with them at Maison Marcels. Mrs. Daniels found that Bebe had planned a special luncheon which included a birthday cake in the shape of a French basket with Nile green iceing and fonuant Cecil Brunner roses. The bill at the Orpheum followed the luncheon.

MOTORED TO BEACH

Lucille Carlisle, accompanied by her aunt and sister, Helen, motored down to Long Beach last Sunday, and took luncheon at the Hotel Virginia. Miss Carlisle renewed acquaintance with Miss Kathleen Clifford and other guests of the hotel, whom she knew while making her home there last summer. Oh, by-the-way, Miss Carlisle was also accompanied by "Nikko," her irrepressible Pekinese, who had a delightful visit with Miss Clifford's "Lily-wee."

The Ingletons at Home

By Florence Porter Parks

There are homes, and homes—trite but true. Some apparently are built for the sole purpose of housing "three squares" a day; others are erected for no reason at all, it would seem, except a place for uninteresting and unambitious people to keep in out of the sun and rain.

But there are homes where the furnishings, including the bric-a brac, bear relation one with the other; there is a harmonious continuity from the entrace to the kitchen sink. And such is the abode of the Ingletons, in de Longpre avenue, Hollywood. Their vine swathed dwelling is of Spanish architecture, with an interesting looking door which promises the aforementioned harmonious continuity within.

A fountain stands in the foreground behind the door, which actively runs up the water bill for the said Ingleton family. It lends a coolness and atmospheric pleasantness that is lovely, especially on a warm day. Throughout the home the lighting is not the glaring, optic-irritating brilliancy encountered in so many California residences.

"And one, a Spanish home—gray twilight poured
On dewy pastures, dewy trees,
Softer than sleep—all things in order stored,
A haunt of Peace."

Oriental rugs abound in plenty upon the polished floors, rare paintings and etchings adorn the walls, and story-bearing collections from countries far and near, are effectively arranged. Over all there is an air of refinement, a discriminating selection of the things that play a part in the home life of the Ingleton family.

Mrs. Ingleton, or Magnes Ingleton, as she is known in literary circles, is at present writing her second novel, an Italian story of sixty thousand words. Upon the completion of her book she will affiliate with the Ince Company, writing scenarios for the various Ince stars.

She is a widely traveled woman, and one who has enjoyed the advantages of the several arts, having studied painting at the Julian Academy in Paris, and music under the best English masters.

Before coming to the United States she was starred in the charming little Scotch play, "When Bunty Pulls the Strings," in the original company at the Haymarket Theatre in London.

George Ingleton, who at one time toured the United States as leading man with Ellen Terry, and later with Olga Nethersole, is the possessor of the most extensive research library in the country. His books numbering several hundred are valued at many thousands of dollars.

William Brady sent to London for Mr. Ingleton to become librarian for the World Film Company about seven years ago, and it was while there that Mr. Ingleton heard directors express a need of an authoritative research library for the Motion Picture Industry, saying that for the want of the proper and correct information there was great lack of detail in the screen play.

Mr. Ingleton's library is indexed and he can put his hand upon the required knowledge within a very short time. His extensive fund of book lore embraces types of mankind, character make-up, Royal Palaces, Indian customs and dress, landscape gardening, military tactics, aeronautics, the operation of different explosives, printing, painting, art treasures, myths, folklore of different countries, jewels and precious stones, clocks, watches, bells and costumes of every country during each period.

The books on travel are beautifully illustrated, and comprise the most authentic data on foreign lands that can be procured. Some rare volumes on dancing, modern and classic, with comprehensive illustrations should prove of inestimable help in picture work.

Mr. Ingleton also has indexed portfolios which contain prints and steel etchings of different periods; the exteriors and interiors of places of interest, of value to the scenic artist; reading matter and reproductions of butterflies, moths, reptiles, frogs, dogs and birds. Lakes and streams in different parts of the country; window designs taken from cathedrals; rugs, inglenooks, fireplaces, gateways, antique furniture and subjects too numerous to tabulate, but of interest to producers, and people who have to do with the making of motion pictures. One portfolio filled with Dickens' characters would hold the attention for hours of a lover of such characterizations.

This exceptionally fine collection has, so to speak been at the exclusive service of the producer who employed

PEGGY HYLAND AND MADLAINE TRAVERSE RUSTICATE

One week-end, not long ago, Peggy Hyland and Madlaine Traverse decided to take a real rest so they borrowed the home of a friend up in the mountains. Leaving servants behind they rusticated in earnest, cooked their own meals and had something of a camping party. They returned to the Fox studios the following Monday and declare it was so enjoyable that they are going to repeat it in the near future.

PEGGY PREVOST HONOREE

Peggy Prevost was the guest of Jane Templeton at the Hotel Virginia, in Long Beach last week end. A dinner-dance was given for Miss Prevost by her hostess Friday night, at the hotel. Twenty guests were present.

AT "SUNNYEASE"

The social affairs given every Tuesday evening at "Sunnyease," the home of Jack Webster, always have as their keynote originality and innovation. Tuesday evening of last week he entertained with a "Rube Party," seventy-five guests being bidden. Marjorie Riley won the prize for the rubiest costume, the prize being a live hen, pure white with a bright red top-knot, which was named Kittie Gordon by those present. Later an old-fashioned spelling bee afforded entertainment, Al Kelly taking the part of the school teacher. Miss Lamair won the prize, a chocolate drop served on an immense silver platter. Then a "Panning Contest" followed at which Sylvia Eddy and Eddy Fraser excelled. Everybody present "panned" each other, as a result Margaret Palmer and Antrim Short staged a very realistic scrap. Mrs. Eddy Fraser played a selection on the piano. The Hollywood High school orchestra furnished the dance music, the feature of which was a Virginia Reel. Corn stalks and pumpkins were used in decorating the dining room, and the living room was converted into a barn with Johnson grass. Light refreshments were served, buffet fashion.

GUEST OF BLANCHE RING

Irene Rich is a house guest at the beautiful new home of Blanche Ring, in New Rochelle.

Not only that, but a Marmon Sedan and chauffeur have been placed at her disposal, so that at intervals of leisure she can tour the big city.

Blanche Ring lives with her husband, the noted comedian Winigate, and her son, an army lieutenant who has just returned from France.

CELEBRATES ANNIVERSARY

Jack Mulhall celebrated his fifth wedding anniversary last Monday. Those present were Peggy Hyland, Mr. Tevlin of Fox, and Mr. and Mrs. Mulhall. The little party was staged at a certain oasis described as a wet spot entirely surrounded by Los Angeles and Huntington Park.

STUDIO CLUB NOTES

Miss Edna Harris, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Harris of Pasadena, spent the past week in Laguna.

Miss Agnes Johnston had several guests to dinner on Friday evening.

Miss Katherine Holly was a guest of Miss Chase Herendeen for dinner on Tuesday night.

Sunday night the usual informal tea was given at the club. A number of friends came in for tea, among whom were: Mrs. Farrar and son, Miss Mable Clapsadle, Messrs. Truman Handy, Dr. Barnes, L. Leighton, and William Clapsadle.

The next Studio Club dance will be given on Friday evening, June 13th. All members and friends are most cordially invited—informal.

PRODUCTION NOTES AROUND HOLLYWOOD

MAMMOTH CO-OPERATIVE PLANT

Marshall Neilan, one of the greatest photoplay producers, leaves this week for Louisville, Kentucky, taking with him the Anita Stewart company to make exteriors for "Old Kentucky." It is said that Anita Stewart will remain in the east. Mr. Neilan expects to return to Los Angeles in about six weeks, and will at that time father the most extensive co-operative studio plan in the history of the industry up to date. About $750,000 will be involved in the construction of the studio, which will cover five acres of ground at Santa Monica and La Brea boulevards. Eastern capital is behind Mr. Neilan, and before returning to the city he will advise with the capitalists in the metropolis. J. H. Woodruff of New York is the architect.

FRED STONE COMMENCES

Fred Stone has started work on his first picture under the direction of Frank Borzage. The story, "Billy Jim," by Jackson Gregory, was chosen by a selection committee and approved by Mr. Stone. The continuity was written by Frank H. Clark of the firm of Willis & Inglis. As the story fits the actor to a T and as Frank Borzage put aside several big offers to direct Stone, an exceptionally entertaining feature may be looked forward to. A. J. Callaghan, the manager, is sparing no expense in the production end.

HOBART HENLEY CO.

Hobart Henley is to become the head of his own organization, known as the Hobart Henley Pictures corporation. Studios have been secured in New York and work will begin immediately on a series of super productions, the stories of which will be taken from well known stage and literary successes.

Mr. Henley will not only direct the making of these productions but will appear in the leading role as well.

NEW INCE DIRECTOR

Henry King starts work next week at the Ince studios on the well known story, "Twenty-three and a Half Hours' Leave," in which Douglas MacLean and Doris May will be featured. King comes to Los Angeles from the American studio in Santa Barbara.

Gladys Brockwell, under the direction of Frank Beal, starts on a new photoplay for William Fox Wednesday entitled "A Sporting Chance."

Edward J. LeSaint, Fox director, is completing his fourteenth production under the Fox banner. It is entitled "High Speed," in which Tom Mix is starred. After each picture Director LeSaint gets a hair cut, and that form of "dissipation" he has heretofore considered a vacation, but now he has been given a leave of absence for four weeks, and will visit his home in Cincinnati. This is to be his first real vacation in six years. He will be accompanied by Mrs. LeSaint. Upon his return he will direct Tom Mix in an original story written by Mix, entitled "A Hard Boiled Tenderfoot."

R. A. Walsh, who is directing Miriam Cooper in a special production of "Evangeline," will start on another big book play as soon as his present story is completed.

William Farnum has started the filming of another Zane Grey novel, "The Last of the Duanes." In the supporting cast are Louise Lovely, Orra Gardner, Genevieve Blinn, G. Raymond Nye, Charles Clary, Lamar Johnstone, Clarence Burton, Harry DeVere, Henry J. Herbert, C. Edward Hatton and Frederic Herzog. The story was scenarioized by Charles Kenyon and is being directed by Director General J. Gordon Edwards and the photography is by John W. Boyle.

The Sunshine Comedy girls are getting ambitious. They're organizing an Art Club and intend to engage a tutor to teach them the art of art.

Week Beginning June 8

Production Manager Bernstein of the National, has made final arrangements for the use of twenty-five lions to be used in the forthcoming feature starring Henry Walthall. Some difficulty was encountered in obtaining animals that would work together, the ones finally selected being of exceptional value and rated as worth over a million dollars.

The much-filmed Bear Valley, in the high ranges of the Sierra Nevadas, is to serve as a location in J. Warren Kerrigan's first Brunton production, "A White Man's Chance." Mr. Kerrigan's company, consisting of the star and his leading lady, Lillian Walker, Director Ernest C. Warde, J. J. Dowling, Howard Davies and other members of the supporting cast, with the technical and camera staffs, started from the Brunton Studio last week in a flotilla of autos.

There will be no star in the picture which William D. Taylor is directing for the Paramount. Every character in "Huckleberry Finn" is finely drawn and requires an artist to play it.

Al E. Christie this week begins the production of the Christie Special in which Alice Lake will head the featured cast. Two more stories for Christie Specials are now in preparation. It is announced that the third special, "Mary Moves In," featuring Fay Tincher, with Harry Ham, Patricia Palmer, Eddie Barry and Katherine Lewis, will be released this month.

Bertram Bracken, director of Wal thall features at the National studios, has returned from a short vacation in San Francisco and is busily engaged in selecting a cast for his next production, "The Confession." Jack Laver, assistant director, expects to leave in a few days for Truckee to select suitable exterior locations for "The Confession."

The Gold Star Features company began work on their initial production at the Brunton studios last week under the direction of Jack Pratt and Harry Schenck. Mignon Anderson, Jack Richardson and George Fisher are cast in the principal roles.

Interesting Universal Notes

From Ham Beall

Coincident with the arrival of President Carl Laemmle, four new feature pictures are being put into process of production this week.

Harry Carey has already started on a new Texan melodrama, "Jim of the Ranges," from the pen of G. B. Lancaster. Gloria Hope and Claire Anderson were chosen by Director Jack Ford as Carey's two feminine leads.

Lynn Reynolds, who recently completed "A Little Brother of the Rich," is picking the players to form the supporting cast for Frank Mayo and Kathryn Adams in "The Brute Breaker," a tale of the French-Canadian logging camps, written by Johnston McCulley.

"Playing the Game," the stage play by Sada Cowan, which was produced on Broadway by the Henry B. Harris estate, is to be made into a six-reel photoplay by Director George Seigmann with a selected cast.

All is in readiness for Monroe Salisbury to start production under Rollin Sturgeon's direction on "Sundown Trail," a story of "the west that was," written by J. G. Hawks, author of many of William S. Hart's most successful plays, as well as Dorothy Dalton's "Flare-Up Sal."

Mary MacLaren returned from San Francisco this week where the night court scenes for Fannie Hurst's "The Petal on the Current," which Tod Browning is making into a six-reel production.

"The Pinnacle," the powerful melodrama of the Swiss Alps which Eric Von Stroheim is producing and starring in, with Francelis Bilington and Sam De Grasse as his principal supporting players, is nearing completion.

Final scenes for "Devils Have Their Friends," with Monroe Salisbury as the star, were taken this week on Mt. Baldy under the direction of Paul Powell.

"The Right to Happiness," Dorothy Phillip's starring vehicle dealing with dual identity, is being cut and titled under the supervision of Director Allen Holubar in collaboration with Frank Lawrence and Viola Mallory.

Marie Walcamp and company are still on location at Sonora, Cal., taking exteriors for the "Tempest Cody" series of two-reel western dramas.

James J. Corbett is now busy on the fourteenth episode of "The Midnight Man," the eighteen episode serial which James W. Horne is producing.

"A Fortune at Stake," a two-reel western melodrama with Pete Morrison and Magda Lane as the featured players, was finished under George Holt's direction.

This week saw the taking of the conclusive shots for "Wild Lions and Loose Bandits," the third of the William S. Campbell animal comedies starring Joe Martin, the $10,000 orang-outang, and associate jungle players.

Word was received this week from New York that Eddie Polo and company had safely embarked for Europe to make the British and continental scenes for the internatinonal serial by Joe Brandt, "The Thirteenth Hour." J. P. McGowan is in charge of the expedition.

Rupert Julian is enjoying a summer vacation while the scenario department is securing a new play for him to produce.

After a two weeks' vacation Al Santell has again started producing one-reel comedies with Neal Burns and Josephine Hill. "He Finally Won Out" is the title of the funfest he started this week.

Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran have just completed a gurlesque on prohibition, "Ten Nights in a Tea Room," with Mildred Moore and Charlotte Merriam in the pricipal feminine roles.

Bert Lytell has been out on location with director Edwin Carewe winding up the John Blackwood story, "It's Easy to Make Money."

Maxwell Karger is cutting and titling "One-Thing-At-A-Time O'Day," the recently completed Bert Lytell picture.

Herbert Blache completed May Allison's picture, "Free," this week. He will direct Nazimova's next picture.

Harry L. Franklin is nearly through with "In His Brother's Place," the Hale Hamilton story in which Hale Hamilton is starring.

Emmy Wehlen's picture, "A Favor For A Friend," will probably be finished next week under the direction of John Ince.

Edwin Carewe finished the Bert Lytell production, "It's Easy to Make Money," during the week. He will leave shortly for New York.

Madame Alla Nazimova arrived in Los Angeles yesterday and was met at the depot by Maxwell Karger, Metro director general. The great Russian star will start her next picture within a short time.

EDDIE FOY SIGNS DENVER CONTRACT

Mr. Eddie Foy and his family of "seven" will return to Denver for the summer to begin making some two-reel comedy pictures which will be known as the "Foy Fun Films." George McManus, well known New York cartoonist, has created a special cartoon character for Mr. Foy to be used in these pictures. Mr. Albert W. Hale, who is manager of productions of the National Film corporation, will personally direct Mr. Foy in his pictures, and Mr. Hale expressed great satisfaction over the signing of the Foy contract.

NEW COMPANY NAMED

The new company operating at the old Essenay studio, Culver City, will be known as Super Art Productions, and to the best ability of Director General Wayne Mack and Mary Anderson, they will be super art productions. It seems that extremely short stays have been made by all companies previously occupying the studio—mere "visits"—and many have prophesied the downfall of any company braving the jinx that seems to haunt the old Essenay lot. A black cat ran across in front of the machine the other day as the company started for location (and it now belongs to the family), a mirror has been broken on the set, there is a thirteen in the street number and the first scene was shot on Friday. But who believes in signs?

In the rough and grotesque characters seen in the Larry Semon comedies one would little suspect that there are celebraties drawn from many spheres of life. In the troupe are the famous Mazetti Brothers, team of acrobats, that for many years appeared on the vaudeville stage in all the splendor of silk and spangles. Bill Hauber, who performs many thrilling stunts in funny makeup is a champion high diver and motorcycle speed king who has thrilled thousands in the big motor events throughout the United States. Arno Marsh, another member of the troupe, is a poet whose contributions to literature in verse has been published in many of the big magazines, and the newest member of the Semon company, "Tex" Williams, is the son of a prominent Texas banker.

BEST SELLERS

"Midas and Son," Stephen McKenna.
"The Untamed," Max Brand.
"The Second Bullet," Robert Chipperfield.
"Old Dad," Eleanor Wallowell Abbott.
"The Undefeated," J. C. Snaith.
"The Moonlit Way," Robert W. Chambers.
"Tales of Secret Egypt," Sax Rohmer.
"Rosy," Louis Dodge.
"Miss Maitland, Private Secretary," Geraldine Bonner.

Madlaine Traverse is making a picture under the direction of Harry Millarde at Huntington Lake. It is titled "Until Eternity." In the cast are Tom Santschi, Frank Leigh, Jack Nelson, Beatrice La Plante and Minna Prevost.

SANTA BARBARA, May 30—Francis H. Greene has been selected director general of the big Independence Week celebration, which will be held in Santa Barbara the first five days in July. As director of purchases for the New York Central railroad, prior to coming to the Mission City, Greene had charge of expenditures aggregating a hundred million dollars annually. Therefore, he is acustomed to doing things on a large scale, and it goes without saying that Santa Barbara's mid-summer festival is in a big way, under his direction.

Casting Directory

Copyright Applied For.

In order to be listed in this column, it is necessary that you be sufficiently well known locally that there shall be no doubt as to your ability to play the parts for which you are listed. If you have not appeared in the films recently, it will be necessary to bring proof that you have successfully filled the part under which you wish to be listed.

This precaution is taken as a safeguard for this paper and for the people who are capable. Further, this precaution has been suggested to us by casting directors, as the column was inaugurated chiefly for their information.

Abbreviations: Characters (ch.); Heavies (hv.); Juveniles (juv.); Foreign (for.); Ingenues (ing.).

Changes in this column must be reported to the office of CAMERA! not later than Friday of each week.

Charge for listing, including change each week, is $1.00 for two months.

Some are predicting that cottons will be strong again this season. From all sides one hears of the lighter fabrics and one piece dresses in ginghams, calicoes, organdies, etc.

Last year was the first for the last four years when the east went back to cottons. Previously, every woman went in so strongly for the sports things that there was little place for the light summer frocks. Last season, however, was an enormous dress season, and this will be even stronger. This season the navy and dark shades are especially good in cottons.

Chemise styles are made with panel blouse and deep soutache trimming about the skirt, the belt buttoned at either side of the waistline.

Box coat styles in ramie linen are also featured, with white vestee and embroidery. White linen has panels of fine tuckings, an upturned cuff on skirt and sleeves and on pockets, all held with huge pearl buttons. The same models are imitated in racket cloth at a smaller cost.

Checked and flowered organdies are shown with plain color collars embroidered in white, and satin girdles and plain color voiles have curved drapings edged with pleatings. A tan cotton voile figured in blue is made up in a design which resembles a figured Georgette; it is trimmed with little pleatings of navy taffeta and has huge collar and cuffs frilled in Valenciennes.

Organdies are artistically handled with cretonne trimmings in applique; some of these have colored nets over to soften the effect. Checked voiles are much in favor, trimmed with velvet ribbon and flat insertions. Voiles are more popular than ever, with organdies following.

Brown Georgette is veiled over henna in a full bloused and tuniced frock; underskirt and sash are of navy taffeta and the yoke, border on the taffeta tunic and cuffs are also of taffeta, but they are embroidered in a rather elaborate design of brown floss.

Lighter Georgettes are also featured in such shades as cornflower blue, with tinq rosebuds and a narrow beige ribbon girdle. Printed Georgettes in dark effects are selling in large quantities.

There are some rather dashing patterns shown in the figured frocks in combinations of bright, contrasting colors. Summery frocks of light-figured Georgette are made up with the simplicity of a wash frock, with a rose satin collar and girdle. Draped and figured Georgettes are made up with plain color, the tunics arched and pointed.

Plain colors are featured in an equal number of types. Pale gray is made up with uneven double tunic draping, the tucked vestee topped with silver and a light satin sash.

White Georgette has ruffled tunic and sleeves, and flesh Georgette is tucked in two contrasting widths and ribbon-trimmed.

Many of these thin dresses show kimono bodices with a low waistline, and soft girdle over a pleated skirt, filet lace and insertions trimming nec kand sleeves.

Wool jerseys are machine cordonne and soutache embroidered and cut in girdled chemise effect. Brown is embroiddered in self color, taupe in Japan blue, white in self, and Copenhagen in henna. Belts are narrow and wide, and necks are rund in every case.

The tricolletes are also in the one-piece chemise. Henna is all-over embroidered and held with a silk cord girdle. Navy tricolette is used in a Russian blouse model, with an attractive border of navy and red embroidery and a braided cord girdle of navy and red. White tricolette in suit effect displays a shawl collar and facing of Copenhagen ribbon and jet buttons. A chemise of navy tricolette has a knee-deep border of navy wood jersey, heavily embroiddered.

A TOUGH TIME WAS HAD BY ALL

By Al E. Christie

One time a fellow came up to me at the beach and said, "Mr. Christie, I understand that you have directed six hundred moving picture comedies, and I'd like to know where you get your ideas. I have been trying for a year to sell comedy scenarios to your company and I haven't hit it yet."

I looked at the fellow and pointed to my shiny head and told him, "My God, young man, look at me. What hair I've still got is beginning to turn gray. I admit I've made six hundred comedies in my ten years in the film business, but look at me. I feel as though I am having brain storms now. And you want to write comedies! You might wish something worse on yourself but I wish you joy!"

Then I told him how we rake over and read over and stew over and argue over scenarios till way late at night and when one of us nits upon something good in the mail, we yell and begin to act out the parts with gestures all over the place and the neighbors who are trying to sleep in the vicinity of our little studio probably wonder who unlocked the door of the crazy house and let out all the nuts.

If anybody had been around the place night before last when Bill Beaudine, Scott Darling and I were doping out Bobby Vernon's next story, they would have thought the nut house had moved right over in a body. Darling had found a good little story by a fellow named Cooper who is an attorney in New York. We had pounced on the scenario with high glee, accepted it and then began to pick it apart. We had to pick it to pieces because we have good memories. We remembered that one idea in the story we did with Ethel Lynne and Jay Belasco about a year ago. That's out. Then we had to twist around another idea because it was something like something we planned for Dorothy DeVore's story which was just begun. Lord! Poor old Cooper probably will never know his comedy when he sees it on the screen. And I suppose he'll think we ruined it. Maybe we did. And I hope it's good.

We always say that with a heartfelt prayer. I hope it's good. Because comedy is one thing you can't ever tell a thing about. If the idea is good, we can all get together and fight over it and combine the energies of our poor old hard-worked think-tanks, go out and make it and then say, "I hope it's good!"

Not that I wish them any brain fever or anything—I wish a lot of writers around the country would write us some two-reel and one-reel comedies. But I wish they wouldn't come around to us personally and tell them to us. I get mad enough at the other directors and at the scenario editor when they begin telling me how good an idea is. "I hope it's good," is all I can say. "Leave it there and I'll read it tonight after I've cut four hundred feet out of "Mary Moves In." The writers who try to sell their stuff in person—if they only knew it—have to have twice as good a story to get by as the ones who trust their brain children to the U. S. mail service—as bad as it is.

Right now I have a genuine ambition to fulfill. My idea is to make typical "feature comedies" in two reels. That means that we ought to have a lot of good ideas which are big enough for typical five-reel comedy dramas, which we can produce in two reels. In other words it comes down to the old cry, more stories—and I hope they're good. Comedy producers sometimes have brain fever, they say. We're taking no chances but are serving ice cold lemonade on our set every afternoon.

A DAY WITH SCOTT DUNLAP

Scott Dunlap is directing Albert Ray and Elinor Fair in "Be a Little Sport."

9 a. m.—Scott Dunlap all spick and span, clothes nicely pressed, a tie nicely adjusted to a blue collar and blue shirt, begins a day's work. He talks quietly.

11 a. m.—Hat and coat off, he yells: "Come on, now, let's get into it. Camera, go. Wait a minute. Say, you, you hate this woman. Remember, hate her. She is the girl that is causing you all the trouble. Don't act as if she was the girl you were going to meet at Seventh and Broadway at 6 o'clock tonight. Just naturally hate her."

2 p. m.—Collar and tie off. Hair all mussed, yelling: "That's very good."

4 p. m.—Shirt open at the front showing upper part of his B.V.D.'s. warm, perspiring. "Come on now, act as if you meant it. Stop the camera. Say listen, you in the full dress suit. Don't smile at this fellow. He has ruined you. He has taken every red cent you have, cleaned you out of your money, money! You know what that is? That's the stuff William Fox pays us for doing this work. Look mad, look desperate. Already now, let's go. Hold on there. Say, how would you look if you went to the cashier's window and found that someone else had taken your pay? That's it. Now you've got it. Let's go."

5 p. m.—Scott Dunlap walking around lot. Work finished. Coat on arm, collar and tie in hand, hat on backwards. "Well, who is going to the ball game Saturday? Say Marc, is my next story ready? Hey, I've not seen my name in the paper for a week. What! It was in the Kalamazoo Times. Gee, that's going to make me famous. Here's a cigar. Yes, and it's the best one you ever smoked. So long. I got to find someone with an automobile to take me home now. Good night."

Photoplayers, Attention!

The American Film Company Studio at Santa Barbara is reorganizing its casting department and desires to secure from leads and all photoplayers a straight photograph with the following information written on the back:

Name, address, telephone number, color eyes, color hair, height, weight, age, salary. State whether you can ride, swim, row, dance, box, fence, or have any other specialty. Give condition and extent of your wardrobe. Recent parts played and names of productions should also be given.

Players who already have photographs on file are requested to give prompt advice of any change of telephone number.

Interviews are not necessary, as each player is assured of every possible consideration in the casting of parts for which they may be individually suited.

The Real Reel Goods

Director McMackin put on a dog show at the National Studio last week. Admission, one bone. Yip-yip! It was a bench show. I was on the bench—as judge. The set was decorated in the prevailing color—yellow, of curs. Bow-wow! I entered through the skylight, disguised as a Sky Terrier. Woof-woof! I won out by a scratch, 'cause I made a noise like a flea. There was a bird dog there, but I guess he'd moulted, for his feathers were missing. G-r-r-r! I'll now sing: "We Fed our Fish Hound Sausage When We Began to Weiner (wean her)." Professor, get foolish.

NOTE: Freckled Fanny has sidestepped posing in the nude for the summer. I'll do September Morn stunt at her figure.

Mr. Ingleton, but certain producers have discussed with him recently the advisability of making his library a general utility, for the edification of all producers. Pictures have reached the stage where the details embodied must be authentic and actual, the public will accept nothing less. Pictures are being used more and more for educational purposes, the improbable love story built upon the eternal triangle, and rushed with velocity toward the final clinch is not the picture that has a run of several weeks nowadays. The public has kept pace with the production of better pictures and it now demands logical and truthful picturization well mixed with efficient and artistic construction.

George Ingleton is interested heart and soul in the accumulation of practical and authentic information, and his wonderful library is a veritable mine of the choicest information.

FOR YOUNG COUPLE

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Reed entertained recently at their home, 4906 Rosewood avenue, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Ely, Jr., who were married last month. Mr. Reed is manager of the Mason Opera House, and Mr. Ely is casting director for the Brunton Studio. There were many lovely gifts of cut glass, silver, and china for the young couple. And be it said that some kind friend remembered the baby shoes. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Frothingham, Mr. and Mrs. Elliot Howe, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dowling, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Ely, Sr., Bert Croffland, Lillian Walker, Captain Vincent Palmer, Bobbie Newhard, Irene Coffman, Ida Shumaker, Dick Dickenson, Nora Ely, Albert Cody, Pauline Wilcox, Ernest Warde, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gherety, and Mr. Robert Brunton.

BUYS MILLION DOLLAR PLANT

The Goldwyn Pictures Corporation has bought outright from the Triangle-New York Motion Picture interests the Triangle studios in Culver City.

Behind this announcement lies one of the biggest deals in the history of the motion picture industry, a transaction involving a direct cash transfer the extent of which may be surmised when it is known that the original cost of the property three years ago exceeded a million dollars.

The distributing unit of the organization will remain in New York, at 469 Fifth Avenue.

FIRE DEPARTMENT INSTALLED

A fire epartment with full equipment for any emergency is now being installed at the Robert Brunton Studios. It is rapidly becoming necessary to have greater fire prevention facilities at the rapidly-growing plant on Melrose avenue. The nucleus of the apparatus attached to this studio department, is an old-fashioned fire-engine possessing an interesting genealogy. This veteran of many fires came well by its scars. Its career began with the Pasadena fire department some ten years ago.

POLLY MORAN ARRIVES

Polly Moran, who arrived in the city a week ago Thursday was the honor guest at a small dinner party at the Alexandria one evening last week. Marvin Welt, a producer from New York, was the host. Lucille Humbert and Irving Leon were among those invited. Later in the evening the party adjourned to Vernon where they were joined by Slim Summerville, Buster Keenan and Tom Kennedy. Polly Moran began work Wednesday at the Fox Studio, playing opposite Mr. Summerville.

FILM PLAYERS KILLED

Reports from Portland, Ore., though not fully confirmed, say that Director Raymond West's company, while traveling in a big motor bus, suffered the loss of two players when the vehicle turned over. The reported dead are Edna Gavnor and George Held. No details of the accident have as yet been received at the picture headquarters. Five other players, the report states, were severely injured.

METRO ACTOR POPULAR

Edward Connelly, veteran character actor, has been loaned by Metro to Anita Stewart to play the role of Colonel Doolittle in that star's production of "Old Kentucky."

Where to Sell Your Scenarios

This feature is for the guidance of scenario writers who have something to sell, but who do not know just where to take it. CAMERA! keeps this column for announcements by the various studios. Some of the matter stands from week to week as a reference guide. It will be noted that many of the studios do not wish scenarios submitted by any one; some want synopses only; others wisn the continuity written.

As the difficulties of the past years in regard to the submissions of scenarios no longer exist, it is safe for any one with a good idea to send scenarios to any company mentioned in this column. While this paper is not responsible for the use or misuse of scenarios by the companies listed, it believes that any scenario sent to any of the companies will receive honest and prompt treatment. Any action to the contrary will receive full publicity if reported to this office.

MABEL CONDON EXCHANGE, 6035-37 HOLLYWOOD BLVD. Buying only books, plays and magazine stories, except the work of a few authors on contract.

MOROSCO FILM COMPANY, 201 N. OCCIDENTAL. See Laskey Market.

CHRISTIE COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. In the market for one and two reel comedies. Breezy, snappy incidents must be present in a marked degree. The Christie Comedies feature Bobby Vernon, Earl Rodney, Dorothy De Vore, Jay Belasco, Ethel Lynn, Fay Tincher and Patricia Palmer. Please sumbit by mail.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA PRODUCING COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. Scott Sydney, the producer, wants one reel stories suitable for Elinor Field.

WILLIS AND INGLIS, WRIGHT & CALLENDER BLDG. Neither purchasing nor accepting on consignment any original scenarios. Handling only photoplay rights to books, plays and short stories.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS COMPANY, SUNSET AND ARGYLE. Prefers considering the original work of screen authors, having always been keen to develop those writers who showed ability.

NATIONAL FILM COMPANY, 6107 SANTA MONICA BLVD. In demand for 5-reel comedy-dramas featuring "Billie" Rhodes. Also 2-reel comedies for "Smiling Bill" Parsons, and 5-reel heavy dramas for Henry Walthall, and 2-reel comedies for the de Havens, with domestic situations.

VITAGRAPH COMPANY, 1708 TALMADGE ST. The company buys no scenarios in the West, the same being taken care of by the Eastern Vitagraph Company at East Fifteenth and Locust avenue, New York.

DAVID WARK GRIFFITH occasionally buys synopses suited to Mr. Griffith's people and style. Stories should be submitted to M. M. Stearns, 4500 Sunset Blvd.

FOX STUDIO, SUNSET AND WESTERN. The company has its own staff writers, but will consider comedy-dramas and straight dramas with a strong love element. Also Western comedy-dramas for Tom Mix. Nothing less than 5 reels.

METRO, 1025 LILLIAN WAY. Maxwell Karger is manager of productions and June Mathis is head of the scenario department. Outside material is also considered. Good live American stories with a melodramatic touch for Bert Lytell. Comedy-romances of a lighter nature for May Allison. Snappy melodramas for Hale Hamilton; comedy-romances and comedy-dramas for Viola Dana, and dramas that are typically Nazimova for Nazimova.

WILLIAM HART STUDIO, 1215 BATES ST. Maintains no scenario department, but manuscriptts for Bill Hart will be considered. The stories must not take Mr. Hart out of his characterization, but they must have new ideas, a different twist. Pays upon acceptance.

GOLDWYN PICTURE CORPORATION, CULVER CITY. Will consider good comedies for Mabel Normand; ingenue roles having a touch of pathos, for May Marsh; ingenue roles that are rather fantastic, for Madge Kennedy; strong emotional dramas for Pauline Frederick; 5-reel comedies for Tom Moore; strong emotional dramas for Geraldine Farrar. Nothing under 5 reels.

THE AMERICAN FILM COMPANY. SANTA BARBARA, CAL., is in the market for five-reel photoplays suitable for either male or female leads; also for strong stories requiring balanced casts. Arthur J. Zellner is head of the Scenario Department.

THOMAS H. INCE COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Buys no outside material except from well-known writers on contract. Has own staff writers.

BRUNTON STUDIOS, 5341 MELROSE AVE. Scenarios for the following companies may be addressed to R. B. Kidd, Scenario Editor, or to the individual companies.

TOURNEUR FILM COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Interested only inscripts of large calibre, 6 or 7 reels. No society plays and no comedy.

FATTY ARBUCKLE COMEDIES, 1723 ALLESANDRO ST. Two-reel comedies having the essentials of a good opening and a good finish, and the gags must be unusually clever.

MUTUAL FILM COMPANY, 72 WEST TWENTY-THIRD ST., NEW YORK. Will consider feature photoplays with parts suitable for Gail Kane.

BACON-PACKER FILM CORPORATION, 230 WEST THIRTY-EIGHTH ST., NEW YORK. Society dramas with women leads are needed.

ANITA STEWART CO., 4634 SANTA MONICA BLVD. In the market for 5-reel society dramas for Anita Stewart.

CHAPLIN STUDIO, 1420 LA BREA. Buys no outside material. Charlie Chaplin writes his own scripts.

PALMER ADVISORY BUREAU, 571-591 I. W. HELLMAN BLDG. We market material for Palmer members and recognized writers only. Have calls for all types of stories including serials.

L-KO FILM COMPANY, SUNSET AND GOWER. Not in the market for outside material.

UNITED PICTURE THEATRES CORPORATION, BRUNTON STUDIOS. Buying only high-class stories having Eastern or Western atmosphere which have sufficient action for 6 reels. Address scenarios to William Lord Wright.

THE DOROTHY GISH COMPANY, SUNSET STUDIO, 4520 SUNSET BLVD. Is in the market for five and six reel comedy-dramas, featuring Miss Gish.

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG is in the market for straight drama; 6 reels.

JACK PICKFORD can use stories of the good-natured, small-town boy; 6 reels.

BESSIE BARRISCALE will consider strong emotional roles with the society element; also comedy-dramas; 5 to 7 reels.

FRANK KEENAN'S scenarios must contain strong, virile, masterful character delineation; 6 reels.

MAYFLOWER COMPANY, GEORGE TUCKER, All Star cast, will consider 7-reel super-features dealing with modern society.

J. WARREN KERRIGAN—Six-reel dramas with marked romantic element.

EARLE WILLIAMS uses 5 and 6-reel society plays.

STEWART EDWARD WHITE CO. Produces only Mr. White's books.

ZANE GREY FILM CO. Not in market. Films Mr. Grey's novels.

MARY PICKFORD COMPANY. Not in the market at present for outside material.

UNIVERSAL FILM CO., UNIVERSAL CITY. In the market for 1-reel comedies and 2-reel Western. Will consider Western feature stories for Harry Carey; strong emotional drama for Dorothy Phillips and Mary MacLaren; feature character stories for Priscilla Dean; and outdoor character material for Monroe Salisbury.

FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CO., BOYLE AND STEPHENSON AVE. Two and 5-reel dramatic stories of the West for Texas Guinan. One-reel comedies for Mack Swain.

UNITED PICTURES CORPORATION, 1600 BROADWAY, N. Y. In market for strong emotional features with problem theme for Florence Reed—five reels.

SESSUE HAYAKAWA plays Japanese, Chinese and Far Eastern characters. Sympathetic roles and roles having to do with self-sacrifice are preferred to sentimental parts; 6 reels.

JESSE D. HAMPTON CO., 1425 FLEMMING ST. Will consider scenarios suitable for H. B. Warner, W. Desmond and Jack Kerrigan; five reels.

KATHERINE MACDONALD CO., PICO AND GEORGIA STS. Society or emotional dramas of 5 reels for Miss MacDonald. Address scenarios to Ursula March.

BRENTWOOD FILM CO., 4811 FOUNTAIN AVE. In market for modern American stories, with good theme predomination, and also good 5-reel comedy-dramas. Must have human interest, with characterization true to life. Five-reel features only.

MAURICE TOURNEUR

Has added another to his program successes. The trade papers have the following to say regarding his "White Heather," shown at the Rialto in New York.

MOTION PICTURE NEWS—"Let Mr. Tourneur's name and the source of the play suffice, but remember this—you can boost and boost and boost and unless we're very much mistaken, everyone is going to want to know why you didn't boost it more."

VARIETY—"This is an absolute masterpiece of motion picture direction and photography and a triumph for Maurice Tourneur, who directed the production."

MOTION PICTURE WORLD—"Just as Lizst paraphrased and transformed a lot of barbaric Hungarian melodies into rhapsodies of beauty, so Tourneur paraphrases and transforms these Drury Lane melodramas into visualizations of scenic charm by consummate skill in accomplishing fine picture effects.

TRADE REVIEW—"The factt that the direction was in the hands of Maurice Tourneur is sufficient testimonial to the excellence of the filming. The Tourneur scheme has this advantage, that it leaves the director a free hand in his single-minded purpose if interesting an audience.

BILLBOARD—"Mr. Tourneur stands in a class by himself and the White Feather but adds another wreath to his laurels."

NEW YORK TELEGRAPH—"Mr. Tourneur is one of the few film directors who believes 'the play's the thing' and consequently he fits his players to the story instead of the reverse."

MOTION PICTURE NEWS—"Maurice Tourneur is establishing a new type of picture in the Drury Lane melodramas he is bringing to the screen. The secret of this originality is apparently due to the fact that Mr. Tourneur endows the product of Drury Lane with an atmosphere as artistic as that which he brought out in "The Poor Little Rich Girl," and "The Blue Bird." Transference to the screen by a hand less skilful and "The White Heather" might easily have turned out a "howling melodrama." Mr. Tourner offers an artistic melodrama still containing the popular appear of the older mind and multiplying it by fine treatment."

The Maurice Tourner Productions

Are looked forward to as screen milestones. To exhibitors and public alike the name MAURICE TOURNEUR is a guarantee of meritorious and entertaining motion pictures.

KERRIGAN PICTURE NEARS COMPLETION

The initial Kerrigan-Brunton production, "A Man's Chance," will be completed this week at the Brunton studios. This picture was taken from a magazine story written by Johnston McCulley and published by the Frank A. Munsey Company. The original title as used on the fiction version was "A White Man's Chance." The screen adaptation was made by Clifford Howard, and directed by Ernest C. Warde. Lillian Walker played opposite the star.

BEST SELLERS

"The Wicked Marquis," E. Phillips Oppenheim.
"The Yellow Document," Marcel Allain.
"Family," Elinor Glyn.
"The Further Adventures of Jinnie Dale," Frank Packard.
"The Mystery of Hartley House," Clifford S. Raymond.
"The Riddle of the Purple Emperor," Thomas W. and Mary E. Haushew.

Flanagan and Edwards, featured in "The Hall Room Boys" series at the National studios, have completed the third comedy of their series of fifty-two and are tuning up for the fourth round, which will be started this week. Director Archie McMackin has injected some exceptionally humorous situations into his stories.

Billie Rhodes, Louis Chaudet, director, and company have returned from New York, where they have engaged in filming Miss Rhode's latest feature de luxe, "The Blue Bonnet." Many episodes of the story were successfully taken, the remaining scenes being now in the making at the National studios.

William Seiter. director of De Haven comedies at the National studios, has recently completed "After the Bawl," and is starting on a new vihicle christened "Close to Nature." Mr. and Mrs. De Haven are working both night and day lately. having entered upon a short engagement at Grauman's theatre where they are presenting an artistic vaudeville act in conjunction with one of the photoplay comedies.

Bertram Bracken, with several members of his company, has left for Truckee and Lake Tahoe to film the first exteriors of "The Confession," starring Henry Walthall. Those of the cast accompanying him in the trip include, beside Mr. Walthall, Irene Aldwyn, William Clifford, Francis McDonald and Ram Sing. Assistant director Jack Laver, Franklyn Hall, scenario writer, and Walter Griffin, camera man, comprise the producing staff. The entire company expects to be gone about three weeks.

FLOWERS FOR THE LIVING

The following comments were taken from the Los Angeles Express of June 12:

Camera's Year Book, the annual of the leading local periodical covering the activities of the motion picture studios of Southern California, has appeared on the news stands. It is a handsome volume of 130 pages teeming with articles and illustra tions of interest and information for all who want to keep in touch with the doings of the film world. There are numerous articles by leading producers and actors on various phases of the industry and along historical lines; a complete list of the production of 1918; a directory of the studios, with their personnel, and other interesting things about the people and affairs of the movies that are invaluable to all who are keeping track of such things.

The Year Book is a credit to the publishers, E. M. Robbins and Raymond Cannon, and to the industry which their paper, Camera, "covers" weekly in such a sprightly manner.

Interesting Universal Notes

From Ham Beall

Production has started on two new features: "Sundown Trail." which is to star Monroe Salisbury under Rollin Sturgeon's direction, and "Playing the Game," that George Seigman is producing with a notable cast headed by Fritzi Brunette and George McDaniels. The former was written by J. G. Hawks; the latter, originally produced as a stage play by the Henry B. Harris estate, is from the pen of Sada Cowan.

"Wild Lions and Loose Bandits," the third of the William S. Campbell animal comedies, starring Joe Martin, the $10,000 orang-outang and associate jungle players, is completed.

"The Pinnacle," the Alpine melodrama, written by Eric Von Stroheim and in which he is playing the masculine lead as well as directing, and receiving its finishing touches.

"Devils Have Their Friends," which Paul Powell just completed with Monroe Salisbury as his star, is being cut and titled.

Marie Walcamp and company are taking the final outdoor scenes for the "Tempest Cody" series of two-reel westerns, which are being shot in the Northern California mining country near Sonora.

George Holt is directing Pete Morrison, the cowboy star. and Magda Lane in "Gettin' Acquainted," a western drama written by James Youngdeer.

Allen Holubar is personally editing, in collaboration with Frank Lawrence, chief of the cutting department, his latest Dorothy Phillips feature, "The Right to Happiness." Miss Phillips is enjoying a summer vacation.

Harry Carey is half way through "Jim of the Rangers." a melodrama of Texas in the early days, written by G. B. Lancaster. Jack Ford is directing. Gloria Hope and Claire Anderson are Carey's feminine leads.

Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran are producing the one-reel comedy, "Don't Mistrust Your Husband," a satire on married life.

Having completed "The Petal on the Current," Mary MacLaren, accompanied by her mother, sneaked away for a quiet vacation at Laguna Beach, the quietest seashore resort of Southern California.

Harvey Gates has returned to the scenario staff, after writing several productions for Goldwyn.

At present he is handling the continuity for James J. Corbett's serial, "The Midnight Man." as well as creating western dramas for Pete Morrison and Magda Lane.

Jennie Lee, "the grand old lady of the films," who has been seen in mother roles in many of D. W. Griffith's productions, has been engaged to play in support of Harry Carey in "Jim of the Rangers," his newest western production.

Gale Henry, supported by Hap H. Ward and Milburn Moranti, this week started work on her twelfth comedy. Bruno J. Becker is directing.

Walter Long is with Griffith for the current picture.

GEORGE D. BAKER

George D. Baker, one of the foremost motion picture directors, has severed his connection with Metro and will "free lance" on big special productions. Mr. Baker, whose finest work was "Revelation," Nazimova's greatest success, recently directed "Peggy Does Her Darndest" and "Castles in the Aair," with May Allison and "The Lion's Den," with Bert Lytell.

This work was done on the Pacific coast, but Mr. Baker is now permanently in New York and has just signed a contract to direct two international stars in several screen productions, at a salary which places him among the highest paid directors in the United States.

With Helene Chadwick as his new leading woman, Tom Moore enjoys other distinguished support in his current Goldwyn porduction, with Harry Beaumont as director. Rosemary Theby makes her first appearance at the Culver City studios in company with Herbert Pryor and Larry Steers. Herbert Standing, Mary Warren, Sydney Ainsworth, William Burress and Roger MacKinnon are all old favorites at the studio.

Edwin Stevens and Tina Marshall, vaudeville headliners for years, are with Goldwyn.

Victor Schertzinger, now directing his second Mabel Normand assignment, was famous as a musician and composer before he gained recognition as a motion picture director. When but 7 years old he was featured as a violin prodigy with the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra. Later he studied in Brussels and returned to this country as a violin soloist with Sousa's and Pryor's bands.

He then became director for Oliver Morosco, wrote the song hits of "The Tip-Tok Man" and Kitty Gordon's "Prettly Mrs. Smith," and was engaged by Thos. H. Ince to write scores for his productions.

Wallace Reid is shortly to commence work at the Famous Players-Lasky studio on an original story from the imagination of J. Stewart Woodhouse. The picture will be directed by James Cruze.

Thomas Jefferson has been signed for a part in the picture now under production by King W. Vidor.

Irene Rich returned to Los Angeles from New York last week with the Billie Rhodes company. Miss Rich has been gone on the distant location trip nearly a month, and is very glad to be back to her Hollywood bungalow again, though confessing she had a delightful time on her trip.

Cedric Gibbons, who has been with Goldwyn for some time as assistant art director, has signed a contract to continue as chief aide to Hugo Ballin. Previous to his present connection he was a painter of note and supervised the art direction of nearly noe hundred Edison pictures.

R. H. Grey, who is one of the best known of heavy men, has just finished an engagement with the Grace Cunard-Elomo Lincoln Serial company at the L. K. O., and has been listed to play a similar part in the Fred Fischbach Super De Luxe Comedies upon the same lot.

Chas. J. Parrott, who directs Bull's Eye Comedies, was down to the beach last Sunday celebrating his daughter, June's, birthday. Some people use awful angles for alibis these days. What will they do after July 1?

Beatrice Dominguez has been cast for a very important part with Monroe Salisbury. She is to disport her dancing wares for which she has become noted among studioites, for there isn't any cleverer Spanish stepper than the charming Beatrice is capable of. Rollin Sturgeon is directing the picture and he had Beatrice doing a similar part at the iVtagraph some time ago.

"HAS THE PUBLIC AN OPINION?"

By Maurice Tourneur

Should producers give the public what the exhibitors say it requires? Are we to take it for gospel truth that the public will not go to see a film which has an unhappy ending or which does not contain "thrills" or rabid melodrama? Must we beneve that theatregoers will not support logical endings or artistic and beautiful photodramas?

To all of these I give an emphatic NO!

If we continue to think these things, we have a very poor opinion of the people who patronize the picture theatres.

What are the facts?

The public has had these fallacies thumped into its head and has not been allowed an opinion.

On the one hand, the public has had melodrama, dirty sex propaganda, mush and serials served to it, spiced with truly wonderful and fearsome advertising. On the other hand, the exhibitors have, more often than not, offered a beautiful or dramatic photodrama without the necessary aid of suitable advertising, publicity or showmanship; the result has naturally been unsatisfactory from a commercial point of view. It is also true that the exhibitors have not received the assistance they should have from the manufacturers.

With proper showmanship, even a tragic photodrama may be made a success, and this has been amply proven by the able presentation of David W. Griffith's "Broken Blossoms" in the larger cities, and I contend that if the exhibitors of the country would pack old-fashioned prejudices away with moth balls and come out fearlessly in favor of beautiful and truly dramatic features, the public would very soon learn to look forward to them and that they would take their places with the pictures which are generally accepted as being of commercial value to the exhibitors.

The theatregoing public needs a little educating and is open to be educated. Big pictures, not necessarily very long ones, for length does not constitute greatness, attract the public, and I look for even better discrimination on the part of theatregoers. Showmanship is a tremendous factor and truly deserving features must be properly presented and advertised and not be placed before the people in a half-apologetic manner.

The Hermann Film Corporation, located in the Security Building, have secured the services of Wm. P. S. Earle to direct Marjorie Wilson in a series of eight pictures. Billy Bletcher has been signed as assistant director. Mr. Hermann has secured a neastern contract for 52 one-reel comedies, on which work has already begun.

Al Green has gone to Kentucky to prepare that state for the invasion of the Neilan Stewart forces, who will be on their way to finish "Old Kentucky" some time next week.

Style Accents

By Vigee

At the present moment the blouse of finger-tip length, cut as it generally is on extremely plain lines and made with flat neck finish, offers an excellent opportunity for the French hand painting. A white crepe de Chine straight line model, loosely belted, is decorated with stripes of king's blue painted by hand around the collarless neck, the wide sleeves and the skirt hem. The bottom of the blouse is further brightened with groups of fruits, also painted by hand.

Many blouses carry touches of hand embroidery, and in many cases this is the feature of the blouse. Heavy Bulgarian embroidery gives distinction to a navy crepe de Chine blouse. The embroidery is done tightly, with small stitches in king's blue, red and yellow wool. A narrow band finishes the round neck and wide three-quarter sleeves. Wide, loose panels that fall at the back like a collar, and at the front like a short vestee, tacked at the waistline, are also heavily all over embroidered in the same way.

Bisque Georgette embroidered in red dots and featherstitched in navy blue, makes the roll collar and panel front in a blouse of plain navy Georgette. Embroidered neckwear flouncings play an important part in the latest blouses.

Colored Georgettes, with decorations done in wool embroidery with touches of silk and beading, show a wide range of short peplum ideas. From a belt that fits outside the skirt, fall peplums of various shapes that extend all the way around the waistline or tabs that hang at wide intervals. When these tabs are placed at the side fronts they are frequently made to turn up into pockets.

The overblouse seems to omit the collar much more freely than does the regulation blouse using a yoke without a collar.

Round necks finished with bands of puffing are favored, and machine pleating with a front side opening instead of the rather inconvenient back fastening. When a blouse has a collar it is preferably of the sort that is cut so as to lie flat against the blouse rather than the rolling effects, this being truer of the dressier blouses than of the more tailored numbers.

The cuirass is the latest development of the overblouse. Round-necked, with long-fitted sleeves and fullness at bottom crushed into a soft girdle that sometimes knots loosely at back.

White satin, richly brocaded in colors and gold thread, is used for one; another is of crepe chiffon printed in foulard designs in white with black, navy or colors. Heavy taffetas, and novelty silks have also been employed, with a small two-piece detachable collar of Valenciennes.

Printed silks appear in gilet blouses with front and apron of plain material, the body of the blouse being of voile gaily printed in lattice work and flowers. Or they are used in a plain button back blouse with a white frill edged with the printed Georgette to match the blouse proper.

More novel is the use they find to edge the series of ruffles that make the frilly front of a gilet number, and the ruffles that form the round neck and cuffs. In this case a foulard print is used and the color is repeated in the satin ribbon belt and wristbands.

Of the colors, disregarding bisque, white and flesh, watermelon is mentioned as being especially good. This shade is less trying than the more colorful Victory red. This is shown in soft collarless models, with touches of contrasting beading, such as blue, white and steel, or with touches of black and white.

Orchid is also noted as being in favor, but to no such extent as the pastels, bisque and flesh.

ROAD BULLETIN

San Francisco Coast Route. There now remains only one or two short detours around bridge and road construction work. The state highway between Los Angeles and Ventura has undergone repair work, particularly between the junction of the Lankershim road and Calabasas.

Inland Route North. Los Angeles to Saugus, paved. Bouquet Canyon, despite the fact that it is subject to heavy travel and is of dirt formation, from Saugus to Bailey's Ranch, is in good condition. Bailey's Ranch to Bakersfield, paved, with the exception of 11 miles of oiled road over Tejon Pass. Bakersfield to Delano, paved; from there a choice of two routes is had, one by way of Tipton and Tulare and the other by way of Porterville.

Yosemite National Park. All roads (with the exception of the Tioga Road) leading into Yosemite are now open. This includes the Coulterville route and the Big Oak Flat Road, the latter road leading from Yosemite to Stockton via Chinese Camp. Reservations should be made in advance at the various camps and hotels, as there is an unusually large crowd at the Park. The Madora-Raymond-Coarse Gold-Wawona Road is receiving most of the travel, particularly from Southern California points.

Lake Tahoe. The Placerville route to Tahoe is open and free from snow. The Auburn-Truckee route is expected to be open soon. It is still closed with snow over Truckee Pass.

Sequoia and General Grant National Parks. These parks were officially opened on the morning of May 24. The Park roads have been put into good condition for travel. The roads leading into the parks are also in good condition.

Idyllwild. Both roads, the one from Hemet and the one from Banning, are open to Idyllwild resort and in very good condition. Idyllwild Inn is open and offers excellent meals. Fishing is reported to be excellent in Strawberry Creek.

Since the production of "I'll Get Him Yet," in which Dorothy Gish is given credit for the stellar part, much discussion has arisen with regard to just who is the celebrated character actor representing the village Board of Trade. It is reported and confirmed in writing that Harry Lightig has tried to sign him for a series of pictures to be produced in—(name deleted by censor). And it was only discovered a week ago that the hidden identity was that of Leigh R. Smith, assistant to Director Clifton. Character actors will sharpen their razors and prepare to defend their scalps. This thing is getting to be serious.

MILDRED HARRIS SIGNS

Mildred Harris signed up with Louis B. Mayer, who recently organized the Mayer Production Company. Miss Harris is said to have been paid a bonus of $100,000 for signing with Mayer. She will be starred in a series of pictures by famous authors. Mr. Mayer has arranged for the release of Miss Harris from the Universal Film Manufacturing Company, with whom she had a contract.

The Mayer organizations will have three stars to head their individual companies, specializing only in the picturization of famous books and stage plays. There will also be a carefully picked company to make four special features next year, employing all-star casts.

Howard Gaye returned from the Canadian army six weeks ago and was instantly engaged to support May Allison in "Free." Gaye is remembered as the producer of "Super-Strategy" at the Mena Studio and is being shown this week at the Symphony.

Harry Shurlift will film the books of Jack London, making the productions in San Francisco.

Arthur Howard is to assist George Siegman at Universal.

WILL ROGERS ARRIVES

Will Rogers arrived in town Sunday via the Santa Fe to become a permanent star in Goldwyn Pictures. The famous gum-chewing wit and lariat-thrower hasn't changed a particle since his last visit here as an Orpheum star. The same grin, the same incessant flow of spontaneous wit, the same likeable, unaffected personality.

His success in pictures surprised him more than anyone else. Featured in Rex Beach's "Laughing Bill Hyde," produced by Goldwyn last year, he scored a knockout which steadily increased in force as the picture was shown throughout the country. Samuel Goldwyn promptly set about to acquire Will Rogers as a Goldwyn star.

Last December in Cleveland, where Rogers was playing with the Ziegfeld Follies, his signature was affixed to a contract for the exclusive rights to his unique services in Goldwyn Pictures. Thus he becomes no summer sojourner at Culver City, but a permanent, all-the-year-round star.

Rogers plans to locate here, probably purchasing a ranch if he can find a real one. "Out here," he says, "they call a house and backyard a ranch. I want a big one where my kids can make as much noise as they got a mind to." There are four little Rogerses and they will arrive with their mother during the week.

Will Rogers will first appear in the "Billy Fortune" series of stories now running in the Saturday Evening Post, by William R. Lighton. The author is now at the Goldwyn Studios in daily conference with Robert F. Hill, who is writing the scenarios of the plays, the locale of which is Lusk, Wyo. It is interesting to know that Rogers lived not far from there and that Mrs. Lighton is an old friend of Mrs. Rogers. But the author and actor had never met until Goldwyn brought them together. Just who will direct Will Rogers is not yet decided on. He begins work June 15.

SOCIAL FRICASSEE AND CAPER SAUCE

BY FLORENCE PORTER PARKS

GIVEN BY MRS. BADGER

A birthday party that was a real surprise was given Clarence Badger by Mrs. Badger, at their mountain home Saturday week at midnight. Sunday was Mr. Badger's natal day, and his wife managed to have him in the backyard stringing electric lights about midnight Saturday, as a few-dinner guests had been invited for Sunday and the place supposedly was being decorated in their honor. The Saturday night guests, numbering about forty sneaked into the house, while Mr. Badger was busy in the yard, and when he entered the house he was a very much surprised man to find that he was the honored guest at a party which had been organized without his knowledge. A sumptuous supper was served after twelve. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. A. Lehr Mr. and Mrs. Harry Beaumont, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Robertson, Mamei Normand, Tom Moore, Ray Gallagher, Clarke Irvine, Jack Donovan, Mrs. Janette Donovan, Reginald Barker, Mr. and Mrs. Ludy, Mrs. Marsh, Miss Webster, Lieutenant Pilcer, and Mr. and Mrs. Rex Taylor.

DUGOUT NEWS

The Dugout, at 1848 Morgan Place, gave a masquerade party Friday night to which about two hundred guests were invited. The hostesses for the evening were Florence Praeger, Helen Lynch, Miriam Meredith, Elinor Bamber, Bernice Allen and Helen Nelson.

The Sunday afternoon "at home" at the Dugout has been postponed for the summer months. The Club has not been closed a single Sunday afternoon in the past nineteen months, which is certainly a splendid record.

PARTY FOR TOTS

Three tiny pink candles twinkled merrily on the birthday cake at three-year-old Marjory Seigler's one day last week at the beach, when her grandmother gave a birthday party for her. Twenty tots were present, and the day was a happy one. The favors were toys, dolls and paper novelties. Marjory's father is cameraman for Robert Leonard, and he is now in New York with the Famous Players.

WELL-EARNED VACATION

Yvette Mitchell, who has been at the Universal Studios for the past four years, is vacationing at Hermosa Beach.

BORN TO MR. AND MRS. NEILL

Two weeks ago a baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. R. William Neill. Before her marriage Mrs. Neill was Miss Betty MacLagan, who was telephone operator at the Thomas Ince Studio, when Mr. Neill was a director there. Little Miss Neill has been named Elizabeth Barbara, and she weighs nine and a half pounds.

HUGH SAXON

Through an error, which occurs infrequently in the printing office of Camera! credit was not given Hugh Saxon for the clever, modernistic slang copy which appeared on the editorial page last week. Mr. Saxon has been a newspaperman most of his life, and the smell of printer's ink nearly always draws him to the door of the news mill. Last week he generously responded to a request for a mental contribution, and here we publicly thank him for same, and call attention to the fact that he was the author. We will simply lay the oversight on the shoulders of the printerman—we picked a broad-shouldered one on purpose.

GUESTS OF MELFORDS

Mr. and Mrs. George Melford were among those who entertained a few friends at The Ship last Saturday night. At their table were Alice Melford, Charles Christy, Mrs. Edmund Mitchell, and Gladys Curley.

GUIHAN-KAHN

Frances Guihan is to be married to Ivan Kahn, of the Kahn-Beck Company, Monday, by Mayor Woodman at the City Hall. Miss Guihan has been special continuity writer at the Metro and Haworth Studios. She prepared most of Sessue Hayakawa's recent successes for him. About three months ago she opened an attractive studio for herself in the Majestic Theatre Building, where she is making a feature of continuity. She has just sold a story to some capitalists for production in France. Miss Guihan will continue her work after a brief honeymoon in San Francisco.

Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Sessue Hayakawa gave an informal dance in honor of Miss Guihan at their lovely home in Argyle street.

SUPPER DANCE

One of the most enjoyable social affairs given recently was that of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Phelps, who entertained with a supper dance at their Culver City home one night last week. An informal dance began at eight-thirty, accompanied by a three-piece string orchestra, and at midnight a five-course supper was served. Decorations were carried out in the rainbow colors, with dainty Cecil Brunner roses used in profusion. The chandeliers and side lights were shaded with lavender, pink and yellow crepe paper. Entertainment aside from dancing consisted in impromptu sketches given by talented guests present. Among those present were: Ward Wing, Frank Newberg, Ray Cushing, Fritzie Ridgway, Jack Dill, Fred Datig, Henry Murray, Billy Human, Herbert Brown, Joe Delphino, Mildred Delphino, E. E. McCarger, Murdock McQuarrie, Percy Hilburn, Guy Coburn, Orohooh Millett, Hazel Page, Charles Darrian, Nella Noxon, Smoke Turner, Juliet Spencer, W. S. Seeley, J. J. Sostler, Mrs. Mary Wiseman, Genevieve Ells, Lucille Desmond, Katherine Tenny, Ramona Sharp, Walter de Courey, Arline Manning, Mrs. Casey, Helele Chadwick, William Wellam, Mary Savage, Jack Ford, Al Semnacher, Hugh Saxon, Lynn Reynolds, Kathleen Connors, Fred Robinson, Roger McKinnon, James Shannon, Frank Lloyd, Mrs. Jack Standing, Diana Carrilla, Arthur Millet, Messrs. and Mmes. Pitcairn, Foster, Tom Brown, and Dave Allan.

AT MAISON MARCELS

A gay coterie of young women were entertained by Mrs. David Butler at Maison Marcels recently, at a one o'clock luncheon. Following luncheon, Mrs. Butler took her guests to her home at 2120 West Eleventh street, where bridge was played until five. Lavender and coral-colored sweet peas adorned the rooms. The guests included Juanita Hansen, Mrs. Shayer, Mrs. J. Wesley Smith, Mrs. Tod Browning, Mrs. Vera Lewis and others.

LUNCHEON AND CARDS

A smart luncheon at the Mary Louise Tea Room was the pretty way in which Juanita Hansen entertained for Mrs. Vera Lewis one day last week. The table was done in pink roses, corsage bouquets of Cecil Brunner roses bearing a tiny hand-painted name card, marked the place of each guest. After luncheon the afternoon was spent in playing bridge. Those bidden were Vera Lewis, Mrs. Fred Butler, Mrs. Shayer, Mrs. Tod Browning, Mrs. Thurston Hall, Jane Urban, Mrs. Smith and Miss Hansen.

WITH THE MEANEYS

Mrs. Billy Mason is the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Don Meaney at their home in Vista street, during the absence of Mr. Mason, who is away on location.

ALFRED E. GREEN

By Florence Porter Parks

The knowledge of the laws governing heavenly bodies having been discovered, the astronomer of the Twentieth Century has directed his efforts to finding out what the stars are, and their nature. And with all the mathematical calculations as to just how far Sirius, the most brilliant of the stars, is from Jupiter or Saturn—who cares? Even the tired astronomer who squints through his upturned telescope until his eye is asquint, admits that a scintillating star from the firmament of Filmland affords him much more real entertainment.

Much has been writen of the picture stars, so much indeed that the paper used in conveying the information to the layman would carpet the world, and make walking easy for the feet that have no gasoline throttle to press.

Stars have received their full quota of praise and commendation, but there is now creeping into the ethereal air of Justice and Merit, a desire to give credit to others than the stars—to those, in fact, who make the star the attractive box office receipt that she is.

Releases now, in almost every case, carry the names of the director and the cinematographer, as well as that of the star. And the assistant director must surely come into his own. It is a fact that very often the success of a production is due to the efficiency of the assistant director. And the time is not far distant when he will receive screen credit for his labors.

There is one assistant director among others who is cutting his name in the cornerstone of the Motion Picture Industry. That is Alfred E. Green, assistant director to Marshall Neilan.

The first cutting of initials that Al did was in the little town of boulders and chipmunks, called Perris, California. He quickly outgrew the school master of Perris and his half-dozen pupils, and entered the schools of Los Angeles, and later the University. His original intention was to become a chemist, but instead he became a picture fan, and acting upon his usual quick decision, he straightway joined the Selig Company at Edendale, that was in 1912.

He entered pictures as an extra, as did five other fellows, about the same time, and they all became very close friends. Today every one of them are directors, except Al, and there is no doubt about his capabilities.

While working as an extra on a set in "The Spoilers," Colin Campbell asked him how he would like to be his assistant director. Al kept his rapturous elation well under dignified control, and accepted on the spot. He assisted Mr. Campbell in directing ninety per cent of the Selig productions for four years.

He has been with Marshall Neilan for the past year and a half, assisting the direction of such stars as Mary Pickford, George M. Cohen, Elsie Ferguson, Marguerite Clark, Blanche Sweet and Anita Stewart.

UNIVERSAL CHANGES

It is reported that Harry Kline, for years associated with Charles Dillingham, will succeed William Sistrom as manager of Universal City.

With the retirement of Sistrom, other changes in departmental heads are to be made. E. P. Hunziker is no longer head of the technical department and Elmer Ellsworth has been succeeded as scenario department chief by Eugene Mullen.

Mary Miles Minter, who recently broke her contract with the American Film Company, has signed with Artcraft.

WEDNESDAY EVENING DINNER

Mrs. Gladys Rhodes of 515 North Hobart street gave a four-course dinner Wednesday evening, complimenting her sister, Mrs. Doherty, and her father, Mr. C. D. Brown of Omaha, who are guests in her home. Those invited to meet them were Lucille Humbert, Mr. and Mrs. Leo White, Charles Kenyon, Edmund Mitchell and Walter Woherly.

STUDIO CLUB NOTES

An informal dance was enoyed at the Club Friday evening by one hundred guests. Cooling refreshments were served, and the music was furnished by the Athletic Club orchestra.

The Sunday teas which are held every Sunday at seven, are always a source of pleasure to those who attend. All members of the Club are most welcome.

Those who were dinner guests of the Club the past week include Wallace MacDonald, Dick Morgan, Truman B. Handy and Carolyn Diggs.

COMMUNITY THEATRE

The Community Theatre of Hollywood, in which so many of the picture people have taken an active interest, closed its second season recently. The third season will open in September, 1919. The theatre has produced some very worthy one-act plays under the supervision of Neely Dickson. Some of the picture people who took part in the closing program were Fred Bond, Dick Morgan, Antrim Short, Olive Burton, Julian Johnston and others. In the audience were celebrities from the musical as well as the film world. Carrie Jacobs Bond had a small party, as did Mr. and Mrs. William de Mille, and Mr. and Mrs. Bryant Washburn. Guy Price was present, also Tod Shawn and Al Cohan.

PICTURES AT ST. VINCENTS

Leigh Smith, casting director for the Dorothy Gish Company, has established a precedent which is both charitable and most entertaining. Thursday night at about eight-thirty he and Andy Reid, cameraman for the company, run "Peppy Polly," a Dorothy Gish feature, at St. Vincent's Hospital, much to the joy of the patients and the Sisters. Mary Pickford gave the hospital a portable projection room, and a machine, and "Peppy Polly" was run in an open court with the patients looking on from their beds and chairs, which were pulled close to the windows of the three-story building. Some of the Sisters had never seen a motion picture, and some of the crippled children fairly cried with joy. There were about fifteen children and twenty-five Sisters who enjoyed the event. And a wee small infant was really the cause of the pleasure given, Leigh Rex Smith, Jr., who was born in the hospital the fourth of June. The proud father was there to see the mother and his young son, and when the Sisters found out that he was connected with pictures, they expressed a desire to have him show a Dorothy Gish picture, as she was a favorite with so many of the children. Mr. Smith, through the courtesy of Dan Martin of Quinn's Rialto, has secured "The Shepherd of the Hills" which will be run at the hospital the twentieth of the month.

R. A. Walsh and his company are on their way up to Big Bear, where they will film some scenes for "Evangeline," an excellent production which will soon be released on the Fox program.

WHERE TO FIND THE PEOPLE YOU KNOW

Pick-ups Of The Staff

William Duncan has taken his Vitagraph Company, comprising forty people, to Huntington Lake for three months of serial thrills.

Casson Ferguson is entertaining his sister from New York. In addition to exploiting her about the Lasky studio where he spends most of his time, he is pointing out to her the various bits of real estate in and about Los Angeles which Casson either did own, does own or will own. Real estate is a luxurious hobby with this juvenile leading man.

William Russell and his company have returned from Lake Tahoe, where they have been on location for the past two weeks. A few days' work at the Santa Barbara studio will mean the completion of this new Russell picture, in which Mary Thurman plays opposite the star.

Nancy Caswell, the five-year-old favorite of "the Farnum boys," has just finished a role in the William Farnum Fox picture.

Enid Bennett has just commenced work on a photoplay, the working title of which is "The Gay Miss Fortesque," by Eugene B. Lewis, and will be directed by Fred Niblo, under the supervision of Thomas H. Ince. Included in the picture are Milton Sills, Irving Cummings, Wm. Conklin and Theodore Roberts.

Dorothy Dalton's picture "L'Apache," now in the making in New York City, gives her the opportunity to wear some beautiful clothes.

Helene Chadwick will finish an engagement as the daughter of a lord during the coming week out at the Goldwyn studios where she is playing opposite Tom Moore in the picture, "Heart's Ease."

Fay Tincher spent the past week in showing the under and over-sea wonders of Catalina Island to her mother and sister, who are visiting with her. Miss Tincher begins work in her fourth Chrstie Special picture next week under Al Christie's direction.

Gertrude Short begins work Monday with the Robert Warwick Company.

Ashton Deerholt and wife Helen Roffman are celebrating their third wedding anniversary with a trip to San Francisco where they will remain for a week or so.

Clara Horton, who was featured in "The Lily," the first production of the Gold Star Company, has been engaged to play opposite Will Rogers at Goldwyn.

Gertrude Short entertained a few friends at The Ship Wednesday night. Those present were Katherine Kingsland, Virginia Holtzclaw, Josephine Warrick, Katherine Short, James Mitchell Russell, Jack Schumaker and Jack Webster.

Lew Short and "famblee" moved last week, bag and baggage to 1771 Cahuenga. Ashton Deerholt presented the "famblee" with a parrott which is internationally famous for its vocabulary.

Margaret Delamont began last week with H. B. Warner Company.

Jack Webster gave a kitchen party Tuesday night, and each guest was presented with a kitchen apron and put to work. Eighteen Commounity Players were the complimented guests of the evening. The evening was spent in telling fortunes and in dancing. Caviar sandwiches and coffee were served by the apron-clad guests themselves.

Mildred Davis, who has signed to play leads with the Harold Lloyd Comedy Company, must not be confused with the Mildred Davis who keeps the exclamation point in CAMERA! The latter declares that she has no film ambitions, though she admits that she has no objection to having her name made famous by the little comedienne.

Doris May, who is being co-starred with Douglas MacLean by Thomas H. Ince, has just purchased a new Packard automobile. She employs a Japanese chauffeur.

Truman Van Dyke has gone over to the Vitagraph lot to play again with Bessie Love. Van is supporting the little star as J. Hector Greshingham, a suitor in accordance with all the rules of society.

Edna Harris, secretary of the Studio Club, was almost drowned at Laguna Beach last week, while vacationing. She is now at the home of her mother in Pasadena, recovering from the shock. Her assistant, Nell Newman, is taking her place at the club during Miss Harris' absence.

Burton Law and Mexican Tom left Sunday on a deep sea fishing excursion as is their weekly custom. They go over the breakers in a skiff and out to sea about three miles where they drop line. This week they brought in a goodly mess of calico bass, albacore, yellow fin and barracuda.

Blanche White, a native of old Blighty and formerly of the musical comedy, "Very Good Eddie" and "Oh, Boy," has a part in the Gale Henry fun film.

Gorge Larson has been engaged to turn the crank for Gale Henry comedies, succeeding Irving Reis, who was with the company since its inception.

C. N. Douetil of Calcutta, India, managing director of Bijou Limited, the firm that distributes Metro pictures in all India, Burmah and Ceylon, during a visit to the Metro studios in Hollywood this week told some interesting things about the likes and dislikes of the native India movie fan.

"They like melodrama better than anything else," he said. "For a good crook story with detectives and double-crossings and 'dirty work' they will pack the house.

"Their comedies must be rough—none of the light domestic squabble type for them. If a man falls off a high building and is dashed to pieces they laugh uproariously."

Harold Wenstrom, who turned the camera crank on the scene at the historic moment when President Wilson set foot on French soil at Brest, again when the executive entered the peace halls in Paris, and who immortalized on celluloid many other famous scenes, returned to Los Angeles this week and was at once re-engaged by Maxwell Karger, director-general of Metro Pictures, to resume the work he left when he enlisted in 1917. Wenstrom was Sidney Drew's cameraman at the time war was declared.

Al Whitman will not return to the films for some time, as he will be in the next Morosco stock production in Los Angeles.

Tom Santschi received an offer to star in films to be made in Alaska, but Tom has a cozy home in Los Angeles and will remain here. Santschi is now under the direction of Frank Beal at the Fox studio.

Director Lloyd Ingraham is working with Frank Howard Clark on the continuity of a story for the Haworth company. A new English star will be featured and work will start the middle of June.

Jack Mower is leading man at the Super-Art studios at Culver City. Jack acts most of the time; the rest of it he devotes to hunting and fishing.

A telegram received from Claire Du Brey shows she has been very sick in New York and is now recuperating at Atlantic City. Miss DuBrey caught cold on the journey east and her ear was infected, necessitating an operation. Her numerous friends are hoping she is well again.

Jack Gilbert, the juvenile lead, is at Morosco studios.

Chester Bailey Fernald and Richard Willis of the firm of Willis and Inglis were chatting in the offices of the last named. Mr. Fernald, the author of "The Cat and the Cherub" is an American who has lived in London for many years, while Mr. Willis is a Londoner who has been in America for a very long time. "I've lost all my accent," said Willis. "Yes, and I've got it," replied Fernald.

Jenie MacPherson, the young lady who writes the Cecil DeMille productions, has an office which is fitted up like a log cabin, all rough wood, log slabs and everything in keeping. The chairs and stools are of boughs and canvas and altogether it makes a most attractive little "den," not the least attractive thing in it being bright li'l Miss Jenie herself.

Little Marjorie Guerin, who finished with Al Santel's company out at Universal last week, is working with Tom Moore at Goldwn. Marjorie is the youngest member of the Actors' Association.

E. Richard Schayer, who before entering the scenario field was one of the best known newspaper men and war correspondents in New York, has been engaged by Goldwyn to write exclusively for Director Reginald Barker. He has started upon a scenario for Pauline Frederick, which will follow the production upon which Barker is now writing with Miss Frederick as the star.

Clarke Irvine has joined the publicity department at the Goldwyn studios with all the enthusiasm of a man not long out of the navy. Previous to his enlistment in the service he contributed "Doings at Los Angeles" to the Moving Picture World for three years and ceased that work to launch "The Screamer," a publication sponsored by the Scream Club, an organization of publicity men on the coast. Plans for its enlargement were cut short when Irvine enlisted in the navy and was assigned to the U. S. S. Cheyenne as captain's secretary. He was mustered out of the service after having been promoted four times in eighteen months, finally attaining the rank of chief yoeman.

R. A. Walsh, who is directing Miriam Cooper, is taking the final scenes of this beautiful story over on a ranch near Silver Lake. The company that Mr. Walsh is directing is composed of close to 1000 people.

William Scott, who is to play the title role with Gladys Brockwell in her next photoplay entitled "The Sporting Chance," will portray the part of a young criminal in this production. To get local atmosphere Mr. Scott has been spending several days at the San Quentin penitentiary, studying the various types of criminals.

Peggy Hyland, the William Fox English star, is writing a book. It is entitled "An English Girl's Idea of the Vampire," and is a humorous treatise on how English girls succeed in making men propose to them.

Eddie Cline, the latest addition to the William Fox Sunshine lot, under the supervision of Hampton Del Ruth, is leading his players a strenuous life in a new picture he has just started, in which Jack Cooper is playing the role of a village schoolmaster who found he had much to learn. "Come on, the world is waiting to laugh," says Eddie. This is his morning greeting to his cast, for he routs them out early, believing the humor of the human mind is at high tide in the morning.

Joseph Franklin Poland, screen author, has signed a contract with Universal which calls for the delivery of some special features, to be written by Mr. Poland. Mr. Poland has just fulfilled a contract with the American studio, during the term of which he wrote the last four Mary Miles Minter stories, and the current Margarita Fisher vehicle. Sixteen original stories of Mr. Poland's are now being exhibited, ranging from light comedy, as "An Amateur Widow," a current World Film production, to heavy drama, as "The Spitfire of Seville," a forthcoming Universal Special with Hedda Nova.

Jimime Clemmens, the busy studio manager for Al Christie, occupied a stall in the police courts one day last week. The object of his visit was to have twelve dollars amputated from his weekly pay check, the aforementioned twelve to rattle in the pocketbook of Mrs. Jimmie Clemmens that was.

Mack Sennett, dame rumor has it, will soon change the policy of his pictures, as he has just three months more on his present contract, and will turn his attention to five-reel comedies with an all-star cast. This information comes from a source which the writer figures must know from where they are talking. At any rate it listens reasonable when one notices how Sennett is cleaning house of his old standbys and building up new faces and along those lines.

Big Ed Kennedy is starting at the Fox Sunshine studio Monday, which means that Hampton Del Ruth has landed another live wire for his funmaking troupes. Ed was a long time associated with the Sennett forces, and should prove quite a heavy for his present employers.

William S. Campbell celebrated his birthday the other evening and to say the least that he was happy would be putting it mildly. But the surprise of the evening was handed him when he thought no one knew that this was his birthday, and all of a sudden a small army of friends broke in to his home and tendered their best wishes and some presents.

MISS GIBSON

A newcomer has been added to the Hollywood film colony in the person of Roma Walsh Gibson. She has not decided into which channel she will cast her energies "to assist the motion picture business out of its" infancy," as she intends to look the field over thoroughly first. When interviewed upon the subject by a representative of this paper she had "nothing to say." Miss Roma is stopping at the home of her story-writing parents at 1406 Martel avenue where she is receiving friends. She arrived Saturday afternoon, June 7th, and weighed eight pounds and two ounces. Both Mrs. Tom and Miss Roma are doing nicely.

MOTION PICTURE DATA

Miss Eudora Garoutte, head of the California department of the State Library at Sacramento, is in the city for the purpose of gathering everything that will throw light on the history of the development of the motion picture, names and addresses of the principal actors in pictures, and photographs of the stars as well as brief biography. Miss Garoutte requests those in the industry to co-operate with her in compiling a history of the motion picture in Calfornia, which will be a reference for the student and the historian of the future, for the motion picture has become a vital factor in the life of the state.

ASSISTANT RECEIVES CREDIT

For the first time in the production of big film plays an assistant director will receive screen credit for his efforts when Reeves (Breezy) Eason, chief aide to Director Allen J. Holubar, in making "The Right to Happiness," will have his name flashed on the silversheet.

Eason has been a valuable right bower to Holubar since the latter filmed his multiple-reel epic of tenderness and, having directed important productions himself, Eason was competent to handle many of the scenes in "The Right to Happiness" while Director Holubar supervised the "shooting" of other portions of the big drama.

CHIT, CHAT AND CHATTER

BY HARRY BURNS

Monroe Salisbury is being directed at the Big U by Rollin Sturgeon for his present picture, which includes a trip north to Feather River. No wonder Monroe looks so good, he does most of his work before the camera either up in the mountains or on a river, lake, plains or cliff. This close to nature stuff is sure fire health for any man that follows it up.

Jack Cooper has bought the niftiest roadster that any of the comics own in their own right, and is giving the villagers a treat these days as he drives from the Sunshine-Fox studio to his home.

R. A. Walsh is working night and day on "Evangeline," both on and off of the screen, meaning that day time he is averaging up footage in scenes taken, and his latest evening sport is to assemble and cut his scenes into continuity form as soon as they are completed.

Cecil B. De Mille seems to be getting a corner on comedy inguenes these days, for his latest recruit to follow in the footsteps of Gloria Swanson is our charming and captivating Bebe Daniels, and now it is rumored that Mldred Reardon too is to join the rank and file of the Lasky leading actresses a la Swanson-Daniels route.

Lillian Webster has been cast to play opposite Pete Morrisson at the Universal, which will afford Lillian an opportunity of playing an excellent part, and get her better acquainted with the directors out that way.

Willard Louis just finished a picture with Bryant Washburn at Lasky's which was directed by Donald Crisp, and was a Universal caller to see some of his friends on the directorial staff and the casting directress, Lillian Greenberger. Willard no doubt will be working for some firm about the time this goes to press.

Al Kaufman, well known in fistiana as an exponent of the art of those days gone by, but not forgotten, is working at the L. K. O. studio in a serial and doing excellent work. Al is one of the best big men on the screen, both in size and actions.

Fred Fishbach brought his troupe of stars and near-greats out to the Universal where he photographed the Western street. Mister Fishbach has surrounded himself with a very capable staff, having Bob Doran as cameraman, A. Alt and Fred Jefferson as assistants; then he has Jimmy Adams, Edith Roberts, Bud Jamison and other well known screen celebrities facing the camera, producing two-reel super de luxe comedies.

Rose Mullaney has been working so hard these days that she threatens to slip down to the beach some balmy Sunday afternoon or evening and hear what the sad sea waves are saying, just to rest her weary mind. Follow me? Just to build up for a hard siege of work that looms up ahead of her as casting directress of the Metro studios in the Southland.

Jimmy O'Shea has been working nights at Morosco's theatre. No, kind readers, he hasn't gone back to acting. To the contrary, he has been paying that said place a nightly visit after the hour of midnight, where Director George Siegman, to whom Jimmy is what an ordinary right hand is to any human being, has been aiding his boss stage some real theatrical scenes for a story that Fritzi Brunette is appearing in under the Universal banner, and the direction of Geo. S. JOIMES IS SO BUSY, YES, SO BUSY.

Hank Mann has sent his personal representative, M. R. Schlank, to New York City, to exhibit his four pictures to the powers that be, so they can see that he can be equally as funny in a short subject as he can be in a feature comedy, and when his man returns from the metropolis Hank expects to have landed the contract that he has been dickering for, and he will be the busiest man this side of the Rockies.

King Baggott is not only in our midst, but just as I announced in my column, is going to appear in a serial, have his own studio and everything. Here's luck to you, old-timer, and may your powers never wane.

Frank Coleman has finished his engagement with the Fox Sunshine corporation and will soon cast his lot with another organization of equal note. It is an accepted fact that Frank is one of our best comedy heavies, and such a man can't be idle for any length.

Lottie Pickford had a birthday party Sunday at the Ship Cafe, and her closest friends sat about the table and dined and wined and danced, just like it wasn't a yearly occurence with Miss Lottie. When the birthday cake took its place on the table, it seemed to me that there were twenty-two lighted candles. Can this be possible Good luck, L. D, meaning Little Princess.

Hazel Deane has been cast to play the leading feminine role in the Hugh McClung Comedies, which are being made at the Balboa studio. The charming Hazel has been resting ever since she finished her engagement with the Fox Sunshine studios, and feels fit and ready to work for some time to come.

Harry Millarde no more than finished his picture with Madeline Travers than he boarded a train for the east. He has been working hard out this way and his trip to Huntington Lake finally showed him that one can't keep up a hard grind of day and night work out this way and still be themselves, hence his decision to go east and rest.

Henry Lehrman's studio is nearing completion and we shall be seeing the ex-Sunshine comics made up for their old boss and doing his funny stunts so they can make their bow as First National stars, thereby re-establishing Henry Lehrman Comedies, which came to an end when Pathe Lehrman and William Fox severed their business relations.

Chap P. McHugh has been engaged to play the owner of a newspaper. Strange to say, all his life he has been mixed up around such an establishment and now he is going to act natural for George Siegman in a Universal feature story.

Eddie Cline is hard at it over on the Fox Sunshine lot where he is making a schoolroom story with Jack Cooper, Polly Moran, Slim Summerville and Tom Kennedy. This is his initial effort since he quit Sennett's.

Joe Rock has been decorating his car so much of late that when he drives down Prospect street his coworkers can hear him coming long before he comes into view. The colors of the rainbow have nothing on Mr. Rock's array of colors, from the hood to the rear wheels, and his partner, Earle Montgomery, and Director Gilbert W. Pratt are trying to figure how they can put a stop to his making any further additions and save being disgraced.

James Young, who directs the screen destinies of Earle Williams, is a very much sought man by the leading clubs of the southland to render speeches on some of our most serious questions of the day, not forgetting his great portrayal of Shakespeare. How many directors of silent stage stars could follow in the footsteps of Mr. J. Y. on or off the screen, and still they wonder why we don't have more great successes amongst some of our so-called leading producers.

Mal St. Clair, one of the latest finds along director row, groomed at Sennett's, 'tis said has cast his lot with the Fox Sunshine and will co-direct with Roy Del Ruth. Here's what I call a good combination, and should make more than good.

Louis B. Mayer, aided and abetted by Bennie Ziedman, will have a million dollar producing corporation in working order here shortly, and thanks to Little Bennie a number of brand new stars will soon be in our midst. Welcome, children.

Bebe Daniels is deserting the starting point of her comedy career and cast her lot with Cecil B. DeMille. She has been given a very inviting contract, and the old team of Harold Lloyd and Bebe Daniels has passed out of existence. Lloyd is making two reelers for the Rolin company where the pair have been holding forth for some time, and will continue to amuse theatregoers with his funny antics.

Bennie Ziedman they say will soon change his business address. Little Bennie of Lubinville has done wonderful work ever since he landed in our midst, and Douglas Fairbanks can thank this chap for his present position in filmland, for there never lived a more loyal and conscientious press publicist than this same B. Z.

Carl Laemmle no more than arrived in Los Angeles than he insisted that Joe Martin insure his life for $25,000 with Lloyd's, and he didn't lost any time seeing to it that he did as ordered, for New York City has just gone daffy about Mr. Martin, who appears in W. S. Campbell Comedies that the Universal is producing in the Southland studio. Director W. S. Campbell has just finished his third story with the much talked of ourang outang, who answers to the conogmen of "Joe Martin," and Mr. Laemmle figures to play it safe, for the Campbell Comedies are the best bet on the marke t today, hence his guarding against any accidents.

Ben Turpin stood in front of Grauman's the other evening reading the electric sign which announced that he would appear in a Sennett Comedy. Alongside of him was his charming wife. I'll bet there was one hundred different friends who shook Ben's hand while he was trying to cast his optics on the sign, and he finally gave it up in disgust, for he no more than started to raise his head to gaze upon the lettering, than some one else would give him the "Hello, Ben," etc. It must be awful to be so popular that you can't read your own name on a theatre sign.

Alf Goulding, dame rumor has it, will once more direct Harold Lloyd alternating with Hal E. Roach, president and director general of the Rolin Film Co.

Al Jennings is to produce his own pictures at the old Metro studio and is due to take possession Monday, which means that polka dotted shirts, cowboys, Mexicans, badmen, cowgirls and what goes to make western pictures will be very much in evidence about Lillian Way.

Fontine LaRue has been loaned to George Siegman for his present picture that he is making for the Big U. Miss La Rue has been doing heavies in the W. S. Campbell Comedies for the Universal, and had just completed her second story with that organization, when a eleventh hour call came from Director Siegman for Fontine to play the heavy in his story.

Polly Moran has adopted a youngster, who they tell me is going to keep Sheriff Nell guessing how to be as clever as that kid is, for those who have had the pleasure of casting their optics upon him say he is one great bunch of personality personified.

Assistant Directors Association Doings

By Harry Burns

Halt ye, who have stood in the path of the advancing army of filmland, who have made it possible for the directors now in the hall of fame to attain their present standing with theatregoers.

The day of reckoning has arrived, and it is up to you to give the just dues to the man who assisted in the making of your name a household word, and is still in the dark, as to who he is or where he is at, while you are lauded from all sides.

Father Time is bringing about such changes, that will make all men equal, and today we come to the question of, "Should the assistant director be given screen credit?" and every moving picture studio has been asked to answer this query, and from all corners of the representative men of the profession there is forthcoming something of interest anent this subject.

Directors, stars, producers, exchange managers, technical directors, all seem to feel that the assistant director is as essential as is the man who handles the megaphone or the cameraman who turns the crank, for the man who assists in the direction of the picture must watch every angle of the production.

For instance, he must understand detail, modes and lives of people, makeups, photographic colors, the value of money towards making a picture which will not exceed the estimate of the producers, in fact he is a general business representative of the company he is working for, and in him there is more responsibility than in any other individual connected with the making of a narrative.

Still the boys who chose to be called assistant directors have to go on and do their daily labors, and when a director finishes his picture and it is finally flashed on the screen, no one knows the trials and tribulations that lone man went through to arrange the setting for the story, the people, the everything. Now, that isn't fair, is it?

Henry Murray was out having the time of his young life the other night. Saw him on Broadway with his wife and Frank Messinger, actually looking the theatre announcements over. To think that he would find time to do this is putting one over on someone, for he usually is so busy, yep, so busy.

Henry Schenck is shouting "all aboard" for the excursion to Catalina scheduled for next Saturday night, when the boys will take their wives and sweethearts for a moonlight trip on the Pacific, and what a time they will have. It will go down in history. And Mr. Harry S. is in back of it all, hook, line and sinker.

Chas. Hall promised to be at the last meeting, and his director, George Holt, did likewise. But the way they are being rushed to turn out the Pete Morrisson two-reel western stories, has kept the genial Charles from the club meetings, which the boys regret, for he is such good company.

Douglas Dawson is using Queenie, the trained dog owned by Eddie Pearson. To that dog hangs a tale. Get me? She swallowed a twenty dollar gold piece the other day, and every one about the Vitagraph lot has been following the dog about expecting it to die most any time, but to the contrary, the animal seems happier than ever before. For she is $20 to the good. So she should worry.

Walter De Coursey has been handling actors from Temple Street to those who live in Hollywood and not forgetting actresses and vampires of the Arabian-Turkish type. In fact, his set the other night looked like a gathering of the powers that be who are to sign the peace treaty of the world.

Allen Watt was a Universal visitor. Why this personage stays idle is a mystery to me, for there is none cleverer or brainier than Allen when it comes to putting on pictures, be it comedies, western stories or whatever you are minded to produce. Look him up.

Casting Directory

Copyright Applied For.

In order to be listed in this column, it is necessary that you be sufficiently well known locally that there shall be no doubt as to your ability to play the parts for which you are listed. If you have not appeared in the films recently, it will be necessary to bring proof that you have successfully filled the part under which you wish to be listed.

This precaution is taken as a safeguard for this paper and for the people who are capable. Further, this precaution has been suggested to us by casting directors, as the column was inaugurated chiefly for their information.

Abbreviations: Characters (ch.); Heavies (hv.); Juveniles (juv.); Foreign (for.); Ingenues (ing.).

Changes in this column must be reported to the office of CAMERA! not later than Friday of each week.

Charge for listing, including change each week, is $1.00 for two months.

such titles are rare. The writing of titles is destined to become a distinct art.

THE WORDS THAT LINK PICTURES

By Hampton Del Ruth

The progressive producer places particular stress on the writing of subtitles that not only have a value in their relationship to the action but possess a distinct literary value of their own. This rule applies strongly to comedy titles, for the ideal comedy title should first bring a laugh of itself, and another laugh when its relationship with the action is discerned.

Some producers have declared that the title was a makeshift and would ultimately disappear from the screen. The demands of the motion picture patron today do not bear out the argument that the title is doomed to extinction. The motion picture spectator desires titles and plenty of them to be really interesting and full of life. Also he wants time to read them.

Grotesque grammatical errors in motion picture titles have been plentiful, and even a knowledge of punctuation has been conspicuous by its absence. In many dramas the titles have shown about as much literary quality as a schoolboy's composition. This was due to the newness of the industry. Many ignorant and incompetent men were attracted by the money to be made in pictures, fostering their vague and muddy ideas on a patient public. But the industry has undergone lightning-like changes. The improvement in subtitles indicates that the progressive producer realizes he must employ men whose product will appeal to discerning and intelligent people. It is a serious error to underestimate the intelligence of the public. A producer might better over-estimate the public's intelligence.

If it is a comedy title it must have a comedy smack—a quaint turn or twist. Perhaps comedy titles are more difficult to write than straight dramatic titles. The Mark Twains of the screen are few and far between. Sparkling titles are difficult to secure.

A comedy title that carries a sense of the cleverness of the writer always falls flat. To read a comedy title that fairly yells, "See how clever we are!" is like watching the antics of a comedian whose every move says, "Watch me, now; I'm going to make you laugh." Poking fun at the characters through the titles has little or no value; only serving to irritate the screen patron. The screen patron does not want to be told in a title when to laugh.

The screen patron knows that the comedian whose finger has been caught in a mouse-trap, is yelling "Ouch!" There is no reason in titling an apparent piece of action with a mere imitative exclamation. There is no value in flashing the word "Bang!" when someone fires a gun. This was done a great deal in the callow years of the motion picture industry, but such efforts are now catalogued with childishness.

The writing of titles will become a most exacting profession. It will require men who know the relationship of words to action, and men of marked literary ability. As the short story is more difficult to write than the novel, so is the brief title more difficult to write than a long paragraph. "Much in little" is the motto of the title-writer. The world is full of verbose minds, men and women who can write reams of stuff, but the minds who can convey a message in eight or ten words are as scarce as the molars of a hen.

There is and probably always will exist, a marked peculiarity about motion picture titles. A sentence that shows cleverness when incorporated in a story or letter becomes flat when flashed on the screen. Apparently there are certain words that screen well, and certain words that do not. Reading a sentence in a newspaper, and reading it on the screen seems to employ two different faculties. The ideal title writer would be a man who not only had literary qualifications, but was able to distinguish between book and screen values. The ideal title, of course, would be just as interesting or amusing when read in a book as when read on the screen. But

This feature is for the guidance of scenario writers who have something to sell, but who do not know just where to take it. CAMERA! keeps this column for announcements by the various studios. Some of the matter stands from week to week as a reference guide. It will be noted that many of the studios do not wish scenarios submitted by any one; some want synopses only; others wisn the continuity written.

As the difficulties of the past years in regard to the submissions of scenarios no longer exist, it is safe for any one with a good idea to send scenarios to any company mentioned in this column. While this paper is not responsible for the use or misuse of scenarios by the companies listed, it believes that any scenario sent to any of the companies will receive honest and prompt treatment. Any action to the contrary will receive full publicity if reported to this office.

MABEL CONDON EXCHANGE, 6035-37 HOLLYWOOD BLVD. Buying only books, plays and magazine stories, except the work of a few authors on contract.

MOROSCO FILM COMPANY, 201 N. OCCIDENTAL. See Laskey Market.

CHRISTIE COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. In the market for one and two reel comedies. Breezy, snappy incidents must be present in a marked degree. The Christie Comedies feature Bobby Vernon, Earl Rodney, Dorothy De Vore, Jay Belasco, Ethel Lynn, Fay Tincher and Patricia Palmer. Please sumbit by mail.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA PRODUCING COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. Scott Sydney, the producer, wants one reel stories suitable for Elinor Field.

WILLIS AND INGLIS, WRIGHT & CALLENDER BLDG. Neither purchasing nor accepting on consignment any original scenarios. Handling only photoplay rights to books, plays and short stories.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS COMPANY, SUNSET AND ARGYLE. Prefers considering the original work of screen authors, having always been keen to develop those writers who showed ability.

NATIONAL FILM COMPANY, 6107 SANTA MONICA BLVD. In demand for 5-reel comedy-dramas featuring "Billie" Rhodes. Also 2-reel comedies for "Smiling Bill" Parsons, and 5-reel heavy dramas for Henry Walthall, and 2-reel comedies for the de Havens, with domestic situations.

VITAGRAPH COMPANY, 1708 TALMADGE ST. The company buys no scenarios in the West, the same being taken care of by the Eastern Vitagraph Company at East Fifteenth and Locust avenue, New York.

DAVID WARK GRIFFITH occasionally buys synopses suited to Mr. Griffith's people and style. Stories should be submitted to M. M. Stearns, 4500 Sunset Blvd.

FOX STUDIO, SUNSET AND WESTERN. The company has its own staff writers, but will consider comedy-dramas and straight dramas with a strong love element. Also Western comedy-dramas for Tom Mix. Nothing less than 5 reels.

METRO, 1025 LILLIAN WAY. Maxwell Karger is manager of productions and June Mathis is head of the scenario department. Outside material is also considered. Good live American stories with a melodramatic touch for Bert Lytell. Comedy-romances of a lighter nature for May Allison. Snappy melodramas for Hale Hamilton; comedy-romances and comedy-dramas for Viola Dana, and dramas that are typically Nazimova for Nazimova.

WILLIAM HART STUDIO, 1215 BATES ST. Maintains no scenario department, but manuscriptts for Bill Hart will be considered. The stories must not take Mr. Hart out of his characterization, but they must have new ideas, a different twist. Pays upon acceptance.

GOLDWYN PICTURE CORPORATION, CULVER CITY. Will consider good comedies for Mabel Normand; ingenue roles having a touch of pathos, for May Marsh; ingenue roles that are rather fantastic, for Madge Kennedy; strong emotional dramas for Pauline Frederick; 5-reel comedies for Tom Moore; strong emotional dramas for Geraldine Farrar. Nothing under 5 reels.

THE AMERICAN FILM COMPANY. SANTA BARBARA, CAL., is in the market for five-reel photoplays suitable for either male or female leads; also for strong stories requiring balanced casts. Arthur J. Zellner is head of the Scenario Department.

THOMAS H. INCE COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Buys no outside material except from well-known writers on contract. Has own staff writers.

BRUNTON STUDIOS, 5341 MELROSE AVE. Scenarios for the following companies may be addressed to R. B. Kidd, Scenario Editor, or to the individual companies.

TOURNEUR FILM COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Interested only inscripts of large calibre, 6 or 7 reels. No society plays and no comedy.

FATTY ARBUCKLE COMEDIES, 1723 ALLESANDRO ST. Two-reel comedies having the essentials of a good opening and a good finish, and the gags must be unusually clever.

MUTUAL FILM COMPANY, 72 WEST TWENTY-THIRD ST., NEW YORK. Will consider feature photoplays with parts suitable for Gail Kane.

BACON-PACKER FILM CORPORATION, 230 WEST THIRTY-EIGHTH ST., NEW YORK. Society dramas with women leads are needed.

ANITA STEWART CO., 4634 SANTA MONICA BLVD. In the market for 5-reel society dramas for Anita Stewart.

CHAPLIN STUDIO, 1420 LA BREA. Buys no outside material. Charlie Chaplin writes his own scripts.

PALMER ADVISORY BUREAU, 571-591 I. W. HELLMAN BLDG. We market material for Palmer members and recognized writers only. Have calls for all types of stories including serials.

L-KO FILM COMPANY, SUNSET AND GOWER. Not in the market for outside material.

UNITED PICTURE THEATRES CORPORATION, BRUNTON STUDIOS. Buying only high-class stories having Eastern or Western atmosphere which have sufficient action for 6 reels. Address scenarios to William Lord Wright.

THE DOROTHY GISH COMPANY, SUNSET STUDIO, 4520 SUNSET BLVD. Is in the market for five and six reel comedy-dramas, featuring Miss Gish.

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG is in the market for straight drama; 6 reels.

JACK PICKFORD can use stories of the good-natured, small-town boy; 6 reels.

BESSIE BARRISCALE will consider strong emotional roles with the society element; also comedy-dramas; 5 to 7 reels.

FRANK KEENAN'S scenarios must contain strong, virile, masterful character delineation; 6 reels.

MAYFLOWER COMPANY, GEORGE TUCKER, All Star cast, will consider 7-reel super-features dealing with modern society.

J. WARREN KERRIGAN—Six-reel dramas with marked romantic element.

EARLE WILLIAMS uses 5 and 6-reel society plays.

STEWART EDWARD WHITE CO. Produces only Mr. White's books.

ZANE GREY FILM CO. Not in market. Films Mr. Grey's novels.

MARY PICKFORD COMPANY. Not in the market at present for outside material.

UNIVERSAL FILM CO., UNIVERSAL CITY. In the market for 1-reel comedies and 2-reel Western. Will consider Western feature stories for Harry Carey; strong emotional drama for Dorothy Phillips and Mary MacLaren; feature character stories for Priscilla Dean; and outdoor character material for Monroe Salisbury.

FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CO., BOYLE AND STEPHENSON AVE. Two and 5-reel dramatic stories of the West for Texas Guinan. One-reel comedies for Mack Swain.

UNITED PICTURES CORPORATION, 1600 BROADWAY, N. Y. In market for strong emotional features with problem theme for Florence Reed—five reels.

SESSUE HAYAKAWA plays Japanese, Chinese and Far Eastern characters. Sympathetic roles and roles having to do with self-sacrifice are preferred to sentimental parts; 6 reels.

JESSE D. HAMPTON CO., 1425 FLEMMING ST. Will consider scenarios suitable for H. B. Warner, W. Desmond and Jack Kerrigan; five reels.

KATHERINE MACDONALD CO., PICO AND GEORGIA STS. Society or emotional dramas of 5 reels for Miss MacDonald. Address scenarios to Ursula March.

BRENTWOOD FILM CO., 4811 FOUNTAIN AVE. In market for modern American stories, with good theme predomination, and also good 5-reel comedy-dramas. Must have human interest, with characterization true to life. Five-reel features only.

HOW WILL IT LOOK ON THE SCREEN?

By Will M. Ritchey

What a lot of good I could do amateur writers of photoplays if I could only make them see the necessity of visualizing what they write.

The most beneficial thing a young writer can practice is to be able to close his eyes and "act" his words on an imaginary screen. At the same time he should get used to "timing" his scenes so as to judge the correct length of his story, or thereabouts.

A writer acting on this plan will find his sense of dramatic values grow wonderfully; he will see the necessity of characterization and a definite plot.

With all that has been written on this subject, writers still send in simple little episodes and believe they have written a photoplay! They still continue to attend the theatre and see features with a wealth of characterization, drama and plot and write a couple of pages of incidents that are connected with themselves or some friend and say, "That ought to make a good picture!"

Feature pictures have passed the phase of incidents and simple ideas. This is the day of the photodrama when stories must be carefully built and thoughtfully written. A writer must turn in a story with "meat" in it if he expects it to be considered, and just hurriedly putting a string of incidents down on paper and calling it a scenario is a thing of the past. Photoplay writing is an art, a calling or a profession, if you please; it stands in the same class as that of the dramatist or the novelist.

So, Mr. Amateur Writer, practice visualizing your story, close your eyes and see, in imagination, your ideas being shown on the screen. You will probably be astonished to find how much you will have to write to make an entertaining story, but it will do you more good than anything else I know of.

If you have the ability to construct a plot, go to it; if you do not possess that ability, then forget it and direct your energies or your spare time in some other direction.

FROM AMERICAN STUDIOS

Miss Margarita Fisher was pleasantly surprised last Thursday when the United States Navy recruiting band of 42 pieces called to serenade her in recognition of of the big plant was suspended while the band gave a concert which lasted for more than an hour.

The navy band is making a toru of fourteen of the western states to stimulate interest in recruiting, and at their regular concert given at the Potter Theatre Thursday evening, Miss Fisher occupied a stage box as the special guest of the musical sailors. Chief Bandmaster Thomas J. Kennedy called Miss Fisher to the stage and turned his baton over to her while she directed the band in several selections. The band is appearing at the Kinema this week as an added attraction.

R. R. Nehls, general manager, was here from Santa Barbara for the week-end.

Studio Manager A. L. Thompson returned to Santa Barbara this week after spending several days at Lake Tahoe to observe the progress being made on "The Other Side of Eden," which is being filmed by the William Russell company.

Lillian Langdon is in Santa Barbara where she is playing an important role in Margarita Fisher's new feature, "The Hellion," which was written by Daniel F. Whitcomb.

Sidney Algier, who recently received his discharge from the army and has since been acting as assistant director of the William Russell Productions, is now with the Margarita Fisher company, where he is busily engaged in making life easier for Director George L. Cox.

Director Emmett Flynn and a party of twenty-six players are hard at work near Lake Tahoe filming the latest William Russell feature.

Director George L. Cox, who was recently forced to undergo a delicate operation on one of his eyes, is now bark on the job with the Margaritia Fisher company. He is still wearing a blinder over one optic and is having a busy time trying to keep track of a large bunch of extras he is using in some cabaret scenes. Cox declares that our infant industry is no place for a one-eyed director to cultivate compatibility of temper.

Jack Jaccard will be working in the Universal studio Monday, for his company returned Saturday from Sonora, where they have been filming some western stories for the Big U.

Neal Burns has written finis to his one-reel stories out at the Universal and will soon cast his lot with another organization, having made ten pictures in succession for the Big U, Neal wants to take a rest.

Photoplayers, Attention!

The American Film Company Studio at Santa Barbara is reorganizing its casting department and desires to secure from leads and all photoplayers a straight photograph with the following information written on the back:

Name, address, telephone number, color eyes, color hair, height, weight, age, salary. State whether you can ride, swim, row, dance, box, fence, or have any other specialty. Give condition and extent of your wardrobe. Recent parts played and names of productions should also be given.

Players who already have photographs on file are requested to give prompt advice of any change of telephone number.

Interviews are not necessary, as each player is assured of every possible consideration in the casting of parts for which they may be individually suited.

MAURICE TOURNEUR

Has added another to his program successes. The trade papers have the following to say regarding his "White Heather," shown at the Rialto in New York.

MOTION PICTURE NEWS—"Let Mr. Tourneur's name and the source of the play suffice, but remember this—you can boost and boost and boost and unless we're very much mistaken, everyone is going to want to know why you didn't boost it more."

VARIETY—"This is an absolute masterpiece of motion picture direction and photography and a triumph for Maurice Tourneur, who directed the production."

MOTION PICTURE WORLD—"Just as Lizst paraphrased and transformed a lot of barbaric Hungarian melodies into rhapsodies of beauty, so Tourneur paraphrases and transforms these Drury Lane melodramas into visualizations of scenic charm by consummate skill in accomplishing fine picture effects.

TRADE REVIEW—"The factt that the direction was in the hands of Maurice Tourneur is sufficient testimonial to the excellence of the filming. The Tourneur scheme has this advantage, that it leaves the director a free hand in his single-minded purpose if interesting an audience.

BILLBOARD—"Mr. Tourneur stands in a class by himself and the White Feather but adds another wreath to his laurels."

NEW YORK TELEGRAPH—"Mr. Tourneur is one of the few film directors who believes 'the play's the thing' and consequently he fits his players to the story instead of the reverse."

MOTION PICTURE NEWS—"Maurice Tourneur is establishing a new type of picture in the Drury Lane melodramas he is bringing to the screen. The secret of this originality is apparently due to the fact that Mr. Tourneur endows the product of Drury Lane with an atmosphere as artistic as that which he brought out in "The Poor Little Rich Girl," and "The Blue Bird." Transference to the screen by a hand less skilful and "The White Heather" might easily have turned out a "howling melodrama." Mr. Tourner offers an artistic melodrama still containing the popular appear of the older mind and multiplying it by fine treatment."

The Maurice Tourner Productions

Are looked forward to as screen milestones. To exhibitors and public alike the name MAURICE TOURNEUR is a guarantee of meritorious and entertaining motion pictures.

PRODUCTION NOTES AROUND HOLLYWOOD

Week Beginning June 22

HOLLYWOOD STUDIOS, INC.

By Florence Porter Parks

The water color sketch of the Hollywood Studios, Incorporated, which has been displayed in the window of Brock's Jewelry Shop on Broadway the past week, has created much interest and caused many questions in regard to the new corporation.

The plans for the new studio embrace some of the most artistic as well as practical innovations in studio construction.

The executive heads of the new corporation are C. E. Tobeman, president; John Jasper, vice-president and general manager; and C. W. Bradford, treasurer.

Mr. Jasper built the present Chaplin studio when he was manager for Charlie Chaplin.

The fifty acres at the corner of Santa Monica boulevard and Seward street were bought from the La Brea Oil Company, by the Hollywood Studios, Inc., and the land is as level as a platform, commanding a clean sweep from Santa Monica boulevard to Wilshire.

The greatest difference between the policy of this new concern and others of a like nature, is that instead of space being leased an individual company, a stage in its entirety is leased that company.

Each lease consists of a stage 37 feet high, 71 feet wide and 120 feet long, having a floor space of 8,500 square feet with canvas sides in detachable frames. Each lease also provides for a group of executive offices, a projection room, separate vaults, property rooms, and a set of stock dressing rooms which will accomodate four persons each. There will be two star dressing rooms with each stage.

Four stages are to be built, 25 feet apart, with an additional building in the center, housing the electrical equipment, the whole taking the shape of a letter H. The first stage will be completed within thirty days.

This center building houses the first and only city-supplied electrical current furnished any picture studio. Cables, capable of carrying a current of 33,000 voltage, are to be run into this building, which will assure ample electrical power for any and all purposes. All pipes and electric conduits are to be underground.

You can conceive somewhat of the magnitude of these stages when 2½ tons of putty were used in placing the $4,000 worth of glass in the dome of each unit.

All buildings other than the stages are of hollow tile and cement construction, carrying out the old Spanish style of architecture which will assure the occupants of a delightful coolness, even in the one-story buildings.

The structures will have a base of light coral, with trimmings of plum green. Gardens bordering the front of the building, will be sunken. Broad cement driveways will lead to the principal buildings and a cement fence three or four feet high, and of unique design will inclose the grounds.

EQUITY SUPPLIED ATMOSPHERE

"Auction of Souls," the much talked of Armenian picture, will be seen in Los Angeles, Monday, at Clune's Auditorium. It was produced under the working title of "Ravished Armenia," and is a picturization of the actual experiences of Aurora Mardiganian, an Armenian girl.

The atmosphere and small parts were cast through the Photoplayers' Equity. The production was in preparation during the month of December and the first part of January, covering about six weeks, and during that time the Equity, some days, placed as many as 900 people.

WILLIAM RUSSELL GOES EAST

William Russell has completed his contract in Santa Barbara for the making of American-Pathe features under the name of The William Russell Productions Inc., and will leave for New York Sunday where he will affix his signature to a contract awaiting him there. The new firm for which Mr. Russell will make feature pictures maintains studios both in New York and on the coast. It is also possible that Mr. Russell will make one or more of his pictures in Europe, as he already controls the picture rights to two books which call for European settings. Mr. Russell is spending the week-end in Los Angeles prior to his leaving for the east.

ANNA Q. NILLSON, at Clunes Auditorium

LEASES CLIFFORD STUDIO

President William Parsons and production manager Bernstein of the National Studio, have completed arrangements for the use of the William H. Clifford Studio on Santa Monica boulevard. The present capacity of the National is not sufficient to accomodate the companies now working and additional space was urgently necessary.

They have obtained the use of Mr. Clifford's plant for a term of five years.

METRO PRODUCTION NOTES

"The Microbe," the story by Henry Altimus picturized by June Mathis for Viola Dana, has been completed and Miss Dana is now enjoying two weeks' of vacation.

After finishing "It's Easy to Make Money," Bert Lytell also hied himself away for a fortnight of recreation. He went first to Catalina Island, where he engaged in a tuna-fishing contest with Franklyn Farnum. Tuesday night he made a flying trip to L. A. to see the fights, and the discovery was made that something was trembling on his upper lip.

Mme. Nazimova and Charles Bryant are engaged in the construction of the continuity for the great Russian star's next Metro production. It is announced that the picture will be made from two successful novels.

Fifteen thousand square feet of floor space is being used by Larry Semon at the Vitagraph Studio for "The Call Boy," the main action of which takes place in a theatre. In addition to the usual cast of eccentric comedians a troupe of sixty girls are used all through the production, to introduce fifteen musical comedy dance numbers.

Gale Henry this week finished her twelfth fun film, "Her First Flame." Work will begin on the next picture after the company returns from a week's vacation.

Hale Hamilton completed his dual role in "In His Brother's Place," the story he wrote himself and in which he was directed by Harry Franklin, and is now vacationing.

Emmy Wehlen finished "A Favor for a Friend," the story by Lieut. Luther A. Reed in which she was directed by John Ince.

Now that May Allison is all through with the highbrows encountered in "The Uplifters," the Will Irwin story of bolshevism, she is resting, motoring, and brushing up on her French.

J. Warren Kerrigan is following the general trend toward the independent star system. He has his own company these days. Robert Brunton, technical artist and motion picture producer, is making the new Kerrigan productions.

Arrangements have been made with Mr. Brunton for the production of a series of ten Kerrigan photoplays.

It is rumored that Lillian Walker will do seven two-reel special features for the Christie Company.

"A Man's Chance," J. Warren Kerrigan's first photoplay as a Robert Brunton star, has been completed and will stortly be shipped east for release through the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation. Ernest C. Warde directed the production, which was taken from Johnston McCulley's magazine story, "A White Man's Chance," published by the Frank A. Munsey Company. Clifford Howard adapted the story.

A new leading lady, Lillian Walker, played opposite the star. The supporting cast included J. J. Dowling, Howard Davies, Andrew Arbuckle, George Fields, Joseph Hazleton, Richard Loreno and Joseph Ray. Some exceptionally fine camera work on the production is to be credited to Charles Kauffman.

Director Fred Fishback, in his next Century release, "A Baby Doll Bandit," will feature Edith Roberts and Jimmy Adames, and loveable Bud Jameson in a super-de lux comedy production which smacks of the days of Buffalo Bill, for wild riders and bucking mustangs, the old stage coach and the dance hall are all utilized. Prominent in the cast is Al Kaufman, well remembered as a one-time contender for the heavyweight championship. Kaufman plays the part of a "bad guy" in th story and shares honors with the comedians in spreading laughter.

Dan Watson's picture, "A Horrible Honeymoon," is now finished. Mr. and Mrs. Dan Russel are taking a short rest between pictures.

Mary Anderson has completed the first picture in her starring engagement with the Super-Art Film Company, under the direction of Wayne Mack. Arrangements are under way to put Miss Anderson under contract and to build a studio in the near future. It is said the pictures will be released by Robertson-Cole.

This week, Bessie Love, with a new leading man started the picturization of Millicent Evison's story, "Over the Garden Wall."

The last of the scenes in "The Perils of Thunder Mountain" serial to be made at the studio were filmed this week and the Antonio Moreno-Carol Holloway company will leave for Truckee Tuesday. They will remain away about five weeks to complete the serial in the Northern California town where it was started.

Archie McMackin has finished four two-reel comedies n four weeks, with Flanagan and Edwards, those "Hall-Room Boys." The company will make two-reel instead of one-reel comedies. E. J. Vallejoo is cameraman and R. Hathaway is assistant director.

Ben Wilson is to make a big serial for National, under the direction of Duke Worne. The Wm. Clifford studio has been leased for five years for the Wilson serial.

Martin J. Doner, art director for National, is a very busy man, since taking over the Clifford Studio. He is designing some wonderful sets for the Ben Wilson serial.

Charles Aristotle Mack returned Thursday from a ten day visit with Frank Fanning at Camp Kearny. Mr. Fanning is now general secretary of the Knights of Columbus war activities.

SHAKESPEARE MISCONSTRUED

By Betty Burbank

"The play's the thing. Away with the star system," harp the producers who refuse to pay actors of box-office drawing power their salaries; who believe most anyone wearing puttees and horn-rimmed glasses can direct as well as a man of long experience along theatrical lines; and who are very quick to catch on to chance sayings of famous persons of history to further their argument and excuse their cheapness. These same persons spend more time dickering over checks than they do in their own projection rooms.

But if the Bard of Avon must be misquoted that way, even what he did say is OUT! However, in justice to Mr. Shakespeare, these is an explana tion.

Many well-sounding phrases and axioms have been swallowed whole by the public simply because credited to some famous writer or poet. In reality this is contrary to fact. Take for example the assertion that "opportunity knocks but once," which some other person contradicts with the fact that "while there is life there is hope," or the one sprung on us about "fools rushing in" contradicted with "nothing ventured, nothing gained," or, "he who hesitates is lost."

It is probable the Bard of Avon was correct, speaking for his own time, in the sense that he meant it. But, there being no motion picture productions in that day—plays themselves being rare—he himself being their principal promoter, Mr. Shakespeare could not have been making comparison between the various divisions of a dramatic production.

Shakespeare and the Star Sytem

Since he wrote his own stories, staged and directed them personally there seemed to be no reason for argument in his mind as to which of these different divisions of the production was the more important. However, in going over his work closely we find every indication of his favoring the star system. In not one instance in his stories or plays did he dwell particularly on any theme or moral or idea. Instead, he incorporated as many ideas, morals and comedy as he found necessary to fully characterize one dominant character,—in fact he plainly fitted the vehicle to the one star. All morals pointed out were incidental and even the story itself was subservient to the single characterization. To be forceful and clear the drama must revolve around some striking character, whose portrayor, if not a star at that moment, is created one if he meets up with the requirements of the story. Having made good impression on the public by his excellent performance, they look for him again. Thus producers hinge futher productions on him and cash in.

Director-Star

No matter how wonderful a story you have, no matter how perfectly true to character the picture has been cast—the play will not be THE thing without the combination of an expert director and his an actor suited to the part. I have only to call your attenton to the United Artists; the whole world freely admits the independent establishment of the "Big-4" to be the greatest achievement in the world of entertainment and rejoices with them in their tremendous results. They are the highest example of the star system, in reality the star-director system, and they ARE SUCCESS.

Had Mr. Shakespeare lived today and connected himself with the motion picture business, I feel quite certain he would be very interested himself in the "Big-4", perhaps to the extent of making it the "Big-5". And, in making the statement opening this article, it is very clear that he was comparing the play as an institution to other manner of entertainment of learning. Had he foreseen the abuse of his words, he would of course have been more specific.

Of course I know my statement that the play, in itself, is not THE thing invites contention and brings immediately to mind two prominent directors, Mr. De Mille and Mr. Tourneur, whose productions are practically flawless, which directors are impressed with the popular phrase. But these men are themselves star-directors, and, although they do submerge stars under one common title, remember, it is STARS and NEAR STAR CHARACTER ACTORS that they submerge. And even where no person is intended as a feature, it is a fact that a well rounded and successful production will naturally hinge itself on its strongest actor, and—create a new star. Mr. De Mille, with his finish, cannot, in spite of himself, help making stars. He has surprised himself with an unusual number this year already. What do we near about Gloria Swanson, Wanda Hawley Elliot Dexter and others? Were they not supposed to be only a part of a perfect network, but the power of the drama, in the hands of this director, brought them into bold relief and now Mr. De Mille sees good business in capitalizing them. Even so, "The Turn in the Road" that ran nine weeks in the Los Angeles Rialto, a non-star picture, gave us Helen Eddy. You just can't keep them back. The people MUST have a GOD or GODDESS to worship, and, since the director is out of sight, they will pick on the best that they see with their own eyes, to put the halo on and bring their treasurers to.

Director and Star Stronger Than Story

I do not depreciate good stories. I am trying hard to write good ones myself, but every story, however perfect and appealing, is at the mercy of the director and his automatic ability to grasp and interpret his ideas. In other words, if the stress must be in one spot, it is more important that the strength lie with the director and his principal performer, even if the story be usual, than that a mediocre director and ordinary performer handle an unusual story; because (as Mr. Griffith has recently endorsed and Mr. Shakespeare has shown) trick situations cannot get over with the strenth of a distinct characterization.

I politely refer you to recent statement of Mr. Wid Gunning, in his weekly issue, the acknowledged keenest judge of photodrama. Mr. Gunning admits outright in his criticism on "Daddy Long Legs," which play he proclaims a knockout from any angle, that the play itself is NOT important. He states further that the story itself is usual; there is hardly a week goes by when there is not an orphan story, with its usual grind and final reward in the fade-out. But Mr. Gunning attributes the overwhelming success of this perfectly finished production to its expert handling by the director and the inimitable work of the star. In this instance, in my opinion, the director was THE thing for although the star is the very epitome of popularity, whose name alone brings capacity houses, when coupled with other directors, using excellent stories that have been procured at great cost from the keenest minds of the literary world, she has not always had the same results that she had in this production and invariably has with this director, simply because she just needed this particular combination to rightly exploit her charms and thus make the play seem to the public to be the thing. We know this director has had long experience, has a natural keen sense of humor and individuality, and any story whatever put into such hands with a star of ability will not be a disappointment. (It was only such a combination that made Miss Pickford in the first place—when her director was D. W. Griffith.)

Sometimes the star can see even beyond the director, with such gratifying results that all else is insignificant in comparison to his drawing power. (But the number is down to one or two). For instance, does anyone go to see a Chaplin production for any other reason than Mr. Charles Chaplin? Does it really matter what kind of a dose Mr. Douglas Fairbanks feeds you next? We know he loves to preach and illustrate between titles, but we are willing to swallow his bitter truth in order that we might enjoy the sweet demonstrations he gives; otherwise, we all know where we can get all the preaching we want. What WE want in return for our 30 cents and war tax is for Doug to feed it to us.

Same thing about Mr. Griffith. Honestly, you aren't so terribly concerned about the theme, now that the Germans are licked, are you really? Although he sugars his sermons so that we take them seriously. What we go for, however, is to see the newest finishing touches he has put on his old, new or some other star and how he or she has improved under his tutelage Thomas Burke's story of "Limehouse Nights" has been before the public for a long time and there has been no national raving about it. Now, this producer happens to decide on that subject, perhaps for variation, building it around his star, injecting his own imagination, with the usual result—as if wax in his hands—"Broken Blossoms." In this instance he even courted disfavor openly with an unpopular ending story, but you have read how the critics and the world received it.

Then again, did not the same author who wrote "The Fall of a Nation" also write "The Clansman"? Yet I leave it to you to define the difference in the success of these productions. Certainly the former story was as strong in appeal and the production was just as consistently cast. The argument of the latter, after all merely political strife between two highly civilized factions, was mild in comparison to the wonderful call of the former, the world's challenge to merciless autocracy. And yet, the former has served its purpose and gone. The latter lives and always will be referred to as a hard thing to beat. WHY? It would be an insult to your intelligence to not say the difference was in the DIRECTOR, in combination with his star, Mr. Walthall, who has never had the same success with any other director.

The star is the finest proof of a director's skill, and, although all credit really belongs to the director, it is a fact that the star is the magnet, that draws the people, just as a great painting calls forth admiration, although it was the soul of the painter that made it; if he paints a masterpiece, the world will sit at the foot of the masterpiece, not the painter, in adoration—by and by they may call for the painter, out of curiosity, for a speech, and the artist is finally acknowledged. However, in this day and age, the director is coming into his own and it is resolving itself into a half-and-half director-star matter.

The Story Not Enough

A good story is extremely important, but in itself is insufficient, for after all, it is just a vehicle. To have force, it must be centralized, which throws the main characterization into the limelight. Any producer may procure the most popular story, full of ideas, ever written—some do—and, without this centralization and expert direction result is mediocrity. The balance of the cast will perform their mission only insofar as they so subtly shade their own part as to make the main character stand out in relief. If, as many contend, the story were the whole thing, in itself, why would not the picture theater public be saved their quarters and war tax and be thronging the public library instead, or make themselves comfortable with a good book by their own firesides? The public certainly knows where good stories are plentiful. No; they go to feast their eyes on the shadow of their favorite star, who you and I know would not be their favorite except for the director's skill.

Then a play, like a gown, can be just that and nothing more. It may be plain or beautiful, cheap or inexpensive, but its prestige and attention rest entirely upon the personality on whom it is dressed and chiefly WHO is the dresser.

CONGRATULATIONS

Dear Mr. Robbins:

I want to take the opportunity to congratulate you on the Camera! Year Book, which contains a lot of valuable reference dope. I was especially interested on the article on movies in Japan, a subject I don't recall seeing anything printed on before.

Cordially,
THEODORE P. TAYLOR.

Dear Robbins:

I want to slip along my little compliments and congratulations on the annual number of Camera! and at the same time thank you for remembering me on your mailing list.

Laying all "bull" aside the edition is certainly one to be proud of and I am not a bit ashamed to say that I have read it from cover to cover, ads and all. Your article on "Why Is a Scenario Writer" is absorbingly interesting and one which I intend to reprint with proper credit. The article on "The Press and the Press Agent" is a corking good one, too, and one that every editor, especially of the small town variety, should read. The advertisements are good and snappy.

Respectfully,
R. L. DRISCOLL,

SCENARIO COTTAGE FALLS

The historic bungalow which has for so long served as scenario and publicity headquarters at the Brunton Studios, is about to be taken down, and its present occupants evicted. They will be moved into modern offices in the big new administration building, but having been in the cottage for three or four or five years, they are loath to go, and have decided to hold a special memorial service on the occasion of its fall, and afterwards on each and every anniversary of the sad event.

One of the mourners is the noted press romancer, Jay "O'Brien" Chapman, who is now publicity director for the J. Warren Kerrigan Company. Supporting him in his sorrow are "Captain" Robert Kidd and Jane Holly, scenario editors. Chapman claims to have written three scenarios, twelve short stories, and twelve thousand, one hundred and five press items in the bungalow, while Mr. Kidd and Miss Holly have written scenarios and rejected two hundred and forty-three thousand "scripts" submitted to them, under the same inspired roof-tree.

Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran are now working on the one-reel laugh creator, "Lost, Strayed or Stolen," with Mildred Moore and Charlotte Merriam as their feminine foils.

SOCIAL FRICASSEE AND CAPER SAUCE

BY FLORENCE PORTER PARKS

MOTOR TO SANTA BARBARA

Attorney and Mrs. John A. Biby of Manhattan Place gave a dinner yesterday afternoon for Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Biby. After dinner, the party motored to Santa Barbara.

VACATIONING AT CATALINA

Ollie May Barker, secretary to Mr. Alfred Reeves, at the Chaplin studio, is taking her vacatio nthis week at Catalina. Miss Barker expects to resume her work at the studio Tuesday of next week.

SUNDAY AT HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Al Semnacher held open house last Sunday afternoon as is their weekly custom. A 6:30 chicken dinner was served at which was seated Fritzie Remont, Beverly Travers, Al Rieff, Vera Lewis, Otto Lederer, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Butler and Mr. and Mrs. Dick Schayer.

ON THE "JUANITA"

Dustin Farnum was host on his yacht "Juanita." The Brunton studio was well represented inasmuch as Bessie Barriscale, Howard Hickman, Ernest Ward and Frank Campbell were present. The week was spent fishing, and the party caught several large tuna.

A WEEK'S VACATION

The Gale Henry Comedy company has announced a week's vacation, beginning today. The comedienne and her husband-director, it is reported, will rest at Big Bear Lake writing a story for Miss Henry's next picture. Milburne Moranti and Hap H. Ward have planned to take in the sights at Yosemite.

MOTHER ARRIVES

Mrs. W. B. Garrett, mother of Beverley Travers, arrived from San Antonio, Texas, last week, to remain with her daughter in Los Angeles this summer. Miss Travers has taken unto herself a home in Bond street and a Dodge Sedan since she came west. She has just finished with Sessue Hayakawa in "The Illustrious Prince."

BENEFIT AND SUPPER PARTY

Reginald Barker, who bought one of the boxes for the French War Orphan's benefit Friday night at the W. A. Clark home, entertained as his guests Geraldine Farrar, Lou Tellegan, Clara Williams and Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hilburn. A supper party followed at the home of Geraldine Farrar, in North Van Ness avenue.

MRS. HALL ENTERTAINS

Mrs. Thurston Hall, of Ross Court, entertained with a 1 o'clock luncheon and an afternoon at bridge Saturday. Her home was prettily decorated with daisies and a feathery green vine. Favors for the five-course luncheon were green and white crepe paper novelties. Bidden were Mesdames Shayer, Smith, Guy Price, Tod Browning, David Butler and Vera Lewis.

WINIFRED RITCHIE GRADUATES

Billie Ritchie, formerly with the Fox company and now with the Lehrmann company, was a proud father last week, when his daughter, Winifred, was graduated from the Hollywood High School. Mr. Ritchie's gift to his daughter was a Hudson Speedster, and a Bohemian dinner at Campi's, to which six guests were bidden.

WON TROPHY

Eugene Field, assistant to Joe Van Meter, chief property man at the Chaplin studio, won the fancy diving contest at the Athletic Club Thursday night, and was awarded the Walter Bell trophy. Mr. Field will compete in the junior national championship, which will be held either at San Francisco or Portland.

Yesterday a party of fifteen from the Athletic Club gave an exhibition in swimming and diving at the opening of the Ventura plunge. The picture people in the party were Eugene Field, Clif Bowes and Haig Priest.

ENTERTAINED IN EAST

Eight of New York's prominent financiers united in paying tribute Thursday night to Miss Cathrine Curtis, of "The Shepherd of the Hills" fame, at a dinner tendered her by her father, George M. Taylor, at the Waldorf-Astoria. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Whelan, Mr. and Mrs. William Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Gathaway, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Spalding, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm McClellan, Mr. and Mrs. Davy Soucks and Mr. and Mrs. Garrett S. Veeder. Miss Curtis is in the metropolis on a trip that combines business with pleasure, and the banquet was in the nature of a celebration over the triumph she achieved in her initial effort before the camera—that of "Sammy Lane," in the big Harold Bell Wright film.

SUNDAY IN THE CANYON

A wienie roast in Topanga Canyon was the delightful way in which a party of young people spent Sunday last. About 1 o'clock they met in the liquid emporium opposite the Ince studio at Culver City and drove up in the canyon. Those in the party were Lillian Walker, Dave Allen, Captain Palmer, Nora Ely, Frank Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Brown, Enid Gomez, Regena Shuler, Fay Gaudio, Walter Richards, Irene Newhard, Irene de Voss, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Ely, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Ely, Jr. About 7 they returned and stopped at the home of Nora Ely, in West 47th street, where another feast was prepared by the hostess.

EDNA PURVIANCE

By Florence Porter Parks

Naturalness and a lovely simplicity go far toward creating a charming personality. In Edna Purviance, leading woman for Charlie Chaplin, the two pleasing attributes are present. A charming personality plus a pair of long-fringed clear blue eyes, and a set of perfect teeth, photograph entirely to the complete satisfaction of the film fan. Miss Purviance is well liked and she has many followers.

Rumor has had it that Charlie Chaplin picked her from a row of pretty applicants in San Francisco four years ago. They were introduced in a social way by a mutual friend, and at the time Miss Purviance had no intention of going into pictures, but was very much interested in music. At once Mr. Chaplin saw screen possibilities in her expressive face, vivacity and natural grace, and as a result she began work as his leading lady in the next Chaplin picture. Since then she made twenty-five pictures with him.

Her training under Mr. Chaplin is of great value to her, as his manner of working differs from that of any other person in the business. He works entirely without a prepared script the greater part of the plot emanating from his brain while the camera is already registering the final take. It is, of course, impossible for him to direct his co-worker in detail, so of necessity much is left to the keenness and quick comprehension of Miss Purviance. And in this way there has been developed in her an initiative art, which could not have been established under the direction of anyone else.

She has a correct and true idea of dramatic values,, also a discriminating sense of the comedy idea, distinguished from the ludicrous, the overacted comedy. Perhaps it is just that intuitive knowledge in Charlie Chaplin which makes it impossible for anyone to successfully imitate him. Many have tried it, even to exact detail in dress and makeup, but there is the indefinable something that they have never been able to catch. There is just a fragile thread between real comedy and exaggerated humor, overacted fun. The making of fun is serious business. The public is difficult to please with comedy. It is given to say: "Humph! I don't see anything funny about that."

It takes an artist to hold the top rung of the comedy ladder for years without being supplanted by another, for the present restlessness of the age inclines toward the relinquishment of the old for the new. And for an actor to hold the public year in and year out with a pair of old shoes, a cane, an ill-fitting suit, a small Derby and a mustache, is, when you think of it, remarkable. His imitators have used the same makeup and have copied his clothes in detail and they have not attained particular fame, so it must be the indefinable something within that has made Charlie Chaplin.

His intuitive sense of entertaining humor has been absorbed more or less by Miss Purviance, and she is quick to catch the comedian's thought, registering it without spoiling the unwritten theme.

Unlike so many who enter picture work, Miss Purviance has not forsaken her earlier ambition. She is a musician of no small ability, and her practise has not been neglected. In her blue and tan dressing room at the Chaplin studio the other day she talked interestingly of music. "Music," she said, "is more ancient than man, and the human voice was from the very commencement a source of melody. It is a pity that more pains are not taken with the voice in conversation. We are a careless people. I have some valuable books on the history of music, and the curious anecdotes as to the circumstances under which different works have been composed interest me now, as much as did my fairy tale books when I was a youngster."

"You are fond of grand opera?" she was asked.

"I like grand opera but I enjoy musical comedy more, and I have have saved musical comedy scores for years. Remember 'The Chocolate Soldier' and 'The Prince of Pilsen'? It's good fun to get out those old scores and go through them."

"Now, let's have your hobby, Miss Purviance."

"Ocean swimming," promptly responded Miss Purviance, "and during the summer months I spend a great deal of time in the surf. Then I love long motor trips through the hills, in fact any outdoor pastime interests me, and I never remain long indoors when it is possible to be out." Her wholesomeness and splendid health testify to her love of outdoor life.

Her contract with the Chaplin commany calls for five more pictures. Plans are under way for her to be featured in comedy-drama by a certain company, at the expiration of her present contract.

SPAGHETTI AT CLIFTON'S

A small riding club has been organized which includes many of the interesting people from the Griffith studio. After working hours members of the club ride through the hills, stopping at the home of one of them for a late supper. It is their intention to continue this diversion throughout the summer months. Friday, the 13th, defying the old superstition, they left for the hills about 6 o'clock in the afternoon, meeting with no predicted mishaps. At 8 Mrs. Elmer Clifton seated the riders in her home, where a spaghetti supper was cooked by Valentino, who is noted for his Italian cooking. Those in the party were D. W. Griffith, Dorothy Gish, Dick Barthlemess, Norman McNeil, Rhea Haynes, Clarine Seymour, Emily Chichester, Ralph Graves, Raymond Cannon, Mrs. Christy Cabanne and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Clifton.

FRIDAY NIGHT BENEFIT

The West Adams street gardens of W. A. Clark, Jr., Friday evening, was the scene of a successful benefit given for the war orphans of France. "The Merchant of Venice" was staged on a most pretentious stage, which was built under the supervision of Robert Brunton, who also designed the unique lighting effects. Pages costumed in Elizabethan style ushered two thousand guests to the broad steps leading down to the sunken gardens, which were used for seats. One clever arrangement suggested by Mr. Brunton was resorted to during the short intermission. The play being an outdoor performance, a curtain was impossible, so the lights were reversed and turned full in the eyes of the spectators, while the sets were changed. Lucien Brunswig and W. A. Clark, Jr., were on the executive committee. The play was produced under the direction of R. D. MacLean, with Jack Webster acting as stage manager. Those in the cast were R. D. MacLean, Julia Taylor, Thomas Holding, Lawson Butt, Wedgwood Nowell, Daisy Robinson, Emmet King, Jack Webster, Arri Rottman, Gertrude Short, Clara Horton, Sylvia Edmay, Aureathea Pickering and Wallace Worsley.

SOMETHING YOU CAN DO

The Crocker Street Hospital at 418 Crocker street is caring for twenty-one returned service boys who have been sent there for tuberculosis observation, unsuccessful operations that have to be reoperated and severe gas cases. These boys are far from their homes and are lonely and discouraged. Some of the boys will never leave the hospital and others will be retained indefinitely. There are many little things that can be done to give them pleasure. They have a Victor phonograph, and any Victor or Columbia records that you may have about the house would be appreciated so much by the boys. Last week Mrs. Otis Turner sent the hospital a check, and with that check Mrs. Cornell, head nurse, gave the boys a wonderful feast of steak, French fried potatoes, salad and a dessert. She also bought things that they were really in need of, as razor blades, tooth brushes, combs, etc. Jane Novak sent them canned fruits and homemade cakes, and she is also taking a personal interest in the boys' comforts. Mrs. Meredith Woodward has made arrangements with Mr. Westphall of the Southern California Music company to give a Victrola concert at the hospital one night each week. It is suggested that when a machine and chauffeur are not being made use of for an hour or so, that the owner send the machine to the hospital thus giving the boys a little airing which is equivalent to a gala day to them.

WHERE TO FIND THE PEOPLE YOU KNOW

Clarence Badger, who has been on location with Will Rogers, returned the latter part of the week.

Lou Tellegan is growing a beard for the next Goldwyn picture, much to the disgust of Geraldine Farrar, who likes her husband best in his usual role of a romantic hero.

Lois Weber and Phillip Smalley are still enjoying themselves at Ohio Pyle Falls, near Pittsburgh.

Otto Lederer of Vitagraph gave a monologue called "Versatility" at the Eagles' Show at Venice Tuesday and Wednesday of last week.

Gold Star Company finished its first production, "The Lily," last week. In the cast were Clara Horton, Mignon Anderson, George Fisher, Jack Richardson, Pat O'Malley and Francis Braidwood, directed by Jack Pratt. The second production will be begun soon on the Brunton lot. Bobbie Newhard was cameraman for the first production and will be retained for the second.

Miss C. Pickles, a stenographer at Metro, was injured last week while swimming in the Venice plunge. Another swimmer in taking an over-hand stroke struck her, dislocating her jaw.

Thomas Brett, with the Anita Stewart Company, was thrown from his horse when on location taking scenes for the last made-in-the-west Anita Stewart film, and rolled twenty feet down an embankment. His left arm was bruised and strained, but no bones were broken.

Nick Nicholas, carpenter at the Metro studio, and pitcher for the Metro ball team, after being laid up several weeks with congestion of the lungs, is back on the lot again, although still under the care of Dr. Sidney R. Broadbent. Dr. Broadbent is under contract to nine of the picture companies to care for accident cases and illness on the lot.

Mrs. Gladys Watson Goulding was granted a divorce from Alfred Goulding, L-KO director, last week.

Christy Cabanne is doing some special work for Marshall Neilan at present, the nature of which has not been disclosed.

Eugene Corey is being featured in two-reel comedies with Alice Lake.

Joe Walker, cameraman for Nell Shipman, is back, after a location trip to Canada. The company went as far north as possible by inland route. There most of the picture was made, with Walker cranking.

Dick Currier, cutter for the Model Comedy Company, is burning up gas on the highway these days in a new stripped National which Dick recently bought.

Margaret Fisher has just completed her work in "The Hellion," and will motor to Los Angeles today, accompanied by her mother and sister, and will stop at the Alexandria.

Eddie Baker, who recently received his discharge from Uncle Sam's army, is playing heavies again with the Gale Henry Company.

Mary McIvor, in private life Mrs. Wm. Desmond, played opposite Hale Hamilton in his last Metro production.

The cast for J. Warren Kerrigan's new picture, "The Denver Sprig," includes the following: Lillian Walker, Albert Cody, Pell Trenton and Joe Dowling.

Jack Hull has just finished playing a part in Alan Dwan's latest production, "Soldiers of Fortune."

Thomas Santschi recently returned from Bear Valley, where he accompanied the Gladys Brockwell Company. Mr. Santschi has a leading role in the Brockwell picture.

Jay Dwiggins has an important role in Douglas Fairbanks' first Big Four production, now being filmed at the Fairbanks studio.

Captain Barney Wolf of the Metro ball team requests all to watch his nine shine when they get their new uniforms on.

Pick-ups Of The Staff

Alan Forrest will be seen in the role of Peter Morton opposite Miss Love,, who will visualize the character of Peggy Gordon, who "goes after life with her sleeves rolled up."

Jack Pierce, assistant director to Wm. J. Bauman, director of the Antonio Moreno-Carol Holloway serial, "The Parils of Thunder Mountain," was badly burned about the hands and arms this week when a sacrificial hut was burned during the filming of the twelfth episode.

The small specially constructed building used in the scene was soaked in oil to make its destruction more rapid, and Mr. Pierce, who played in the scene, became tankled in some loose wire on the roof. Before he could be released he had been seveerly burned.

Earle Williams and the entire cast of "The Wolf," under the direction of James Young, returned to Los Angeles last week from Lake Tahoe. Except for a few scenes that will be made at the Hollywood studio, the Eugene Walters play was completed at the lake.

Wm. Cuncan and company are on location at Lake Huntington, which is seven thousand feet above sea level, and remarkable photography is being secured for the new Vitagraph serial.

Director Herbert Blache returned from a motor trip to Monterey.

John Ince and Bob Dickson are receiving congratulations on their heroic conduct in rescuing over a hundred head of cattle in a fire last week.

Director Harry Franklin has acquired a new office at the Metro administration building.

Director John Ince turned it over to him in spite of the fact that he won when they tossed coins for it.

Maxwell Karger umpired the Metro-Fox baseball game Sunday, and the score was 11-2 in Fox's favor.

Danny Hogan has a wire from Jess Willard saying, "Feeling fine. Expect to win. Regards to family."

Ray C. Smallwood is receiving expressions of sympathy in the death of his father at Cincinnati last Monday.

Harry Mann, who was with Universal for six years in comedy productions, is being starred by the Bulls Eye Film Company. He has as his leading lady Beatrice Lovejoy, who until recently was playing ingenue roles with the W. S. Campbell comedies at Universal.

Harry Hillarde, who has just completed a Fox photoplay in which Madlaine Traverse stars, entitled, "Rose of the Wilds," has left for New York to enjoy a vacation. He is expected to return before August 1st to resume directing pictures at the Fox Hollywood studios.

Jack Gilbert is now with Henry B. Warner at the Jesse D. Hampton studios.

Earle Montgomery and Joe Rock are working on a novelty "tramp" picture featuring the type of hobo that made the late Nat Wills famous on the vaudeville stage.

Assistant Directors Association Doings

By Harry Burns

The assistant director of today may be the director of tomorrow, and if such does come to pass, what kind of a producer do you think that fellow will eventually make of himself?

Like the child who first learned to crawl, he no doubt started his motion picture career, either as an "extra" actor, prop man, or grip, and as he hung about the different studios, saw the light of his real worth, and concentrated his efforts along those lines.

Until he finally became a full-fledged assistant director, and now that he has attained that honor and respect in the profession, the next step forward brings him a directorship, and the question that arises right here is "DO FIRST CLASS ASSISTANT DIRECTORS MAKE GOOD DIRECTORS?"

To my way of thinking, they should prove more capable than any other recruits to such a calling, outside of the cameraman-director, for the fellow who knows the value of the mystery box, nine cases out of ten, makes an excellent photoplay director, because he knows composition of people, arranging of sets, so as to gain the real photographic perfection. He knows that the camera doesn' lie, and just how many liberties that he can take with certain action of a situation.

If you tried to figure out which department has turned out the most successful handlers of the megaphone, who direct either comedies or dramas, the palm would no doubt fall to the lot of the assistant directors, and you can take my statement for what it is worth. Just make a note of the assistant directors now aiding the leading producers to make pictures and then gaze over this same list twelve months from now, and you will find about half of them that have graduated from their positions to the higher up station.

You no doubt are asking yourself the question "WHY?" The answer is simple. They have been groomed for it, they have gone through every trial and tribulation any man could go through, and they have come out with a clean slate. No obstacle was so great that they couldn't overcome it. They are the men of the hour, and will get their just dues.

Chester Bennett has been appointed chairman of the amusement committee that will have charge of the grand old time barn dance at one of the leading studios some evening after Independence Day. This affair promises to make filmland history, for every assistant director who works in the Southland will take a hand in furnishing some of the surprises of the evening's fun and amusement.

George Webster and Reaves Eason, both members of the A. D. A., have been advanced to a directorship, which proves that once an assistant not always the same, and you can gamble these boys will more than make good.

Fred Tyler is sporting his summer clothes these days, but even his soft collars wilt under the rushing and rambling that the hustling Fred does about the Universal to keep his friend boss, Ted Browning, happy, either on or off the sets. But, Fred is one fellow that can do it, with or without a makeup.

Norman Taroug is waiting for Henry Lehrman to start his companies a-working, and says this easy life isn't what it is cracked up to be, for he drops in to Culver City, looks the plant over and beats it to the beach. This thing, he chirps, is getting to be serious, for when I start stepping on it, I'll have to get into training to keep up with the pace set by Jack White, whom I assist, and our boss, Henry Lehrman.

Irving Luddy, who assists Montgomery and Rock in being funny, as well as lending aid to Gilbert W. Pratt, their director, to put the pep into 'em, received a tempting offer from a New York organization to come there at such an increase in salary that it would take an army of men to keep any other fellow away from such a chance. But Irving is so loyal to the boys that he wouldn't leave them for a million.

Mildred Reardon is happily cast at Laskey's and will from now on be well worth watching, for she will have a real chance to make good.

William D. Taylor, who is directing "Huckleberry Finn" for an Artcraft release, has a large company at the Sacramento river in California.

Weekly Note (every week). Jack Mower spent Sunday hunting, sailing, fishing—"all three sports may be mentioned or one scratched out; if a mistake is made it will only be for seven days).

Rosemary Treby makes her first appearance in Goldwyn Pictures with Tom Moore, playing Lady Neville in Charles Klein's "Hartsease."

An emphatic compliment has just been paid by the Famous Players-Lasky Company to J. Stewart Woodhouse, writer of short stories and magazine articles. This company, which has adhered quite strictly of late to the policy of buying for production only published stories by famous writers, has just purchased an original story by Mr. Woodhouse which is to serve as a screen vehicle for Wallace Reid. Mr. Woodhouse has written for well known magazines such short stories as "The Rich Man's Pearl," "The Iron Stick Pin," "Keeper of the 13th Door," "A Love Tokens Oracle," etc.

Mr. Woodhouse, who recently came from the Middlewest to take up moving picture work, has been in journalistic fields for the past fifteen years, serving as dramatic editor on newspapers in Minneapolis, Des Moines and other Middlewest cities. He was also a successful theater manager in Minneapolis, and from such experience should have an idea of the kind of material desired by the public for its amusement.

Casson Ferguson hearkened back to the happy days of Shakespearean repertoire, when he played the role of the romantic "Lorenzo" on Friday evening at the benefit for Franch orphans, which took place at the Clark Home on West Adams street, Los Angeles. Casson reports that as each rehearsal was the occasion for the giving of a party afterwrds, on the part of Mr. Clark, that returning to Shakespeare after two years of the screen was anything but a dry affair.

James Clemens, who has just returned from the Yosemite, where he hunted locations for a Christie Special Comedy, which will have a mountain setting, reported a bigger fish story than any ever written by a moving picture press agent. Clemens said he saw fish so big and strong that they could leap the falls 160 feet high. When pinned down to facts, Clemens admited the fish jumped down, not up the falls.

Earle Rodney, who has been appearing in Christie Comedies, is now under Al E. Christie's direction, playing the leading juvenile role in a Christie Special, now in production, featuring Alice Lake.

Hugh Saxon is working in "The Other Half," at the Brentwood.

Billy Bevan, lately featured in Century comedies, has joined the Mack Sennett rostrum of stars.

Milla Davenport is with Robert Warwick.

Sadie Gordon has been playing a character part with the Carter De Haven Company.

Clarke Bond is cameraman for the Great Authors' Pictures Inc. at the Brunton Studio. He starts work on a picture Monday with Ted Sloman directing.

Bob McGowan is all dolled up in a new Chevrolet car. He recently sold a new five-reel comedy drama and bought the car. $1,000 was paid for the story and $995 for the car, so Bob has $5 left for gas.

William Clifford is at Truckee with the Henry Walthall Company.

Franklyn Hall returned from Truckee after a week in the wilds.

King Baggott's Studio is nearly finished. The company started June 16, on an eighteen episode serial.

CHIT, CHAT AND CHATTER

BY HARRY BURNS

Roscoe Arbuckle is going to share the Henry Lehrman studio out Culver City way, when the former Fox-Sunshine director general has his plant completed. To think that two opposition comedy organizations can exist under the same roof, is certainly changing all past records, and shows us that the past war has accomplished more towards brotherly love than anything else that has happened.

Vic Potel has been cast with Hugh Ford at Lasky's appearing "In Missouri" as the Village Blacksmith's son, featuring Major Robert Warwick, Mister Potel is a very busy man these days. Outside of laboring at Lasky's he's just getting over celebrating his wife's birthday. They celebrated it at Petigill's I'm told.

Mrs. Vin Moore has signed to play Mrs. Silas Phelps in Huckelberry Finn for the Morosco Company and is already drawing down her weekly stipend in that part. I've told you before and I repeat it, watch Mrs. V. M. for she is some character interpreter.

Noel R. Smith, who directs Jimmy Aubrey at the Vitagraph, is driving a Ford truck these days, no kind readers not for a living; he uses it to hunt locations and to make short trips about Hollywood, rather than waiting about for a seven-passenger car, and holding up his company, that's what I call a real director.

Billie Ritchie has bought himself a Hudson speedster. When asked why he wanted a fast car, he chirped, "I've been idle so long that when I start working again with Henry Lehrman in his comedies, I want everything about me to be full of pep and speed." That listens fair enough, but Mister Ritchie, don't let any of the speed cops hear you make any such statements for they will pinch you for threatening to break all laws.

Blanche Sweet has cast her lot with the Jesse Hampton Corp., and is to appear in an eight-reel feature at that studio, according to all reports. The charming Blanche has been up in the hills of late, resting and now feels well able to do herself justice, no matter how hard she must work.

Julia Faye motored up to Santa Barbara with her mother, and on her way back ran out of gasoline near Universal City. Luckily for her a good samaritan of an autoist took pity on her, and drove into Hollywood and brought three gallons of gasoline out to her, or she would have been in for an all night scene of watchful waiting, for the gasoline stations to open.

Pete Morrisson should be termed the most bashful cowboy actor on the screen. He's one of those fellows that would rather hurt himself than injure anyone working with him, even if he must put a scene over, he doesn't forget that he is a gentleman, and for that reason, Pete is sure popular with the boys, and they will do most anything for him.

Chet Ryan is to be featured in five-reel feature western stories and will use the Balboa studio at Long Beach. Word is being passed along the rialto that the company have signed a contract for twenty-four pictures which assures them a nice release, and a sure-fire chance for Chet to come into his own.

George Webster is directing Tom Mix at Fox's and is being assisted by Claude Mitchell, while Fred Granville is the cameraman. This makes director, assistant and cameraman feel like they owe each other something, for all were born and raised in Australia, and this helping a countryman stuff will sure work like a charm in this case.

Max Asher met quite an accident Friday, when an autoist drove smack into his car which he was driving at Gower and Hollywood boulevard. Max got away lucky, but his car sure was ruined. Hand him the horseshoe boys.

Reaves Eason has been promoted to a directorship out at the Universal, where he will produce two-reel western stories with Jack Parron as the star, supported by a cast that will be brimful of real actors, who know how to interpret characters of the plains.

Walter Hiers is to share screen honors with Hazel Deane in one-reel comedies produced by Hugh McClung at the Balboa Studio. Roy Meeker is the assistant on the job, and reports everything running in ship shape down that way.

Ben Wilson has started a serial at the National Studio and has Duke Warren as co-director, while Jack Lawton is his assistant. Ben no doubt will play the leading role in the narrative as he loves to mix his acting ability with his handling of the megaphone.

William Crinley is assisting Scott Dunlap at Fox's. The latter is directing the screen destinies of Albert Ray and Elanoir Fair. The company is preparing to go to Mojave the first of the week for a series of scenes which call for such locations.

Noble Johnson, who is playing opposite Jas. J. Corbett in the Jas. W. Horne serial out at the Big U, is the same Noble who used to swap fisticuffs with the heavyweights at Naud Junction and the old Vernon Arena, and has also taken part in some important battles about the East. In the present picture he has to fight through 18 reels with the ex-world's champion, meeting him from time to time, and when he finishes his engagement, he shouldn't have any trouble to re-sign with some other corporation, for he is a willing and conscientious worker, and a gentleman. He has been with the Universal close to four years, having played all sorts of character parts.

Reggie Lyons seems to have struck his lucky stride, for he has bought a new Bell Howell outfit—not so bad when you know he's just out of the army a few months and working for Montgomery & Rock.

Beatrice Dominquez received an offer from a feature Spanish dancing troupe appearing on the Pantages circuit to join them and do her solo dance as one of the added attractions, but Beatrice is doing so well in filmland hereabouts, that she had to decline the offer, as right now she is working with Monroe Salisbury productions out at the Universal.

Fontine La Rue says she would rather work with wild animals for the W. S. Campbell Company than work with wild actors and actresses in any other organization, which leads us to believe that Fontine is so different from the ordinary run of leading ladies who always hate to appear in such scenes.

Harry Carey believes that it takes good actors to make top-notch pictures, so he has surrounded himself with the cream of western artists. Two well known artists in the present cast out at the Big U answer to the cognomens of Vester Pegg and Duke Lee. The former is some heavy, while the latter is a character performer.

Lliney W. Horne is bidding his Los Angeles friends good bye, for Tuesday he leaves for New York City, and from there he sails for South Africa where he is to photograph some scenes for the Universal-Smithsonian Institute, which will keep him close to Zululand for some time to come. We have been promised some very interesting letters by the Universal cameraman, and he has the Camera!'s best wishes for a most successful trip.

Noah Beery, veteran character heavy actor at the Paramount-Lasky Studios, has been assigned the role of the Blacksmith in the production, "In Missouri," Nat Goodwin's famous starring vehicle.

Helen Eddy, now playing in Maurice Tourneur's production, "The County Fair," recently won further laurels when she made a personal appearance at Florence Theater in Pasadena, the occasion being the showing of the feature production, "The Turn in the Road," in which Miss Eddy portrayed the part of June, the leading role. She told of her many experiences while in Volunteer entertainment work for the Government during the war.

Miss Eddy will continue her work with Maurice Tourneur for the next four or five weeks, after which she intends leaving for an extended vacation in the mountains.

Mr. and Mrs. Carter De Haven, after a very strenuous week, have departed on a short fishing excursion to Calalina. They have completed their latest comedy, "Close to Nature," filmed at the National Studios under the direction of William Seiter, and will start on a new production immediately upon their return.

Henry Walthall, director Bertram Bracken and Company, now filming numerous episodes of "The Confession" at Lake Tahoe and Truckee, write that they are spending their spare moments in hauling in the big fellows, fishing at the lake being exceptionally fine. They have made up a pot of one hundred dollars, which will go to the individual pulling out the largest boy during their sojourn there.

ZaSa Pits has been engaged to support H. B. Warner pending the preparation of another story which the Brentwood has for her.

David Butler has a part in the production which King Vidor is now completing. As soon as this is finished he goes to the Maurice Tourneur Company for a role in "The County Fair."

Charles Meredith, upon completion of the scenes in which he appears with Florence Vidor in the present Brentwood production, will support Marguerite Clark in her next feature, and return to King Vidor as soon as the latter is ready to start work on his fourth picture for which the continuity is now being prepared.

Thomas Jefferson, known not only as the son of his father, the immortal Rip Van Winkle, but also for his work on the legitimate and on the screen in Fine Arts and Pasky pictures, has been signed by the Brentwood.

Frances (Frankie) Raymond, best known to American theater-goers as the girl who made "The Alabama Coon" famous, and for her part as principal boy or girl with the American Extravaganza Company in the English pantomimes, which her husband, David Henderson, Americanized, made into acts and elaborately produced at the Chicago Opera House, is now playing the part of Florence Vidor's mother in the Brentwood picture under production by King W. Vidor.

Robert Anderson, who recently finished playing the part of a de-natured Bolsheviki in "The Right to Happiness," in support of Dorothy Phillips, will have another Slav role in "Common Property," directed by Paul Powell.

Nell Craig, who, before becoming an Essanay star, had a successful stage career under Henry W. Savage, will have a part in "Common Property."

Fontine La Rue, who will be remembered as Priscilla Dean's foil in "The Wildcat of Paris," has been chosen by Director George Siegmann for a part in "Playing the Game," at Universal.

George McDaniels, who scared a hit in the principal masculine role in Harold Bell Wright's "The Shepherd of the Hills," is to have part in "Playing the Game."

Allan Sears, who will be remembered as Mae Murray's leading man in "The Big Little Person," has been cast by Director George Seigmann for a role in "Playing the Game."

Fritzi Brunette, starred by Bluebird in "Playthings," "The Velvet Hand" and "The Sealed Envelope,' has returned to Universal to play the feminine lead in "Playing the Game."

Alfred Allen has been engaged by King Vidor for the part of Mr. Trent in "The Other Half" now under production at the Brentwood.

Interesting Universal Notes

From Ham Beall

The launching of a new six-reel photoplay dealing wth the nationalization of women in Russia, with an all-star cast, headed by Robert Andersen and Colleen Moore, has been the most portentous event of the week. "Common Property" is its tentative title and the story was written by Elliott J. Clawson, author of "Devils Have Their Friends," Monroe Salisbury's latest vehicle. Paul Powell is in charge of production on this new problem drama.

Two companies are using picturesque spots in Northern California for locations. Monroe Salisbury is at Tobin using the famous Feather River country for scenes for. "Sundown Trail," his newest feature which Rollin Sturgeon is directing. Lynn Reynolds has taken a company with Frank Mayo and Kathryn Adams as its headliners to the vicinity of Mt. Shasta near the Oregon line to make the exteriors for "The Brute-Breaker," a Johnston McCulley stoiry of the French-Canadian logging camps.

Studio attaches are eagerly awaiting a pre-view of "The Pinnacle," Eric Von Stroheim's European melodrama, dealing with after war problems, which has just been completed. Von Stroheim wrote the story; directed the production, and plays the leading character. In his support are Francelis Billington and Sam De Grasse.

Finishing scenes are being taken for "Jim of the Ranges," a Harry Carey story of early days in Texas, and Carey's director, Jack Ford, is casting about for a new vehicle.

A metropolitan newspaper office has been built on the main stage for the principal scenes in "Playing the Game," Sada Cowan's stage drama of newspaper and stage life, which George Seigmann is producing with Fritzi Brunette and George McDaniels in the leading roles

Who will write Joe Martin's next scenario? That is the question that is agitating Director William S. Campbell while he is cutting and titling "Wild Lions and Loose Bandits," the jungle fun-fest with the $10,000 orang-outang and his zoological associates which has just been completed.

Marie Walcamp, having returned from Sonora with her troupe of cowboys, is now filming under Jacques Jaccard's direction the last of the Tempest Cody series of two-reelers, "Tempest Cody's Man Hunt," written by George Hively in collaboration with Miss Walcamp's director.

"A Desert Wooing" is the working title of the Pete Morrison two-reel western in which he is supported by Magda Lane. George Holt is directing.

Only two more episodes remain to be filmed of James J. Corbett's "The Midnight Man." Under James W. Horne's direction the company is working night and day so that the serial will be finished in time for Corbett to leave for the big fistic battle at Toledo.

Copyright Applied For.

In order to be listed in this column, it is necessary that you be sufficiently well known locally that there shall be no doubt as to your ability to play the parts for which you are listed. If you have not appeared in the films recently, it will be necessary to bring proof that you have successfully filled the part under which you wish to be listed.

This precaution is taken as a safeguard for this paper and for the people who are capable. Further, this precaution has been suggested to us by casting directors, as the column was inaugurated chiefly for their information.

Abbreviations: Characters (ch.); Heavies (hv.); Juveniles (juv.); Foreign (for.); Ingenues (ing.).

Changes in this column must be reported to the office of CAMERA! not later than Friday of each week.

Charge for listing, including change each week, is $1.00 for two months.

Style Accents

By Vigee

The following hats were on display in the windows of the New York shops this past week, and feature many styles, from the transparent dress hat to the smart sports shape. One thing stands out distinctly, and that is the amount of trimming used and the clever application.

For instance, in a large cloche shape the crown and small brim, which are of tete de negre Milan, there is a double brim of brown maline covering this and extending just as far out again as the width of the Milan brim. On the edge of this, brown silk leaves are laid in close formation and over it the maline brim falls loosely.

A novel body straw that looks like carpet is made into a sports hat in brilliant green medium shape, with two rows of heavy black floss loops trimming the crown sides. Showing combination of black and brown to a small square turban, trimmed in a large two-tone brown glycerine ostrich pompon that falls over the turban laid flat on the crown top and covering the shape completely.

In Oriental colorings is a large black lisere cloche with the flange in embroidered cloth much on the order of a Paisley and trimmed with jade color poppies and leaves in glazed effect across the front.

Long leaves of silk in gray and old blue are laid in the tiny flange of a long front poke, each leaf pointing back to the crown and giving the hat the appearance of sloping toward the back.

Much on the order of a coolie hat is a shape made of natural Milan with a tuscan lace insertion in the crown base and on the brim edge. The shape is set on an all around bandeau covered in small pink roses and has a tiny box pleating of old blue satin ribbon about the shallow crown.

Featuring an unusual embroidery in Egyptian design and coloring is a large sailor; the embroidery done on black taffeta and the shape faced with row after row of black maline braid.

A tan Milan turban has the sides covered with three rows of twine flowers with novelty wood bead centers. A small shape of black lisere has a small cuff of black satin and a large pompon of three-tone brown uncurled ostrict falling off the side.

A large shape of Neapolitan straw has a short back with a roll brim and a band of steel beads around the crown. Large jet ball beads trim the brim here and there through the center and the same trimming is observed on the under brim where the jet balls are firmly held in place. Taffeta made into a small shape, with a facing of natural leghorn, and an odd little tip of flowers off one side of the hat, giving a smart little rakish tilt to the shape.

Hair braid like a fringe is used to bind the brim of a large, wide-sided transparent shape of navy net, and tiny flowers peep through the strands of this braid every once in a while. Batavia cloth made into a large floppy shape, with a soft flange, and a tam crown with large dots embroidered in floss about the flange, and little flowers of ribbon for trimming.

Clipped ostrich is used about the brim of a large rolling shape, made in rust-color hair and showing a pompon of the feathers at the front.

Chambray hats for the kiddies have again appeared this season, and these show the stitched brims and large, puffy crowns of the fabric, with wide black velvet bands and streamers, and sometimes trimmed with little gingham flowers.

Displaying the most beautiful handmade roses, is a large, wide sized shape of black lisere which is faced in pink Georgette. The roses are in pink and blue, with wonderfully shaded centers and leaves of brilliant green and black draped about the crown.

Other models are a hat of sand straw with a small flat round crown and medium wide brim flaring. The crown and upper brim covered with sand and white leaves with a silk and velvet poppy on the front. Another has a high, broad crown of pink silk, covered with small pink daisies. Soft brim made of two thicknesses of dark blue maline, the brim is caught in on the center of the crown. A sailor shape with a crown covered with purple and lavender lilacs. Straight brim of straw widened with maline. A mushroom shape. The square crown and upper brim are covered with white daisies, the brim is underfaced with green straw. At the base of the crown is a narrow black velvet ribbon with streamers on the back. A cluster of pink flowers decorate the streamers.

HOLLYWOOD STUDIO CLUB NOTES

An informal dance was given at the club on Friday evening. About seventy-five guests attended and the music was furnished by the Athletic Club orchestra. The Studio Club girls are giving these informal dances every third Friday evening and it is hoped all members and their friends will attend.

Miss Edna Harris, secretary of the club, has returned after a short vacation.

Miss Mildred Wyant was a guest for dinner Sunday.

Miss Katherine Hawley spent the week-end with Miss Chase Herendeen.

Mrs. Wyant and daughter, Mildred, left for their home in Winfield, Kan., after spending the winter and spring in California.

Where to Sell Your Scenarios

This feature is for the guidance of scenario writers who have something to sell, but who do not know just where to take it. CAMERA! keeps this column for announcements by the various studios. Some of the matter stands from week to week as a reference guide. It will be noted that many of the studios do not wish scenarios submitted by any one; some want synopses only; others wisn the continuity written.

As the difficulties of the past years in regard to the submissions of scenarios no longer exist, it is safe for any one with a good idea to send scenarios to any company mentioned in this column. While this paper is not responsible for the use or misuse of scenarios by the companies listed, it believes that any scenario sent to any of the companies will receive honest and prompt treatment. Any action to the contrary will receive full publicity if reported to this office.

MABEL CONDON EXCHANGE, 6035-37 HOLLYWOOD BLVD. Buying only books, plays and magazine stories, except the work of a few authors on contract.

MOROSCO FILM COMPANY, 201 N. OCCIDENTAL. See Laskey Market.

CHRISTIE COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. In the market for one and two reel comedies. Breezy, snappy incidents must be present in a marked degree. The Christie Comedies feature Bobby Vernon, Earl Rodney, Dorothy De Vore, Jay Belasco, Ethel Lynn, Fay Tincher and Patricia Palmer. Please sumbit by mail.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA PRODUCING COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. Scott Sydney, the producer, wants one reel stories suitable for Elinor Field.

WILLIS AND INGLIS, WRIGHT & CALLENDER BLDG. Neither purchasing nor accepting on consignment any original scenarios. Handling only photoplay rights to books, plays and short stories.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS COMPANY, SUNSET AND ARGYLE. Prefers considering the original work of screen authors, having always been keen to develop those writers who showed ability.

NATIONAL FILM COMPANY, 6107 SANTA MONICA BLVD. In demand for 5-reel comedy-dramas featuring "Billie" Rhodes. Also 2-reel comedies for "Smiling Bill" Parsons, and 5-reel heavy dramas for Henry Walthall, and 2-reel comedies for the de Havens, with domestic situations.

VITAGRAPH COMPANY, 1708 TALMADGE ST. The company buys no scenarios in the West, the same being taken care of by the Eastern Vitagraph Company at East Fifteenth and Locust avenue, New York.

DAVID WARK GRIFFITH occasionally buys synopses suited to Mr. Griffith's people and style. Stories should be submitted to M. M. Stearns, 4500 Sunset Blvd.

FOX STUDIO, SUNSET AND WESTERN. The company has its own staff writers, but will consider comedy-dramas and straight dramas with a strong love element. Also Western comedy-dramas for Tom Mix. Nothing less than 5 reels.

METRO, 1025 LILLIAN WAY. Maxwell Karger is manager of productions and June Mathis is head of the scenario department. Outside material is also considered. Good live American stories with a melodramatic touch for Bert Lytell. Comedy-romances of a lighter nature for May Allison. Snappy melodramas for Hale Hamilton; comedy-romances and comedy-dramas for Viola Dana, and dramas that are typically Nazimova for Nazimova.

WILLIAM HART STUDIO, 1215 BATES ST. Maintains no scenario department, but manuscriptts for Bill Hart will be considered. The stories must not take Mr. Hart out of his characterization, but they must have new ideas, a different twist. Pays upon acceptance.

GOLDWYN PICTURE CORPORATION, CULVER CITY. Will consider good comedies for Mabel Normand; ingenue roles having a touch of pathos, for May Marsh; ingenue roles that are rather fantastic, for Madge Kennedy; strong emotional dramas for Pauline Frederick; 5-reel comedies for Tom Moore; strong emotional dramas for Geraldine Farrar. Nothing under 5 reels.

THE AMERICAN FILM COMPANY. SANTA BARBARA, CAL., is in the market for five-reel photoplays suitable for either male or female leads; also for strong stories requiring balanced casts. Arthur J. Zellner is head of the Scenario Department.

THOMAS H. INCE COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Buys no outside material except from well-known writers on contract. Has own staff writers.

BRUNTON STUDIOS, 5341 MELROSE AVE. Scenarios for the following companies may be addressed to R. B. Kidd, Scenario Editor, or to the individual companies.

TOURNEUR FILM COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Interested only inscripts of large calibre, 6 or 7 reels. No society plays and no comedy.

FATTY ARBUCKLE COMEDIES, 1723 ALLESANDRO ST. Two-reel comedies having the essentials of a good opening and a good finish, and the gags must be unusually clever.

MUTUAL FILM COMPANY, 72 WEST TWENTY-THIRD ST., NEW YORK. Will consider feature photoplays with parts suitable for Gail Kane.

BACON-PACKER FILM CORPORATION, 230 WEST THIRTY-EIGHTH ST., NEW YORK. Society dramas with women leads are needed.

ANITA STEWART CO., 4634 SANTA MONICA BLVD. In the market for 5-reel society dramas for Anita Stewart.

CHAPLIN STUDIO, 1420 LA BREA. Buys no outside material. Charlie Chaplin writes his own scripts.

PALMER ADVISORY BUREAU, 571-591 I. W. HELLMAN BLDG. We market material for Palmer members and recognized writers only. Have calls for all types of stories including serials.

L-KO FILM COMPANY, SUNSET AND GOWER. Not in the market for outside material.

UNITED PICTURE THEATRES CORPORATION, BRUNTON STUDIOS. Buying only high-class stories having Eastern or Western atmosphere which have sufficient action for 6 reels. Address scenarios to William Lord Wright.

THE DOROTHY GISH COMPANY, SUNSET STUDIO, 4520 SUNSET BLVD. Is in the market for five and six reel comedy-dramas, featuring Miss Gish.

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG is in the market for straight drama; 6 reels.

JACK PICKFORD can use stories of the good-natured, small-town boy; 6 reels.

BESSIE BARRISCALE will consider strong emotional roles with the society element; also comedy-dramas; 5 to 7 reels.

FRANK KEENAN'S scenarios must contain strong, virile, masterful character delineation; 6 reels.

MAYFLOWER COMPANY, GEORGE TUCKER, All Star cast, will consider 7-reel super-features dealing with modern society.

J. WARREN KERRIGAN—Six-reel dramas with marked romantic element.

EARLE WILLIAMS uses 5 and 6-reel society plays.

STEWART EDWARD WHITE CO. Produces only Mr. White's books.

ZANE GREY FILM CO. Not in market. Films Mr. Grey's novels.

MARY PICKFORD COMPANY. Not in the market at present for outside material.

UNIVERSAL FILM CO., UNIVERSAL CITY. In the market for 1-reel comedies and 2-reel Western. Will consider Western feature stories for Harry Carey; strong emotional drama for Dorothy Phillips and Mary MacLaren; feature character stories for Priscilla Dean; and outdoor character material for Monroe Salisbury.

FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CO., BOYLE AND STEPHENSON AVE. Two and 5-reel dramatic stories of the West for Texas Guinan. One-reel comedies for Mack Swain.

UNITED PICTURES CORPORATION, 1600 BROADWAY, N. Y. In market for strong emotional features with problem theme for Florence Reed—five reels.

SESSUE HAYAKAWA plays Japanese, Chinese and Far Eastern characters. Sympathetic roles and roles having to do with self-sacrifice are preferred to sentimental parts; 6 reels.

JESSE D. HAMPTON CO., 1425 FLEMMING ST. Will consider scenarios suitable for H. B. Warner, W. Desmond and Jack Kerrigan; five reels.

KATHERINE MACDONALD CO., PICO AND GEORGIA STS. Society or emotional dramas of 5 reels for Miss MacDonald. Address scenarios to Ursula March.

BRENTWOOD FILM CO., 4811 FOUNTAIN AVE. In market for modern American stories, with good theme predomination, and also good 5-reel comedy-dramas. Must have human interest, with characterization true to life. Five-reel features only.

REALLY HAPPENED

While a fire scene was being filmed last week by the Gale Henry Company, Director Bruno J. Becker shouted "Smoke!" to the fellow inside the house who was to light the smoke pots, thus giving the house the appearance of being in flames. Misunderstanding his request, four or five fellows approached Director Becker offering him anything from Bull Durham to a good cigar.

RECEPTION FOR RICKENBACKER

Monday night, the 23rd, Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker will be the complimented guest at a reception to be given at the Shrine Auditorium. A program has been arranged in which the following picture people will take part: Ben Turpin, James Corbett, Kathleen Clifford, "Slim" Summerville, Bobby Dunn, Tom Kennedy and Mr. and Mrs. Carter DeHaven. Charles Murray, as usual, has been selected for master of ceremonies. Tickets may be purchased for the sum of $1.10 at Hotel Alexandria, Los Angeles Athletic Club, Jonathan Club and the Van Nuys and Lankershim.

DUG OUT NEWS

Saturday night a week ago the Dug Out gave a masquerade dance which was attended by a hundred and fifty invited guests including the parents of some of the young couples. Hugh Burns, dressed in a striking yellow and white satin jockey suit, won the gentleman's prize as a colored jockey, and Edith Roberts won the girl's prize dressed as an Indian princess in a beautiful white buck costume with some very choice Indian head ornaments.

Last Saturday night a "Camouflage" party was given. Each guest bidden camouflaged his face, a prize being offered for the best makeup. Eugene Ford, Mrs. John Metz and Ann Schaffer were the judges.

WILL GO TO FIGHT

Carter De Haven, comedian at the National studios, will be among the many celebrities attending the heavyweight battle at Toledo next month. A special train has been chartered, those included in the passenger list being, besides Mr. De Haven, Wally Reid, Charlie Chaplin, Charles Ray, Cecil De Mille, Jesse Lasky, Dustin Farnum, Wm. Farnum, Roscoe Arbuckle, and several others. It will be called the billion-dollar special and will carry a diner straight through, no stops being made.

KARGER CAGED

No more will conference between the Metro director-general and his staff be interrupted by uncouth apparitions who want to know if "any banan', any orang'? nice juic' orang'?" are desired; no more will scenario fanatics, sightseers and book agents stroll nonchalantly into the private office of Maxwell Karger at inopportune moments.

An ornamental but sturdy cage of white trelliswork has been constructed at the office door to Mr. Karger's private office, and a gate keeps intruders out, but lets the cool summer breezes in.

SAN FRANCISCO AFTER STUDIOS

Evidence that the city by the Golden Gate does not intend to throw up the job of corralling a few motion picture companies is seen in the following item, printed in the San Francisco Call:

"Possibilities that San Francisco may yet contest with Los Angeles for the honor of being the moving picture center of the Pacific coast were brought within realization when official centers of the city today were busy with speculations as to who would compose the committee to be named by Mayor Rolph to constitute the new moving picture welfare committee of San Francisco.

"For some years it has been known that D. W. Griffith and other notable magnates of the moving picture industry desired to leave Los Angeles and locate in San Francisco.

"By action of the board of supervisors yesterday the way has been prepared for an official committee that will undertake to show the leading directors of Los Angeles and New York the advantages of San Francisco as a motion picture producing center.

"Supervisors Joseph Mulvihill and J. Emmet Hayden have been leading the fight to bring the moving picture industry to this city, the result of which was a resolution adopted yesterday by the board of supervisors, introduced by Supervisor Mulvihill, to initiate the proceedings organizing a general committee.

"Steps already have been taken to lease a studio location in this city.

"The resolution adopted by the board of supervisors is as follows:

Mulvihill's Resolution

"Whereas, a movement has been inaugurated to bring to San Francisco a large number of moving picture production companies, one large concern having located here within the last week; and

"Whereas, the success of this effort will mean the bringing to San Francisco of millions of dollars annually, which will be spent among all classes of our merchants, and will give employment to thousands of professional people as well as to artisans and mechanics of every description, and will also afford an opportunity to show San Francisco's ideal commercial and scenic advantages to the millions of people who attend moving picture theaters; therefore be it

"Resolved, that his Honor the Mayor, in co-operation with the Public Welfare and Publicity committee, be authorized to invite representatives of the various civic and commercial organizations to attend a conference for the purpose of selecting a special committee consisting of public officials and representatives of these various organizations, who will foster and encourage the moving picture industry, which is on the eve of an era of great expansion, and the location of which business here in our midst will mean much to the prosperity of San Francisco."

Johhie Cooke, Universal character actor, is not worrying about prohibition. He says that he "gets an awful kick" out of the Sunday newspapers. He finds his stimulant in the advertising columns.

Here is his latest tipple:

FOR SALE—Flingabout 1912 Toy Tonneau, in perfect shape; $1.50 cash. This won't last long.

Harry Lamont got a new job the other day. He had to make up to scare "Bracko," the big Dane dog working in the "Hall Room Boys" seres. When the dog was turned loose Lamont climbed a ladder and Bracko broke all the furniture. The set was a wreck when Bracko and Lamont finished.

Mr. and Mrs. Carter De Haven started on their sixth picture at National, recently. Their vaudeville act at Grauman's theatre last week was a huge success. William Leiter is putting over some clever two-reel comedies.

A great deal of time and money will be spent in making "The Confession," starring Henry Walthall, one of the best pictures of the season, according to National.

Scott Beal, who assists Louis Chaudet, is doubling in brass in the present Billie Rhodes feature, for he is not only assisting, but playing the juvenile lead in the story. Garbed as an army lieutenant, he makes a charming leading man. While photographing some scenes on the Hoboken docks, a vessel landed with some of Uncle Sam's boys. Scott picked up the camera and rushed over to help set up on the scene. One of the boys, mistaking him for a real officer in uniform, said: "That's the first officer I ever saw work."

Bobby Vernon turned his ankle and has been around with the aid of two canes for the past week. He was just stepping out of his home, when an inviting piece of a banana peel got in the path of his heel, and slip went Robert down on ris fours, and luckily for him, he wasn't working in a picture or he would have been forced to call a halt on the production.

James Young leaves our grand and glorious country next Saturday. This includes the Vitagraph where he has been directing Earle Williams in a series of feature productions. Mister Young is going to New York City to direct Elsie Janis for Myron Selznick. Miss Janis is the latest star to sign with the corporation owned and headed by Myron, with headquarters in the metropolis. It isn't decided as yet if Chester Bennett goes East with Director Young, who has made him a very tempting offer while the Vitagraph, 'tis said, has raised the ante to keep him here.

Jas. J. Corbett is working night and day so that he can finish the serial he is in out Universal way, by the 30th of this month so he can leave for Toledo to see the Willard-Dempsey fight, and then return here and continue his motion picture career, which according to the knowing ones will prove the biggest serial money getter the big U has turned out in some time past.

Rex Hodge reports that the Henry McRea serial just finished it's sixteenth episode and that they have two more to make, and tells a funny story anent one of the heads of the company who noticed some of the actors eating the company lunches. Among the food was a piece of chocolate cake. This individual mistook the cake for a cigar, and inquired of Rex: "Do you serve cigars with the company lunches?" Listens like the fellow who said the L-KO comedies are not to be laughed at: What do you think? Agreed.

MAURICE TOURNEUR

Has added another to his program successes. The trade papers have the following to say regarding his "White Heather," shown at the Rialto in New York.

MOTION PICTURE NEWS—"Let Mr. Tourneur's name and the source of the play suffice, but remember this—you can boost and boost and boost and unless we're very much mistaken, everyone is going to want to know why you didn't boost it more."

VARIETY—"This is an absolute masterpiece of motion picture direction and photography and a triumph for Maurice Tourneur, who directed the production."

MOTION PICTURE WORLD—"Just as Lizst paraphrased and transformed a lot of barbaric Hungarian melodies into rhapsodies of beauty, so Tourneur paraphrases and transforms these Drury Lane melodramas into visualizations of scenic charm by consummate skill in accomplishing fine picture effects.

TRADE REVIEW—"The factt that the direction was in the hands of Maurice Tourneur is sufficient testimonial to the excellence of the filming. The Tourneur scheme has this advantage, that it leaves the director a free hand in his single-minded purpose if interesting an audience.

BILLBOARD—"Mr. Tourneur stands in a class by himself and the White Feather but adds another wreath to his laurels."

NEW YORK TELEGRAPH—"Mr. Tourneur is one of the few film directors who believes 'the play's the thing' and consequently he fits his players to the story instead of the reverse."

MOTION PICTURE NEWS—"Maurice Tourneur is establishing a new type of picture in the Drury Lane melodramas he is bringing to the screen. The secret of this originality is apparently due to the fact that Mr. Tourneur endows the product of Drury Lane with an atmosphere as artistic as that which he brought out in "The Poor Little Rich Girl," and "The Blue Bird." Transference to the screen by a hand less skilful and "The White Heather" might easily have turned out a "howling melodrama." Mr. Tourner offers an artistic melodrama still containing the popular appear of the older mind and multiplying it by fine treatment."

The Maurice Tourner Productions

Are looked forward to as screen milestones. To exhibitors and public alike the name MAURICE TOURNEUR is a guarantee of meritorious and entertaining motion pictures.

PRODUCTION NOTES AROUND HOLLYWOOD

NEILAN TO SANTA CRUZ

Marshal Neilan has decided to give up the Kentucky trip previously announced, and will take exteriors in the vicinity of Santa Cruz.

BILLIE RHODES WINS SUIT

After a dispute covering some months, Billie Rhodes has been given a judgment of $980 against the Christie Comedies for salary alleged to be due her. The case, it is stated, arose through a misunderstanding of contract.

HOWARD WITH TOURNEUR

Contrary to the report printed last week, Arthur Howard, formerly assistant director with D. W. Griffith, and who has lately been traveling with a road show in Central California, is not assisting George Siegmann at Universal, but is with Maurice Tourneur at Culver City.

RICKENBACKER FOR FILMS

While announcements to that effect have not been made public, it is rumored that Captain Eddie Rickenbacker will make at least one picture and perhaps two before going into business with the aeroplane motors. It is understood that Rick will appear with Douglas Fairbanks in a coming Big Four production.

SELZNICK ARRIVES

Myron Selznick arrived in the city last week on a business trip. He now has Eugene O'Brien, Elsie Janis, Olive Thomas, Elaine Hammerstein and Owen Moore on his star list, his latest acquisition being Owen Moore. Mr. Selznick will produce entirely in the east, so it is probable that Owen Moore will soon be leaving the west.

ROTHACKER TO EUROPE

S. L. Rothacker, who came west some weeks ago to arrange for the opening of a Los Angeles laboratory, will leave at once for the East and during the early part of July will make a trip to London and Paris. Mr. Rothacker has not publicly announced his plans for business in Hollywood. He expects to return in about two months.

HANDY WITH PHOTOPLAY

Truman B. Handy, for some years identified with the staff of the Los Angeles Times, and recently with Goldwyn in the publicity department, has joined the staff of Photoplay Magazine, and along with the genial Al Cohn is filling up the mahogany seats in the Hollywood office, during the time not spent in visiting the studios for feature stories.

THE ROLAND STUDIO

Ruth Roland returned from New York recently and plans for producing her own pictures have been completed. She will start with her own company the first of July in the studio opposite the Ince studio in Culver City. William Parke, who was engaged by Miss Roland while in the east, will direct. No other than the mayor of Culver City will be Miss Roland's business manager. Miss Roland's first production will be a serial, in which work she excels.

GRIFFITH NORTH ON SPECIAL

With three cars of artists, properties and horses, D. W. Griffith's Angel's Camp special pulled out of the Southern Pacific Wednesday evening, bound for the territory around which Bret Harte wove his masterpieces in prose. Among those in the party were Carol Dempster, Clarine Seymour, Eugenie Besserer, Mrs. Bert Such, Richard Barthelmess, Ralph Graves, Walter Long, Wilbur Highy, Bert Such, George Beranger, Robert Harron, George Fawcett, Jack Lloyd, James Gibbs, E. E. Yeager and other. Eva Fox horses are in use. The company expects to be back in about ten days.

Week Beginning June 29

WILL DIRECT PARSONS

William Seiter, director of Mr. and Mrs. Carter De Haven in their many comedy successes, will also direct "Smiling Bill" Parsons in his future productions.

FARNUM STARTS NEW PRODUCTION

Work was started last week on the William Farnum production, "The Wings of the Morning," a picturization of the novel by that name by Louis Tracy. The photodrama will be made under the direction of Director General J. Gordon Edwards.

"SHADES OF SHAKESPEARE"

The fourth of the Christie Specials, titled "Shade of Shakespeare," has just been completed under the direction of Al E. Christie, for release in July. Alice Lake is featured in this special. With Miss Lake are Earle Rodney, Eddie Barry, Eugene Corey, Ward Caulfield, Al Haynes and others.

ANN LITTLE UNDER ONTRCACT

Ann Little has been placed under contract by the National Film Corp. to appear in the forthcoming serial to be produced by the company. Miss Little has been loaned by the Famous Players-Lasky organization for the duration of the picture and will be starred with Arthur Hoxey throughout the fifteen episodes of the production.

SIGNS LONG-TERM CONTRACT

Pearl White is going to make feature films exclusively for the Fox Film Corporation. Her first production will be made at the new William Fox $2,500,000 film edifice now in the course of completion in New York City. She is said to have signed a long-term contract with William Fox and is to appear in stage and famous story successes only.

FLORENCE TURNER BACK

Florence Turner, a former Vitagraph star of the short-reel days and who more recently headed her own producing company in England, has joined Universal to be featured in one-reel society comedies, which will be produced by M. W. Testa.

The first comedy is called "Matrimonial ————," the dashes standing for what General Sherman said war was. Phillip Hubbard, who was Jane Cowls leading man on the speaking stage for a number of seasons, will play opposite Miss Turner.

MALATESTA HAS COMPANY

Fanny Ferrari is to be starred within the next three weeks by the Latina Productions, on the Brunton lot. Miss Ferrari came to Los Angeles about six months ago to sign with the Metro company. Her contract expired last week. The Latina Productions was organized by Fred Malatesta and Frank Ormston will direct Miss Ferrari. She will be featured in roles not unlike those in which Nazimova stars. Fred Malatesta went to San Francisco Wednesday to attend to business concerning the new company, and expects to return about Monday.

MINTER WITH ZUKOR

Mary Miles Minter has finally landed her contract, and we may now cease worrying about that young lady's future activities. Letters emanating from her office in Santa Barbara some six months ago pointed out that D. W. Griffith was trying to acquire her services. Later it was reported that T. L. Tally was sitting up nights wondering how best to form his sentences in praying her to become his leading light. Now comes the publicity letter from New York that the competition among distributors has been little short of a riot and that Adolph Kukor has finally handed Mary a three-year contract for $1,300,000, covering twenty pictures the cost of which Miss Minter will pay out of the total she receives. This being the case we can now turn our attention to some one else. Good luck, Mary! Peace be with you, Adolph!

MORENO COMPANY NORTH

The Antonio Moreno Company of Vitagraph expected to leave tonight for Central California points to make a stay of approximately four weeks doing exteriors, under the direction of William Bowman. The first stop will be at Sacramento, where the company will remain about ten days and can be reached at the Travelers Hotel. From Sacramento they will go to San Jose, where the best form of address will be "Antonio Moreno Company." An indefinitely short stop will be made at that point, after which the company goes to Truckee to finish. The Sierra Tavern will be the address. Tote Ducrow accompanies the party.

LATEST ROMAYNE NOTES

The Lincoln Motion Picture Players have commenced work at the Motive Motion Picture studio, formerly the David Horsley studio, on their first six-reel production.

The whole cast is composed of colored people. Harry Gant is the director.

This is one of a series of productions that will be made by the colored cast for release throughout the southern states.

The foreign rights on the pictures will be controlled and sold by the Romayne Super-Film company.

The five comedies that were made by the Ellis Production company have been taken over by the Romayne Super-Film company, and the Ellis Production company will make an additional forty-seven, so as to complete a program of fifty-two comedies that are to be made under the "Bear Cat" brand of the Romayne company.

These comedies are to be directed by Harry Edwards, while the scenarios are by Pop Hoadley.

The Romayne company has also taken over the three two-reel productions of the Kipling Comedy company, which were directed by Alf. Goulding.

ADVANCE NEWS

John Ince, ardent follower of the fistic sport at Doyle's, who bewails that "now the country's safe for Bevo, Tuesday'll never be the same." Tuesday is fight night.

Mickey Whalen, assistant cameraman with May Allison, is the most freckled boy in the world. If you don't believe that count 'em.

Finis Fox, Metro scenariosist, never cried when he was a little boy. When he was being whipped his brother, Edwin Carewe, had to stand by and cry for him. But when John L. Sullivan was defeated Finis Fox broke down and cried his eyes out. Finis has stated his pick for the Friday event at Toledo, but his friends say they can tell what it was waiting to see if he cries or not.

Danny Hogan, Metro prop rustler, has been rustling seats for the Toledo Pillow fight. It is claimed that the special train will be named the Danny Hogan, Ltd., in his honor.

Charles Lewis will pitch for Metro in the opening game of the studio league, played today at the Metro diamond. The Tom Ince nine is the opponent. John Ince of Metro hasn't decided whether he will root for or against his brother's team.

"Please Get Married" will be inaugurated at Long Beach tomorrow when Viola Dana appears in a nifty swimming suit in the open air pool at the home of J. J. Hagarty.

J. H. Howard is the proud father of a ten-pound baby boy, born last Saturday.

Interesting Universal Notes

From Ham Beall

The high light of the current weeks activities at Universal City was the completion of the James J. Corbett serial, "The Midnight Man," produced by James W. Horne from a story upon which he collaborated with Frank Howard Clark. Kathleen O'Connor played opposite Corbett.

Monroe Salisbury and company have returned from Tobin, Cal., in the Feather river country, where under Rollin Sturgeon's direction the outdoor scenes were taken for "Sundown Trail," the story of a mining camp by J. G. Hawks, which is being made into Salisbury's next starring vehicle.

Mary MacLaren is next to be starred in the romance of a little Scotch maid, which is to be produced by Tod Browning from Henry C. Rowland's well known novelette, "Auld Jeremiah." Waldemar Young is writing the scenario. Dave Butler will be Miss MacLaren's leading man.

Frank Mayo, Kathryn Adams and other members of the all-star cast which is producing "The Brute Breaker" by Johnston McCulley, the magazine author, are still on location near Mt. Shasta, Cal., where Lynn Reynolds is directing the French-Canadian logging camp scents for the new special attraction.

"Common Property," the new drama of nationalization of women in Russia, with Robert Andersen and Colleen Moore as the featured players, has been well launched by Director Paul Powtll. The story was written by Elliott J. Clawson.

"The Right to Happiness," Dorothy Phillips' newest super-production, has now received the final cutting at the hands of Director Allen Holubar and editor-in-chief, Frank Lawrence.

"Jim of the Rangers," the Harry Carey melodrama of Texas in the early days, written by G. B. Lancaster, is nearing completion under Jack Ford's direction. Gloria Hope, the Titian haired beauty, is Carey's feminine lead in this picture.

Marie Walcamp is enjoying a brief vacation after completing the first four of the "Tempest Cody" series of two-reel western dramas.

A new two-reel western company with Laura Trainor, the girl who rode on horseback from Missoula, Montana, to Hollywood; Josephine Hill and Jack Perrin is now producing "Fighting Blood" under Reeves Eason's direction.

"The Desert Trail" is the title of a new two-reeler of outdoor type which Pete Morrison and Magda Lane will star in under George Holt's direction. Holt has just finished directing the two stars in Harvey Gates' story, "A Desert Wooing."

Norman Dawn, who directed the two-reel western "Two Men of Tinted Butte," is producing a two-reel film novelty. It is a sex melodrama of domestic relations called "The Eternal Triangle."

The Universal battery of expert cutters and comedy title writers have been turned loose to collaborate with Director William S. Campbell in giving the finishing touches to the editing of "Wild Lions and Loose Bandits," the animal comedy starring Joe Martin and jungle associates.

"Non-Skid Love" is the Lyons-Moran comedy now in process of production.

SUBMITTED CRITICISM

Editor Camera:—

I am sending you a personal review of what I consider the most noteworthy picture that I have seen for some time. Few pictures move me sufficiently to compel me to notice them thus. As you will see, I am regarding the picture purely from the human side, as it disarms professional criticism from its very nature.. Hoping you may find this sufficiently interesting to be of use,

I remain, yours sincerely,
F. ELY PAGET.

"The Auction of Souls"

It is impossible to approach this picture in a spirit of captious criticism Sufficient to say that it conforms to no rule of dramatic construction, yet the wealth of overwhelming incident and vivid detail together with the general technical excellence more than compensate for faulty dramatic entity. It is above all propaganda; it even goes beyond and becomes a gruesome chapter of history embalmed in celluloid for the benefit of posterity.

To avoid distracting attention from the main theme, namely, the atrocities wreaked by the Turks on a hapless people, the producer wisely refrained from encumbering his picture with too much story.

Three competent artists assist Aurora Mardiganian, who herself plays the mute sufferer with painful intensity, to carry whatever personal interest is necessary to give continuity to the story.

Irving Cummings falls easily into the role of the faithful and resourceful young shepherd, Anna Q. Nillson is entirely adequate as the indomitable English Missionary, and Eugenie Besserer plays the martyred mother with heartrending appeal. The rest of the large cast, though the demands on their histrionic abilities are not exacting, are equally effective.

Nothing stands out strongly enough to obscure for a moment the grim realism of the whole.

The object of the picture being, as is frankly acknowledged, to bring home to the American people the full measure of Turkish brutality in their dealings with these people, the director has wisely refrained from stultifying that object by glossing over this brutality, though doubtless some of the horrors, too grisly for even the realism of the screen, were perforce omitted.

Nudity, the essential accompaniment of sexual bestiality, is frankly expressed, yet it is so palpably an added and inevitable suffering of the hapless victims, that not even the veriest prude can take offense thereat.

The crucifixion scene, like a canto from the Inferno, sounds a strident note that is heard high above the lesser notes of horror that crowd the picture, and has an ineffably sad beauty of its own.

So effective is this picture from a personal point of ivew, that had there been a collection agency outside the theatre, it would have been enriched to the extent of the last dollar in my pocket.

This picture drives home the realization that these are not Armenians, a distant and unfamiliar people, but that they are women, gentle girls and tender children.

It is a picture that makes a man blush for his sex.

F. ELY PAGET.

PICTURE CAMERA NEVER OUT OF OWNER'S SIGHT

Billy Foster, cameraman for the H. B. Warner Company at the Jesse D. Hampton studios, owns his own camera, a La Parvo, of the French make, and one of the very few in the United States. It is what is known as a correct vision camera, in which the object to be photographed is not inverted upon the lens.

This camera goes home every night with Foster, and either he or his assistant, Max Fabian, is constantly with it during the daytime. Other men at the studio declare Foster puts it under his pillow at night, takes it to the theatre with him and even has a place for it at the table.

Serious, however, this camera gets more attention than the average person. When not working, Foster and Fabian are ever cleaning it, polishing its nickeled sides, oiling the intricate parts or even painting the tripod.

The two men have worked together for over two years, and every change of film, every movement is down to military precision. Time is worth money to producers, and this pair has made it a rule to speed up so as not in any way to delay action.

SANTA ANA BULLETIN

Did you ever get comfortably seated in a theatre, dreaming of the beauties and scenic effects of a travelog reproduced upon the screen, when some big fat individual dropped heavily by your side, and enveloped you in a cloud of garlic breath? The sensation is awfully soothing, quieting and sometimes paralyzing. Such cattle should promptly be shown the door as disturbers of the peace.

FERDINAND PINNEY EARLE

By Florence Porter Parks

When a man injects into the settled course of our everyday routine, an idea which is in advance of the times, the general agreement is that he is either crazy, or that he is attempting something which cannot but fail in its lonely flight.

Ferdinand Pinney Earle laid before the picture producers about a year ago, a new idea combining art and science. Science and art are sisters, or, rather perhaps they are like brother and sister, but for some reason progression in science is given credence more readily than an innovation in art.

Mr. Earle studied art twenty years in European countries, which places him in a position to devote the finest of artistic education and years of old-world experience to the improvement of motion pictures. He was a pupil of Julian's Academy, Whistler, Beaux-Arts and of Bougereau.

After several years of experimenting with his motion painting process, Mr. Earle displayed his oil paintings to the picture producers, claiming that they would photograph to take the place of nature, thus saving a picture company thousands of dollars in transporting the company to distant local scenes, and to European locations, and would do away with the building of gigantic sets. The producers who had been successfully making money with the old method, resorted to by all producers alike, could see no reason why a change should be made. They felt certain that the painted could not pass for the genuine, and they preferred spending great sums of money on elaborate sets rather than venture the artistic success of one of their productions.

When Mr. Earle endeavored to interest the big producers in his new project, he became discouraged at their lack of enthusiasm, and stacked his canvases. He accepted the offer to make art titles for "Within the Law" which his brother, W. P. S. Earle was directing. He straightway became identified as an art title man, and made the illustrated art titles for "Desert Gold," "Toys of Fate," "The Westerners," "The Hoodlum" and other productions. In "Bill Appleton's Boy" he resorted to a semi-futuristic style, which made the picture distinctive.

In "The Better Wife" featuring Clara Kimball Young, one of Mr. Earle's paintings was used for the gardens and the balcony upon which Miss Young was seen.

In one particular instance a company spent many times the amount in obtaining air raids, when with one canvas and double exposure, Mr. Earle produced as realistic effect in "Shadows of Suspicion," and "The Judgment House." Many have doubted the fact that these air arids were produced with a tiny easel painting and double exposure. In "The Unpardonable Sin" seventy of Mr. Earle's motion paintings were used. Several were also used in "Daddy Long Legs," and in Mary Pickford's picture which is now being produced.

In a recent western picture Mr. Earle's art titles were all that saved the production from being an ordinary western "melo." The classis art titles with their gorgeous western scenery placed the picture in the 35 and 50 cent attractions.

Mr. Earle's paintings contain a splendor of sun and shadow, an impressive atmospheric feeling true to nature, and an intense seizing of natural facts ordered by strength of human intellect, so that all who see them retain a memorable and beautiful remembrance of them.

"There will be a revival of classic art," declared Mr. Earle. "The day will come when the producer instead of saying that he will make eight or ten pictures, will state that he will make one picture, and that picture will live for its very artistry. It will be a masterpiece of magic beauty, in exact proportion to the love of beauty, and realism shown by the painter and the artist producer."

Motion pictures now have only line, form and values, but when colored photography is perfected, the true artist must surely come into his own. The very name under which pictures live and have their being, motion-PICTURES, gives the artist the right to the seat on the right hand of the producer.

His attitude toward the screen is a constructive one, and his faith in the ultimate attainment of the artistic side with its undreamed of possibilities, is inspiring. "The amalgamation of classic art and picture drama is certain," says Mr. Earle, "the time will come when a Richard Strauss will write the music for a picture to be exhibited at the Metropolitan."

Strange to say, art has the advantage of nature, in so far as it introduces a human element, which is in some respects superior to nature; art is more accurate than nature; art is understood by all civilized nations, while each has a separate tongue. Pictures will be the medium through which a common message may be carried over the world.

Mr. Earle chanced upon his motion painting in 1916, when in working out an animated cartoon, Mr. J. Stuart Blackton, seeing the cartoon run, told Mr. Earle that he excelled in background, that it was so attractive that it detracted from the figures in the foreground. Mr. Earle worked out his motion painting process from Mr Blackton's criticism.

FILMS IN MEXICO.

Dear Sir:

The American made film has taken its place in Mexico, Central and South America.

The European film manufacturers, not producers, were supplying the demand of Latin Americans for good pictures, but since the outbreak of the big war, the so-called producers could not meet their compromises with Latin America, and for the first time in history the American made film took the field to provide Latin America with pictures, that are far superior to the ones made in Europe but the Latin Americans have never had the chance to discover that point and I am aiming to educate them through the photoplay section of "Sonora," to see how much more beautiful, consistent and artistic are our pictures made here than those made in Europe.

This magazine will have a 10,000 circulation, and undoubtedly will be sold to the intellectual masses of Spanish speaking people the world over, and therefore I want to give them all that's coming to them in regard to motion pictures.

So in the photoplay section of "Sonora" I will give publicity to anything good pertaining to moving pictures.

I have worked in Thomas H. Ince studios for the past four or five years, and one of my last engagements was with H. B. Warner, as Joudar the Heavy) in "The Man Who Turned White," so therefore I am trying to boost the motion picture industry among my own people, and the only way to do it is by writing it down on a reliable Spanish paper.

I'll have the honor to mention all about your "Digest of the Motion Picture Industry" and what you have done in behalf of the photoplayers.

Please accept my consideration and good wishes. Yours truly,

MANUEL R. OJEDA.
Editor of Photoplay Section of "Sonora."

A LIVING SKELETON

"The Studio Skeleton," a four-page weekly newspaper filled with interesting bits of the Goldwyn people, made its initial bow last Saturday. Norbert Lusk and Clarke Irvine are the editors with J. G. Hawks, Louis Sherwin and Thompson Buchanan as associate editors. The periodical is cleverly illustrated, carrying many intimate studies of those on the Goldwyn lot. The style is breezy, and the features are listed under heads familiar to those in the picture game.

VERY GOOD MAGAZINE

(From the Marion Daily Republican, Marion, Illinois, June 18, 1919)

We are in receipt of the 1919 Year Book issued by "Camera," a magazine published weekly at Los Angeles, Cal. It is devoted to the motion picture industry, and is filled with large page illustrations of some of the most prominent moving picture actors and actresses. It is also replete with much valuable reading matter applying to the motion picture industry.

BILL HART

Della Harris Ross

Take a little Bill-o
And put him by himself;
Take a little girl-o
And put her on a shelf;
Take a little villian
And put him on the run;
Get a little Pint-o
And get a little gun;
Mix it up in Hollywood,
And serve it on Broadway,
And there you have a movie
That will draw the crowd all day.

SOCIAL FRICASSEE AND CAPER SAUCE

BY FLORENCE PORTER PARKS

MUSICALE AT EARLE HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Pinney Earle gave a musicale at their attractive studio-home at 9023 Fountain avenue, recently. The affair was attended by forty guests, who included many people of interest from the musical and picture circles of Los Angeles. The receiving room was converted into a bower of greenery and pink blossoms. Ropes of smilax festooned the rooms, windows and archways, while in the decorative niches were vases of sweet peas and roses. The tea table, from which light refreshments were served, was laid with exquisite linen and lace, and centered with a mound of pink roses. Silver candlesticks bore lighted pink tapers. French doors opened from the dining-room into the beautiful and extensive gardens, which are adorned with shrubs, flowers and bearing fruit trees. Mrs. Earle wore a gown of soft white satin, with a tunic of rare Italian lace, and carried a turquoise blue feather fan. The guests who enjoyed the hospitality of the Earles were Reginald Barker June Mathis, Alexander Saslassky, Lilly Petschnikoff, May MacDonald Hope, Madame Rider Possart, Mr. Cole, Mr. and Mrs. Winter Hall, Mr. Carewe, Madame Pavlovska, Lillian Walker, Freida Peyke, Naomi Childers, Luther Reed, Anthony Tauszky, Dr. Carter, Mrs. Bickers, Mr. Haskell, Mr. and Mrs. Whitly, Mrs. Florence Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Newcomb, Mrs. Q. Boardman, Mrs. Martindale, Mrs. Storkweather, Mr. and Mrs. Storrow, Herbert Leighton, and Mrs. Currier.

DINNER AND NUGGET NELL

Dorothy Gish entertained five of the high school boys for her young cousin, Francis McConell, one evening recently. An informal four-course dinner was served, at which were seated Mrs. Gish, Miss Lillian Gish and Miss Dorothy, Francis McConell and the five school boys. After dinner the party viewed "Nugget Nell," one of Miss Dorothy's recent releases. Miss Dorothy is now taking a rest of two weeks after having completed the last picture of the Dorothy Gish first series for Paramount. She will spend her vacation not at the beach nor in the mountains, but at the dentist's and the doctor's, and attending to the multitudinous duties which she has left undone the past year on account of her picture work.

HOUDINI'S DINNER-DANCE

Mr. Harry Houdini was host one evening last week at one of the most gorgeous social affairs given recently. His two hundred guests were seated at one long table in the main dining room of the Alexandria. The party was complimentary to Mrs. Houdini, in celebration of their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. Someone present declared that Mrs. Houdini was as lovely and dainty as a Cecil Brunner rose. She sat at the right of her big, famous husband. The table was covered with orchids, roses and sweet peas, and there were two brilliantly lighted fountains which sprayed fragrant rose water throughout the ten-course dinner. Tiny bouquets of orange blossoms with water color cards, marked the place of each guest. Those who responded to toasts were Ann Forest, Ruth Stonehouse, Fred Niblo, Will Rogers, Irvin Willat, Adam Hull Shirk and Carter de Haven. Jesse D. Lasky presented Mr. and Mrs. Houdini with a ten-piece Colonial silver service , with a few well-chosen words. After dinner the guests danced until midnight.

BY MISS FERRARI

Fanny Ferrari entertained a few friends informally Tuesday evening at her home at 1800 North Bronson. Miss Ferrari is at home Tuesday evening of each week to her friends, and for the entertainment of her guests she arranges a musical, engaging local professional talent.

A NOVEL ENTERTAINMENT

Last Tuesday night Mr. and Mrs. James Cruze gave a most entertaining and enjoyable affair. In the Lasky projection room "The Love Burglar," the recent Wallace Reid production was run, followed by a surprise picture of the private life of James Cruze, director. The picture began with the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Cruze, six years ago, then the baby's first bath, first step, and a close-up of the first tooth accompanied by a broad grin from the wee infant himself. The stork art titles running through this part of the picture were lovely. Then a recent picture of Mr. and Mrs. Cruze and baby at five years ended the picture. A supper party at the Cruze home completed a pleasant evening. Those present wre Mr. and Mrs. Burnett Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Woodward and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gollner.

TAKES COTTAGE AT VENICE

Mr. and Mrs. Al Cohn have taken a cottage at Venice for the summer months. The Cohn cottage is a favorite haunt for the picture people over the week-end. Last week-end Wanda Hawley and her husband, Burton Hawley, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cohn. Mr. Cohn, in case you do not recognize his name at once, is the well-liked western representative for the Photoplay Magazine.

NO TROUBLE TO ADD A POUND

Jack Richardson and wife, Louise Lester, spent the week-end at Catalina last week. They stopped at the hotel and spent most of their time fishing. Mr. Richardson caught a 450-pound tuna, which he says is probably the largest catch of the season up to date. He states that if anyone has returned with a bigger fish story, he will gladly add another pound or two.

WARREN KERRIGAN

By Florence Porter Parks

Stars that twinkle successfully in the picture sky all have a sort of specialty to their twinkle. Each has an individuality which strongly differs from any other. There are followers of each and every style, but at the top you find your specialists. J. Warren Kerrigan is the love and adventure specialist; the idol of romance.

You can trace this to two sources. He was born in Kentucky, the state that is famed for two things: lovers and race horses. Then he is an Irishman, at least he admits having Irish blood, an Irish name, and a fondness for the shamrock.

When interviewed Mr. Kerrigan was not wearing the green, instead he was clad in a Spanish suit of brown leather, with brilliant sashes and trimmings. A wide sombrero was set rakishly on the side of his dark hair, and a wicked-looking mustache, small and waxed with an upward twirl perched upon his upper lip. He explained immediately that he was not a real Spaniard, but was only disguished as one. His command of perfect English reassured his interviewer, and conversation turned lightly to marriage, and making garden.

Mr. Kerrigan has theories on both subjects. As for marriage he is not going to marry until he is ready to abandon his present profession, for he does not consider it fair to the mariagee or marriagor—at least those are his sentiments now.

"A man whom you know is a married man doesn't seem convincing in a romantic role on the screen," said Mr. Kerrigan. "Several times it has been rumored that I was married or engaged, and at the time of the rumor I have received letters from all over the country saying that such a move would spoil the writer's enjoyment of my sort of roles."

Motion pictures were discussed, and how he had entered the work.

"I started my stage career at eighteen in 'Sam Houston'," Mr. Kerrigan explained. "Then came a great number of roles—I remember especially 'Brown of Harvard,' 'The Master Key,' and 'The Road to Yesterday.' The health of my mother and twin brother Wallace became very poor. They were living in Chicago, and in order to be with them I started in motion pictures with the old Essanay Company there.

"Those were the days when an actor of the legitimate stage was ashamed to admit his affiliation with the motion picture industry. I admit that only necessity, the desire to be where I could go home and attend to my mother every day, induced me to make the move. I had only been in pictures a short time when I realized the future of the industry, and straightway I became proud, rather than ashamed of my profession.

"Doctors told me that both my mother and brother should be taken to California. I tried to induce the company to move me out, and as they did not think well of the idea I told them that I was leaving anyway, if I had to quit them. They changed their minds and sent a company to the coast with me. Since then I have appeared in American, Universal, Paralta and J. D. Hampton pictures. Now I have my own company."

Mr. Kerrigan's present plans include the making of a series of ten photoplays, to be produced by Robert Brunton. Four stories toward this schedule have been purchased.

In response to the query of what kinds of stories he intends using, he replied:

"Anything with plenty of action, adventure and romance. Type and locale do not bother me now that I have my own choice. Westerns, snow stuff, sea pictures, society stories, will all go well if they have the stuff I want in the way of a story. I will not be limited to a particular style now.

"When I came west from Chicago, where I had been making only society or 'dress up' pictures, one of the reasons why they did not wish to send me west was because they feared that I couldn't ride. I found out the reason sometime later. So I explained to them that I originally came from Kentucky, and had ridden always, until coming to Chicago.

"When I came to California they put me at western stuff, and I made a series of them. Some budding genius handed in a society story, which called for dress-up stuff. They had forgotten Chicago by this time, and I had to remind them that until coming west I had done only society pictures.

"After that there followed a regular string of society pictures. Since then I have done North Woods features, crook plays, anything just so the story was good. Now that I have the choosing of my stories I am going on a special plan, and the character of the stories will be quite varied. This picture takes me as an American in the disguise of a Spanish noble into Mexico. In my next production I will portray the part of a young Colorado millionaire."

Lillian Walker is to be Mr. Kerrigan's leading woman in this Mexican picture, and perhaps in another picture of the series.

FUNERAL AT ARBUCKLE'S

Roscoe Arbuckle gave a house warming at his new home, 5866 Franklin avenue, Saturday night. Twenty guests were present at the funeral. This is the first of a series to be given by Mr. Arbuckle before the First of July.

LUNCHEON FOR GUEST

Mrs. Thurston Hall gave a one o'clock luncheon Wednesday of last week at her home in Ross Court. Her sister, Mrs. Clara Jacoby, from Appleton, Wis., was guest of honor. Mrs. Jacoby will stop with the Hall family for two or three months. Two tables of bridge followed the luncheon, to which ten girls were bidden.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Shirley Mason and husband Bernard Burning celebrated their second wedding anniversary Friday evening with a dinner party at their home in Hollywood. Present were Viola Dana, Mr. and Mrs. John Robbins from Chicago, Mrs. M. Mason, and Jim Corbett. Miss Mason is taking a short rest since the expiration of her Lasky contract, and it is the intention of the young couple to spend a few weeks at Catalina.

PICNIC AT MARIBOU RANCH

Monte Blue, who recently became the owner of a shiny new Buick through right of purchase, accompanied by little Mrs. Blue and their good friends Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Biby, motored to Maribou Ranch last Sunday, where they spent the day, with their lunch baskets.

PARTY FOR MISS MAY

The beautiful home of the Hayakawas was again the scene of a pretty party, Tuesday evening. The honor guest was Peggy May, for whom seventy-five guests were entertained. Mr. and Mrs. Sessue Hayakawa are numbered among the most gracious hosts in the Colony, and rarely a week passes that there are not several parties given in their home. Gladiolas and roses were used in artistic decoration by Mrs. Hayakawa. A buffet supper was served following an informal dance, for which jazz music furnished the inspiration for sprightly syncopated steps. A large flower laden pergola leading from the library was utilized by the guests during the short intermission between dances.

HOLLYWOOD STUDIO CLUB NOTES

Dr. Greene, representing the National Board and War Work Council of the Y. W. C. A., was a guest for tea on Sunday evening. She gave a most interesting and beneficial talk on Woman's Responsibility in the Reconstruction Period, particularly in the matter of social morality. It is to be hoped that Dr. Greene will be able to give another of these talks while in Los Angeles, and that all members of the club will avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing her. Other guests were Mrs. Charles Richmond and sister, Miss Spillard, Mrs. Pitts, Mrs. Drew, Mrs. Green, the Misses Greene of San Francisco, Lucille de Nevers, Yvonne Blasdale, Helen Eddy, Zasu Pitts, Mabel Clapsadle, and Auretha Pickering.

Mrs. Squiers of Pasadena spent the week-end at the club.

The Studio Club girls are organizing a swimming class to be held every Thursday evening at the Y. W. C. A. pool of Los Angeles. All members are urged to join. Twenty cents buys you a suit, towel and lesson.

Mr. William Clapsadle was a dinner guest on Friday evening.

Mrs. Hillard and Miss Baker were the guests of the Misses Violet Clark and Chase Herendeen for dinner on Monday night.

Miss McElvaney spent the week-end with relatives at Long Beach.

Miss Chase Herendeen will leave on Saturday for Berkeley, Calif., where she will spend the summer.

WITH MORENO COMPANY

Tote Du Crow has left with the Moreno company on a location trip which will cover several weeks. Carol Holloway, Kate Price, George Stanley and Jack Waldemar are among others who are going. The company will be in Sacramento for a week or two, then will stop in San Jose, en route to Truckee, where the fifteen episode serial will be completed.

WITH FAIRBANKS

Sam Sothern, one of the best known comedians of the English stage, and brother of the famous E. H. Sothern, will make his first appearance in motion pictures in Douglas Fairbanks' new play, "Dash and Danger and Life and Love," which will be the first release of the United Artists Corporation in September. Mr. Sothern has been spending a few months in California, and Fairbanks is very happy over securing his services.

GEORGE HALL WITH CLINE

George Hall, who before enlisting in the 91st Division, was with the Keystone company, returned to Los Angeles last week and will start work with Eddie Cline on the Fox lot Monday. Mr. Hall was wounded in the Argonne, and while in Base Hospital No. 46 he met several professional boys from the vaudeville circuits in the states. They organized a theatrical company and entertained the doughboys throughout Italy, Switzerland and France for six months. He says that he is mighty happy to be home again and to see his old picture friends.

Peggy May and her company were to have commenced work on the Brunton lot last week, but there will be a delay of another week or so due to the story selected being unsuitable. The picture rights to some popular and successful book will be bought for Miss May, and she is waiting for word from New York. Lloyd Ingraham will direct, assisted by George Crone.

THOMAS RESIGNS

Edward C. Thomas, West Coast Manager of the Exhibitors' Trade Review for the past two years, has just announced his resignation from that paper, to devote his entire attention to publicity representative for Monte M. Katterjohn.

Mr. Thomas retires on July 1st and will be succeeded by Darwin S. Karr, who will arrive from New York within a few days to take up his new position.

SEVERS CONNECTION

Albert W. Hale has severed connection as general manager of productions with the National Film Corporation at Engelwood, Colorado, his resignation taking place the 21st day of June, at which time the company closed its doors on account of financial difficulties. The company had signed Eddie Foy, but were unable to fulfill their agreement with him. Mr. Foy is now at New Rochelle, N. Y.

CATALINA LOCATION

Clarence Burton, who is playing the heavy with the William Farnum company in "Winds of the Night," under the direction of J. Gordon Edwards, left with the company Sunday on a three weeks location trip to Catalina. Mr. Burton returned Friday from the Santa Cruz Islands with the Cecil B. de Mille Company. Mr. de Mille, with a cast inculding Gloria Swanson, Thos. Meighan, Lila Lee, Raymond Hatton and Theodore Roberts, is filming the well-known stage play, "The Admirable Crichton."

CLOSE CALL FOR LLOYD

Director Frank Lloyd came near being impaled on a bayonet when he fell twelve feet from a camera stand on the Goldwyn field. Lloyd had just completed the last scene of a hard day's work on the Geraldine Farrar production, and was about to leave the set. Lloyd and his cameraman, Percy Hilburn, were perched on a small square stand, about twelve feet in the air. In endeavoring to swing to the ground by means of a light brace which ran alongside the platform, his weight carried it away, precipitating him to the ground. Fortunately he fell upon a carpenter standing below. This broke his fall, otherwise he might have been fatally injured, as he went down head first and the bayonet would probably have entered his back or chest.

The very fortunate part of the accident, though nobody was injured except the carpenter, who was bruised slightly, is that Lloyd landed but a foot from an upturned gun with a sharp bayonet attached. This was in the hands of a soldier, one of the extras.

CHIT, CHAT AND CHATTER

BY HARRY BURNS

Col. William Selig is here and is figuring on producing some pictures that will re-establish his name as one of our greatest producers in cinemaland.

Myron Selznick is between the devil and the deep blue sea. "Shall I make pictures in New York City or in Hollywood, which is the cheapest?" is the burning question that is running rampant in his mind, and he even speaks of it to some of his closest friends. "Hollywood! Hollywood!" cried the little bird, and Myron so far has turned a deaf ear. But bet your family jewels he soon will see his mistake if he doesn't come to the coast for good.

Russell Simpson is featured in a six-reel super-production by the McCarthy Picture Productions Co., under the direction of John P. and Henry A. McCarthy at the Universal studio where they have rented space and will start photographing some scenes Monday.

The McCarthy Brothers are well worth watching for they have for years been connected with some of our largest producing companies and many successes credited to others should have fallen upon their shoulders, for they wer the brains behind the project and their present vehicle should place them in the proper light with all connected with the silent stage productions.

Walter Long, after three years' absence from the fold of D. W. Griffith, is once more happily entrenched in the latter's studio, playing the kind of a part that only Walter can portray and any time that D. W. selects a man for such a character, that, in itself is the greatest recommendation that could be tendered to anybody.

Billy Franey is being directed by Frank Griffin at the Fox studio and he tells me that they only have him hanging out of a window 500 feet above the ground on the side of a cliff and ask him to be funny. Now I ask you can a man get his funny bone a working under such circumstances? IT CAN'T BE DONE. But Bill insists he is DOING IT.

Reggie Morris has gone back to Sennett's. Can't blame him for that is the very place that he got his real start as a director under the watchful eye of the king of comedy producers, and Reggie realizes that he can do better under Mr. Sennett's supervision than he can under any one else, and for that reason, if none other, he should stay on the Edendale lot and direct his former Keystone collegues.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Russell are being directed by Billy Watsch at the L-KO in what they call Century Comedies. I feel certain that they are to be laughed at for with Director Watson handling the megaphone and Mr. and Mrs. D. R. on the fun end they are bound to be funny subjects.

George Sniderman is photographing the charming features of that clever duo, Albert Ray and Elinor Fair, the youngest of filmland stars that have been discovered in the Southland. George has been in charge of the Fox laboratory for some time, and finally picked up the mystery box and decided to become a full-fledged cameraman, not saying that he wasn't one before but he was hiding out on us, and finally showed us his hand.

Al Semnacher has agreed to share in the daily worries of one Harry Lichtig in the handling of such stars as Lillian Walker, Kenneth Harlan, Pat O'Malley and Zasu Pitts, and possibly a few more of the live wires of the profession. Al is some hustelr Harry, and with the pair of you on the job the other players personal representatives will have to watch to their laurels. I can see some of them slipping already. Go to it boys, more power to the pair of you.

Josephine Hill and Jack Parron are being directed by Reaves Eason at the Big U in two-reel western stories. This is their initial effort as stars out at that studio and it looks like Mr. Leammle has discovered another pair of live wires.

Fritzi Brunette and Fontine La Rue are inseparatable. To think that two leading ladies working in the same picture are really on speaking terms is wonderful, and to see them eating lunch together and holding a conversation other than a confab, is far above my imagination. But, honest folks, I saw it with my own eyes and therefore must say that they are "some girls"—yes, and as clever as you make them.

Helen Lynch is working with Jimmy Aubrey and Babe Hardy at the Vitagraph not forgetting that Dick Smith is figured in on his troupe and with Noel R. Smith as the director and Douglas Dawson the assistant, where could you find a more evenly balanced company for a two-reel comedy troupe? Nowhere.

Kathleen O'Connor, who is Jas J. Corbett's leading lady, had the thrill of her young life handed her the other afternoon, while posing for a publicity still on the head of Charley the Elephant, out at the Big U. The beast decided to run wild and shook Kathleen up quite a bit while she was being held fast by Curley Stecker the animal trainer, who was trying to quiet the beast. The cause of the animal's actions was later learned by the much frightened Kathleen when Trainer Stecker informed her that an aeroplane flying above them was flying rather close and the buzzing noise of the speeding propellers frightened him as he wasn't used to the strange noise. So Miss O'Connor decided that hereafter she'd pose on the ground for all future stills.

Pat Moore, one of the cleverest youngsters in picturedom, has been cast to play opposite Russell Simpson. Every one knows litle Pat and his part in the forthcoming picture is said to be a very dramatic and pathetic series of scenes.

Miss Louise Granville played a crook in the last Montgomery & Rock storp, and she did her part so well that every time Director Gilbert W. Pratt called work off for the day every one on the set got in a habit of feeling for their watches. Don't get mad Louise.

William S. Campbell will see the light of his initial effort for the Universal come out of the darkness of the past and his home town people will witness a two-reel comedy that is his own from the very first to the last inch of the film that will be projected upon the California Theatre screen, commencing July 13th for a seven-day engagement. The story deals with Joe Martin and the Universal Zoo animal actors in a sense that is brimful of nonsense, fun and amusement and will well repay theatre-goers to go and see the picture and laud Fred and Roy Miller and their manager, Harry Leonhardt, on showing such good judgment on booking the Campbell Funfilms, produced by W. S. Campbell.

Chas. J. Parrott and Gale Henry are to share the Bull's Eye Studio with a third company according to reports making their way along the film rialto. Evidentally business is picking up and they are hitting the Bull's Eye every time they release a story. Pun Number No. 333333 Madisons Buket.

Larry Semon has found a new way to figure gags. He runs out to Vernon, watches the funny antics of a lot of Jack Doyle's fistic celebreties swap punches, gives the audience the once-over, then slips out to the Country Club, where he lets what he saw sink into his mind, then lamps those about him, dance a few steps, returns home, sleeps over his night of excitement then the next morning corners technical director McRea figures out sets to fit the things he picked up and what he added and then he is ready to ramble at top sped for the rest of the day.

Antonio Moreno has slipped away to Truckee with his company where he will film the final scenes in his present serial and then take a vacation trip to New York City. Pretty soft for some of our stars. Antonio won't be gone long, for theer are too many attractions out this way for him.

Harry Kline, the new general manager at the Universal, has not only arrived here but he has landed right in the midst of one of the hardest sieges of work and he's going over great, making many friends. Welcome Mr. H. K.

Maxwell Karger, Joe Engle, Dock Engle and Bert Le Vino were given a few lessons out Vernon way by one Leach Cross Tuesday night. The nature of these instructions were the art of self-defense, or in what sometimes is termed fistcuffs as they used to be, or fistiana as it is delivered every Tuesday and Friday night at Doyle's temple of fightdom. Yes the operation was a success and Professor Cross soon had all the greats and near-greats as his most interested listeners, including Johnny Powers who couldn't escape the issue, as he sat right in the midst of the conversation.

Dorcas Matthews is to play opposite Russell Simpson and Robert McKinn under the direction of John P. and Henry A. McCarthy out at the Big U. studio. She has been playing some excellent parts up to date, and fits very nicely into the production she is about to appear in. So there is nothing fairer than that Allen Holubar is driving about these days with the peek of his cap turned about so it shades the back of his head, giving those out Hollywood way the impression that he is a speedster at the wheel of his touring car. But kind reader, dispel any such thoughts about Mr. Holubar. He justs steps on the gas with an ordinary touch. But when it comes to making pictures—Ah that's different—he's a speed demon, and a bear-cat and everything you want to say about him along those lines.

Joe Cox, who recently returned from "over there," has been engaged as art director for the McCarthy Picture Production Company out at the Big U., which means that Joseph is coming back better and stronger than ever, which I know will please a lot of people who know Mr. Cox and his ability to produce results for any company that he is working for. Do you get me?

Assistant Directors Association Doings

By Harry Burns

Well, kind folks, I have said a great deal in favor of the assistant directors and now I am going to say a few uncomplimentary things about the clan who follow in the footsteps of the director from the moment that Mr. Director stets foot on the studio lot, till he whisks away in his auto, heading for home.

I want to talk to the assistant director who wastes a company's money. It is the like of you fellows who seem to delight in doing the most expensive things, not stopping or waiting to see where you can save a dollar that, are causing the producers of today to want to know how far off is their finish, and, if at any time in your life, you ever had any thought of the value of the thing they call money.

Treat their money as if it were YOUR OWN. Figure scheme, study, try and get the best results, honestly, fairly and give your director a 50-50 break in everything that you do, and your life, the directors and the producers will be extended way in to the days, that will cause you to ask yourself, HOW DID WE DO IT?

Commercialize your every move boys. Make hay while the sun shines—which means make pictures for what ever corporation that you are working for, at lowest cost. A profit for them means a raise for you, and perhaps, a final advancement to directorship, a position which brings with it, a world of respect, a change in life which will prove the ruling hand in moulding out your future and possibly your dependents.

The Assistant Directors Association was formed to exploit the very things I have written about, and those of you who are not members of that organization better get in the band wagon and get on the inside of "How to Make Motion Picturese For a Profit For the Studio, Corporation or Company That You Are Working For," and when you have learned your lesson preach it to you rneighbor for it means longer life for the industry and this guarantees you everything that you are daily striving for. Do you follow me folks, or are you ahead of me?

Allen Watt tells me that in making the rounds of the studio he finds that all members of the A. D. A. are more than making good, and that the heads of the companies that he visited spoke very highly upon the subject of how much good the organization is doing to help improve their productions by the way the members of the Assistant Directors Association have been instructed to improve matters in the making of the pictures they are working on.

George Webster is making good as a director for the Fox, while Reaves Eason is doing the same for the Universal.

Park Frame, who used to be an assistant, is going great at Hampton's.

Harry Schenck has just finished a picture with Jack Pratt in which he was co-director, which showed every one on the Brunton lot that Harry will soon be among the big league producers, if Father Time only brings him an opportunity.

Art Flaven can be expected to attend meetings from now on, for the last episode of the James W. Horne serial is finished, and Art will leave some one to look after his pigs and chickens at the time of the next meeting and be present. Just as I was about to leave, Mr. Watt called a halt and chirped: "Don't overlook seeing the entertainment committee; they will have something interesting to tell you about the big dance that is coming off the last of next month."

Chester Bennett, who, outside of being James Young's assistant, is a paid-up member of the club, started in with the following: "James Young leaves Sunday for New York City, where he will direct one of Myron Selznick's stars, and wanted me to go along with him, but the Vitagraph offered me more money to stay here, and I was between two fires. As I like Jimmy so well, I hated to leave him," etc. "But what about the dance the A. D. A. is going to give? That's what interests me right now." And like a diplomat Chester replied: "Oh, yes, that is what you wanted to know, and as chairman of the committee I can't say anything more about it till the netx meeting. Then we'll all say something about it." Where's Allen Watt?

In order to be listed in this column, it is necessary that you be sufficiently well known locally that there shall be no doubt as to your ability to play the parts for which you are listed. If you have not appeared in the films recently, it will be necessary to bring proof that you have successfully filled the part under which you wish to be listed.

This precaution is taken as a safeguard for this paper and for the people who are capable. Further, this precaution has been suggested to us by casting directors, as the column was inaugurated chiefly for their information.

Abbreviations: Characters (ch.); Heavies (hv.); Juveniles (juv.); Foreign (for.); Ingenues (ing.).

Changes in this column must be reported to the office of CAMERA! not later than Friday of each week.

Charge for listing, including change each week, is $1.00 for two months.

Style Accents

By Vigee

Seeing is believing, so we strutted along the famous board walk at Atlantic City; we dined and wined at several noted cafes; attended the dance in the evening at one of the internationally famous hotels, and dropped into the fascinating tea rooms, each place giving out its own inspiration of what wilady is wearing.

On the "walk" a bright blue Georgette crepe cape, artistically shirred and puffed, with alternate bands of dark fur, caught our eye. The fur also formed a deep yoke. Several smartly gowned women were wearing the "skin choakers," while a few wore the flat animal skins.

We felt the impression brown has made this season, not so much in suits and frocks, as in the wrapped tulle hats. Whispers came from everywhere that fall would bring winder skirts,—and in the same breath it was mentioned that they would also be shorter. Of course, the first indication of fullness will be disguised in some way, for instance there were several pleated skirts in a late showing from Paris, while others concealed the fullness in the drapery.

At the dance was a Jenny model in orchid taffeta, which was wired at the bottom of the tunic, making it stand out in contrast to the narrow underskirt. An Oriental note was conspicuous in a charming frock of canary crepe. Many of the young girls wore dainty dresses of organdie and taffeta combined in a variety of ways, one of the most novel being appliqued flowers of the taffeta. These dresses were adorable and gave a fairy-like appearance to the ballroom.

One well dressed woman was telling her companion of a blouse she had just received from a very exclusive shop. It was of navy Georgette, with a pond lily design painted by hand. Oh, yes! and she said this same box contained the daintiest chemise of Dolly Varden printed chiffon posed over a solid color of canary.

After all, individuality is really the secret of smart dressing, and the woman who wears a frock or bonnet not because STYLE has placed her mark of approval upon it, is the woman who looks attractively lovely.

AT JAMES MITCHELL STUDIO

An informal dance was held in the James Mitchell Studio, at Hollywood boulevard and Cahuenga avenue, last Tuesday evening, under the patronage of the Hollywood Dug Out and the Studio Club.

The hostesses were Mrs. Virginia Lee Corbin, Mrs. Christian Lynwood, Mrs. S. Prager, Mrs. Frederick Crow, Mrs. R. Mitchell, Mrs. J. E. Ware, and Mrs. Chapin.

During the evening an exhibition fox-trot was presented to the guests by Mr. James Mitchell and Miss Florence Prager.

These dances will be held every Tuesday and Friday during the summer, as a get-together party for Hollywood screen folk.

The big feature of the next dance will be an original emotional dance act by little Miss Virginia Lee Corbin, the little Fox star. In addition valuable prizes will be awarded in dancing contests, and there will be funny lucky spot awards.

The James Mitchell Studio is being conducted with the co-operation of the Dug-Out and the Studio Club.

MEETING OF EX-SERVICE MEN

A mass meeting of ex-soldiers, sailors and marines will be held under the auspices of the Allied World War Veterans in the James Mitchell Studio, at 6380 Hollywood Boulevard, on July 3, at 8 o'clock.

At this meeting the sub-charters will be presented to the Hollywood Branch of the Veterans, and also the Ladies' Auxiliary.

Prominent speakers will be heard at the meeting, and the meeting will be followed by an informal dance, and the serving of refreshments.

All Hollywood ex-service men are invited to be present with their friends.

CORBIN DINNER-DANCE

In honor of her house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Craig Kinney, Mrs. Virginia Lee Corbin entertained at an attractive dinner-dance at her home, Friday evening. The house was decorated in American Beauty roses, smilax, ferns and palms, roses and ferns being used in the table decorations. Fifty guests were bidden, and the Fox orchestra furnished music for dancing during the evening. Little Virginia Lee Corbin gave one of her charming dances. Among the guests were Miss Polly Moran, Miss Juanita Hansen, Miss Virginia Warwick, Miss Josephine Lee, Miss Lucille Smith, Messrs. King Baggott, Arthur Hausman and David Morriss.

WILL GALE GO TO HEAVEN?

In a theatre where a Gale Henry comedy was recently being shown on the screen a youngster persisted in annoying his mother with questions. One he asked was:

"Mother, do movie actresses go to heaven when they die?"

"Why of course they do if they're good," replied the mother.

The youngster in deep thought hesitated speaking for a minute and then asked:

"Well, ma, will Gale Henry go to heaven?"

"Why certainly she will," again answered the mother.

"Oh, gee!" exclaimed the child, won't the Lord laugh."

SOME SERVICE

Friday, the 13th, means nothing in the life of a moving picture company or a Brunton auto driver. The company in question was the Fred Stone organization, making pictures at the Robert Brunton Sturios in Los Angeles. Mr. Stone and his troupe of coworkers were starting for Canada to make scenes for his present picture, and had taken passage on the "President" from Wilmington, bound for Seattle. The ship was due to leave the docks at 10:30 Thursday morning. An automobile, absolutely necessary to the making of the picture, was to be taken on the same steamer. Through some mishap which no one can explain, and which is immaterial now, the automobile was not on the docks at the starting time. The steamer waited twenty minutes, for the mere matter of a car? Still it did not come. And when it did come at one o'clock it quite properly found the vessel gone. Back to the studio; a hurried conference. Mr. Brunton decided the only thing to do was to send the car to San Francisco, the next port where the ship would stop. With a driver and mechanician, the car was sent to follow the steamer. The 500-mile trip was made at an average speed of twenty-five miles an hour, and they didn't spring a single break. They arrived in 'Frisco at 6 a. m. The steamship straggled in at noon. And Brunton service had won out.

Arthur Howard has a part in the Tourneur production.

May Allison and Vivian Martin spent last week at Arrowhead Springs.

Jack Mower will again act opposite Mary Anderson in the second five-reel comedy-drama to be produced for the Super-Art company under the direction of Wayne Mack.

Lois Zellner is here from Santa Barbara for several days to attend important conferences pertaining to a big feature story of hers that is soon to be produced for the screen. She is stopping at the Alexandria.

METRO PRODUCTION NOTES

By Ted Taylor

The coming week is not only a historic one in the annals of the nation in that John Barleycorn takes the count, either Willard or Dempsey is expected to do ditto, postage goes back to 2 cents and the Germans promise to sign peace, but also—

Metro Pictures Corporation begins production in Hollywood of three famous Broadway successes for release in September under the new fewer and better pictures policy.

"Lombardi, Ltd," the Oliver Morosco production written by Frederic and Fanny Hatton, and in which Bert Lytell will star under the direction of Jack Conway, is the first. June Mathis is writing the scenario, Robert Kurrle will preside at the camera and M. P. Staulcup is technical director.

"Please Get Married," also a Morosco stage success, written by James Cullen and Lewis Allen Browne, in which Viola Dana will star under the direction of John Ince, is the second. The scenario is by Finis Fox, John Arnold is the photographer and Homer I. Mesick is technical director.

"Fair and Warmer," produced by Selwyn, a play by Avery Hopwood in which May Allison will star under the direction of Henry Otto, is the third. Arthur Martinellie is the cameraman and John K. Holden is technical director.

Metro also starts production of their last program release. It is "The Four Flusher," a story by Izola Forrester and Nan Page in which Hale Hamilton will star under the direction of Harry Franklin. A. S. LeVino has written the scenario. Rudolph Bergquist will photograph the picture. All productions are under the personal supervision of Maxwell Karger.

SHADOWGRAPHS

By Chick

Director Fred Fishback has in preparation a new story which he will start the latter part of the week.

Jimmy Adams is still trying to make a get-away to Frisco for the thirsty-first.

Dan Russel worried so much over the big fight he gained thirty pounds.

Mr. Abe Sterns, one of the owners of the Century company, will continue his visit in Los Angeles for some time to come as the cool weather appeals to him. It will be just as dry in New York as in Los Angeles this summer—if it doesn't rain.

Sigmund Neufeld, manager of the laboratory at the Century studio, has been rushed with work lately, owing to the four comedy companies and the serial, so has added several new people to his cutting staff, among them Roy Iler.

Jack Holt is with Maurice Tourneur and will begin work Monday.

Rupert Julian is in the Big Bear regions on a hunting and fishing trip.

Monte Blue is playing juvenile in Robert Warwick's picture, "Missouri."

Tom Geraghty is leaving for New York on business for Marshall Neilan.

Milla Davenport is now doing a mother part with Robert Warwick at Lasky's.

Priscilla Dean and Miss M. E. M. Gibsone left Friday for Vancouver, B. C., where Miss Dean has been called to make a personal appearance on Dominion Day. They will return within a couple of weeks.

Charles R. Condon, Mabel Condon's brother, has been discharged from the service and is expected in Los Angeles soon. Before the war he was advertising film manager for the Photoplay Magazine. He will make his home with Miss Condon and his mother.

Marie Pavis has been engaged by the National to play the heavy in the serial being produced by Ben Wilson which features Neva Gerber and Ben himself. Do you remember Miss Pavis? She used to be with Fox Corporation, then Triangle, and she's as clever as they make 'em and then some.

Where to Sell Your Scenarios

This feature is for the guidance of scenario writers who have something to sell, but who do not know just where to take it. CAMERA! keeps this column for announcements by the various studios. Some of the matter stands from week to week as a reference guide. It will be noted that many of the studios do not wish scenarios submitted by any one; some want synopses only; others wisn the continuity written.

As the difficulties of the past years in regard to the submissions of scenarios no longer exist, it is safe for any one with a good idea to send scenarios to any company mentioned in this column. While this paper is not responsible for the use or misuse of scenarios by the companies listed, it believes that any scenario sent to any of the companies will receive honest and prompt treatment. Any action to the contrary will receive full publicity if reported to this office.

MABEL CONDON EXCHANGE, 6035-37 HOLLYWOOD BLVD. Buying only books, plays and magazine stories, except the work of a few authors on contract.

MOROSCO FILM COMPANY, 201 N. OCCIDENTAL. See Laskey Market.

CHRISTIE COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. In the market for one and two reel comedies. Breezy, snappy incidents must be present in a marked degree. The Christie Comedies feature Bobby Vernon, Earl Rodney, Dorothy De Vore, Jay Belasco, Ethel Lynn, Fay Tincher and Patricia Palmer. Please sumbit by mail.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA PRODUCING COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. Scott Sydney, the producer, wants one reel stories suitable for Elinor Field.

WILLIS AND INGLIS, WRIGHT & CALLENDER BLDG. Neither purchasing nor accepting on consignment any original scenarios. Handling only photoplay rights to books, plays and short stories.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS COMPANY, SUNSET AND ARGYLE. Prefers considering the original work of screen authors, having always been keen to develop those writers who showed ability.

Walter Hiers has been engaged by Lasky to support Bryant Washburn. They are up at Lake Tahoe now shooting exteriors, under the direction of Donald Crisp.

THE LIMIT!

Milburne Moranti, leading man with Gale Henry, promised a number of his friends a mess of fish when he went on his vacation. Up to date no fish have been received.

WALTHALL BACK

Henry Walthall, Director Bertram Bracken and company have returned from their picture-making tour at Lake Tahoe and other northern locations.

NEW ASSISTANT TO MANAGER

The new assistant to David Thompson, studio manager for Metro Pictures Corporation, is Fred Booth, formerly a cashier in the accounting department. He fills the vacancy left by R. T. Taaffe.

SAME FAMILY

Little Micky Moore, having finished with Dorothy Gish, is working with Pat over at the National in the Carter De Haven picture. He is portraying "Cupid" while Pat is "The Devil" in the clever domestic comedy, "Why Divorce?"

DORETY WITH BULLS-EYE

Charles Dorety, who rose from the ranks of extra man to stardom on both the Sennett and Sunshine lots, has signed contracts with Nat H. Spitzer of the Bulls-Eye Film Corporation for an indefinite number of pictures, in which he will be featured.

WHITE TO STAR

Leo White, whose delineation of the French count in many of the Charlie Chaplin comedies has won him the plaudits of millions, has signed a contract with Nat H. Spitzer of the Bulls-Eye Film Corporation whereby he will be starred in the same pictures with Harry Mann, Monte Banks, Charles Doherty and Beatrice Lovejoy.

ENTERTAINS IN NEW HOME

James Mitchell Lichen, designer at the Lasky studio, has recently purchased "Tedroof," the home of Ted Shawn, at Eagle Rock. Wednesday evening he gave a housewarming to twenty guests. A platform was erected on the lawn where a special orchestra furnished dance music. A two-course buffet supper was served in the Oriental room.

HAP WARD SPEAKS

Word has been received from Yosemite stating that Hap Ward, character comedian with the Gale Henry Comedy company, who is on his vacation there was struck by an automobile driven by a woman the first day he landed in town. The woman, it is said, alighted from her car and in a meek voice said, as she assisted him from the ground:

"Won't you tell me your name, please, so I can tell your mother?"

Ward looked up at her smilingly and replied:

"That's all right, lady; my mother knows my name."

HOTEL DANCE

The picture people who attended the weekly dance at the Hollywood Hotel last Thursday night were William Farnum, Nazimova, Pauline Curley, Wanda Hawley, Mr. and Mrs. Al Cohn, Aureatha Pickering, Olive Burton, Rex Ingraham and ack Webster.

DIRECTORS DINNER DANCE

The Directors' Association gave a dinner-dance Thursday evening (at the Hotel Alexandria. In charge of the cabaret were Douglas Gerard, Robert Vignola and S. E. V. Taylor. Mr. and Mrs. Carter de Haven danced. There were fifty members present. The Alexandria orchestra played for the dance.

INFORMAL DINNER PARTY

Billie Rhodes (Mrs. William A. Parsons), entertained a few friends at an informal dinner party recently at "Laughter Hall," the home of the Parsons. Those present were among those included in the yacht trip to Hawaii planned by Miss Rhodes, the same to take place upon the completion of "The Blue Bonnet."

BULLS-EYE TO MOVE

Having outgrown its present location the Bulls-Eye Film corporation will shortly move from the Gordon Street lot in Hollywood to a larger and better equipped studio. Three companies are now working on the Bulls-Eye releases, with three additional companies to follow.

SPAGHETTI DINNER

Lucille Humbert was hostess at a spaghetti dinner party at her home, Wednesday night. Her honor guests were Mrs. Gladys Rhodes and her father, C. B. Brown, who is visiting her from Omaha. Miss Humbert's guests were Polly Moran, Walter Worsley, Winifred Haslan, Don McCloud, George Hall, Herb King and George Stagmayer. Later in the evening they motored to Venice, where they danced until the wee sma' hours of the morning.

FOR JOHN REIDY

E. A. Meriney and the Kewpie Comedy Company gave to John Reidy a stag dinner at the Alexandria on the 26th of June. The menu cards were clever indeed, being made of motion picture magazine covers, with the menu pasted opposite a clever cartoon of John Reidy done by O. H. A. The men on hand were D. L. Stevens, Lynn S. Taylor, John Gros, T. Hannibal, J. S. King, W. M. Burg, A. F. Craig, C. H. Wemer, J. Schirk, B. Beach, A. Larry Saxe, O. H. Anderson, Guy Eakins, G. Allen Williams, Fred S. Campaige, A. F. Frankenstein and K. Butler.

Wallace Beery finished with Allan Dwan in "Soldiers of Fortune" and is now with Tourneur.

Lois Wilson is appearing opposite Bryant Washburn at the Famous-Lasky studios in "Why Smith Left Home."

Rudolph Bergquist, Hale Hamilton's cameraman, went to San Diego Sunday, returning via Riverside.

TAKES BILLY WEST'S PLACE

After six years with Universal and recently supporting Nazimova in "The Red Lantern," Harry Mann has been engaged by the Bulls-Eye Film Corporation to step into the limelight of Bulls-Eye publicity to take the place of Billy West.

BRANDT LEAVING U.

Joe Brandt, who for over seven years has been associated with Carl Laemmle and the Universal Film Manufacturing company, has announced that he has tendered his resignation to that company to take effect July 15th.

Brandt entered the motion picture business as private secretary to Carl Laemmle, when Mr. Laemmle was an independent manufacturer. At that time Mr. Laemmle, now president of the Universal Film Manufacturing company, was president of the Imp Films company.

As to his future plans, Brandt when interviewed said: "I am considering seriously of entering the producing end of the business."

Mr. Laemmle upon being interviewed said: "Our relationship has been more than friendly during the seven years Mr. Brandt has been directly associated with me, and I am indeed sorry to see him leave. I wish him the best of luck."

BY W. A. CLARK, JR.

Before leaving for Butte, Montana, Thursday, where W. A. Clark, Jr., will winter, he entertained with an elaborate dinner party at Hotel Alexandria Monday evening. The nine-course dinner was served in- a re served dining room which was specially decorated in roses and orchids. At the plate of each lady a charming basket of roses and orchids was placed. Mr. Clark's guests were those who took part in "The Merchant of Venice," a benefit for the French War Orphans, given recently at the Clark home. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. R. D. MacLean, Grace La Rue, Daisy Robinson, Arri Rothman, Julia Raylor, Will Garroway, Arthur Allen, Antrim Short, Jack Webster, Gene Oliver, Clara Horton, Aurethea Pickering, Louis Kemp, Robert Vignola, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Holding, W. Lawson Butt, Wallace Worsley, Mr. and Mrs. Wedgewood Noel, Wallace MacDonald, Emmett King, Frederick Bond, Lee Hill, Pauline Fredericks, Gertrude Short and Hale Hamilton.

Director Bill Watson is starting "Lonesome Hearts and Loose Lions" at Century, and as the lions get "looser" the hearts certainly forget their lonesomeness and seek spots where they can be much more lonely.

Pat Moore is once more busy having just completed an important part as Marguerite Clarks little brother in her present production. He is now playing for the first time with Micky, his little 3-year-old brother, with the Carter de Havens.

Sylvia Edney is rejoicing this week over the fact that her brother Cyril has arrived in Los Angeles after having been in France for over a year.

Bobby Vernon is featured in a new Christie comedy, "He Who Hesitates," which has just been completed under William Beaudine's direction. The story is by Margaret A. Taintinger. Ethel Lynne appears with Bobby.

PRODUCTION NOTES AMONG STUDIOS

WEEK BEGINNING TODAY

PRODUCTION FINISHED

Ed Mortimer has completed "The County Fair" for the Maurice Tourneur company. In this Director Mortimer was assisted by a most notable cast, consisting in part of Helen Jerome Eddy, Maxine Elliott Hicks, Edyth Chapman, William Mong, Arthur Hausman, Dave Butler and Buster Emmons. The feature will be released on the Paramount program.

SPITZER BACK

Nat H. Spitzer, studio manager of the West Coast Bulls-Eye corporation, who recently underwent a minor surgical operation, is back in harness again. He announces the following cast for the "Adventures of Mrs. O'Grady" series, now being filmed by his company: Phyllis Allen, Evans Kirk, Paddy McGuire, Blanche White, Harry S. Griffith, H. La Belle, atsy O'Byrne and Frank Ferguson. Leo White will direct.

IRENE YEAGER AT METRO

Irene Yeager is now with Viola Dana at Metro in "Let's Get Married." One day last week while in Long Beach on location little Irene did some very good water stunts, for which she is becoming noted.

SATIRE ON CURRENT EVENTS

It is said that A. L. Miller, maker of the Comedy News Screen Indigestion, is receiving bids from four eastern companies for his fifty-two releases. His pictures are a satire on current events as they might be. Mr. Miller is president and treasurer, Roy Miller of the California theater is business manager, Mrs. Lincoln Miller is vice president and Craig Hutchinson is director. They are now building their own studio in Hollywood. In the past they have rented space at Brunton's and Universal. Mr. Miller intends to picturize some of the unpublished manuscripts of his uncle, Joaquin Miller, the "Poet of the Sierras."

HALL RETURNS TO STAGE

Thurston Hall, who has been featured as leading man for Priscilla Dean and Mary MacLaren in several Universal pictures, has temporarily deserted the screen to return to his old love, the stage.

He is now appearing with Oliver Morosco's Los Angeles stock company in their presentation of "Civilian Clothes," a new comedy production by Thompson Buchanan. Oliver Morosco signed Hall up for a limited engagement only, as the latter prefers the screen to the stage, but enjoys a fling about once a year before the footlights.

SHEA MAKES CHANGE

Louis B. Mayer has engaged Billy Shea, referred to in the film game as "the boy wonder," to take charge of the cutting and assembling of all future Anita Stewart and Mildred Harris Chaplin productions. He resigned last week from the Douglas Fairbanks studio, where he directed the cutting and assembling of Doug's pictures.

EDITS FILMS AT HOME

In order to cut and edit all Christie films daily, or rather nightly, Al Christie has installed a portable projection machine in his home where he can view the previous day's work on the screen every morning before breakfast, and also devote his evenings to the very important work of assembling pictures as well as the tremendous job of reading scenarios and mapping out future productions.

David Butler is to be leading man for Mary MacLaren in "Auld Jeremiah," her newest feature, which Tod Browning is to produce from the well known magazine story by Henry C. Rowland.

S. A. LYNCH ENTERPRISES SECURE CHRISTY PICTURES

The S. A. Lynch Enterprises with office at New Orleans and Dallas, has secured the rights to Christie Specials in two reels for the entire territory of Oklahoma, Arkansas, Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi.

DOLAN AT "U"

William C. Dowlan, who directed Mr. and Mrs. Carter De Haven in their first screen production and who has also directed many successes at the Metro and Triangle studios, has returned to Universal City where he will film a six-reel special feature, "Loot," adapted from Arthur Somers Roche's well known Saturday Evening Post story.

PARROTT AT CATALINA

Prior to filming a new comedy, Charles Parrott, one of the Bulls-Eye directors, is spending several days on Catalina Island, fishing for tuna.

LOMBARDI, LTD.

Alice Lake has signed as Bert Lytell's lead for "Lombardi, Ltd." Others in the production are Juanita Hansen, Ann May, Vera Lewis, Thea Talbot, Jean Mendoze and Joseph Kilgour.

Eugene Pallette has signed a contract to play the lead with May Allison in "Fair and Warmer."

Charles Bryant will play the lead with Mme. Nazimova in the picturization of "The Hermit Doctor of Gaya."

ROWLAND SAFE

According to word received at the Metro studios, Richard A. Rowland, president of Metro Pictupres Corporation, is still in London and was not in the vicinity of Florence at the time of the earthquake, as was at first feared.

AT McCLOUD

Katherine Adams is on location at McCloud, Cal., with the Lynn Reynolds company. They have been away three weeks and expect to remain in McCloud until next week.

McMACKIN WILL PRODUCE

Archer McMackin, late of the National, where he has been directing Flannigan and Edwards, is completing plans for the production of his own comedies. Mr. McMackin expects to begin filming his first production about August 15. Prominent film people who saw the first public showing of one of the Hallroom Boys comedies, produced by McMacklin for the National, are behind the deal.

"PLEASE GET MARRIED"

Antrim Short has signed a contract with Metro to play lead for Viola Dana in "Please Get Married." Margaret Campbell plays the role of the mother and Harry Todd the father.

"THE FOUR-FLUSHER"

Ruth Stonehouse has signed as lead for Hale Hamilton in "The Four-Flusher." Others in the picture are Harry Holden, Ralph Bell, Robert Badger, Louis Fitz Roy and Effie Conlay.

INTERESTING UNIVERSAL NOTES

From Ham Beall

Two new six-reel features were put into production this week.

"Loot," the melodramatic mystery story by Arthur Somers Roche, which ran serially in the Saturday Evening ost, is being produced by William C. Dowlan, with Ora Carew and Darrell Foss as featured players.

"Auld Jeremiah," a story of the Scottish heather, by Henry C. Rowland, which appeared originally in Ainslee's magazine, is being made into a starring vehicle for Mary MacLaren. Tod Browning started on the opening scenes this week. The star will be supported by Spottiswoode Aitken and David Butler.

The final scenes were taken this week for "Jim of the Rangers," Harry Carey's latest western feature, adapted by George Hively from the novel by G. B. Lancaster. The production was directed by Jack Ford, who has made all of Carey's earlier successes. Gloria Hope heads the supporting cast.

Director Lynn Reynolds with his company returned this week from the Mt. Shasta country of Northern California, where with Frank Mayo and Kathryn Adams as his stars he has been shooting scenes for "The Brute Breaker," a stirring drama of the French Canadian logging camps. The story was written by Johnston McCulley, the well known magazine scribe.

Monroe Salisbury and supporting cast have gone to Seven Oaks in the San Bernardino mountains to film final scenes for "Sundown Trail," Salisbury's newest feature play in which he is supported by Alice Elliot and Beatrice Dominguez. Rollin Sturgeon is directing the production, which was written by J. G. Hawks, author of so many William S. Hart's best known successes.

"Crossed Trails," starring Pete Morrison and Magda Lane, was finished under George Holt's direction.

Eason will follow "Fighting Blood" with "The Fourt-Bit Man" with the same cast as before, while Holt is to direct Pete Morrison and Magda Lane in "The Heart Beneath."

James J. Corbett having completed his eighteen-episode serial, "The Midnight Man," has gone east on a two months' vacation, while James W. Horne, his director, has started on a fishing trip in the waters of the Pacific.

An entire Russian village has been built for "Common Property," the photoplay dealing with the nationalization of women in Russia, which Paul Powell is producing with Robert Andersen and Colleen Moore in the leading roles.

The closing scenes are now being taken for "Playing the Game," the Sada Cowan stage play, produced by the Henry B. Harris estate, which George Seigmann is making into a six-reel feature with Fritzi Brunette as the star. The story deals with newspaper life and the footlights.

Norman Dawn is leading a dog's life producing "The Eternal Triangle," a domestic drama as the name suggests, with canines as the only players.

Comedy activities of the week included the production of "Matrimony," by Mor W. Testa with Florence Turner and Phillip Hubbard as the stars; the finish of "The Rougher You Treat 'Em," a Lyons-Moran funfest dealing with the Bohemian shimmie; and the final cutting and titling of "Wild Lions and Loose Bandits," the third of the William S. Campbell animal comedies starring Joe the monk, Charley the elephant and Caesar the lion.

Douglas Gerrard has been added to the directorial staff and is casting about for a new story for Monroe Salisbury, whom he is to direct.

KEWPY KOMEDY KOMPANY

The Kewpy Komedy Kompany are under way and will start shooting scenes at Horsley's studio Monday under the direction of Guy Eakins, with Allen Williams as Kewpy and Charlotte Chandler as the girl in the story. This is the initial effort of the organization and Director Eakin assures us that he has lined up a top-notch story and feels certain that with Kewpy on the fun making end he will produce Class A comedies. A. H. Stuart has Eakins, who is also responsible for the Eakin, who is also responsible for the story, while Doc Cook is the photographer on the job, so there hangs the tale of the Klean Kut Komedies.

METRO PRODUCTION NOTES

By Ted Taylor

Madame Alla Nazimova is expected to start production of her next dramatic feature, a picturization of "The Hermit Doctor of Gaya," a celebrated novel of British India written by I. A. R. Wylie, about the middle of the week. Charles Bryant has written the scenario and will co-direct with Herbert Blache. Webster Cullison is Mr. Blache's assistant. Eugene Gaudio, who has photographed all of Nazimova's productions, will again preside at the magic box, assisted by Al Irving.

"Fair and Farmer," the Avery Hopwood farce that made the "green elevator cocktail" famous, will get under way Monday with May Allison starring under the direction of Henry Otto.

"Lombardi, Ltd." was begun with a notable staff of directorial officers. Bert Lytell, who is starring as the "dear, sweet Tito," has Director-General Maxwell Karger, Director Jack Conway, June Mathis of the scenario department and Technical Director M. P. Staulcup rooting for him on the camera side lines during his dramatic portrayal of the Italian hero.

"Please Get Married" was started on the seaside estate of John J. Haggarty at Long Beach last Monday, and Director John Ince, Viola Dana, Technical Director Homer T. Mesick, Art Director D. Anthony Tauszky and Cameraman John Arnold worked four days at that location. A dozen bathing girls and a large group of society extras were used, the location company totaling 56.

"The Four-Flusher," in which Hale Hamilton stars, is well under way with the direction of Harry Franklin.

FIRST SUPER ART PRODUCTION COMPLETED

The first Super Art Production, in which Mary Anderson plays the title role, "Bubbles," is now completed. Jack Connolly and Jack Mower play the leads with Miss Anderson, and Director Wayne Mack has succeeded in getting from all three their best screen work.

The old Essenay Studio, at which this picture was made, proves now too small, and larger quarters are being sought. The second story is ready, and the minute Mr. Mack and his crew are installed in a new "home," work on the second production will be commenced. Releasing arrangements for this production have not yet been officially announced.

A BALD JOKE

"Smiling Bill" Parsons was recently hit on the head by a piece of falling timber. He was temporarily stunned and a doctor was called. The M.D., seeing a line of blood around Bill's neck, arrived at the happy conclusion that it was cut and proceeded to stitch it up.

"Smiling Bill," upon coming to, discovered that two wrinkles in his rather fleshy neck were sown together!

The Best We Can Do.

The sparrow's song ain't pretty,
As everybody knows;
But he just keeps on a chirpin',
Though the cuttin' north wind blows;
What if his voice is squeaky,
Why hurl the cynic's ban?
I think we ought to praise him,
'Cause he does the best he can

Like the sparrow, though no singer,
We should strive to do our best;
One short step after another
Brings us to the mountain's crest;
And the song we try to render
May remind the other man
Of a song, both sweet and tender,
'Cause we sing the best we can.

And when all our trials are ended,
And we view the golden stran',
God's right hand will be extended,
'Cause we've done the best we can.

—O. M. Axtell

THE CRUCIFIXION OF PERSONALITY

There is something peculiarly distinctive about the work of any well-known artist, no matter what medium he uses for expression. The canvas of Murillo is easily distinguishable from that of Rembrandt or Van Dyke, even to the lay people, who are unfamiliar with the technique of the brush; nor would any one who has once read either Rex Beach or Irvin S. Cobb be liable to mistake the author, were he given a book with the title page torn off.

Probably the most striking example of this identification of the artist with his product shows in the few attempts that have been made to produce cartoons once popular on the part of one who had no agency in the original drawings. The Buster Brown series started by R. F. Outcault and finally printed in two different syndicates by two different artists, were readily identified as to their authorship by even the smallest child. What six-year-old can not recognize the difference between Charlie Chaplin and his imitators? Thus to the work of each artist is attributed a mark that for want of a better term is called personality.

Were you to sit in a theatre and watch the screening of an ordinary five-reel drama and were then asked to give the name of the director or the cameraman, it is safe to say you would be unable to do so in over two or three cases out of one hundred, no matter how familiar you might be with motion pictures. That this personal mark is absent from nearly every motion picture, is a thing to be remedied.

Production today is very much a matter of machinery, properly oiled, cut to fit, and kept going in three shifts, whenever possible. As a result, the one thing that would make pictures a work of art is killed even in its conception. The personal equation has been eliminated in all save a few cases. The exceptions lie in the personality of the actors which may be termed "star pictures," and in not over four cases with the directors. It is a safe conjecture that there are not more than four directors today whose manner of handling a subject and actors is such that their name is brought to mind during the screening of the picture.

As for the cameraman, we confess that aside from two or three instances such as the new soft focus close-up, certain back lighting and one or two peculiar methods of handling the long shots in landscape, we are totally unable to identify any one picture with a certain cameraman.

During the past few months, a loud and clamorous howl has been set up on the part of producers that on and after a certain date fewer and better pictures would be the standard, and that if the public could only hold themselves for a few more weeks such contributions to motion picture art as had hitherto been undreamed of would be unrolled, and flashed upon the screen.

Thus we are prepared within the next few weeks to witness a radical change in motion pictures. But search as we may, interview every one from the extra man to the studio manager, we are unable to find out why this is to be the case.

The same system of fool proof production that has gone to make the ordinary salable picture in the past, is still to be in evidence. That the scenario department will receive the story, and write it into continuity and confer with the studio manager concerning in, and finally when it is decided to start production within the next week will call in the director who is finishing another picture this week, and hand him a copy of the script with the cast of characters already selected, the plans for the sets already drawn and most of the sub-titles written.

With this much notice the director is then expected to produce a work of art in the shortest time possible, with due respect to the heavy overhead charges and the fact that Mamie Seidlitz, the new and flashing star who leaves Broadway next week will want to use the big stage immediately on her arrival. Now, we ask you, not only in the name of art but in the name of common sense, with a system such as this in vogue, what is to raise motion pictures to a higher level?

Admit that under this system the director may be far above the average in ability, the cameraman efficient, the laboratory work expert, the star possessed of plenty of native ability, and still it is manifestly impossible to produce anything that will live, and demand return engagements for anything more than the space of a few months, unless in its very nature it is of such importance historically, or so well known a classic that its title will carry it over the imperfections of present-day systematical productions.

In the very method of its making it loses that which is required in any work of art, namely, a soul which can not be the combination of twenty-five or thirty minds, but must in its very nature be that part of one person that has been givenly freely and with a will.

With no intent to underestimate the ability of any one connected with the staff, would it not be foolish to suppose that Charlie Chaplin could not make pictures of as good a quality with a different technical force?

Suppose that D. W. Griffith might lose all of his present actors and actresses, cameraman and technical director, and still have left in his future pictures something which would differentiate them from any and all others that are screened?

Were Mildred Harris and Lew Cody essential to the fact that Lois Weber alone of all directors has been able to screen the inner sex problem in a way that has made each character a real human being, comparable to almost every member of the audience?

Has the optimism of Fairbanks been less present under the direction of Henaberry than of Dwan? Has it been the magnificent sets of de Mille pictures or exceptionally good laboratory work that have finally given them a distinguishing mark? Does Bill Hart require a certain camera or a certain scenario writer to help him in his sympathetic parts? Have each and every one of the above mentioned people put their own mark or personality into their productions and thus brought them into a popularity that all of the studio management and fool proof preparation in the world could not have accomplished?

Why pay a man a salary of $750 a week and then tie his hands behind him? It would be a far better and much more economical to have the scenario or production department dictate the direction and have it used later on the set by means of a phonograph record.

If a man is worth $750 a week, he should also be worth leaving alone. If he can not be let alone and left to put his own personality into the productions then he is not worth the $750 a week. Likewise a boy or young woman might be given the job of turning the crank on the camera for all the difference that is apparent today in productions of the better class.

Occasionally a director breaks loose from the system and with a little financial backing turns out a pitcure. Needless to say, it is HIS picture. First of all he had his heart in it, he had it worked out in his own mind as something he really wanted to do, and he picked the different parts in the way best suited to his own style, and method of production. Aside from attempts by men who had not the ability to make a picture, those who are sufficiently interested to investigate will find that these cases of free lance production have nine times out of ten been highly successful.

With the average program release any success it attains is usually attributed to the star, any failure is usually charged up against the director, and when his account is overcharged they pin it onto the cameraman.

Thus we question, not in the point of criticism, but for lack of actual information, why "with no apparent change from past methods are the fewer pictures to be so much better?"

EXCHANGE CLERKS STRIKE

CHICAGO, July 2.—One hundred and fifty members of the Film Exchange Shipping Clerks' and Helpers' Union went on strike today for a minimum wage of $40 a week. Sixteen of the largest moving picture exchanges in the city are affected.

FREDERICK MONTAGU DIES

Frederick Montagu died suddenly Thursday night. He had been feeling badly some time, but recently seemed to have recovered. Thursday night he suddenly became sick again and was huried to a hospital, where he soon expired. The cause of death has not been determined.

During the six or seven years he had been in motion pictures with Lasky, Universal and Fox. His last engagement was with William Farnum.

Mr. Montagu was about 58 years of age. He leaves a wife, Maurine Montagu, and a brother and sister in England.

ROAD BULLETIN

Chinquapin-Glacier Point Road—Although heavy grades ranging from 10 to 20 per cent will be encountered for about the first four miles, the roadbed is good and is being dragged often.

Mariposa Big Trees—This road is 6.3 miles off main road between Miami Lodge and Wawona. Road very dusty and a little rough in places to the entrance, due to excessive travel. Road through grove good.

Tioga Road—Although several machines have come through in the past few days, this road is not advisable until officially opened, which will probably be the end of this month.

SOCIAL FRICASSEE AND CAPER SAUCE

BY FLORENCE PORTER PARKS

OVER WEEK-END

Lou Tellegen and Geraldine Farrar have arranged a delightful party for this week-end beginning with an early departure by motor from the Goldwyn Studios Friday morning, a picnic luncheon en route to Santa Barbara where they will stop until Monday at the Belvedere, returning in time to begin work on their second production that afternoon. Accompanying them are Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Decker of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hilburn and Norbert Lusk.

AT THE BELVEDERE

Margarita Fisher gave a supper party at the Belvedere Hotel Thursday night prior to the dance given weekly by the hotel. Miss Fisher wore a stunning opalescent gown and carried a bright blue ostrich fan. Present at the supper party were Mrs. Kate Fisher, Dorothy Fisher, Beatrice Van, S. E. Zive, George L. Cox, Harry Hilliard and George E. Periolat.

AN IRISH DINNER

Mrs. Lee Moran gave an Irish dinner Monday night in honor of her husband's birthday, at their home in Ridgewood Place. The table was prettily decorated in green, crepe paper shamrocks held salted almonds while green novelty favors were also at each place. Silver candlesticks with fancy green candles were on the four corners of the table, and a great green candy heart centered the birthday cake. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ben Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Caulfield and Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Lyons.

PICNIC OVER THE FOURTH

Gladys Rhodes gave a picnic party on the Fourth at Balboa Beach. Those in the picnic group were Mr. and Mrs. Crescy, Myrtle Smith, Lucille Humbert, C. B. Brown from Omaha, Morey Freeman from San Francisco, George Hall, Herbert King, Winnie Haslam and Walter Whorley.

POLLY MORAN ENTERTAINS

Polly Moran gave a party at the King George Monday night of last week. Her dinner guests were Mr. and Mrs. Slim Summerville, Ted Stagmyer, Lucille Humbert and George Hall.

"SMILING BILL" HAS PARTY

"Smiling Bill" Parsons was host at a Fourth of July luncheon given to the numerous attaches of the National studio. Everything in the nature of good "eats" was very much in evidence, and all concerned had a most enjoyable time.

Up to the minute fight returns were also an added feature and caused no little excitement.

FOR MISS LOVE

Bessie Love, who with all her picture work found time to be graduated from the Los Angeles High School, June the twentieth, was made the honor guest at a dinner party given by her parents that evening. The Love home, which is situated in Laurel Canyon, was beautified with the wild flowers of the canyon. Twenty guests enjoyed the seven course dinner, and after dinner an orchestra supplied by the Southern California Music House, played for an informal dance. Miss Live's gift from her parents was an ivory bedroom set, which she discovered in her room when she returned from the studio.

PRESENTATION AT GAMUT CLUB

Marion Shipp, who is training girls for studio work, presented recently at the Gamut Club some remarkably fine interpretative dancing by the pupils of her Virgil avenue studio. Great credit should be given Miss Shipp for the excellent arrangement of the ballets. Special mention is due the Misses Mary Mayer, Ruby Hammer and Dorothy Davidson.

WEEK-END AT CORONADO

Mary MacLaren and Katherine MacDonald, with their mother and sister, spent the week-end at Coronado. Because of Independence Day the family added an extra day to their little vacation. They left Los Angeles Friday morning and returned late Saturday evening, after visiting friends at the southern island.

AT CATALINA

Harold Lloyd and the members of his company were at Catalina Island for "the Fourth," and remained over the week-end. Their trip was not all celebration for they shot several scenes on their new picture. Mildred Davis, the comedy star's new leading lady, Director Hal Roach and Marie Mosquini were a few of the others who enjoyed the days of work and play.

STUDIO CLUB SOCIAL

Tuesday, July 8th, will be Studio Club night at the Mitchell studio, and the screen world will be out in force for the occasion. Little Miss Virginia Lee Corbin, the little Fox star, will give one of her delightful original dances. Also this will be the night of the prize waltz contest. In view of the great number of stars that are going to enter the contest this dance will be of greater interest than any of the previous competitions. Numbers are being awarded in the Lucky Spot and prize dances which will be used the latter part of the month in the drawing for the big prize, a beautiful moleskin scarf.

The hostess for the evening will be Miss Edna Harris, secretary of the Studio Club of Hollywood, and she will be assisted in her work by a bevy of beauties from the motion picture studios.

MARJORIE DAW

By Florence Porter Parks

By Florence Porter Parks

Haven't you noticed that many people you meet symbolize some one thing; they associate themselves in your mind with a season of the year; some strain of music, a conflagration or an idyllic legend?

Marjorie Daw typifies the Future, she is a happy, joyous nymph, straining eagerly forward on tiptoe to peep over the brink of a happy today into the beautiful expanse of a lovely tomorrow.

There is a certain vampire whom one associates with the Past, with the dust of the disintegrating Sphynx of the Rameses clinging to her sensuous robes, and the eternal landscape of the past passing in deep retrospection before her heavy, knowing eyes.

Marjorie Daw is filled with an eager anticipation, a glorious expectation, and the past seems to be entirely disassociated from her. She sees only what is ahead, the yesterday is forgotten in the tomorrow. Her bubbling personality rhymes with a clean, wholesome joyousness.

The only sorrow that has touched Marjorie was the death of her mother about a year ago. Her mother's death left Marjorie and her fifteen-year-old brother, Chandler, alone. He is her adviser on all weighty matters, and his views, especially on the clothes his sister should and should not wear, are very decided. A daily conference between the two is not unusual. He sees all of the productions in which she takes part, and expresses himself forcefully thereon.

Marjorie likes best the inspiring, constructive pictures rather than those that are destructive. The little idealist, of high grade ideals reasoned seriously: "I think that it is a shame to destroy the ideals of young people, it is as painfully disillusioning and disappointing as when you found out that dear fatherly Santa Claus whom you had grown to love was none other than a man-member of the family, or a beau of your aunt's dressed in the familiar red suit with the cotton-fur trimming. The reindeer, Santa, his sleigh, and all just fell kerbang, and your first wonderful ideal lay broken at your feet.

"One of the very loveliest pictures I think is 'Daddy Long Legs,' with light happy scenes shifting suddenly to pathos. It is so filled with a happy imagination, with its lights and shade, and sunshine and shadow."

About four years ago Marjorie Daw was studiously bending over her books at the Westlake School, with her curls sweeping the paper before her. She loved motion pictures then, but the idea that she might become a part of the big industry never entered her pate. She had a friend who was doing bits on the Lasky lot, and it was a most exciting day when Marjorie accompanied her friend to the studio one day. While she strained her eyes wide so as not to miss a single detail, Cecil B. de Mille's eyes were studying her. Out of a clear sky she was given the part of Betty Warren in "The Warrens of Virginia," the part that Mary Pickford made her first hit in, with David Belasco.

After that production she was signed by the Lasky company for two and a half years. Douglas Fairbanks borrowed her for two pictures and by the time they were completed her Lasky contract had expired, so she was signed by Fairbanks, with whom she made eight pictures. She will finish with Mr. Fairbanks the fifteenth of July, and will begin work immediately with the First National Exhibitors, under the direction of Marshall Neilan. The first picture will be a western picture. Miss Daw loves horseback riding and swimming, and on that account she is somewhat partial to western pictures.

When asked what quality or qualities she thought contributed most to screen success she replied that in her mind, undivided interest, application, attention to details, punctuality and a sense of humor were quite necessary to screen success.

As a final word anent charming little Marjorie Daw, she was born in Colorado Springs. Mark Twain and James Matthew Barrie are her favorite writers, and that she reads them is evidenced by the splendid collection of their books in her room at the Studio Club where she makes her home.

ENTERTAINS CLUB

Mrs. Richard Schayer was hostess Thursday to her bridge club which is composed of some of the young social matrons of the city. It is the custom of the club to serve luncheon at one, after which bridge is played until five. Those present were Mesdames Guy Price, Tod Browning, Lloyd Ingraham, Peggy Urson, Juanita Hansen, David Butler, Smith and Thurston Hall.

HIKE UP MT. SAN JACINTO

Thursday Jay Chapman, Rene Rivierre and Arthur Rivierre left by motor for Cabazone, from where they hiked up the north side of Mt. San Jacinto. They camped along the trail and will return some time Monday.

BABY MARIE VACATIONS

Baby Marie Osborn finished "Little Ginger Snap" about ten days ago, at the Balboa studios, and is now vacationing at her beach home. Last summer she spent a month or so at Del Mar, but this summer she will have a rest of a couple of weeks before starting her next picture. Her director, William Bertram, is also spending his vacation in Long Beach. Baby Marie has a new pet, it is a snow white lamb, and with the novelty of swimming lessons, she will be kept quite busy until the next production takes her attention.

CELEBRATES NATAL DAY

Mr. and Mrs. Burritt Mills by way of celebrating Mrs. Mills' birthday Saturday week, gave a supper party and informal dance at their home in Vine street. A huge birthday cake with a great bottle of gin imbedded in the center of it, held the undivided interest of the guests. Some of course were more interested than others. Many lovely gifts of flowers and bon bons were presented Mrs. Mills by her guests. Mrs. Mills will leave for San Francisco the third on a shopping expedition, and it is her intention to remain about ten days.

AT THE MURRAY HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Murray, whose home in South Hoover street is thrown open many times each week to their many friends, had as their honor guest at dinner Monday night Mr. Jekyl Lenoy, who was associated with Mr. Murray at the Old Biograph studio. Those at the table were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kipper, Mr. and Mrs. Joe McDermott, Dad Murray and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Murray. Mr. Lenoy is stopping at the Hollywood Apartments. Saturday evening of the past week Mr. and Mrs. Murray entertained at dinner Mr. and Mrs. John Powers, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kipper and Mr. and Mrs. Joe McDermott.

AT THE SHIP

The Ship Cafe at Venice, always popular with the members of the Los Angeles film colony, proved especially so last Sunday evening, when scores of the picture people took advantage of the final Sunday night supper-dance before the much heralded "thirsty-first of July.

At the captain's table, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Mix entertained a group of friends, including Owen Moore and Thomas Meighan.

James Corbett also had a "ringside" table, with several guests.

The charming Lila Lee, accompanied by her chaperone, was surrounded by a merry crowd, including Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon Hamilton and Miss Kathleen Clifford.

Lew Cody, debonaire and smiling, moved from table to table renewing acquaintance with friends whom he had not seen since his return from New York, that Mecca where all film stars must needs worship occasionally.

Lottie Pickford, with an adorable little purple tam pulled over her short black curls, was dancing blithely with Mr. Kenneth Harlan. One can not doubt the genuineness of the Pickford curls when one sees Lottie's. With true Pickford pluck, she allowed her hair to be clipped closely after the operation on her head last fall, but she feels amply rewarded for her erstwhile straight hair now rivals Mary's for curliness.

At a nearby table, Larry Semon entertained guests, including Lucille Carlisle, his leading woman, and the comedy side of filmdom was also represented by Eddie Lyons, Lee Moran and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Parsons.

Other celebrities of the film world, who danced into the wee sma' hours, were Miss Juanita Hansen, Miss Mary Thurman, Miss Viola Dana, Marshall Neilan and Roscoe Arbuckle.

WHERE TO FIND PEOPLE YOU KNOW

RENEWS CONTRACT

Goldwyn has renewed its contract with Reginald Barker for a term of two years. With one of the most favorable agreements ever made between producer and director, Samuel Goldwyn signifies his appreciation of Reginald Barker's brilliant direction of pictures which have added to the prestige of Goldwyn.

Five years ago, fresh from a number of Broadway triumphs as a stage director, Barker astonished Thos. H. Ince by offering to work for nothing. From that day he has risen from the lowest salaried director in the industry to a position in which ne is generally credited as being financially in a class by himself.

It was Barker who first directed Japanese actors, the occasion being "The Wrath of the Gods" and "The Typhoon," with Sessue Hayakawa and Tsuru Aoki. It was Barker who directed the first Wm. S. Hart success, "The Bargain," and he directed the very first picture released on the Triangle program, "The Coward" and "The Iron Strain." The former raised Charles Ray to stardom. He is essentially a product of Los Angeles though born in Winnipeg, Canada.

TO HERMOSA BEACH

William Sistrom had his plans nicely arranged to spend a month or so at Big Bear, then at the last moment he changed his mind and departed for Hermosa Beach with his family where he will remain at least a month.

MANY IRONS IN FIRE

Magnus Ingleton has many irons in the fire, and all of them are red hot. The book which she has been writing called "Magdala," is completed, and is speeding eastward to a publishing house this week. She has become one of the Thomas Ince scenario staff, and within the past two weeks has turned out a story for Dorothy Dalton. And that is not all, the great library table in the Ingleton home is strewn with plans for a home to be built soon on an acre and a half of ground on the Los Felix boulevard purchased recently. The home will be patterned from an Old English studio home, such as Carlisle's home in England.

LONG-LEGGED BIBY

Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Biby will have delivered at their door this week a brand new Flivver, horn 'neverything. Everything but breaks, Sir Edward told them to remove the breaks that his bill could be discounted that amount as he didn't need them, he could just drag his legs on the ground and stop the car at will. Mrs. Biby says that she intends driving also, and we are wondering,—but then they will have to take care of their own affairs.

LITTLE THEATRE OPENS

Mrs. R. D. MacLean is to open the Little Theatre this summer for the purpose of staging Shakespearean plays, the first being "A School For Scandal," followed by "As You Like It." The theatre will be conducted much on the order of the popular Community Theatre, and many of the picture people will take an active part. Jack Webster will direct the productions.

CARL MILLER BACK

Carl Miller returned from Texas last week where he has been for the past two months attending to business which has to do with oil. He left shortly after playing Juvenile in Anita Stewart's picture "Mary Regan."

A SHORT RESPITE

William Desmond finished his picture last week, and now Mr. and Mrs. Desmond are making plans to spend two or three weeks at Catalina or Lake Tohoe, before Mr. Desmond begins work on another production.

PICK-UPS BY THE STAFF

JOINS FILM COLONY

Freda Bayard, who has been on the legitimate stage and in musical comedy for several years, has joined the Los Angeles film colony.

GARMES GOES TO MODEL

Lee Garmes has been engaged by the Model Comedy Company to act as cameraman for Gale Henry comedies. Mr. Garmes is well acquainted with the Bell and Howell, having acted as cameraman for the Dorothy Gish company in a number of the star's recent successes.

PREMIERE AT PANTAGE'S

Beginning July 7 and thereafter on alternate weeks Gale Henry comedies will have their premiere showing at Pantage's Theatre. The booking arrangements were made through the Consolidated Film Exchange.

BRANDT WITH NATIONAL

Joe Brandt, formerly with Universal for several years, has been engaged in the capacity of eastern representative for the National Film Corporation. Mr. Brandt will assume his duties in the course of a few days.

H. M. MITCHELL DIRECTING

Madlaine Traverse is working under the direction of H. M. Mitchell at the Fox Studio.

WILL REST

Gladys Brockwell is finishing a picture under the direction of Frank Beal entitled "The Sporting Chance." Upon its completion Miss Brockwell will go by airplane to Catalina for a week's rest.

STRAIGHT AND NARROW

Slim Summerville, the straight and narrow William Fox Sunshine comedian, is playing the lead in Eddie Cline's picture.

SIGN WITH GOLDWYN

Four important additions have been made to the roster of Goldwyn players. Naomi Childers, Kate Lester, Sydney Ainsworth and Herbert Standing have each signed a three-years' contract.

BOWERS RENEWS CONTRACT

John Bowers, leading man for the past year in Goldwyn Pictures, has renewed his contract and is enjoying a holiday before resuming work at the Culver City Studios.

Earl Montgomery, Vitagraph Comedy Star, Discards Fiction to Absorb Some Reliable Facts

MARC ROBBINS RESIGNS

Marc Robbins, due to ill health, has tendered his resignation as head of the scenario department of the Fox Film Corporation. Sol M. Wurtzel, general superintendent of the William Fox West Coast Studios, besides his many other duties, will take charge of this department in conjunction with his other work and will supervise all the stories that are produced at the William Fox West Coast Studios.

JOINS SCENARIO DEPARTMENT

Sheldon Johnson has joined the scenario department of the Brentwood where work on the next story to be picturized is actively proceeding under King Vidor's supervision.

LAURA WINSTON BUSY

Laura Winston, who has just lately completed the part of Mrs. Belding in "Desert Gold," has signed with Maurice Tourneur to play Mrs. Schomberg in his current production.

BETTY SCHADE WITH GOLDWYN

Betty Schade is with Pauline Fredericks under the direction of Reginald Barker. She started with Selig in the film business seven years ago.

SCOTT DUNLAP VACATIONS

Scott Dunlap, who has just finished directing Albert Ray and Elinor Fair in a story for the Fox Film Corporation entitled "Love is Love." He needed a vacation, so packing his toothbrush and mustache wax, he hied himself over to Catalina Island, where he anticipates winning all kinds of red, white and blue buttons for catching large tuna. Upon his return, Mr. Dunlap will again direct these two young stars in a new story.

FIRST SCENES OF SERIAL

Ann Little and Jack Hoxie are shooting the first scenes of the initial episode of their fifteen-episode serial, "Lightning Bryce," under the direction of Paul Hurst.

Lieutenant Glennon, former head of photopraphy at the National, is handling the camera.

GALE HENRY WORKING

Gale Henry and her company, having returned from a most enjoyable week's vacation, started work last week on her latest fun film, a mountain story. Lions and bears at Griffith Park are used for the picture and many thrilling situations are being filmed. The supporting cast includes Milburn Moranti, Hap H. Ward, Eddie Baker and Harry Lorraine. Bruno J. Becker is directing.

HENRY LEHRMAN STUDIO

The Henry Lehrman Suudios at Culver City are rapidly being brought to a point where construction is far enough advanced to permit the starting of the first Henry Lehrman Comedy within a few days. The administration building fronting Washington Boulevard will be distinctly Venetian in design. A great lake 600 feet in length will be formed in front of the property, and access to the grounds and business offices will be by means of ornamental bridges.

The first of the stages, now nearing completion, measures 100 by 250 feet; and construction plans also include the erection of an enclosed glass studio of the same dimensions.

ANENT THE MULHALLS

Jack Mulhall is making a picture with Peggy Hyland on the Fox lot, and Mrs. Mulhall is working with Bill Desmond at the Jesse D. Hampton studio this week.

OVER WEEK END

Bessie Love, Mr. and Mrs. Love and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde De Vinna left the 3rd for Big Bear, over the week-end. Mr. De Vinna is cameraman for Miss Love.

WORD FROM ROBERT GORDON

Word has been received from Robert Gordon recently, saying that he was enjoying his work in the east. He is being co-starred with Sylvia Breamer under the direction of J. Stuart Blackton producer and director of the Blackton-Paramount Productions. He has just completed his first picture, a ten-reel feature, and is starting another tentatively called "Dawn." Before her marriage Mrs. Gordon played opposite Julian Eltinge in musical comedy. She is now devoting her time to domestic duties as she and her husband are keeping house in New York.

JUANITA AT METRO

Juanita Hansen who began work at the Selig Studio the 15th of January has been loaned to Metro for a picture with Bert Lytell. She started last week.

GEORGE BEBAN HOME AGAIN

Closing an extended tour of the country which was made for the purpose of opening his first production, "Hearts of Men," with a personal appearance in leading cities, George Beban is now at home in Hollywood—"booted, spurred and ready to ride!" No time is being lost in getting to work on the second production. The story, Mr. Beban's own, is being put into continuity under the star's personal supervision.

Little Bob White (George Beban Jr.) accompanied his father.

AL GREEN LEAVES NEILAN

Alfred Green, who has been assistant to Marshall Neilan for the past year, will start as Peggy Hyland's director at the Fox studios, this week. Mr. Green was with Selig as an assistant director from 1912 to 1918, working on "The Ne'er Do Well," "The Crisis," "The Garden of Allah," and other productions. During 1917 he directed George Fawcett and Vivian Reed in a series of eight pictures.

OPENS AGENCY

Dave Allen, formerly manager of the Service Bureau, will open his own booking agency this week. Mr. Allen was assistant to Charlie Chaplin and directed Hank Mann before he became manager of the Service Bureau, about two years ago.

AT LAKE LOUISE

Charles Weelock is at Lake Louise, Alberta, playing an English heavy with Fred Stone. The company will return in about two weeks.

VIDOR FILM COMPLETED

King W. Vidor has completed the filming of another natural history of American family life which will be put out by the Brentwood under the title of "The Other Half." The director's wife, Florence Vidor, supported by Charles Meredith, represents the upper crust of society and ZaSu Pitts, supported by David Butler, has a most sympathetic role of pathos and comedy in her part as a laundry worker. Other members of the cast include Thomas Jefferson, Alfred Allen, Francis Raymond, "Mother" Anderson and Hugh Saxon.

L. S. McKee is playing the part of a sheriff with Tom Mix.

CHIT, CHAT & CHATTER OF INTEREST

BY HARRY BURNS

Hobart Bosworth was seen walking along Broadway the other day, and word was passed down the Rialto that the said Mr. Bosworth was here and going to do all sorts of things to or with some of the motion picture producing companies. Be that as it may, Hobart has made a little nook in the hearts of producers and theatergoers alike, and we dare him to come back and start something.

Roscoe Arbuckle and Buster Keaton have just returned from San Francisco where the pair motored to look the northern city over, as it was bidding good-bye to King Barleycorn, and they returned safe and sane and full of ambition to enjoy a quiet Fourth of July in our midst and read the fistic returns of a tilt in a town in Ohio where Tex Rickard was worrying about a new million he just inherited.

Bobby Vernon, who is known to be one of our classiest dressers in filmdom, is going to do another of his rural characters for Al Christie in a picture at the studio located at Gower and Sunset. Strange, isn't it, how these handsome leading men have to hide their beauty and charm behind a lot of makeup, while some tough looking creature is asked to look handsome.

Major Robert Warwick was given the honor of making the first trip in the Syd Chaplin aeroplane that is going to make southland history for putting into use such a vehicle for transportation purposes on the Pacific Coast. Once more cinema workers have shown the townspeople the way to bring the world's attention to our very doors, and how to make money, which isn't so bad, when it comes from the fertile brains of a moving picture actor. What do you think?

John T. Powers who is backing H. A. and J. P. McCarthy, is none other than Johnny Powers, the baseball magnate, who is a great sportsman, a man who will back up any project that looks good to him, and it must be on the up and up or he will refuse to carry on. So from present indications he must think that the western story that features Russell Simpson a bearcat of a production for him to put up his honest to goodness money.

Rose Mullaney has sent out a S. O. S. from the Metro studio for almost an even half dozen companies sent in a request for anything from a star to a near-great auxiliary artist, and not forgetting child wonders for good measure, and to hear Rose talk over the phone to villians, heros, inguenes, soubrettes, characters and the like of that, is to get an ear full of every lingo from this side of our grand and glorious land to the far-off Turkey. She spoke in every language but Irish. She forgot that in her excitement.

Gale Henry and friend husband returned from a hunting and fishing trip and look fit to go through a hard siege of work at the Bulls-Eye studio. From the way Gale's pictures are getting over it looks like she will be a very busy little lady, as the demand for her subjects will pile in fast and furious.

T. H. Gibson-Gowland is deserving of a world of credit for his interpretation of Capt. Hudson in "The White Heather" for he acted the part with just enough realism and knowledge of the old sea dog to make it quite entertaining. To me his work was more interesting than some of the stellar stars, while the production as a whole was a masterful manipulation of a very brilliant story, and Director Maurice Tourneur is in line for a great deal of credit, for the acting, sets and locations were superb.

Arthur Carewe is now with Universal.

Fred Granville, who photographed Allen Holubar's "The Heart of Humanity," has returned to film the next Dorothy hillips production which Director Holubar will stage.

Edward C. Thomas is publicity representative for the Henry Lehrman Comedies.

Fred McQuire is with the Louise Glaum company at the Ince studio, playing the part of an English underworld crook.

Sherwood MacDonald.. will direct Fox features..

Hank Mann received word from his manager, M. R. Schlank, who is in New York City, that he has practically closed for eight more one-reelers to go along as companions with the four he has shipped to the metropolis. Which listens good to Hank as he completed the quartet of subjects upon his release from the army, after being out of the game for over a year.

Alfred E. Green is going to the Fox corporation as a director, which means that hustling Al has decidd to sever his connection with Marshall Neilan after the pair had completed "In Old Kentucky." Sorry to see the splitup but it had to come sooner or later. So good luck to both of you.

Emmett Flynn, who directs Mary Miles Minter, paid us a visit during the sounding of the death knell for Mr. John Barleycorn, and after he had did his bit towards seeing to the funeral, he hiked back to Santa Barbara to report that he had seen another dead one buried.

Billy Bletzer returned from Lake Louise, Ont., as a vanguard of the Fred Stone company, which still remains up there. He tells me that the troupe had a great time, photographed some beautiful locations, and should be back about the time this goes to press. Billy played an excellent part in the picture and is now ready either to assist some good director or act right out in the open in some production.

Sam Woods reports that the Cecil B. DeMille company had a wonderful trip and that they were very successful in making the scenes at Santa Cruz Islands. I had to look at him twice to make sure it was our old pal Samuel, for he was brown as a berry from the rays of Old Sol burning him up while he rambled about seeing to the wants of the big chief.

Abe Alt is around hunting for all sorts of animals for the next Fred Fishbach super-de luxe comedy that is to be started the first of the week, and while Abe is worrying over such pets he is around with a chip on his shoulder, for he claims the last picture they made was a top-notch subject.

Leon Kent is directing Franklyn Farnum at Selig's in a series of two-reel western subjects. This is a sort of a comeback for Farnum, who had deserted our fair filmland for other fields of endeavor.

Charles Stallings, who works at the Goldwyn studio, is the same good-natured chap who bade his friends goodbye a wee short time ago when America slipped across the high seas and licked the country they used to call Germany. Well, boys, he helped to finish the job and he's back.

Ward La Scelle has been so busy over at Brunton's that he didn't even get a chance to bid Mr. John Barleycorn good-bye before he departed from our grand and glorious land. That is the worst punishment I could wish on my worst enemy, and since Ward is my pal, I don't mind mentioning it.

Eugene De Rue says that Lyons and Moran are making pictures so fast that it would take Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker in his fastest aeroplane to keep ahead of 'em. They are speed burners, laugh getters and the hardest workers in the game, is the way Gene puts it, and that about tells the tale.

Chester Bennett, Dame Rumor has it, will shortly take up the directorial reins of Earle Williams. This was as much as hinted in Chester's own statement in last week's Camera! when he spoke about staying with the Vitagraph in preference to going East with James Young, whom he assisted in the direction of Mr. Williams.

Harry Tenbrook has been to San Diego and back again with Allan Dwan, who is making "A Soldier of Fortune." Harry reports that Jimmy Hogan did wonderful work in handling the big scenes down south, in one of which there were 10,000 people, two regiments of cavalry and any number of anxiliary things to worry about. The company went to Santa Barbara Tuesday to film the Fiesta that was scheduled to take place there. Mr. Tenbrook says further that Art Rosson is handling one part of the company, while Mr. Dwan is doing his share with the other half. This calls for tw oassistants. James Hogan is one of them, while he answers to the cognomen of the other. Fair enough.

James W. Horne has severed his connections with the Universal, 'tis said. and will take a trip to Catalina, where he will take a much needed rest, and when James J. Corbett returns to the Southland there is no doubt but Mr. Horne will be a much sought man, for the ex-world's champion thinks that Director Horne stands in a class by himself and will no doubt insist on having him make the next serial that is scheduled to be started out at the Big U the first of next month.

Jack Richardson finished his picture with Jack Pratt at Brunton's studio and was immediately cast to work opposite Texas Guinan in a two-reel western subject directed by Francis Grandon. Upon completing this story he returns to Brunton's for another picture under the eagle eye of Jack Pratt.

Art Flaven will soon be directing two-reel western stories for the Universal, if all reports are true, for his right-hand pal and director, James W. Horne, whom Art has served as an assistant, informed him that he had talked with Mr. Carl Laemmle on this matter and that all is assured. That is what I call appreciation of one man's services to another. How many directors in the profession today would go that far for their assistant, especially when they themselves were quitting an organization.

George Crone has been engaged to handle Director Lloyd Ingraham at Brunton's, where the latter is directing the screen destinies of Peggy May. Leave it to George to handle things satisfactorily to everybody concerned.

Rex Hodge has been offered a good job with Douglas Gerrard at the Big U, where the former Universal director returns for a series of stories in which 'tis said he will act both as star and director.

Sam Kaufman, who has worked in almost every studio in town, has cast his lot with the Vitagraph, where he is doing funny stunts and antics for the Montgomery and Rock organization.

Scott Sidney slipped out to the Universal, planted some castus trees out in the middle of their western street, and pulled a lot of stunts, with Fay Tincher as the star. Automobiles stopped outside of the Big U and their owners looked every which way to see where the riot was coming from. But one kind employee of the studio assured the crowd that it was only Scott Sidney directing one of his polite Christie comedies. So there was no need sending for the National Guard to defend Cahuenga Pass. This seemed to be a satisfactory explanation, and activities continued along the road.

Syd Chaplin and his funny moustache shaved off the other day because when riding in those mile a second sky trolleys one runs into many a close shave and besides appearing in Paramount comedies one must look spick and span and not like a slapstick manakin.

Harold Lloyd, who appears in Pathe Fun Films, has been taking advantage of the many street locations at the Universal studio and is getting to be a regular patron of that plant. It is getting to be a daily habit with Hal E. Roach, president of the Rolin, to rent something or other from that organization.

William D. Taylor is with the Morosco Producing Company and has Tommy Walsh as his right hand bower. Mr. Taylor has served Uncle Sam and is now ready to do his bit for himself and has the good wishes of his many friends, who figure William D. some director.
rector Holubar will stage.

IN HUCKLEBERRY FINN

Misses Fay Lemport, Esther Ralston and June Delight are cast as the three Wilkes sisters in "Huckleberry Finn," which is being filmed at the Morosco studios under the direction of Wm. D. Taylor.

VALENTINO WITH DOROTHY

Rodolph Valentino is playing the juvenile part opposite Dorothy Gish.

DOINGS OF ASSISTANT DIRECTORS ASSOCIATION

By Harry Burns

Do directors and assistants give each other the due consideration? asks one of my weekly readers of this colmeumn, in a letter I have right before me and that gives me just enough food for thought, and I don't mind taking up this subject as my topic for this week's story.

To commence with, let me say that the director who so feels his importance that he figures his assistant is just a brainless chap who is to act as his office boy, soon finds out that the most ignorant boy is liable to sometimes say the brightest things, and when he is about ready to listen he finds himself all wrong. But the director who takes his right-hand bower into his confidence and treats him as if he were really a human being, breathes an air of contentment which those about him absorb, and the greatest harmony and co-operation exist in that company.

On the other hand, as soon as a director disrespects his assistant and doesn't give him the consideration due, neglects to consult him on such matters which concern him, and through which he should be in the know, he is paving the way for all others connected with the company to do likewise, for they feel that if the assistant isn't considered capable enough for the director to entrust with such knowledge or information, then they shouldn't even think of such a thing; and there lies the root of all the trouble that sometimes exists between the director and his assistant, and it usually leads to a world of trouble for both the producer and his aide. Show me a successful director and I will have no trouble pointing out the good feeling that he and his assistant hold toward one another, and what a great help they are to simplify everything that they do in the making of a picture. Each is as essential as are the star, cameraman and technical director. A director wouldn't think of going over the head of any of these individuals. Then why not give the assistant director just as much consideration? He has it coming to him, and, from what I have seen and heard, he is getting it. Come again, kind reader.

In order to be listed in this column, it is necessary that you be sufficiently well known locally that there shall be no doubt as to your ability to play the parts for which you are listed. If you have not appeared in the films recently, it will be necessary to bring proof that you have successfully filled the part under which you wish to be listed.

This precaution is taken as a safeguard for this paper and for the people who are capable. Further, this precaution has been suggested to us by casting directors, as the column was inaugurated chiefly for their information.

Abbreviations: Characters (ch.); Heavies (hv.); Juveniles (juv.); Foreign (for.); Ingenues (ing.).

Changes in this column must be reported to the office of CAMERA! not later than Friday of each week.

Charge for listing, including change each week, is $1.00 for two months.

Casting Directory

Copyright Applied For.

In order to be listed in this column, it is necessary that you be sufficiently well known locally that there shall be no doubt as to your ability to play the parts for which you are listed. If you have not appeared in the films recently, it will be necessary to bring proof that you have successfully filled the part under which you wish to be listed.

This precaution is taken as a safeguard for this paper and for the people who are capable. Further, this precaution has been suggested to us by casting directors, as the column was inaugurated chiefly for their information.

Abbreviations: Characters (ch.); Heavies (hv.); Juveniles (juv.); Foreign (for.); Ingenues (ing.).

Changes in this column must be reported to the office of CAMERA! not later than Friday of each week.

Charge for listing, including change each week, is $1.00 for two months.

STYLE ACCENTS BY VIGEE

Women are spending more time out of doors these days and the tendency is to provide garments for occasions which require the sports type of clothes. Consequently there is a diversified line of conservative yet novel sports clothes ranging from light and dark tweeds in full length motor coats, some of which are leather trimmed.

This line also includes three-piece sports costumes in high class afternoon suits of cloth and silk combinations, also of duvetyn and silk knitted sports fabric. In navy blue the knitted silk is used for skirt cuffed with tan duvetyn, high band collar, belt and pocket pipings on the duvetyn box sports coat, and for a sleeveless cape trimmed with the cloth. There are flapped patch pockets on the cape and a novelety bar through a ring fastens the crushed girdle on the skirt.

Plain and brushed angora trims are prominent on either types of sports clothes, a navy taffeta cape having large buff color collar and bottom border of it. Capes and coats of chanella cloth are so treated also. Separate coats of varied length made of silk poplin, also show the angora.

Other numbers in Tuxedo effects with string tie belts are of faille and a new brocaded poplin. One of bright cherry red has white angora cuffs and semi-attached Tuxedo collar which may be used as a scarf throw, the ends beeing weighted with combination ornaments. A new touch on some is the Tuxedo rever made of hand crocheted angora in filet designs

Jaunty boleros of black velvet with sleeveless guimpes of pin tucked and lace trimmed Georgette are worn with white silk knitted skirts.

Finger-tip length velvet jackets are being worn with white checked velour skirts.

Plain duvetyn box coats are good with checked skirts cuffed to match the coat in brown and white combinations.

Pongee and rajah suits are also being shown this summer.

Another summer novelty is the drop stitch knitted silk slipover smock of quite some length, with a wide border of black and white checked brushed angora to match the collar and band on loose sleeves.

AT IT AGAIN!

Isador Bernstein, production manager of the National Film Corporation, received a very painful injury a few days ago when he ran a spike in his foot. Mr. Bernstein was showing a beautiful young lady the many sights of the studio and failed to pay sufficient attention to the debris under foot.

GOLF TOURNAMENT

Victor Schertzinger and Rex Taylor of Goldwyn's carried off the honors of the first match in the golf tournament which the Brentwood film people got up "for the good sport and good fellowship" of lovers of golf at the different studios, and held at the Brentwood Country Club Saturday and Sunday. James Harrison of Christie's won the first morning's "booby" prize for highest gross score and his handicap of 34 with a total score of 126 reflected favorably on the handicaper's work

As CAMERA! goes to press Roy Marshal and Joe Morgan of Brentwood stood high for the afternoon match with Wallie Reid, George Melford and Ed Mitchell of Lasky's yet to be heard from.

Mr. Davis, the secretary of the Country Club, had his most attractive rooms prepared for a capacity crowd for the dinner-dance and the first day's play offered big promise of still closer contests in the Sunday matches.

Among the prizes were silver cups, clubs and golf balls from Mrs. Francis J. Heney, Roy Tufts, B. H. Dyas Co., C. A. Stavnow, O. C. Kingsley, George Cline, the Mead Press and a merchandise order from Alexander & Oviatt.

CHARLIE SUBSCRIBES

Week of June 23rd Charlie Chaplin received the following cable addressed to him at his studio at Hollywood:

"Will you please cable appeal to go to all picturegoers asking them to support Victory Loan to their utmost and give reasons.

"SYDNEY WALTON,
"Director of Victory Loan Propaganda, London, England."

As Charlie Chaplin had been absent from the studio for some days and his whereabouts was an entire mystery to even his personal staff, his studio manager, Alfred Reeves, had to get some sleuth work on before the missing one was finally located at Catalina. The chase of the tuna had proven irrestible but the absentee was located in time to get the message, which follows:

"Sydney Walton, London, England.

"The victory accomplished by the soldiers of the people must be upheld by the support of the people. Invest in Victory loan. Please subscribe for me five thousand pounds.

"CHARLIE CHAPLIN."

WAR VETERANS MEET

The Allied War Veterans held a mass meeting for ex-service men at the James Mitchell studio on Thursday, July 3. Prominent speakers preceded the presentation of the charters to the Hollywood Chapter and the Ladies' Auxiliary.

James Mitchell has donated his studio on Monday, July 7, for a meeting of all ex-service men who are now engaged in the motion picture industry. Mr. Duncan of the Fox studio is in charge of the affair.

Mrs. Merideth Woodward and Mr. Mitchell are making the final arrangements for a big masque dance to be held at the studio in the near future in honor of Hollywood's ex-service men. Definite plans will be announced shortly.

EVERY MAN IN INDUSTRY

A. B. W. Hodges and James W. Hum of the Brentwood Film corporation are deep in the details of a golf tournament open to every man connected in any capacity with the moving picture industry here. They claim that many of the best golfers in the city are picture people and through their membership in the Brentwood Country Club, Messrs. Hodges and Hum are arranging dates for playing qualifying rounds and final matches on the links of that club early in July believing that good sport and closer friendship between studios will thereby result. Several silver cups will be put up as prizes and entries are now being received by Mr. Hum, from whom all particulars can be obtained.

Where to Sell Your Scenarios

This feature is for the guidance of scenario writers who have something to sell, but who do not know just where to take it. CAMERA! keeps this column for announcements by the various studios. Some of the matter stands from week to week as a reference guide. It will be noted that many of the studios do not wish scenarios submitted by any one; some want synopses only; others wisn the continuity written.

As the difficulties of the past years in regard to the submissions of scenarios no longer exist, it is safe for any one with a good idea to send scenarios to any company mentioned in this column. While this paper is not responsible for the use or misuse of scenarios by the companies listed, it believes that any scenario sent to any of the companies will receive honest and prompt treatment. Any action to the contrary will receive full publicity if reported to this office.

MABEL CONDON EXCHANGE, 6035-37 HOLLYWOOD BLVD. Buying only books, plays and magazine stories, except the work of a few authors on contract.

MOROSCO FILM COMPANY, 201 N. OCCIDENTAL. See Laskey Market.

CHRISTIE COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. In the market for one and two reel comedies. Breezy, snappy incidents must be present in a marked degree. The Christie Comedies feature Bobby Vernon, Earl Rodney, Dorothy De Vore, Jay Belasco, Ethel Lynn, Fay Tincher and Patricia Palmer. Please sumbit by mail.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA PRODUCING COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. Scott Sydney, the producer, wants one reel stories suitable for Elinor Field.

WILLIS AND INGLIS, WRIGHT & CALLENDER BLDG. Neither purchasing nor accepting on consignment any original scenarios. Handling only photoplay rights to books, plays and short stories.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS COMPANY, SUNSET AND ARGYLE. Prefers considering the original work of screen authors, having always been keen to develop those writers who showed ability.

NATIONAL FILM COMPANY, 6107 SANTA MONICA BLVD. In demand for 5-reel comedy-dramas featuring "Billie" Rhodes. Also 2-reel comedies for "Smiling Bill" Parsons, and 5-reel heavy dramas for Henry Walthall, and 2-reel comedies for the de Havens, with domestic situations.

VITAGRAPH COMPANY, 1708 TALMADGE ST. The company buys no scenarios in the West, the same being taken care of by the Eastern Vitagraph Company at East Fifteenth and Locust avenue, New York.

DAVID WARK GRIFFITH occasionally buys synopses suited to Mr. Griffith's people and style. Stories should be submitted to M. M. Stearns, 4500 Sunset Blvd.

FOX STUDIO, SUNSET AND WESTERN. The company has its own staff writers, but will consider comedy-dramas and straight dramas with a strong love element. Also Western comedy-dramas for Tom Mix. Nothing less than 5 reels.

METRO, 1025 LILLIAN WAY. Maxwell Karger is manager of productions and June Mathis is head of the scenario department. Outside material is also considered. Good live American stories with a melodramatic touch for Bert Lytell. Comedy-romances of a lighter nature for May Allison. Snappy melodramas for Hale Hamilton; comedy-romances and comedy-dramas for Viola Dana, and dramas that are typically Nazimova for Nazimova.

WILLIAM HART STUDIO, 1215 BATES ST. Maintains no scenario department, but manuscriptts for Bill Hart will be considered. The stories must not take Mr. Hart out of his characterization, but they must have new ideas, a different twist. Pays upon acceptance.

GOLDWYN PICTURE CORPORATION, CULVER CITY. Will consider good comedies for Mabel Normand; ingenue roles having a touch of pathos, for May Marsh; ingenue roles that are rather fantastic, for Madge Kennedy; strong emotional dramas for Pauline Frederick; 5-reel comedies for Tom Moore; strong emotional dramas for Geraldine Farrar. Nothing under 5 reels.

THE AMERICAN FILM COMPANY, SANTA BARBARA, CAL., is in the market for five-reel photoplays suitable for either male or female leads; also for strong stories requiring balanced casts. Arthur J. Zellner is head of the Scenario Department.

THOMAS H. INCE COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Buys no outside material except from well-known writers on contract. Has own staff writers.

BRUNTON STUDIOS, 5341 MELROSE AVE. Scenarios for the following companies may be addressed to R. B. Kidd, Scenario Editor, or to the individual companies.

TOURNEUR FILM COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Interested only inscripts of large calibre, 6 or 7 reels. No society plays and no comedy.

FATTY ARBUCKLE COMEDIES, 1723 ALLESANDRO ST. Two-reel comedies having the essentials of a good opening and a good finish, and the gags must be unusually clever.

MUTUAL FILM COMPANY, 72 WEST TWENTY-THIRD ST., NEW YORK. Will consider feature photoplays with parts suitable for Gail Kane.

BACON-PACKER FILM CORPORATION, 230 WEST THIRTY-EIGHTH ST., NEW YORK. Society dramas with women leads are needed.

ANITA STEWART CO., 4634 SANTA MONICA BLVD. In the market for 5-reel society dramas for Anita Stewart.

CHAPLIN STUDIO, 1420 LA BREA. Buys no outside material. Charlie Chaplin writes his own scripts.

PALMER ADVISORY BUREAU, 571-591 I. W. HELLMAN BLDG. We market material for Palmer members and recognized writers only. Have calls for all types of stories including serials.

L-KO FILM COMPANY, SUNSET AND GOWER. Not in the market for outside material.

UNITED PICTURE THEATRES CORPORATION, BRUNTON STUDIOS. Buying only high-class stories having Eastern or Western atmosphere which have sufficient action for 6 reels. Address scenarios to William Lord Wright.

THE DOROTHY GISH COMPANY, SUNSET STUDIO, 4520 SUNSET BLVD. Is in the market for five and six reel comedy-dramas, featuring Miss Gish.

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG is in the market for straight drama; 6 reels.

JACK PICKFORD can use stories of the good-natured, small-town boy; 6 reels.

BESSIE BARRISCALE will consider strong emotional roles with the society element; also comedy-dramas; 5 to 7 reels.

FRANK KEENAN'S scenarios must contain strong, virile, masterful character delineation; 6 reels.

MAYFLOWER COMPANY, GEORGE TUCKER, All Star cast, will consider 7-reel super-features dealing with modern society.

J. WARREN KERRIGAN—Six-reel dramas with marked romantic element.

EARLE WILLIAMS uses 5 and 6-reel society plays.

STEWART EDWARD WHITE CO. Produces only Mr. White's books.

ZANE GREY FILM CO. Not in market. Films Mr. Grey's novels.

MARY PICKFORD COMPANY. Not in the market at present for outside material.

UNIVERSAL FILM CO., UNIVERSAL CITY. In the market for 1-reel comedies and 2-reel Western. Will consider Western feature stories for Harry Carey; strong emotional drama for Dorothy Phillips and Mary MacLaren; feature character stories for Priscilla Dean; and outdoor character material for Monroe Salisbury.

FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CO., BOYLE AND STEPHENSON AVE. Two and 5-reel dramatic stories of the West for Texas Guinan. One-reel comedies for Mack Swain.

UNITED PICTURES CORPORATION, 1600 BROADWAY, N. Y. In market for strong emotional features with problem theme for Florence Reed—five reels.

SESSUE HAYAKAWA plays Japanese, Chinese and Far Eastern characters. Sympathetic roles and roles having to do with self-sacrifice are preferred to sentimental parts; 6 reels.

JESSE D. HAMPTON CO., 1425 FLEMMING ST. Will consider scenarios suitable for H. B. Warner, W. Desmond and Jack Kerrigan; five reels.

KATHERINE MACDONALD CO., PICO AND GEORGIA STS. Society or emotional dramas of 5 reels for Miss MacDonald. Address scenarios to Ursula March.

BRENTWOOD FILM CO., 4811 FOUNTAIN AVE. In market for modern American stories, with good theme predomination, and also good 5-reel comedy-dramas. Must have human interest, with characterization true to life. Five-reel features only.

POPPY COMEDY CO., 735 BOYLE AVE. Wants one-reel comedies for Mack Swain, which include dancing and swimming girls; and six-reel dramas of semi-western type for Tom Santschi. Also want a series of four pictures. Address Santschi, care Stuart, Camera!, 4513 Sunset Blvd.

MODEL COMEDY COMPANY, 1329 GORDON ST., HOLLYWOOD, is in the market for two-reel comedies featuring Gale Henry. Stories must contain strikingly snappy situations for female boob characters. No slap-stick will be considered. Please remit by mail.

WORK MADE EASY

Everybody worked Sunday, June 30th, in the Bulls-Eye studio. There's a reason. As three kegs of beer, the real stuff, was necessary in filming the latest Bulls-Eye comedy it was up to Director Parrott to complete the scenes in which the beer was used before the war-time prohibition act took effect. On the morning of July Thirst all that remained of the set was the three beer kegs—empty.

FINISHING HART FEATURE

Winifred Westover is finishing her work in the latest William S. Hart feature and has been playing opposite Mr. Hart.

MOWER RESTING

Jack Mower is resting, not because he is without job or salary but because he is waiting for the next Wayne Mack comedy-drama to commence. Mower will be placed under contract by Mr. Mack it is said.

HAPPY OVER FOURTH

Mary MacLaren made the hearts of a hundred little inmates of a boys' home near Universal City happy over the Fourth of July by sending each lad a dollar packet of firecrackers, skyrockets, Roman candles and other explosive creations so dear to the boyish heart.

On July 5th she again gladdened the kiddies' hearts by taking the youngsters to a Hollywood theatre where "The Unpainted Woman," her latest released feature-drama, was being shown.

WILL WORK AT ASTRA

It is now decided that Kathleen Kirkham will play in support of Lew Cody in his first starring venture. Miss Kirkham is one of a splendid cast. Work will commence at the Astra studios in Glendale at once.

RETURN FROM LOCATION

Fred Stone, Frank Borbage and the whole company have returned from Lake Louise in Canada and will finish "Billy Jim" in Los Angeles. They had a great trip and will give the screen some entirely new scenery.

FRANCES HAS NEW WALK

Frances Parkes who did the attractive "Love Walk" in "The Greatest Thing in Life" now has a new walk, something most difficult to do, taking and making a great many pains to accomplish it artistically. The strangest part of it is that if you have a machine you cannot successfully learn to do the walk. Frances belongs to the riding club which has recently been organized by some of the Griffith players. Well, the first ride almost finished Frances, and now she has a new walk, it is laborious, the steps are short, and are accompanied by a grimace of pain. George Fawcett has named the new walk, "You look like you are all in."

YVENNE GARDELLE SIGNED

Yvenne Gardelle, danseuse, has been signed by the Oakley Super-Quality Productions to play heavy ingenue parts. Her mother was a premiere danseuse in France and her father, who is associated with the California Temple of Arts, is one of the best known sculptors of Europe and America. Miss Gardelle played the part of Eve in "Super-Strategy."

WARNER STARTS WORK

H. B. Warner starts fork the fifteenth under the direction of Park Frame, assisted by Nate Watt.

MRS. McGAN RETURNS

William McGan, cameraman, who finished recently with the Lewis Stone company has received word that Mrs. McGan, who has been visiting relatives in Louisville, Ky., for several months, will return the fifteenth of the month.

VAL PAUL JOINS "U"

Val Paul, who will be remembered as the "heavy" in many of the old Universal features starring the late Myrtle Gonzales, has rejoined the "Big U" forces in the role of assistant director to Lynn Reynolds. He is now aiding Reynolds in the production of "The Brute Breaker" starring Frank Mayo and Kathryn Adams.

WILL WRITE FOR BRITISH FANS

S. F. Jacobs arrived in Los Angeles this week as correspondent for the Picture Show, Lord Northcliffe's new weekly started in London in May, and is making his headquarters at the Stowell Hotel.

GOES EAST

Miss Agnes Johnston, scenario writer at the Thomas H. Ince studios in Cluver City, has left for a two months visit in New York City. While there she proposes to study local color for several stories she has in her head.

BECOMES DIRECTOR

Leo White will make his debut as a director in "The Social Adventures of Mrs. O'Grady," the series of society satires now being filmed in the Hollywood studio of the Buyys-Eeye Film corporation. Miss Phyllis Allen plays the title role in the series, which will be released in twenty-six episodes, each complete in itself. Everett C. Maxwell, the author, will act as White's advisor.

MARY SHARON COMPANY

The Mary Sharon Company, located in the California Building, will soon cast for their first production, starring Dorothy Morgan, directed by Thomas Plank. The illness of Mary Sharon, who is confined to her room at the Broadway Hotel, is holding up activities for the present.

HART MAY FREE LANCE

Unconfirmed rumors, about which Mr. Hart has had nothing to say, have it that Bill Hart has not signed with either the First National or Artcraft, and that, pending his decision with regard to stage productions, is to make a few pictures "on his own," to be sold by the picture. The truth will probably be out in a week or so.

Jay Mulhauser, formerly a New York legitimate "heavy," is writing scenarios for Bulls Eye.

Howard Johnson is now with the Bulls Eye.

Clarence Morehouse is now assistant director with Leo White, in the new Bulls Eye series. Morehouse was formerly purchasing agent for the same company.

NEW COMPANY STARTS

The "Oakley Super-Quality Productions" incorporated under the laws of the State of California, May 9, 1919, with general offices located at 529 West Eighth street, Los Angeles. The capital stock of the corporation is $100,000, and of this amount about one-half has already been sold. The corporation is now making ready to start work on their first two pictures. The corporation is headed by Billy Oakley and Walter Perkins. Two companies will work continuously. J. W. Early is director-general and will personally supervise the productions of each company. Carlton Gardelle is technical director and R. De Clifton director of comedies. The first drama, which is a six-reel heavy drama, is by Frederick B. Bennett, and the first comedy-drama is by Nance McGinn.

STARTS EASTERN PICTURE

Dorothy Dalton has begun work in New York City upon the filmization of the novel, "The White Rock," under the direction of Joseph DeGrasse.

RUTH ROLAND CASTING

The new Roland serial, to be produced by the Ruth Roland Serials, Inc., will be under way Monday. Casting has begun and more types are wanted. Harry Haskin is casting at the studio at Eighteenth and Main. The picture will deal with the Highbinders and other secret societies. V. R. Day is production manager.

GRIFFITH BACK

The Griffith company returned Friday morning from Sonoma, where they were filming the exteriors for the last Griffith-Artcraft picture, as yet unnamed.

FRED GOODWIN PRODUCING

News from London states that Fred Goodwin, well known here as an actor, is directing pictures in a studio near London and getting by in first-class style. Goodwin joined the British army early last fall.

BARRISCALE TO BEGIN

Bessie Barriscale is expected to begin work again in about two weeks under Howard Hickman's direction. The studio has not been announced, but will probably be the Brunton lot, where she formerly worked. Mr. Hickman is much better now and feels able to go under the kliegs for another season.

DEAN MAY QUIT "U"

Among the seven thousand stories in current circulation this week is one to the effect that Priscilla Dean will not return to Universal City at the end of her trip to the Canadian West. Just what started this is not on the cards, but it has been reported for some time that Miss Dean has had several offers from other producers and that these were somewhat more conducive to effort than the salary she has been getting at Universal. Her recent sickness came just at the time she would have started with George Siegman, and it is not expected that she will be able to work for several weeks yet. She left this past week for Vancouver, accompanied by Miss M. E. M. Gibsone of the Mabel Condon exchange.

"VICTORY"

Maurice Tourneur has commenced the production of the photoplay version of Joseph Conrad's book, "Victory." This feature is being made at Mr. Tourneur's studio in Culver City, but many journeys to far-off locations will be made. Mr. Tourneur has engaged a remarkably fine cast which includes such well known names as Jack Holt, Seena Owen, Lon Chaney, Wallace Beery, Jack McDonald, Geo. Nichols, Laura Winston and Bull Montana, which is some cast! Even the "bits" are in the capable hands of well known artists.

MOTORED TO MATILLIJAH

Observing the nation's holiday, Larry Semon, accompanied by a group of friends, motored to Matillijah Hot Springs on Friday, returning late Sunday evening. Mr. Semon's guests were Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Peebles, Miss Lucille Carlisle and Mr. Frank Alexander.

WHEN IS A PICNIC NOT ———?

Sunday week, Lucille Humbert invited some friends to enjoy a picnic party in the hills, motoring to the shady nook in her new car. The party spent most of the day in a garage, and the picnic lunch was eaten at Miss Humbert's flat, due to the lateness of the hour. Those who had unlimited patience and a great quantity of good humor were Polly Moran, Ted Stagmyer, Gladys Rhodes, Walter Worhley and George Hall.

DEDICATION OF CAMP

Stimson Camp was officially dedicated Thursday. Dorothy Phillips was sponsor, and with a suitable speech she christened the camp with a bottle of orangeade. Alan Holubar also made a speech. Motion pictures of the ceremony were taken by the Universal company. Mrs. Stimson has given a piece of land on West Adams street between Main and Grand avenue, to the World's Allied War Veterans for a summer camp. Mrs. Meredith Woodward, who is at the head of the "Dug Out," was made mother of the organization, which includes over a thousand boys. The Salvation Army will also co-operate with the Allied War Veterans. Sidney Flowers gave a splendid talk on the aims of the Veterans.

DUG OUT PARTY

The Tuesday evening informal dance at the Mitchell studio was the biggest success of all. There were two excellent numbers on the theatrical program, an exhibition dance by Miss Florence Prager, president of the "Dug Out" Club, with Mr. Mitchell, and a few song numbers by Miss Gertrude Horner, Hollywood's popular mezzo soprano. The popular winners of the prize fox trot competition were Stanley Carr with Miss Eleanor Bamber, social secretary of the "Dug Out" Club, and Neal Kelly with Miss Esther Smith. The winners in the lucky spot dances were Mrs. Virginia Lee Corbin, Miss Florence Shaeffer, Miss Toreno, Miss Aileen Ware and Miss de Noyer. The hostesses were Mrs. Meredith Woodward, founder of the "Dug Out;" Miss Florence Prager, president of the "Dug Out" Club; Mrs. B. D. Plaskett, Mrs. Christian Lynton, Mrs. J. E. Ware, Mrs. Virginia Lee Corbin, Mrs. Sam Prager and Miss Edna Harris of the Studio Club.

PRODUCTION NOTES AMONG STUDIOS

SAN FRANCISCO BUILDING STUDIOS

A letter from the Thos. A. Walthew Scenic Studio in San Francisco advises us that a company has been organized for the purpose of building a chain of twelve studios, fully equipped and directed according to the latest and most efficient principles.

Each working studio, the letter states, is to be 150x100 and 50 feet high. Each is to have its own dressing rooms, club rooms, bowling alley and billiard table.

The studios are to be erected on a site comprising 2200 acres, one portion of which borders on Golden Gate Park. Two of the buildings, it is said, are already finished, each with 3200 square feet of floor space, covered by roof.

Mr. Walthew, who signs himself Superintendent, states that the movement is civic and the funds are furnished by a private enterprise. Invitations, we judge, are open to any existing company, to move to San Francisco.

ANIMAL COMEDY

W. S. Campbell, who is producing the Joe Martin stories for Big U., is going to give Southland theatregoers a chance to see his initial effort for that organization, Monday afternoon at the California Theatre, when "Monkey Stuff," a two-reel comedy, be exhibited.

Jot has seen almost eight years of life upon this grand and glorious land of ours. But it fell to Campbell to show the Universal that they had a real live wire artist.

W. P. S. EARLE AT INCE

Wm. P. S. Earle, whose recent Clara Kimball Young picture was given its premier showing at the Kinema a few weeks ago, is now directing Louise Glaum at the Ince Studios, in J. Parker Reid's production, "The Lone Wolf's Cub," from the pen of Louis Joseph Vance.

This picture is a sequel to "False Faces" and "The Lone Wolf" and is a strong and virile story which gives Miss Glaum many opportunities to duplicate the wonderful work which she did in her recent triumph "Sahara," now showing at the Strand in New York.

"EVERYWOMAN"

At the Lasky Studio next Monday George H. Melford begins upon the screen version of the well-known morality play, "Everywoman." The costume department will be taxed to the utmost, even with additional facilities, in making the gowns that are to be worn by the hundreds of extra girls as well as the large cast of principals. The scenic department is also working overtime. It is now possible to announce a large portion of the cast, as follows:

Violet Heming, Everywoman, Wanda Hawley, Beauty; Mildred Reardon, Conscience; Bebe Daniels, Vice; Mary McIvor, specially engaged to play the role of Youth; Margaret Loomis, Modesty; Irving Cummings, Passion; Theodore Roberts, Wealth; Raymond Hatton, Flattery; Noah Beery, Bluff; etc.

WARWICK IN "CAPTAIN DIEPPE"

James Cruz, having completed "The Lottery Man" with Wallace Reid as star, starts at the Lasky Studio Monday on "Captain Dieppe," Anthony Hope's famous story, which has been scenarized by Elmer Harris. Major Robert Warwick will be the star of this production.

VIDOR CUTTING

King W. Vidor is dividing his time between the cutting room and the quarters of the scenario department at the Brentwood, supervising the cutting of "The Other Half," and the preparation of the continuity of the next production, the name of which has not yet been made public.

WEEK BEGINNING TODAY

FINISH COMEDY-DRAMA

J. Warren Kerrigan has completed the second photoplay of his new production series with his own company at the Brunton Studios. Lillian Walker was leading woman. The supporting cast consisted of Joseph J. Dowling, Pell Trenton, Albert Cody, and Alfred Hollingsworth. Jack Cunningham wrote the original story and screen version especially for Mr. Kerrigan, and Ernest C. Warde directed the production. The feature is a comedy-drama. Mr. Kerrigan's next production will be started immediately. The scenario department has two "scripts" of stories purchased ready for Director Warde. The production is from a story and continuity written especially for the star by the screen author, Jack Cunningham.

BOTTOM OF THE SEA

The Francis Ford Company is at Catalina. We are told they dropped Davy Jones' locker in the ocean, and will not return until the treasure is found. They will probably have a prolonged visit.

MIX FINISHED

Tom Mix will finish his present production this week.

Henry Lehrman, who is about to begin production at Culver City on the first of his comedies for the First National Exhibitors' Circuit, this week announced the signing of contracts with a number of well known people.

One of Mr. Lehrman's acquisitions is Lloyd V. Hamilton and Billie Ritchie is another comedian who will in future be seen in Lehrman Comedies.

Al Herman has been appointed general manager of the plant, and other departments heads include E. Olin, technical director; E. M. Popper, purchasing agent; A. L. Barnes, auditor; Edward C. Thomas, publicity director.

VITAGRAPH PRODUCTION NOTES

Director David Smith is busy on the final scenes of the Bessie Love feature, "Over the Garden Wall" and expects to complete the subject by the end of the week.

The Antonio Moreno-Carol Holloway Company, under the direction of Wm. J. Bauman, have started the shipment of the final footage on the "Perils of Thunder Mountain" serial from Truckee.

William Duncan, who is at Lake Huntington, reports that the first five episodes of his serial, "Daredevil Dick," are practically completed.

Montgomery and Rock have finished a riotous jazz called "Shake a Leg" and have started a new two-reeler.

A Jimmy Aubrey subject started this week. The title for the new comedy has not yet been decided upon.

Larry Semon is on the second week of his sixth super-comedy. This subject is set almost entirely outdoors.

YOUNG MAKES CHANGE

James Young, who has directed Earle Williams in all of that star's pictures since his return to the coast, has severed his connections with the Vitagraph Company. Just who will direct Mr. Williams in his future features has not yet been decided.

NEW GARSON PRODUCTION

Clara Kimball Young, under the personal management of Harry Garson, returned from the East Saturday.

Immediately on his return Mr. Garson will start production on the success, "The Eyes of Youth." Several well-known stage successes have been purchased by Mr. Garson for future production by Miss Young at her own studio in Edendale.

Robert G. Vignola is to start directing Lila Lee Monday in an original story by Beulah Marie Dix, which must be completed for delivery by August 20th.

INTERESTING UNIVERSAL NOTES

From Ham Beall

Lieutenant Locklear, U. S. A., has been engaged by Carl Laemmle to make a six-reel aerial melodrama from the story by Jacques Jaccard, which is temporarily titled "The Winged Trail."

Locklear brought with him a retinue of seven persons and three aeroplanes. Two will be used in the scenes for the picture, while the third will carry the cameraman and director.

Jacques Jaccard, who wrote the story, will direct the production from the scenario prepared by George Hively.

Two other new feature productions have been launched this week at Universal City.

Kathleen O'Connor is to be Carey's feminine lead.

Harry Carey started production on "The Eternal Savage," a story originally called "Pay Day," which was written by the western star in collaboration with Jack Ford, his director.

Others in the supporting cast are Barney Sherry, Harry Von Meter, Lydia Yeamans Titus, Duke R. Lee, Joe Harris, Johnnie Cooke and Ted Brooks.

Universal City is now to have a complete library covering all the different kinds of architecture since the beginning of time. This is to be compiled under the special direction of George H. Williams, the new head of the technical department.

A permanent theatre, seating 1,200 people, is to be constructed at Universal. George H. Williams, chief technical director of the New York Hippodrome for the past eleven years, and now head of the Universal technical department, is in charge of the construction.

Monroe Salisbury and company are still in the San Bernardino mountains taking final scenes for "Sundown Trail," directed by Rolin Sturgeon.

As soon as this picture is finished, Salisbury will start on "The Altar of Little Thunder," under Douglas Gerrard's direction. The story by Elliott Peake is being reconstructed by F. McGrow Willis.

"Whose Baby?" is the title of the newest Lyons-Moran comedy, which the twin funsters are making at Universal City, with Mildred Moore as their leading woman.

The final episodes of the James J. Corbett serial, "The Midnight Man," are in the hands of the editorial department being cut and titled.

Florence Turner, former Vitagraph star, has started to direct herself in a series of one-reel comedies, the first of which is temporarily titled "It's E.Z."

With Kenneth Harlan and Helen Eddy in the featured roles, George Seigmann is producing a six-reel melodramatic photoplay from Kenneth B. Clark's original story, "Who Knows?" In the supporting cast are Henry Barrow, Willis Marks, Clyde Hopkins, Edna Shipman, Gertrude Astor and Anna May Walthall. Doris Schroeder wrote the continuity.

COMPLETES "SOLDIERS OF FORTUNE"

Allan Dwan has just finisned filming the final scenes of "Soldiers of Fortune," which will be his first picture as an independent producer at the head of the Allan Dwan Feature Productions, producing for the Mayflower Photoplay Corporation. This story is from the pen of the late Richard Harding Davis.

A number of years ago Augustus Thomas presented the story as a stage play with Robert Edeson in the leading role.

Norman Kerry, as the young civil engineer, "Clay" has an important part. Melbourne MacDowell will be seen as Mr. Langham, American capitalist and mine owner. Miss Pauline Stark portrays the role of Hope Langham, while Anna Q. Nilsson will be responsible for the part of "Alice," Clay's first love. Ward Crane, promises much as the young New Yorker to whom life means nought but a good time. Frank Wally will be seen as "Teddy," son of Mr. Langham, while the villianies of Mendoza, the South American General will be interpreted by Wallace Beery. Others in the cast include Wilfred Lucas, Herald Lindsay, Fred Kohler, Philo McCullough and Ogden Crane.

BRACKEN FINISHING

Bertram Bracken has been working night and day on his production, "The Confession," starring Henry Walthall. He has nearly written finis to his script and upon its completion will start immediately on Mr. Walthall's next feature, "The Kentucky Colonel," from the book of that name by Opie Read.

CLARK FINISHING

Marguerite Clark has almost finished "Luck in Pawn," under Walter Edwards' direction and will soon start on a new picture, the title of which has not yet been announced.

WASHBURN VEHICLE

"Why Smith Left Home" is practically completed and it is probable that Mr. Washburn's next picture will be the famous stage play, "It Pays to Advertise," with Donald Crisp again at the helm.

" WHY CHANGE YOUR WIFE"

Cecil B. deMille expects to complete his new picture based on "The Admirable Crichton," this week. Jeanie MacPherson is responsible for the scenario of this photoplay founded on Sir James M. Barrie's stage comedy-drama. About the middle of August, Mr. deMille will begin work on "Why Change Your Wife," written by Wm. C. deMille.

"CAPITAL VERSUS LABOR"

"Capital Versus Labor" is the title of a production upon which Director Clancy will start work at the Horsley Studios, within a short time. Apparently the "labor" side of the question will be given preference, as union talent only, will be employed in the filming of the picture.

HEAVY PRODUCTION

The Horsley Studios will be going at full capacity within two or three weeks, now, with five companies under contract. They have announced their intention of employing union talent only, in all productions.

AT BEAR VALLEY

Al E. Christie, having completed the production of a Christie Special, has taken another comedy company to Bear Valley where a Christie Comedy will be made, appropriately featuring a bear. Dorothy De Vore, Earle Rodney, Jimmie Harrison and Helen Darling are in the cast. It is not stated which one is to play the bear.

MOTION PICTURE LAW

July 3rd, 1919.

Camera!
Dear Editor:

Having a considerable number of friends and clients among the artists appearing in motion pictures and on the speaking stage who may be unaware of an amendment which has been recently passed affecting their employment contracts with producers, and believing it to be a matter which should be given immediate concern, not only by them but by other artists in general, I am taking the liberty of addressing you in this regard.

An employment contract in California heretofore has been enforcible against the artist only for a period of two years from the date of commencement of employment. There have been producers from time to time who have compelled artists to sign employment agreements for a period in excess of two years and reserving certain rights of option for additional periods of time. In some cases the artists have known of the provisions of Section 1890 of the Civil Code, which would make the contract unenforcible against them for a longer period than two years. This section, however, was changed by the forty-third session of the Legislature of California, held in 1919, and an amendment was added increasing the period from two to five years. This amendment goes into effect July 21, 1919.

The effect of this amendment, in my opinion, is to make valid, if such persons continue in their present employment until after that date, a considerable number of contracts which, if not positively void, are at least voidable and unenforcible if action is taken before July 21st next. On the other hand, however, if every artist having such a contract terminates their employment before July 21st, they would then be enabled to have determined the question as to whether their particular contract was enforcible under the provisions of the section above referred to. It is very easy to see what a serious matter this is for the artists if we take into consideration the following situation:

Suppose an artist had signed a contract for three years and had given an exclusive option for the following two years, all in one contract. He may have believed that it was voidable at the time he signed it and unenforcible for a longer period than two years, but if, having signed such contract, he continues the employment after July 21st, he would then stand in the very unfortunate position of probably being compelled to work for the full period of five years, if there was a sufficient consideration for entering into the contract in the first place.

The time is short within which the artists may look into their rights in the matter and advise themselves of the advisability of such action.

Having called this matter to the attention of a few of my friends among the artists, I thought it such a matter of common interest that others would welcome the information.

This matter having been called to the attention of the artists, I believe that in executing contracts in the future they would unquestionably take into consideration the effect of the amendment above referred to and would give careful consideration to any contract whereby their services were employed for more than two years.

You are at liberty to publish all or any portion of this communication if you believe that the subject matter is of sufficient interest to warrant your so doing.

Yours very truly,
ALBERT A. KIDDER, JR.

NOTE:—The above article is one of a series on various topics by various authors, all of which are designed to acquaint studio people with their rights in certain matters of law, precedent in matters of studio work, and other allied subjects.

Mr. Kidder has been kind enough to give us this short article and we have asked him to give us another article on the subject of copyright as applied to the motion picture and the stage. Mr. Kidder is a well known attorney located in the Black Building, and his articles should prove of interest to all members of the industry.

PUTTING THE SERVE IN SERVICE

What looks to us like the real article in the line of exhibitor's service, as well as providing the actor and studio manager with some tabloids of truth in regard to what the country really thinks of certain pictures, comes this week in the shape of "The Exhibitor's Herald."

Harry E. Nichols, whose card advises that he is a part of the "service department" of the above paper, arrived this week after a tour through the southern and southwestern states, meeting every exhibitor in every key city on his route from Chicago. It is Mr. Nichols' business to determine just what pictures are doing in every city and find out what the troubles of the individual exhibitor mean.

He has found, he states, that the interest taken in the director of the picture has increased to an extent in the Middle West that very few exhibitors will book a picture until they know who directed it. There are plenty of other things Mr. Nichols can tell you when he calls, and he expects to call at every studio.

STUFF

Stuff is what the editors get,
  And that's what they fire me back;
Stuff is the way the stage is set,
  Whether it's castle or shack;
Stuff is costume and makeup,
  And the way we play our part,
And Stuff is what my lady says
  When I offer my hand and heart.

WILL HERFORD.

SOCIAL FRICASSEE AND CAPER SAUCE

BY MILDRED DAVIS

NEW SOCIETY EDITOR

Due to causes unavoidable both by Mrs. Parks and Camera!, she has been compelled to give up this position and in the future Miss Mildred Davis, with whom the motion picture people are already acquainted, will spill the sassy gossip and write the interviews.

Miss Davis has a style of diction peculiarly her own, a sense of humor that is essential to her position and a knowledge of studio activities that promise much toward the interest of her page.

We recommend a close personal acquaintance with Miss Davis (by telephone), in order to insure the insertion of society items and all paragraphs pertaining to the present location of artists.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

At her home last Friday evening, Miss Betty Peterson was the hostess at her first birthday party since her return to the coast. Among the invited guests were: Lila Lee, Rene Bannister, Doda Hatbaway, Ednamae Wilson, Marguerite Palmer, Eleanor Welch, Tom Hayden, Al Kelly, Gordon Marr, Clyde Fillmore, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Grassby, and Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Lewis. Miss Betty's mother helped her receive.

AT TEHACHEPI

While the Al Jennings company was on location at Tehachepi the natives were given a great treat by Mr. Jennings, who had "The Lady of the Dugout" shown for their benefit. Nearly all of the scenes in this picture were made in Tehachepi, and all the town turned out to see its showing. The company gave a dance after the "free-for-all" show, and all the members testify that they had a very good time.

CARDS

Mrs. Frederick Palmer entertained with a dinner at her home Tuesday night. Covers were laid for ten. The guests were: Winifred Haslan, Billy Brockwell, Lucille Humbert, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Karr, Herb King, George Hall, and Frank Hall. The evening was spent playing pok—er—that is, at cards.

IN HONOR

Sunday evening Bebe Daniels gave an informal dinner in honor of George Howe of the Fox studio, who has recently returned from the front in France. Places were set for eight.

FAREWELL

Last Monday evening, in her home at Camino Real, Mrs. Camp held farewell festivities for her two sons, Ray Thorn and Gordon Thorn, who, with their wives, left Saturday for Japan. July 1 seems to have held no terror for Mrs. Camp's guests, who lingered, to the music of bubbling beverages and an eight-piece orchestra, until six o'clock Tuesday morning. A few of the gay revelers were: Mrs. and Mr. Mahlon Hamilton, Syd Chaplin, Edna Purviance, Bill Camp, Polly Moran, Ed Callahan, Mrs. and Mrs. Ed Rothacker, Fred Stone, Gertrude Selby, Louise Dresser, Blanche Sweet, Marshall Neilan, Clarine Seymour, Sidney Ainsworth, Mrs. Bill Camp, Mrs. and Mr. Gordon Thorn, and Mrs. and Mr. Ray Thorn.

AT KEAN'S CAMP

Mrs. Jimmy Cruze and Mrs. Wallace Reid, with the two children, will leave for Kean's Camp, near Mt. Baldy, on Wednesday. They are all planning a vacation of about two weeks, filled with fresh air and long sunny playtimes for the kiddies.

HOLLYWOOD STUDIO CLUB NOTES

The Hollywood Studio Club will give an informal dance on Friday evening, July 12. Miss Bebe Daniels will act as hostess. All members and friends are cordially invited to attend.

Several of the girls from the Club spent the Fourth of July at Manhattan Beach.

Mrs. Squiers of Pasadena spent the week-end at the Club.

Miss Dorothy Thompson and Miss June Rush are living at the Club.

Miss Betty Bouton was a dinner guest on Monday night.

Mr. Samuel Lemsey of Tuscon, Arizona, was a guest of Miss Sarah Mason for tea on Sunday evening.

VIRGINIA LEE AT BALDY

Virginia Lee Corbin, with her sister Ruth and their mother, was a week-end guest at Camp Baldy, being there for the opening of the season. Others in the party were Mr. and Mrs. Craig of Long Beach, and rMs. W. D. Berry, sister of Mrs. Corbin.

MOTOR PARTY

Charles Meredith, taking advantage of the "between pictures" period at the Brentwood, has motored down to Coronado for a few days' rest with a party of friends.

VACATION

Rodolpho Valontino has finished a juvenile lead with the Dorthy Gish company, and is taking a short vacation at the beach, swimming, playing golf and riding horseback.

REV. DODD ON VACATION

The Reverend Neal Dodd, widely known and well liked pastor of the Motion Picture People's Church, leaves Monday morning upon a vacation motor trip through Yosemite Valley and northern California. Rev. Dodd will be accompanied by his wife and a group of friends, and plans include a tour of Yosemite, a two-weeks' stop at Lake Tahoe, where no doubt a visit to the Church of the Transfiguration, famed as the "chapel in the woods," will prove of exceptional interest to the party, and a short visit to San Francisco.

Barring engine trouble, and temperamental tires, over which Providence alone holds sway, the intention of the party is to make the entire trip by machine, returning the second or third week in August.

NEW HOME

Henry Walthall is erecting a home on the Palisades at Santa Monica by the sea. The plans for this mansion were drawn up by Mr. Walthall and his wife and embody all of the many features that have been a life long desire with them both. One in particular is a very sumptuous den, the wood work of which will consist of mahogany inlaid with innumerable pieces of valuable woods collected by him in his travels. Trophies of all kind, vases, Oriental nick-knacks, and many other precious articles will all find a place in the interior decoration of his home.

The completion of their new abode is sceduled for the latter part of the summer and, barring postponements, Mr. and Mrs. Walthall will be at home to their many friends in the early fall.

BERNSTEIN RETURNS

Production manager Bernstein of the National has returned from a short vacation to Laguna Beach. He is the owner of a beautiful summer home at this very popular resort and has enjoyed many delightful week-ends with his family who are spending the entire season there.

BOBBY VERNON

By Mildred Davis

In Long Beach, eleven years ago, there was a little musical comedy show headed by Roscoe Arbuckle. At the same time in that little city there was an eleven-year-old boy. When the boy didn't "just have" to be some place else, he could be found at the theatre where the Arbuckle show played. One day the part of a colored slave-boy was open, and, as the boy was conveniently near, he became the proud Etheopian. So Bobby Vernon made his theatrical debut.

With the exception of three months spent in the navy, he has been busy on the stage or screen, since he began his career. Until about five years ago the little comedian had never appeared in a picture. His time was devoted to kid parts in musical comedy, amateur nights, and paper selling. For a while he did juveniles, and understudied Dill, with Kolb and Dill, in San Francisco. On the opening night of one of their new comedies Dill fell, breaking his leg, and Bobby rescued the show by playing Dill's part for three weeks.

He first attracted notice at Sid Grauman's amateur night. His regular job was that of paper peddling, and he always managed to sell his papers near the theatres. Being fond of comical costumes, Bobby adorned his cap and lapels with all the pins and buttons he could acquire.

At his first amateur appearance, the announcer asked him his name.

"Silvion Des Jordins," Bobby replied. And he spoke the truth.

"Too long. You'll be 'Buttons'," came the answer. So Buttons he became.

Now, Bobby Vernon is not Bobby Vernon. He is Silvion Des Jardins, of French and Fresian parentage. Perhaps it is the blood from his Norsemen ancestors that accounts for his love of, and proficiency in aquatic sports.

Bobby's first picture work was done at Universal City. His versatility was remarkable. Boys, old men, bearded men, and Chinamen—nothing seemed to phase this aspiring youth. When he reached the exalted plane where screen credit was forth-coming his name was changed again, to Bobby Vernon this time.

Both the Sennett and Sunshine Studios have been the scene for this comedian's picture activities. For the past year and eight months he has been with Al Christie, doing light two-reel comedies. Three months of the last year was spent in the United States Navy, stationed at the San Pedro Submarine Base.

"This was a hard war for me," Bobby told us, "I came home every night, and Sundays. You see, all the married men did that."

"I don't like straight drama. I always see too many funny things in it, to be successful as a dramatic actor. The only drama I ever made was, well —not so good."

He thinks Charlie Ray is "great."

"Rube kid parts. Those are what I like to do."

You can realize how youthful he is and how deeply filled with the spirit of a boy, when you know that he informed us in a care-free manner that he was born in Chicago, twenty-two years ago.

MITCHELL HOLLYWOOD STUDIO NOTES

Due to the great increase in the number attending the dances at the Mitchell Studio, it has been necessary to extend the number of dances each week to three instead of two. Hereafter the dances will be held on Tuesday, Friday and Saturday evenings.

Tuesday, July 8, was Studio Club Night, the hostess for the evening being Miss Edna Harris, of the Club. She was assisted in her work by a corps of girls from the Studio Club. The winners of the prize waltz contest were Miss Chase Herendeen, of the Studio Club, and Mr. Harold Marmaduke, who is stationed at San Pedro on the U. S. S. H-9. The winners in the Lucky Spot dances, which caused more than a little excitement, were Rich Arthur, Mr. Mullarty, Mr. Revelle, Dr. Geo, H. M. Wilson, George Ranger, Bron Kays, and Misses Eischberg, Edna Harris, Chase Herendeen and Clair Greenwood.

Saturday, July 12, will be Dug-Out Night at the studio, and the party will be in the order of a costume masque dance. The event promises to be of greater than usual interest to the motion picture people.

Saturday, July 19, will also be in the nature of a costume party, a Rube party, when those who look the seediest will be the Beau Brummels of the affair. Prizes will be awarded the most perfect farmers and farmerettes.

The Studio wishes to thank the many talented Hollywood people who have so kindly consented to appear on the program of entertainment at the various dances. They are Messrs. Wallace Reid, Al Jennings, Neal Burns, Lieutenant Keller, Edward and Lewis Jackson, S. Bianno, and Misses Edith Roberts, Yvette Mitchell, Margary Gaye, Evelyn Adamson, Curpyne Engler, Loota Lorraine, Julanne Johnston, Gertrude Horner and Virginia Lee Corbin.

On Monday, July 7, at the Studio, the ex-service men of Hollywood organized under the name of the Hollywood Service Men. Officers were elected, and plans made for the growth of the organization. Practically every motion picture studio in the city was represented at the meeting. The next meeting of the organization will take place at the Studio, on Monday, July 21. The is important that all ex-service men of Hollywood who can arrange to attend will be present, as within the near future the organization will take under consideration the advisability of affiliating with some national organization.

BENEFIT FOR TELEPHONE OPERATORS

The Motive Motion Picture Studios were the scene of much festivity on Saturday night, when the Motion Picture Players' Union gave a benefit dance for the striking telephone operators. Tickets for the affair, which was well attended, were sold by the girls.

The members of the studio organization joined with the Picture Players' Union in making the dance a success, donating stage space, and erecting a huge "bar," where kickless drinks were served by prohibition "movie" cowboys.

The orchestra was furnished by the Motion Picture Players' Union, and various members of the film companies renting space at the studio were in attendance.

MORE BRIDGE-WHIST

At her home on Edgecliff Drive, Juanita Hansen entertained informally at cards, a group of friends Tuesday night. A chop suey lunch was served, and the home was beautifully festooned in garlands of red peppers and chili. The invited guests were: Texas Guinan, Polly Moran, Mrs. and Mr. Thurston Hall, George Theseboro, and Tod Browning. Incidentally, Miss Moran states that she won twenty dollars. New variety of bridge-whist, probably.

WHERE TO FIND PEOPLE YOU KNOW

KATHLEEN WITH FORD

Kathleen O'Connor, who played opposite James J. Corbett in his eighteen-episode serial, "The Midnight Man," has been re-engaged by Universal to be Harry Carey's leading woman in his newest western melodrama, "The Eternal Savage," which Director Jack Ford has already started producing at Universal City.

SHERRY CHANGES

J. Barney Sherry, former Triangle star, who supported Frank Mayo and Kathryn Adams in Lynn Reynold's production of "A Little Brother of the Rich," is again with Universal, this time in support of Harry Carey in "The Eternal Savage," which Jack Ford is directing at Universal City.

TO DIRECT WALCAMP

George Holt, who has been directing Pete Morrison and Magda Lane in two-reel western dramas, has been given directorial tutelage over Marie Walcamp in the continuation of the "Tempest Cody" series of two-reelers.

WITH CAREY

Anna May Walthall, sister of Henry B. Walthall, and well known on her own account for her work in Harry Carey's recent production, "Bare Fists," has been cast for an important part in "Who Knows?" from the story by Kenneth B. Clark.

GERTRUDE ASTOR AT "U"

Gertrude Astor, who was last under the Universal banner in support of Priscilla Dean in "Pretty Smooth," has returned to Universal City to play a role of prominence in George Seigmann's production, "Who Knows?"

MEIGHAN SIGNS

Thomas Meighan has been placed under a year's contract by the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation to play leads in forthcoming pictures.

TAYLOR GOES EAST

William D. Taylor, having completed "Huckleberry Finn," leaves for New York on the 12th, having been loaned to Realart Film Corporation to direct Mary Miles Minter in her first production for that company.

BOLTON AND GLASS MOVING

The newly organized firm of Bolton and Glass have opened offices in the Groose building, and in a letter to the editor state that they have affiliated themselves with a syndicate of magazines covering the United States, Canada, Australia, France and the Orient.

The firm will also undertake the publicity representation of photoplayers.

LABOR CONFERENCE

Seymour Hastings, financial secretary of the Motion Picture Players' Union, has returned from the east, where he attended the conference of the American Federation of Labor, as representative of the Union.

BOLSHEV— WHAT?

Mr. Chas. Meakin comes with the news that he has attempted the characterization of "a high class French Bolshevik" in the Fairbanks picture now being filmed.

DON'T WEAKEN

It's a great life. If you don't believe it ask Wesley Warner, who has been doing a Mexican heavy with D. W. Griffith. The company spent ten days with the poison oak and rattlesnakes of the Sonora mountains. Warner liked the poison oak so well that he brought some home, and still has it.

AT METRO

PICK-UPS BY THE STAFF

HAMMEL SIGNS

T. Rex Hammel has signed a contract to appear in an eighteen-episode serial, to be made at the Paton Studio, which was formerly the Nat Goodwin Cafe!

Harry Carter, who was previously with Universal, will do the heavy with the Paton company.

NO CREDIT

Why do those responsible for such things, continue to leave actors' names off the screen when they should appear. We noticed, last week, on the Pantages program, the name of Harry Keaton featured with Lois Neilson, and on the screen no credit was given.

AT "U"

Betty Peterson is playing an underworld part opposite Lee Moran.

GIRLS! GIRLS!

Bulls-Eye comedies will hereafter have the feminine "atmosphere" now demanded in comedies. Jay Mulhauser has engaged six beautiful girls, who are now working in the new series of comedies directed by Charles Parrott. The girls are Carla Cassil, Esther Jackson, Dollie Stoddard, Betty Saunders, Evelyn Nelson and Margaret Villmore. The new pictures will be called the Bulls-Eye Follies.

NEW CUTTER

Carl Himm, who cut many of the Yorke-Metro releases, is now with Bulls-Eye.

Tom A-FISHING

Tom Santchi having finished a big character lead with Gladys Brockwell in "The Sporting Chance," has taken himself off to Catalina Island where the big and little fish come from.

NEW DEPARTMENT

Alson C. Wheeler, recently assistant to Chief of Photography Ray C. Smallwood at the studios of Metro Pictures corporation, is now head of the newly formed Department of Films.

AT NATIONAL

Dudley Blanchard's training in the Metro cutting department has proven valuable to him. He is now heading the cutting department of the National studios.

SAILING

Harry J. Cohen, recently appointed manager of Metro's foreign department, sailed from New York yesterday to join President Richard A. Rowland in Europe in consultation for expansion and production plans on the other side of the Atlantic.

IN FRISCO

Winifred Westover has been taking a short holiday in San Francisco.

LEWIS AT METRO

Vera Lewis is playing the part of Molly in "Lombardi, Limited," at the Metro studios. Miss Lewis played the same part at the Morosco theater.

CODY COMPANY

Lew Cody is heading his own company, under the management of Louis Gasnier.

RUSSELL SIGNS

William Russell has joined the Fox company and will make two films in New York before returning to Los Angeles.

RETURNS TO PICTURES

Leatrice Joy has deserted the Virginia Brissac stock company of San Diego to take the ingenue part in George Loan Tucker's latest picture.

NEW PRODUCERS

Henry A. and John P. McCarthy have rented space and started production at Universal on a six-reel feature western drama with Russell Simpson in the stellar role. The latter will be remembered for his most recent work in "The Brand."

The cast includes Dorcas Mathews, Robert McKim and Pat Moore.

John T. Powers is back of the project.

Joe Cox, formerly connected with the D. W. Griffith studio, is in charge of the technical staff.

The McCarthy brothers produced the John Emerson-Bessie Love pictures for the Reliance-Majestic Company. They have directed Madame Yorska and Wanda Hawley in feature productions.

WITH PARROTT

George Lawson, formerly with Griffith, is now cameraman for Charlie Parrott.

NEW ASSISTANT

Clarence Morehouse, formerly purchasing agent for Bulls-Eye, is now assistant director to Leo White of the same concern. Tom Schumacher takes Morehouse's place in the buying department.

LEFT METRO

Andrew MacDonald has left Metro to be technical director with Bulls-Eye.

AT BULLS-EYE

H. S. Griffith, father of Gordon Griffith, noted boy actor, is now with Bulls-Eye.

ART SUPERVISOR

Lillian Drain, noted for her art titles, has been engaged to supervise Bulls-Eye display advertising.

CATCH-UM TROUT

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dorety and James Parrott of Bulls-Eye are spending several weeks at Big Bear Lake, fishing for trout.

THE VILLAIN

Bertram Grassby is villaining again, this time with J. Parker Reid's company which stars Louise Glaum at the Ince studios.

BUT HE DID

Hap H. Ward, character comedian with Gale Henry, was called upon the other day to fall from a tree onto a bear's back.

"Wow!" exclaimed Ward, that's worse than doing a terpsichorean dance on a barbed wire fence." But he did it.

Florence Vidor, who returns to the screen after an absence of nearly a year, as the lead in the latest Brentwood production titled "The Other Half," laughingly tells her husband, King Vidor, that it took the other half of the Vidor family to properly bring out the strong theme of this, the most important of the series of American life picturizations for which this young director has become so well known.

The Fox baseball club holds the top place in the Photoplayers' Baseball League. Big Tom Kennedy is the manager of the team. The other members are Benny Stoloff, Lefty Hough, Al Stein, Van Osdale, Al Ray, Slim Summerville, Joe La Massine, M. Lasswell, Tommy MacFarlan, Fred Billman, G. R. Robbins and Bobby Dunn. The team's able and enthusiastic mascot is Polly Moran, alias Sheriff Nell.

Allan Dwan, accompanied by his company of players, returned from Santa Barbara a few days ago after making several of the final scenes to be used in "Soldiers of Fortune."

ALICE LAKE'S FIRST STARRING TOUR IS REALIZED

Alice Lake is now presented at the head of a feature cast in "Shades of Shakespeare," the Christie comedy release for July.

The direction of the special was in the hands of Al E. Christie, story by W. Scott Darling, photoplay by A. Nagy.

Fontine La Rue has finished her picture with George Siegman.

NEW REPRESENTATIVE

Joe Brandt, formerly sales manager and treasurer of the Universal Film Co., is now affiliated with the National Film Corporation in the capacity of general representative.

He will maintain offices in New York City and will assume his new duties in the very near future.

GOOD-A BYE, JOHN

If you notice a Griffith player pawing vaguely, in mid-air, with either foot you will know that he is searching in vain for the lost brass rails of Sonora. The Griffith company officiated at the demise of John Barleycorn in Sonora—and it is said that John died hard.

WITH MARY

Jack Gilbert is in his element. He is with the Mary Pickford company, which has gone to Big Bear to take scenes, and Jack loves the places wher ehe can take a rod and gun. The company, under Sidney Franklin, is putting on "Heart of the Hills."

IN VICTORY

Wallace Beery is in Maurice Tourneur's adaptation of Joseph Conrad's "Victory," in the character of Schombery.

MONG FINISHED

William Mong has just finished creating a character part in "The County Fair" under the direction of Ed Mortimer of the Maurice Tourneur company, and is now starting an engagement with George Loane Tucker.

REID ATTENDS CONVENTION

Wallace Reid starts for Seattle Monday to attend the Screen Club Convention and on his return, when James Cruze has completed "Captain Dieppe," will begin work in "Hawthorne of the U. S. A."

LOCATION

Florence O'Rourke, sister of little Jean O'Rourke, left Monday night for Santa Cruz Island with the Marshall Neilan company. Florence has the part of a little mountain girl in this picture.

Harry Von Meter has returned to Universal to assume a role in Harry Carey's newest feature, "The Eternal Savage."

Ann Little and Jack Hoxie, with numerous members of their company, have returned from a several days' trip to the desert where many scenes of their eighteen-episode serial, "Lightning Bryce," were taken under the direction of Paul Hurst.

Doris Baker, who has been San Diego-ing for the last ten days, has returned to Los Angeles.

Accompanied by her mother and sister, Miss Frances Parks, the little Griffith player, returned early in the week from Santa Monica, where she spent the Fourth of July, and the week-end following.

Jack White has been signed as a director with Norman Taurog as his assistant. Henry Symonds has also been engaged as a member of the producing staff. Camera work will be in charge of George Meehan.

Carl Miller has been engaged by Universal to play opposite Marie Walcamp in the continuation of the "Tempest Cody" series of two-reel western dramas, under George Holt's direction.

CHIT, CHAT & CHATTER OF INTEREST

BY HARRY BURNS

Mack Sennett is directing one of his own companies which makes us believe the boss of the plant wants to show the boys what a real director looks like.

Ora Carewe and Darrell Foss are doing excellent work under the direction of William C. Dowlan out Universay way. They make an ideal team for the screen.

Eugene Pellette is showing folks about the Metro what a real villain looks like, and some people are mean enough to say he always looks the part.

R. A. Walsh is expected back here shortly, after he has had a heart to heart talk with Mr. William Fox. Did you get me? And you can bet he'll tell 'em.

Harry Carey left Friday with his troupe which included Kathleen O'Connor, who is playing his lead. They headed for Big Bear Lake. Nope, no word yet.

Fred Starr is around looking the studios over. He just finished with Elmo Lincoln at the L. K. O.

Vin Moore is once more teasing the lions. The Fox realized that he knew how to tempt the beasts so they would act, hence their wishing that on him.

Antrim Short is causing the colony of Metroites to sit up and take notice of what he is doing in "Please Get Married." Fair enough.

Pete Morrison is waiting for the powers that be to permit him to take his company to Wyoming to film some two-reel subjects. Thata boy, Pete.

Marjorie Rambeau is booked to open the 21st at Clune's Auditorium in "The Eyes of Youth," which means there will be a gathering of the clans from the silent and speaking stage to welcome our own charming Marjorie.

Leo White is directing the Mrs. O'Grady series at the Bulls-Eye studio with an all-star cast. Leo has been with that organization some time.

Beatrice Dominguez has finished with the Monroe Salisbury company and is being cast for another feature production, which calls for a special Spanish dance that she is daily practicing with her dancing class.

Billy Watson brought his company, which features Mr. and Mrs. Dan Russell, out to the Universal where they burnt a shack, blew up a bank and other things.

Josephine Hill, who is being featured with Jack Perrin in two-reel western stories at the Big U, is some charmer. Small, but cute, and oh so clever.

Francis McDonald in "Pretty Smooth" actually ran away with the picture with Priscilla Dean at the Superba. His work was very refreshing and entertaining, and it would be a lesson for a lot of people who call themselves real artists to look Francis over and study his work.

Carl Laemmle evidently likes to hear what people think of his pictures for he is a visitor every evening at the Superba theater, which is the Universal property and is runnning their pictures exclusively. People will talk and Mr. Laemmle has ears, so he must get an ear full and should benefit materially from what he hears said about his subjects on exhibition in the theater.

Jay Belasco is still acting right out in the open at Christie's. He plays and directs his own leads.

Neal Burns is taking things easy these days, although he has had a number of good offers, which range from appearing as co-star in a five-reel comedy-drama to a one-reel comedy subject.

Howard Gaye, just finished with May Allison at the Metro, has an offer to go to Australia to direct for Snowy Baker, to play leads for some of the best feminine stars or to direct another Biblical story like "Super-Strategy.

Dick Oliphant "they" say is taking Dave Allen's place with the Service Bureau, which means that Richard is inviting a lot of worries for himself.

Hugh McClung made his short subject comedies and is hurrying them east.

Joe Moore is back among us, after being overseas and doing his bit. Yes, it was a real one that he chewed off and is very welcome home. More power, J. M.

Lynn Reynolds returned Thursday from Shasta Springs and brought some real negatives back with him of some beautiful scenes photographed there.

Paddy McQuire and Phylis Allen, both well known in the comedy field as artists of the first water, are with the Bulls-Eye studio for a series of one-reelers.

Arthur Jasime is doing a Russian violinist for the Paul M. Powell company out at the Big U, in which Robert Anderson and Coleen Moore are the stars.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Mason are booked to open on the Orpheum Circuit in San Francisco August 10th and will be kept busy from then on. Farewell folks.

Mildred Lee has the dance fever of the times, and showed the Big U troupers a few wiggles in a shimmie dance with Lee Moran in a western scene in a dance hall. Mildred is doing some excellent work for the Lyons-Moran company, and will no doubt wind up appearing as some leading man's ingenue in five-reel comedy-dramas.

Louise Fazenda, Harry Gribbon, Billy Armstrong and Phil Dunham are cast in the Reggie Morris picture at Sennett's which also calls for a small army of canine actors, including Teddy, the great canine actor. We can expect Director Morris to turn out a winning picture for Director General Mack Sennett.

Russell Simpson, who did that famous characterization in "The Brand," has a part in the H. A. and John P. McCarthy production out at the Universal where that company is working, which promises even to outdo his previous efforts on the screen.

Alice Lake is once more working opposite Bert Lytell at the Metro, which will cause quite a few ingenues to envy Alice's position.

DOINGS OF ASSISTANT DIRECTORS ASSOCIATION

By Harry Burns

Did it ever occur to you that the assistant director must be a diplomat of the first water, that it is up to this lone individual to carry the burden of a production upon his shoulders and keep every one happy. I'll wager the family bank roll that you think right now that I am talking through my hat.

But if you think any of these things you are all wrong, for I am going to show you just how the assistant director has to soft soap, jolly, kid, talk and figure with every one from the $3 a week office boy to the president of the organization that he is connected with, and have a different line of talk to unbuckle to every mother's son or daughter he comes in contact with.

Say, for instance he gets at odds with the casting director, what a hot time he is in for, for the casting director can make life miserable for him, the technical director can pass the buck to him any time he is held up on a set, while the scenic, wardrobe, property, arsenal and production department can all blame him.

To whom can the assistant pass the buck? Nobody, for after all is said and done, the company holds the director responsible for the story in the making. He in turn puts it up to his assistant and it is up to that man to see that everything is in ship shape and is kept running that way until the final scene has been shot.

Diplomacy is his main stock in trade, for no matter what goes wrong he is supposed to be the man of the hour, yes, the minute, who with the wave of his magic hand and his silver tongue will get his company out of any difficulty and keep them moving without any loss of time or money to the company. Such a man to my way of thinking is an asset to an organization, and not a liability, and should be well taken care of. How about it? Don't you think so?

Bob McGowan and Bill Sieter expect to go to New York City with Bill Parsons within the next sixty days to produce some laugh getting subjects.

Bert Sutch reports that D. W. Griffith kept every one stepping fast and pretty while up in Sonora and got some excellent scenes. It was ever thus, Bert.

Buck Connors seems to improve with age. His working with Neal Hart seems to inspire the famous Buck with lots of pep and ambition. That helps some, B. C.

Ernest Traxler dropped into the meeting long enough to brace up the courage of every one about the big barn dance that the organization has scheduled.

Bill Dyer is headed for San Francisco as a member of the Ben Wilson-Neva Gerber company that have some scenes for a National serial to photograph up north.

Reaves Eason finished his second picture with a whirlwind of flames and thrills at the Big U, which has caused them all to sit up and take notice.

Henry Murray had two regiments of cavalry in a Russian street scene that all served Uncle Sam throughout the world war. It was a pleasure to work with 'em.

Bert King, master of properties out at the Universal, is one of the quiet chaps who does his talking by working harder than any of them. Listens fine, folks.

Scott Beall is glad he has Claude Mitchell as recording secretary to help out at the meetings, and Claude is glad he holds the job, so it's mutual.

Eddie Laemmle postals from Tokio that he is doing fine and is sailing for Singapore, China, and wishes to be remembered to all of his friends.

Art Flaven informs me that Jas W. Horne returned from Catalina and immediately arranged to go to Huntington Lake for a week to rest up. Pretty soft, J. W. H.

Norman Taurog, who aids Jack White to make his funny Lehrman comedies is taking on weight rapidly and unless he gets to work will soon be a heavyweight.

Things are humming near and about Cahuenga and Hollywood boulevard about now since George Webb resigned as president of the Actors' Association, and others of the board did likewise. Ralph Lewis has been elected president and chairman for the time being and Dick Le Strange, Jack Livingston and Frank Newberg are the new board of directors. Mr. John Lancaster has been reinstated as business manager. Things ought to run smoothly for those in office right now are the cream of the organization and have had a wide experience in handling such affairs and with Temporary President Ralph Lewis, presiding, and Business Manager Lancaster looking after the casting of the talent. Studio managers shouldn't have any difficulty in obtain the best of results from their dealings with the Actors Association.

William Fox has his business manager of all Fox productions in New York City on the job here, giving every one the once-over. We are informed that since Sam Kinsten is here, Winified Sheehan will follow him out this way and probably we will get a few more surprises handed us, for if we remember rightly it was right after Mr. Sheehan paid us his last visit that there was no more Lehrman sun in the sunshine of comedies produced on the lot and everything looked dark and dreary.

Henry Lehrman is going to shout camera for the first time in his Culver City studio Monday, when his plant will be ready for his initial efforts in an interior set, and his old brothers and sisters who helped him make the Sunshine-Lehrman Comedies the talk of the universe will be on hand to take another step towards re-establishing this standard.

Cecil B. De Mille is admitted to be one of the most critical directors that we have as wielder of the megaphone, and still our charming Edna Mae Cooper seems to be fast winning a resting place in his niche of best bets that he figures from time to time will eventually make a star for his productions.

In the present picture in the making every one seems to be playing a servant in the house, outside of Gloria Swanson who is Theodore Roberts' charming daughter, and the story affords the veteran actor ample opportunity to disport his acting wares and get a laugh here and there from the humorous situations.

Jas. W. Horne has signed to direct Walter Oland and Aileen Percy in a serial for Louis Gasinier at his Glendale studio, and will go to work immediately after he and Fritzi Ridgeway (Mrs. Horne) return from Huntington Lake where they have gone for seven days' rest.

Joe Brandt for years connected with Universal as serial manager, was about the studio Saturday bidding them all good-bye, for his resignation was tendered and it took effect Saturday. He didn't want to overlook a single person, from the $3-a-day extra to the president of the organization. He didn't miss one of them and every one hated to see him go, for Joe was a likeable fellow who knew his business and made many friends while he was connected with the firm.

Carl Stockdale is starting in a new picture the first of this week. This is the third picture in which Mr. Stockdale has played under the direction of George Seigman. Mr. Seigman has just returned from San Quentin, where he has been getting some prison stuff.

Fred Kelsey is busy acting in some of the leading companies at Universal. To me Fred seems to be wasting his time, for he could easily put over a two-reel western story for the U. Why not direct them, Fred?

Earle Hinds, well known cameraman, just returned from overseas after almost two years in the army. He previously was connected with the Triangle company.

Florence Turner is going to prove that a star can also be her own director and will produce one-reel refined comedies a la the Drews of yore.

Walter Lundin, Harold Lyod's cameraman, saved an auxiliary actor's life at Wilmington as the latter was about to drown while a scene was in the making.

Casting Directory

Copyright Applied For.

In order to be listed in this column, it is necessary that you be sufficiently well known locally that there shall be no doubt as to your ability to play the parts for which you are listed. If you have not appeared in the films recently, it will be necessary to bring proof that you have successfully filled the part under which you wish to be listed.

This precaution is taken as a safeguard for this paper and for the people who are capable. Further, this precaution has been suggested to us by casting directors, as the column was inaugurated chiefly for their information.

Abbreviations: Characters (ch.); Heavies (hv.); Juveniles (juv.); Foreign (for.); Ingenues (ing.).

Changes in this column must be reported to the office of CAMERA! not later than Friday of each week.

Charge for listing, including change each week, is $1.00 for two months.

IN EVERYWOMAN

Monte Blue has been cast in the leading juvenile role in "Everywoman," film rights to which have been secured by Lasky.

No Kick

Milburn Moranti, Gale Henry's leading man, has named near-beer "Williard Punch," because it lacks the proper "kick."

Hari Rechtsteiner is managing the McCarthy Brothers Production company featuring Russell Simpson in a six-reel western drama.

Homer I. Mesick and John K. Holden, architects added to the Metro technical staff this week, are the only two of twenty applicants to pass successfully a stiff examination set by Edward J. Shulter, supervising technical director.

The filming of "Please Get Married" was begun this week at the Metro studios in Los Angeles while the original stage production was still playing at the Little theater in New York.

WHAT THE PUBLIC TALK ABOUT
By Mabel Normand

To begin with, I am about as used to writing as a horse is to cranking a flivver. So I'll just try to pen a few impressions, not of the studio, but of the good old playmate, the public.

It seems that the public always has one subject upon which it talks the most. Some say it is automobiles. Perhaps it was a few years ago, but I have an idea it is the photoplay now.

Imagine yourself in a department store when clanging bells signal the end of the day's toil. Girls and men scurrying here and there closing displays; others turning in cash, and a stream rushing out with chatter and laughs. A cash girl slipping into her furs and turban, remarks to her girl-buddy, "Say, Sadie, who's the new little Mary Pickford with the big curls?" nodding toward a youngster with hair like the famous star, and a pretty face to match.

"Oh, I don't know—she ain't so much to rave over," a bit enviously.

"But she sure looks like Mary," with a wistful glance; she ends by saying, "Wish I could get a chance in the movies."

"You?—Oh, gee! what a scream! You've got about as much chance as a man trying to go to heaven in a diving suit."

And we have a conversation on pictures. I believe that the people talk on this subject more than on any other. Everywhere I go I hear someone talking about the photodrama.

Now around the corner a barber toys with a velvet beard, above which reposes in all its glory (?) a fuzz that would make a Frenchie hold up both hands in disgust. (A man told me this one.)

"Want the Charlie Chaplin taken off?" questioned the knife expert.

"Nope; gonna go to the penny dance tonight and the kid likes me because she thinks I look like Chaplin," the youthful "business man" answered, as the tonsorialist passed up the young growth.

Again we have the films in conversation.

Suppose we enter the boudoir of a screen-struck sweet sixteen, and there, right on her dressing table, all dolled up in hand-colored sweetness is Pauline Frederick, the idol of this child, while in front of her the would-be emotional star sits in silent admiration, with perhaps a letter from the real star in her hand. Aloud she murmurs wistfully and, to me, pathetically, "I wonder if I could ever be like she is." Possibly the usher at her treatre remarked by way of flattery, that she resembled the great Miss Frederick, or, the milkman might have hinted that her complexion would "photograph like a million dollars."

And so it goes, many places, many times, the eternal subject of the pictures. I wonder how these fans know so much about it.

And in the shops! There is a hotbed of talk about us in most any place. Nearly every day theatres advertise us. Many ladies who look for the latest styles invariably ask for something "just like Geraldine Farrar wore in her last picture," or a similar comparison. And in Los Angeles the salesgirls will often quote the stars' opinions about gowns, as, "Oh, this is the latest—Madge Kennedy ordered this style for her next story," or some such coaxing remark—and nine times out of ten, the shopper will immediately want the creation.

One expression is used nearly every day. It is, "Look at the Keystone," when a man falls down a step, stubs his toe, loses his hat, or any of the little funny incidents. Somebody is always sure to make this remark.

Men talk it, too. A chap was buying furniture. He could not describe just what he wanted, then he said, "I saw a great piano lamp in Tom Moore's picture, "Heartsease," at the Queen, remember?—where he has the argument with—" and so it goes.

In the home they talk the silent drama all the time. It is just, "Where do we go tonight?" and "Have you seen Mickey?" or "Let's see Will Rogers at the Old Mill."

This morning, while I was at the hairdresser's, two women came in, and as my face was screened, they could not see me—but they talked films. "Oh, Gertrude," one gurgled as she plunked into a cushioned chair, "don't you just adore the way Ruth Roland does her hair?"

"Well, I was never so keen about it myself—I like her acting fine, though. I like the way Mae Marsh does her hair."

In the ice cream palace, the cafe, the theatre—everywhere, they are conversing about the show they have just seen, or the one they are to see, or another they hope to see.

The fans' mail shows that they think pictures all the time. Stars receive hundreds of letters weekly, requesting photographs. They say they attend shows nightly, copy us in dress, expression, and manner, and that they practically go by what we in pictures do. Millions of them are crazy to get into pictures—just millions of them.

Oh, it's a great game, this screen business, and the Public is the fellow that makes it what it is, so why should he not talk 90 per cent pictures?

POTEL WITH WARWICK

Playing the type of character in which he excels, Victor Potel will be seen in the forthcoming Robert Warwick production under Hugh Ford's direction. The picture has been titled "In Mizzoura."

Great interest is being shown by the Vitagraph stars in the Ascot Speedway races, for the benefit of the Actors of America fund, to be held July 20th. Many entrants are expected from the Vitagraph studios, and there is a great deal of side betting.

Cecil De Mille and a large company have returned from a trip to Santa Cruz Islands with coats of tan and thousands of feet of pilfered scenery. Jesse L. Lasky went across with the party.

DE LUXE THEATRE
Alvarado between 6th and 7th

Sunday-Monday—Billie Burke in "Good Gracious, Annabelle." L-KO Comedy and Burton Holmes.
Tuesday-Wednesday—Nazimova, "The Red Lantern." Vitagraph Comedy and Kinegram.
Thursday-Friday — Elsie Ferguson in "Eyes of the Soul." Chaplin Comedy and Kinegrams.
Saturday—Shirley Mason in "The Final Close-Up." Christie Comedy, Elinor Field Comedy, Kinegrams.

DOG SHOW

SANTA BARBARA, July 11.—Dogs of the films are to be featured at the forthcoming bench show, which will be held here August 1 and 2, under the auspices of the Santa Barbara Kenel Club. As some of the best dogs in America are owned by members of the motion picture profession, in and about Los Angeles, they are taking a deep interest in the exhibition.

Trophies to the value of $3000 have been hung up, wherefore the competition should prove spirited. Many famous dogs, which are often seen on the screen with their owners, will be exhibited in the Mission City. Among those expected are "Keystone Teddy," owned by Mack Sennett; "Killarney," Charles Ray's Irish terrier; Roscoe Arbuckle's "Luke" and a lot of other distinguished canines.

Other film people who are taking an interest in the Santa Barbara dog show are Pauline Fredericks, Tom Mix, Wallace Reid, Margarita Fisher, Douglas Fairbanks, W. S. Hart, Charlie Chaplin, etc. All members of the profession, with dogs that they have faith in, are eligible to compete. Full information can be obtained by addressing Dr. S. E. Kramer, who is secretary of the Santa Barbara Kennel Club.

The show will be held at the palm ring, on the grounds of the Belvedere.

MAKE AMERICAN ICTURES IN AMERICA

James R. Quirk, published of Photoplay Magazine, returned from England the other day an avowed evangel of discouragement for American film people who propose to make hot-foot shooting tours to England and the Continent, now that the war is at least formally over.

"We have been told, and we believe," said Mr. Quirk, addressing a group of film manufacturers one day this week, "that the American film in mechanics and the American photoplay in artistry are the best in the world. Let me tell you something else: America is the best place to make that photoplay. Don't run off to Europe to inferior conditions just for the sake of novelty. You are going to find less than three months a year of good exterior weather in England, and the same in France, unless you confine yourself to Nice and that general vicinity. You can go to Italy, but if you do, you will run into a closed shop. Italian film industry and American capital are already working hand in hand there, and with the exception of certain American studios already founded and funded, and working cooperatively with the Italians, there is small chance at the moment for any one else to better conditions as we find them in America. With our artifices of architecture and our stupendously diversified scenery, we can get in this country a simulation of every country and every place in the world. Griffith made a better Limehouse in California, a thousand times, than I found in London—and I spent a day in the Limehouse district trying without success to pick out locations, he might have used in screening Burke's story."

Bernie Burton, formerly with the Wm. Fox and Triangle companies, is now affiliated with the National Film corporation in the capacity of film cutter for the "Hall Room Boys" comedy series.

NATIONAL ACADEMY OF MOTION PICTURE ART

It is some months since the first announcement that George Eastman would erect a theater in Rochester that would surpass anything at present existing in this or any other country. Now comes another angle to the story in the shape of a column of news by Julian Johnson in the New York World, and stating that Mr. Eastman's theater is to be something more than a mere theater, in fact that it will be a permanent and most valuable contribution to the science and art of making and presenting photoplays.

"In passing," says the article, "let it be said that whatever the motion picture may owe Mr. Eastman, he has been most lavishly treated by the motion picture for several years, for he manufactures at Rochester practically all of the positive and negative films. 'Cast thy bread upon the waters' as it were.

"The first public dream of the Rochester man was the establishment of a symphony orchestra. The dream expanded and became a symphony orchestra plus. While the details of his project are still nebulous, these are some of the propositions he will probably take up:

"The establishment of a collegiate, experimental laboratory to aid the producers of photoplays in solving many of the present-day problems.

"Artificial lighting is rapidly replacing sunshine in everything except straight exterior work, and lighting is still far from being a perfected science. Light and the sensitive film, too, are far from satisfying each other's demands.

"Continued study of the camera mechanism, with a view to the steady improvement of motion photography.

"The tinting and toning of film—those sections of a picture known as the 'night shots,' are, for example, still far from realism.

"Classes in the actual study of photoplay construction, which will endeavor to make of the scenario something more than a notebook of consecutive sets and shots for the director.

"Mr. Eastman's public presentation thoughts are more fully matured, it is said, than his plans for a foundation for experiment and study—definitely mateured, in fact. These are declared to include the establishment of an ideal—or as near ideal as possible—motion picture theater, seating 3700 people. Here photoplays, travelogues, comedies, scenics, news-reels, educationals and so on will be linked together in the best manner and order possible, in regular program form.

"The orchestra—the original symphony orchestra he had in mind—will be fully employed here. One of the Eastman ideas is that music and the screen are inseparably linked, and this orchestra will, it is declared, to be the world's greatest music-pictorial organization—a complete orchestra of 100 men, with a $50,000 appropriation for the selection of a conductor, a concert-master and section leaders.

"A lot of experimenting is to be done in the combination of dramatic pictures and music, not alone for great orchestras such as only large cities can afford, but in the exact musical scoring of photoplays for the modest melodic combinations of the average theaters and for the pipe organs.

"Samuel Rothapfel, former manager of the Rivoli and Rialto, will be the director of this theater. He, Eastman and Jules Brulatour were the Biltmore lunchers.

"And so their plans go, with much more detail than they care to give just now. In fact, they're not giving any details and only smile when asked about these particulars.

"It seems as though Rochester was destined to become the Beyreuth of the photoplay."

"Sort of a monkey-wrench, eh," observed Eddie, as he beat a hasty retreat.

Where to Sell Your Scenarios

This feature is for the guidance of scenario writers who have something to sell, but who do not know just where to take it. CAMERA! keeps this column for announcements by the various studios. Some of the matter stands from week to week as a reference guide. It will be noted that many of the studios do not wish scenarios submitted by any one; some want synopses only; others wisn the continuity written.

As the difficulties of the past years in regard to the submissions of scenarios no longer exist, it is safe for any one with a good idea to send scenarios to any company mentioned in this column. While this paper is not responsible for the use or misuse of scenarios by the companies listed, it believes that any scenario sent to any of the companies will receive honest and prompt treatment. Any action to the contrary will receive full publicity if reported to this office.

NORMAN SPENCER CHAPLIN

Though the birth of Norman Spencer Chaplin, son of the world-famed picture comedian, was not heralded by the salute of cannon, as is that of an heir to the blood royal, there is little doubt that the chord of human interest was touched in millions of hearts when the announcement was made, on July 7th, that a tiny heir "to the laughter of the world" had been born.

Thousands of telegrams were received by the famed parents of the tiny youngster, congratulating them upon its birth, and in Los Angeles and Hollywood hundreds of personal friends of Mr. and Mrs. Chaplin extended their congratulations.

It was a great shock to these many friends and, no doubt, to the world at large, when, on the third day following the advent of the tiny mite of humanity about whom such great interest had centered, the spark of life flickered out as gently as it had come.

Though words of sympathy may bring but little real consolation to the bereaved parents, we take this opportunity of extending our condolences, and those of the Hollywood film colony, to Mr. and Mrs. Chaplin.

METRO PRODUCTION NOTES

By Ted Taylor

Bert Lytell is starring in the character of Lombardi in "Lombardi, Ltd.," the comedy by Frederic and Fanny Hatton, under the directorship of Jack Conway. Thirty girls take part as mannikins and fashionable customers.

Directed by Henry Otto, May Allison started work on "Fair and Warmer" this week.

Director John Ince has taken his "Please Get Married" company out on location nearly every day again this week. Viola Dana is starring in this Oliver Morosco comedy.

Director Harry Franklin and his star, Hale Hamilton, have the honor of christening the new Metro exterior stage with a scene for "The Four-Flusher," the present comedy vehicle.

Mme. Alla Nazimova begins work on her new story, "The Native Doctor of Guya," this week. Charles Bryant, Charles W. French, Margaret McWade, Herbert Prior, Millie Davenport and Bhogwan Singh are in the cast.

GARMES TO THE CRANK

Lee Garmes, who joined the Gale Henry Comedy company last week, is reported to be doing very good photographic work with the Bell and Howell. Mr. Garmes formerly assisted John Leezer for Dorothy Gish productions.

Fred Balshofer is in our midst and was seen driving a million dollar touring car along Cahuenga Pass at ease with the world. So he should worry.

Earle Montgomery and Joe Rock are down at Laguna Beach with their troupe.

Lucy Donahue is a very busy individual these days. She just finished playing the minister's wife in one of Tom Ince's features.

Mal St. Clair and Roy Del Ruth are well under way in their Fox Sunshine comedy, with Glen Cavender, Jack Cooper, Marvel Rae in the leading roles.

SWIMMING NOTES

By Vance Veith

Jack Gilbert, Hugh Huntley and Norman Manning are three movie boys that are regular patrons of the marble plunge on the sixth floor of the Los Angeles Athletic Club. Every afternoon after a hot day's work at the studio they make for the cool plunge at the club and they swim and dive.

Charles Meredith has invented a new dive known as the Meredith dive. It is, in other words, a roll-over Piedmont. Believe me, it takes nerve to execute this very difficult dive. Charles does eight perfect dives from the ten-foot springboard at the L. A. A. C., and here of late he has taken to the tower, and has mastered a fine swan dive. Charles has just finished up a picture with Marguerite Clark and has gone to Coronado for a few days' rest. His latest picture with Miss Clark is "Luck in Pawn."

Arthur Hoyt is now between pictures and is making the L. A. A. C. plunge a regular visit. He is a great lover of swimming and diving.

Eugene Field of the Chaplin Studio arrived in Los Angeles several days ago from a trip to 'Frisco, where he went to compete in the Far-Western diving championship.

Dainty little Elinor Field is illustrating a series of swimming stories with Vance Vieth, to be run in the Los Angeles Times. She is a beautiful little swimmer of the racing crawl stroke, and her work in the ocean is wonderful.. She can ride an aquaplane, surfboard, canoe, and ride the waves like a professional swimmer. Elinor spends much of her spare time in swimming and diving. She like high diving better than swimming, but advocates swimming to develop the body into perfect form.

Reggie Morris and Bobby Vernon have been missing from the L. A. A. C. plunge here of late. Their alibi is that the call of the sea has taken a hold of them and they are now enjoying surf-board riding and surfing.

Eddie Cline was seen at the L. A. A. C. looking over a line of swimming suits at the club, and he feels for a blue and white striped suit. When he steps out on the sand at Santa Monica he will have a job on his hands holding back the crowd.

Ben Wilson is taking his serial company to Frisco Sunday night for a week's trip and intends to photograph some thrillers while up north.

Alice Davenport is still cavorting on the stages at the Fox studio for the leading directors in characters that are true to life and very clever.

Wallace Reid, dame rumor has it, just received an offer from some Wall street brokers to sign with them, offering him a million dollars or more. But he had to turn the proposition down. The Paramount Lasky corporation also wanted to extend Wallace's contract to read for five years instead of two, so I guess Reid doesn't know where he will eat his next meal.

Texas Guinan, who is being directed by Francis Grandon in two-reel western stories, has a pet collie dog that she is using in every subject.

Thomas Jefferson is playing one of his best characterizations at the Metro in "Lombardi, Ltd."

CHRISTIE PUTS ON RACE FOR ACTORS' FUND

Using automobiles of the vintage of 1894, the Christie players are staging a thrilling, death-defying race as the comedy feature of the automobile racing programme which will be given July 20 at Ascot Park for the benefit of the Actors' Fund of America.

William Beaudine, Christie director, will pilot the Shimmay Lizard, which was running well shortly after it was built by the Columbus Buggy Co. and named after the discoverer of America—not long after, either.

The other challenging entry is Bobby Vernon's four-wheeled Cootie. Bobby Vernon says both cars have one big advantage—they can't go out of the race with tire trouble because they haven't any tires.

As another feature of the week of benefits for the Actors' Fund, Dorothy DeVore and Bobby Vernon will be in the feature vaudeville programme which W. T. Wyatt is presenting at the Mason Opera House, Sunday, July 13.

IN MEMORIAM

Eddie Lyons, the juvenile member of the comedy team of Lyons and Moran, claims to know a married couple who are so romantic that they have decided to name their new baby daughter Cresta Blanca in sorrowing memory of the beloved one who departed on July 1.

"Lily-wee," Kathleen Clifford's two and a half pound Japanese spaniel, has been invited to attend the premiere exhibition of the Santa Barbara dog show, in the Palm Ring, Belvedere grounds, August 1 and 2. Miss Clifford, who is busy arranging for her forthcoming productions, will not enter her canine pet, but instead will donate a silver cup to be given the Japanese spaniel class.

Willard Barrows, treasurer, and "Joe" Morgan, cameraman at the Brentwood, both winners of prizes at the inter-studio golf tournament, pulled off most successfully by the officers of this company last week, have not yet recovered from the effects of the two days of unusually strenuous exercise and exposure to the sun and wind. Morgan's arms were blistered to a degree which made even cranking a camera a torture for a few days and it has not yet been "feasible" for Mr. Barrows to use a razor.

Sarah Y. Mason, King Vidor's secretary, is determined that the men at the Brentwood shall not have all the credit for originating athletic events of interest to the industry generally. She therefore is preparing to install a Ping-Pong outfit and to coach a team of girls to play the game which is now so strongly coming back into favor in the East. Since the men did not invite any of the fair sex to enter for any of their golf matches, Miss Mason finds it the psychological moment to interest many of her friends in the rejuvenated game which was such a craze with both sexes a few years ago.

Fred Fishback and Ethel Lynne were quietly married and are living very happily these days, even if Fred must work with wild animals to make his audience laugh at his pictures.,

MOTION PICTURE PATENTS

Motion Picture Machine. Herman A. deVry, Chicago, Ill. Filed Aug. 16, 1915. Serial No. 45,632.

The sunken gardens overlooking the sea at Long Beach, where John J. Haggarty, Los Angeles millionaire, has his summer home, were placed at the disposal of Viola Dana and her company producing "Please Get Married" for Metro Pictures corporation.

The stories for the new Bulls-Eye comedies were written by Jay Mulhauser, formerly with Cohan and Harris, Klaw and Erlanger and the Schuberts.

Five companies are now working on the Hollywood lot of the Bulls-Eye Film corporation. The directors are Charles Parrot, Gale Henry, Everett C. Maxwell, Leo White and Jay Mulhauser.

Jack Mower has been selected by Louis Gasnier to take the juvenile role in support of Lew Cody in his first starring feature.

Frank Lloyd has completed a feature with Geraldine Farrar as his star. It is a Russian play and Lou Tellegen appears as Miss Farrar's lead. Director Lloyd is now working with the scenario writer on a story for Pauline Frederick who he will next direct.

Fred Stone will soon have completed his first film, "Billy Jim," and Director Borzage and Manager Callaghan are selecting the cast for the star's next feature and are getting the story into shape.

Any advertising medium is good only in that it reaches the people the advertiser may logically expect to secure trade from.

Salt Lake City circulation means nothing in the business life of a Los Angeles merchant.

Camera! claims and desires but one class of circulation—studio people. To step outside that class means competition in a field already well covered by excellent trade journals.

For this reason the sale price of Camera! has been placed at ten cents a copy outside of Los Angeles County.

More Copies of Camera! are sold in Los Angeles than of All Other Film Publications Combined.

PRODUCTION NOTES AMONG STUDIOS

"PAYS TO ADVERTISE"

Bryant Washburn will begin the filming of "It Pays to Advertise" this week.

ARBUCKLE AT CULVER CITY

Roscoe Arbuckle is to work at Culver City, having leased space at the Lehrman Studios.

LEE STARTS

Lila Lee begins work this week on an original story by Beulah Marie Dix, directed by Robert G. Vignola.

CLARK PICTURE

Marguerite Clark begins work this week under Walter Edwards on the comedy, "All of a Sudden Peggy."

MYSTERY FOR EARLE WILLIAMS

Earle Williams will start the production this week of "The Black Gate," the mystery story of Hilliard Booth. The story originally appeared in one of the popular monthly magazines.

WORSLEY TO DIRECT FIRST BLANCHE SWEET FEATURE

The first of the Pathe pictures to be made by Blanche Sweet under the management of Jesse Hampton will be "A Woman of Pleasure," to be directed by Wallace Worsley.

ON LOCATION

The "back to nature" movement has now caught the Larry Semon Company. Mr. Semon, Lucille Carlisle and various members of the company leave Monday for Huntington Lake, where exteriors for the latest Semon picture will be filmed.

"CAPTAIN DEIPPE"

Robert Wariwck has begun work under the direction of James Cruze in Anthony Hope's story, "Captain Dieppe." The cast in this picture has not as yet been announced, although it is known that one of the important roles will be played by Jean de la Cruz.

NEW COMEDY

Gale Henry finished her latest comedy, "Her 'Week' End," last week and work was immediately started on her next film. With the exception of one or two scenes the entire production was made on location. Bruno J. Becker directed and the supporting cast included Milburn Moranti, Hap H. Ward, Eddie Baker and Louis King.

MANTLE RETURNS EAST

Burns Mantle, whose criticisms of the spoken drama have been a feature of the New York Evening Mail for some time past, has completed a two weeks' vacation in Los Angeles and Hollywood and is on his way back to New York. He spent most of his time here in visiting the studios and acquainting himself with production methods in general.

DWAN CUTTING

Allan Dwan has hied himself to the seashore to cut his production, "Soldiers of Fortune," which will be released early in the fall. At his home, out beyond Venice, Mr. Dwan has had one of his sleeping porches converted into a completely equipped cutting room. Here, with his assistants, he is cutting and editing his first independent production.

ANITA STEWART RETURNS

Thirty-two members of the Anita Stewart Company, including Anita Stewart, Mahlon Hamilton and Director Marshall Neilan, returned last Sunday from Santa Cruz, and work has recommenced at the studio.

Some excellent exterior scenes for "In Old Kentucky" were obtained in the mountainous country around Santa Cruz, by Tony Gaudio, cameraman for Miss Stewart.

WEEK BEGINNING TODAY

HART SIGNED

William S. Hart has signed with Artcraft. He will probably begin his productions in September of this year.

CAPT. FRANK E. CONKLIN BACK FROM SERVICE

After two years in the service of the French and American armies, apt. Frank R. Conklin has been signed by C. H. Christie to write exclusively for the Christie organization.

BILL'S NEW PICTURE

"Smiling Bill" Parsons has completed his latest comedy, "He Did and He Didn't," under the direction of Wm. Seiter, and is starting on a new story directed by Harry Edwards, the two producers alternating in turning out Capitol Comedies.

AN OPTICAL BANQUET

Earle Montgomery and Joe Rock with a bevy of the Vitagrapn beauties are at Laguna Beach filming bathing scenes for their newest comedy. Joe Rock says that these scenes will be "An optical banquet." In anticipation of the fulfillment of this promise it might be well to get out the boric acid solution and train the eyes to their fullest efficiency.

EDITING AGAIN

Charles Hochberg has been engaged as film editor of the forthcoming Lehram Comedies for First National, and is now fitting up his cutting rooms at the new studios, in preparation for the first release. Mr. Hochberg has been associated with Henry Lehram for the past four years, and edited all the Lehram Sunshine Comedies.

KEWPY COMPLETES FIRST PICTURE

The final scenes of "The Flirt," the first of a series of two-reel comedies featuring Allen Williams, were finished last week at the Horsley Studio under the direction of Guy Eakins.

Work on the next picture will be commenced Monday. Mr. Williams will be featured in all of his pictures, as well as exercise general supervision over the destinies of his enterprise.

IN HAWAII

Arrangements are being made by the Bulls-Eye Film Corporation to film their September and October releases in the Hawaiian Islands. According to Nat H. Spitzler, studio manager, two comedies will be picturized in the islands, which will be cut, titled and printed on the returning boat, to be released immediately upon the ship docking at San Francisco. Practically the entire personnel of the West Coats Bulls-Eye studios will embark on the trip, which will consume about six weeks.

MORE FRISCO OFFERS

Nat H. Spitzer will leave Los Angeles some time during the month of August to survey San Francisco with a view of building a new studio in that locality. According to Mr. Spitzer the Bulls-Eye firm must have larger quarters before September, as the Hollywood studios are far too small for present and future needs.

Atmospheric conditions equal to Los Angeles, cheaper electrical service and genuine co-operation are but three of the many inducements tendered Mr. Spitzer in a communication from San Francisco.

INTERESTING UNIVERSAL NOTES

From Ham Beall

Norman Dawn is meeting with much success in the production of his dog drama, "The Eternal Triangle," a play of domestic life, in which only canine actors are used. For extras and "atmosphere" pups Dawns levies on the Los Angeles pound.

"The Jack of Hearts" is the title of a two-reel western drama Reeves Eason is producing with Josephine Hill and Jack Perrin in the leading roles.

Harry Carey and his entire company of more than sixty persons are on location at Big Bear Lake shooting the mountain exteriors for Carey's new photodrama, "The Eternal Savage," written by the star in collaboration with Jack Ford, his director, and for which Hal Hoadley prepared the scenario.

"Tempest Cody Saves the Day" is the title of the newest of the "Tempest Cody" two-reel western drama series starring Marie Walcamp.

Production started last week on "The Winged Trail," the five-reel aerial melodrama, which Jacques Jaccard is producing with Lieutenant O. L. Locklear.

"The Desert Trail" is a two-reel western drama Edward Kull is producing with Pete Morrison and Magda Lane in the principal roles.

Frank Mayo and Kathryn Adams are the featured stars of "The Brute Breaker," a story of the French-Canadian logging camps, for which Lynn Reynolds is now taking concluding shots.

"Who Knows," the mystery melodrama by Kenneth B. Clark, which George Seigmann is directing, is progressing speedily with Kenneth Harlan and Helen Eddy as featured players.

Rollin Sturgeon is cutting and titling the "Sundown Trail."

Florence Turner this week completed "Oh, It's E. Z.," a one-reel comedy, both starring in and directing.

"The Pinnacle," Eric von Stroheim's feature of after-the-war conditions in Europe, is receiving the final editing and cutting.

"Sea Goils" is the title of a beach comedy with bathing girls de luxe, which Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran are producing at Universal City.

Priscilla Dean returned this week to Universal City from two weeks spent at Vancouver as the guests of Aerial League of the Dominion.

Miss Dean was chosen as guest of honor for the big celebration.

Peggy Pierce, who played opposite Harry Carey in "A Man of Peace," has been signed by Florence Turner, former Vitagraph star, to support her in the one-reel comedies she is directing and starring in at Universal City.

Miss Pearce was originally a Keystone beauty.

Although Mary MacLaren's first big hit was made in "Shoes," her later triumphs seem to be destined to be in "Pants." For Miss MacLaren is wearing bifurcated overalls in "Auld Jeremiah," similiar to those she wore in "The Unpainted Woman."

Captain Phillips Hubbard, who plays opposite Florence Turner was with the British army for two years, enlisting the first day of the war.

The English actor, Arthur Maude, is playing a prominent role in "Common Property," the new Universal feature Paul Powell is directing.

HOUDINI FINISHES

Houdini expects to do the last of the important stunts which remain to be filmed for "The Grim Game," his mystery picture directed by Irvin Willat. Mr. Houdini leaves for New York on the 24th of July after a couple of months of the most strenuous work of his entire career.

BARRYMORE NOT AN EXCHANGE

That the genial and generous Western representative of the Dramatic Mirror bids fair to lose the twenty pounds (avoirdupois) he has acquired in the few months of his stay here is almost a certainty unless divers rumors are quieted both immediately and effectively.

Some time ago one Harry Lichtig decided to open a new Photoplayers' exchange. He needed an office. So did Mr. Barrymore. Logical conclusion—Lichtig one half, Barry the other—sold.

Now out in the Markham building in Hollywood two doors bear different names, but lead to the same office, and some kind friend has been announcing that E. A. Barrymore has formed a partnership. All of which may now be labelled as B-U-N-K. Lichtig is not reporting for the Mirror and Barry has not as yet placed anyone in a coming star position.

Thus ended the scandal.

METRO NOTES

By Ted Taylor

Mme. Alla Nazimova began work on the story adapted from I. A. R. Wylie's "The Hermit Doctor of Gaya" this week. Herbert Blache is directing the Russian star, and Charles Bryant is codirecting and playing the leading role.

Hale Hamilton is rapidly completing "The Four-Flusher," the comedy-drama in which he has Ruth Stonehouse for his lady love, under the direction of Harry L. Franklin.

Lieut. Eugene Pallette, U. S. Air Reserves, has signed with Metro as leading man for May Allison in the Avery Hopwood farce, "Fair and Warmer," which Maxwell Karger has obtained for the screen. June Mathis and A. P. Younger are writing the continuity, which Henry Otto is directing.

Making the third time she has been leading woman for Bert Lytell in Metro pictures, Alice Lake has been engaged to support the young dramatic star in "Lombardi, Ltd." The scenario is from the typewriter of June Mathis and the direction is from the megaphone of Jack Conway.

Darwin S. Kerr, new West Coast manager for the Exhibitor's Trade Review, visited the Metro studios and was hailed on every side by friends he had not seen for years. Mr. Karr deserted an actor's career to write about actors. He played leads at the old Vitagraph.

A cable from Richard A. Rowland, president of Metro Pictures Corporation, and now in Paris, indicates that his European tour, originally planned to cover England, France and Italy, may be extended to take in Belgium, Switzerland and the Scandinavian countries. As a result of the cable, Harry J. Cohen, manager of Metro's foreign department, sailed July 12 to join his chief.

Frederic Malatesta, nephew of the Italian Premier Nitti, now basking in the international limelight while he endeavors to maintain friendly relations between Italy and France, has been engaged by Director General Maxwell Karger to play the role of a South American millionaire in "The Four-Flusher," in which Hale Hamilton is starring.

Helen Kent, a Ziegfield Follies alumna, is posing in D. Anthony Tauszky's skylight studio at the Metro studio for an oil painting the artist is doing for "Lombardi, Ltd.," in which Bert Lytell is starring.

In criticism of the methods used in purchasing original scenarios, the July 10th issue of The Editor has the following to say under the heading, "The Lack of Photoplay Standard":

"A play produced in New York City this season failed, and the producer lost, so the story goes, $12,000. Along came a photoplay producer and bought the photoplay rights of the unsuccessful play for $15,000! An author who received $500 for the magazine rights of a novel published in Munsey's Magazine sold his photoplay rights for $1750. The Saturday Evening Post paid an author $250 for magazine rights of his first published short story. A photoplay manufacturer gave this writer $350 for the photoplay rights. A writer who has built nearly two hundred original photoplays and who has made original scenarios for Griffith, Ince, De Mille, Blackton and other leading producers, has a hard time to sell his photoplays for $200 each! In the explanation of these vagaries is the solution of the photoplay riddle. The original story in manuscript must be accepted or rejected by the photoplay producer on its merits. Since few producers have any notion of what makes a story good—have, in short, no standard of judgment—the original story has little chance. The fact that a play has been produced in New York, or that the editors of the Saturday Evening Post or of Munsey's Magazine have accepted a story, raises it to heights far beyond the unproduced play or unpublished story, though for photoplay production the latter may be superior. The photoplay producer seldom has confidence in his own judgment, and he will not trust even his well paid scenario editor or reader."

That the fault lies with the selection of proper studio editors seems to be the opinion of the editorial writer, who continues the same trend of thought in still another article headed "The Present State of the Movies." The article follows:

"The appeal of a picture play is to the primitive, the careless, the lazy in man, therefore that appeal is popular. But there is a satisfaction to be had in picture entertainment that draws even the thoughtful. We all like to make pictures in our minds, and photoplays go to the extreme in helping us to do this. As entertainment (we except some of Griffith's pictures and some of those in which appear leading stars, players of long experience like Mary Pickford, Hart, Nazimova, and Fairbanks), most photoplays are inane and unsatisfactory. It must be granted, however, that a story can be beautifully told in pictures, with a few carefully devised and properly worded titles. We cannot, therefore, neglect the "movies." The art possibilities are great; the audience is the largest in the world; the payment to authors, once an arrangement is made with a self-respecting producer, is good. What is the trouble? Simply that producers will not employ editors of judgment, or having employed them, do not give them enough authority. Few producers are able to determine, after reading a story in manuscript, or a synopsis of a photoplay, whether or not it is what they want."

GRAPHOLOGICAL READINGS OF FAMOUS PERSONS

By FRITZI REMONT

No. 1—Harry (Handcuff) Houdini

This is a very creative and inventive hand, showing strong mental and physical vitality, resourcefulness, shrewdness, and yet a very emotional, impulsive disposition. Harry Houdini is aspirational, inspirational and ambitious.

He is extremely unselfish, generous and kind-hearted, a sympathetic friend, an observant listener, an intuitive reasoner. He shows a love of music, has histrionic ability, mimicry, and the gift of substitution, one of his strongest traits commercially, since it will aid him to utilize whatever is on hand if the thing he really desired to use is conspicuous by its absence.

He cannot save much money, for he loves to be humanitarian. On the other hand, both by magnetism and natural abilities, he will attract financial advancement. He has energy, initiative and strength of character, is versatile, as the letters of varying sizes betray, and is somewhat prone to nervous exhaustion, from which he will quickly recuperate, however, owing to his high vitality and endurance.

No. 2—Doris May (Ince Star)

Miss May has exceedingly high ambitions, a very refined, cultured, well-bred hand. She shows inherited intelligence, force of character, practicality and idealism, so has a well-balanced mentality.

The writing shows further a fine sense of humor, invaluable to her in comedy. She is shrewd and resourceful, and can keep a secret, though easy to meet, blessed with strong social faculties.

This hand shows splendid focus—little escapes Miss May's quick eye. She is generous to a fault, very unselfish, sympathetic, and yet able to hide feeling as well as to portray it, owing to her keen insight.

She is proud and original, creative, emotional, a natural actress. On the other hand Miss May would have made a wonderful nurse, for her love of punctuality, her warm sympathy and discrimination, coupled with cheerfulness, fit her for such an occupation. She has quick inspirations, too, and can easily fit herself to be a writer, for imagination and intellectual capacity, commingled with critical analysis and characterization, fit her for "slinging ink" freely.

No. 3—Douglas MacLean (Ince Star)

Mr. MacLean would have made a good scientist or lawyer, had he failed to train for the stage. He is super-conscientious, shows the marks of early religious and ethical training, and is a highly sensitive and proud character, who would scorn to show hurt feelings in public.

The hand betrays great intelligence, thoughtfulness and high ideals. Mr. MacLean has self-esteem without vanity, and just a touch of obstinacy, doubtlessly inherited from his Scotch ancestry. This will keep him sticking to his self-formed plans until they are properly executed. He makes very quick decisions, is ardent, enthusiastic, and a born reformer. He would have made an excellent orator, a brilliant clergyman, or an attorney whom no one could "down" in a wordy war.

The clearest possible focus Mr. MacLean brings to bear upon any subject in hand. He visualizes cleverly, is extremely fastidious and critical, loves quality in all things, shows discrimination in purchasing and investing, never would squander, has a good sense of appraisal and valuation. He shows versatility, the gift of language, should study foreign languages and writing for publications.

The writing further betrays a quick temper, restrained by shrewdness and control. He has much personal magnetism, independence, initiative and vivacity. He is witty, longs to do big things, and has the mental and physical stamina and endurance to succeed in many different vocations, although his love of hobby and his strongly histrionic baselines fit him undeniably for acting.

No. 4—Monte Blue (Lasky Company)

The creator of "Pettigrew" is full of pep and vitality, as befits an ex-cowboy. He is highly imaginative, intense, enthusiastic, filled with ardor and sentiment, with a love of romance, a buoyant and optimistic spirit, and has far more ambition to see those whom he loves happy and prosperous than to save anything for his own advantage. In short, Monte Blue is one of those lovable types which will fit in anywhere, make scores of friends and mighty few enemies, and who will carry out his ambitions by shrewdness and resourcefulness, as well as by hard work, attraction through personal magnetism, and an undaunted, courageous heart.

Mr. Blue is a lover of culture, but he is too restless to study long at a time. He learns much by experience, is very independent, full of initiative, is aggressive and versatile. He can always make money, he will naturally attract it. Good luck and Monte Blue will be synonymous for years to come. He has love of melody, a good sense of proportion and form, and writes a very colorful hand, betraying the fact that he might well give tone-color if playing an instrument, or show this trait in a love of beautiful, bright color combinations.

No. 5—Cathrine Curtis (Shepherd of the Hills)

Miss Curtis writes the extravagant hand, but she has so much common sense and so fine a sense of values and investments that she will make good use of every dollar spent. She is intuitive, too, and is governed by the feelings.

This hand shows a very ambitious, independent and courageous mentality. The sky's the limit for Miss Curtis. What others have achieved she will never be afraid to attempt. She never would crowd out anyone else, because she is free from the cattiness and petty meannesses of other women, and she is too generous to be jealous of their advancement.

She has a great love of approbation and appreciation, but she wants to EARN commendation, not be flattered. She is a good-humored girl, one who is seldom brought out of poise, and who has very firm will-power. Her sympathies are keen, but not misplaced. She has excellent judgment in giving. Cathrine Curtis is accomplished, has individuality in dress and unconventionality of thought, is broad-minded, full of interest in every up-to-date project, is humorous, highly imaginative, and conscientious. She is a creative soul

BY MILDRED DAVIS

IN THE MOUNTAINS

With a party of friends Finis Fox is taking a short vacation in Yosemite Valley. She expects to be gone about ten days.

RESTING

Mr. and Mrs. Carter de Haven spent last week quietly at their home in Ocean Park, before beginning their labors on a new picture.

WITH THE GRASSBYS

Sunday evening, at her home, Mrs. Bert Grassby entertained with a dinner for six. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Menzies and Mr. and Mrs. Marshall.

GUEST OF HONOR

Miss Kathleen Clifford was the guest of honor at a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Henry King at their beautiful Wilshire home, Monday evening.

AT CORONADO

Mary MacLaren and Katherine MacDonald, with their mother, Mrs. MacDonald, spent the week-end at Coronado Island. They will return Monday night.

MT. WILSON PARTY

Miss Marie Benson, accompanied by her brother, Lieut. W. F. Benson, and Miss Bobby West and Nye Williams of the Rolin Film Company, hiked up Mt. Wilson last Saturday night, enjoyed the sunrise from the summit of the mountain, and returned Sunday night.

MOONLIGHT SWIMMING

Gladys Brockwell has taken a house at Santa Monica for the summer. Miss Brockwell is giving special attention to her swimming, and is receiving instruction from Bazee, a San Francisco teacher. Early last week Miss Brockwell gave several small moonlight swimming parties. So, you can see, she proves that moonlight can be used for more than one thing.

SPAGHETTI

At her home, Tuesday night, Galdys Rhodes presided over a spaghetti spread. Polly Moran and Lucille Humbert were the honored ones. The other guests were George Hall, Winifred Haslan, Walter Wherle, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Glenn, and Mr. and Mrs. Wood.

When the spaghetti was duly consumed dancing became the chief amusement. The party ended with a short motor ride in an effort to cool off after the dancing.

"BOB" HUNTER MARRIES

"Bob" Hunter has gone and done it! On Friday of last week the clever little publicity and continuity writer for Super-Arts slipped quitely away with George B. Elder of the Lasky Studios, and returned as Mrs. Elder.

After a short honeymoon trip to Catalina (we hope Mr. Wrigley will appreciate this), the young people will return to Los Angeles, so that Laskys and the Super-Art people may resume work once more.

MUSIC

At her home Tuesday night Mrs. George Melford entertained a group of friends with an evening of music. Mr. Evans Kirk rendered several piano solos, and also accompanied Mrs. Grace Mitchell who presented a number of vocal solos. Among the guests were Miss Dorothy Heinz, Miss Baring, Miss Margaret Etinger, Miss Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Monte Blue, Mr. Al Christie, Mr. Charles Christie, Mrs. Alice Mitchell, Mr. Evans Kirk, and Mr. George Melford's mother and sister from Canada.

After the music a Dutch lunch was served and the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing.

FROM THE BIG TOWN

Al Semnacker's mother, Mrs. Louise Semnacker, with his sister, Mrs. Carle Boynton, and her daughter, arrived in Los Angeles Sunday afternoon from New York City. They anticipate making their home here. Previous to their arrival, Mr. Semnacker had not been with his relatives for eleven years.

CRUISING

Last week the Lew Cody company draged in their anchor and sailed away for a two-days' cruise in the good ship Companero, of which Mr. William J. Wrigley, Jr., is the owner. At the start of the trip, as a personal compliment, Mr. Cody gave each of the members a ukalele. Such a harmonious time was had that they did not notice the effect old Sol was having upon them until they returned, when they discovered that his contact had been very personal.

Mrs. Gilbert Chesly was the dinner guest of Miss Nell Newman at the Studio Club, Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Squiers of Pasadena spent several days at the Club last week.

RIDING PARTY

Wednesday evening Miss Dorothy Gish entertained the members of her company and several of the Griffith players with an informal dinner at the Beverly Hills Hotel. In accordance with a recently acquired vogue the party gathered at the studio in riding habits, when their work was finished, and the earlier part of the evening was spent in a ride which terminated at Beverly.

Miss Gish's guests were Frances Parks, Rhea Haines, Emily Chichester, Miss Cavine, Miss Lillian Gish, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Clifton, Robert Harron, Raymond Cannon, Dick Barthlemuss and Ralph Graves. Mrs. Gish chaperoned the party.

DANCE AT STUDIO CLUB

The Studio Club dances are becoming more and more popular as summer wears on, despite the fact that so many of the girls of the club are vacationing. Out of town guests are enjoying the hospitality of the club, Mrs. S. P. Criber and Miss Hoek of Kansas City being among those who attended the dance last Friday evening. These dances are informal, and members of the Club and their friends are cordially invited to attend.

Among the seventy-five guests who enjoyed the Friday night dance were: Misses Leota Lorraine, Helen Eddy, ZuSu Pitts, Marjorie Daw, Julanne Johnson, Mrs. Al. Piersall, Mrs. Jerome Eddy and Messrs. Wm. Shearer, Truman Handy, Ewing, Mitchell, David Davis and Mr. Leighton.

These dances will be held on every third Friday evening, the date for the next one having been set for August 1st.

HOME AGAIN

Al E. Christie and company have just returned from Bear Valley where they made a bear picture.

BIRTHDAY

Nat H. Spitzer, studio manager for the Bulls-Eye Corporation, in Hollywood, celebrated his forty-third birthday Friday, July 11th. He was presented with a handsome floral piece by the employees of the Bulls-Eye studios, as a token of the high esteem in which he is held among his subordinates.

Club Notes

Saturday, July 12th, proved the greatest success of all at the Mitchell Hollywood Studio. The costume dance, in honor of the Dug-Out Club, drew over a hundred couples, the guests of honor being Miss Edith Roberts and Mr. Neal Burns. In the most exciting of the dancing contests yet staged at the studio, the honor guests decamped with the prize, and rewarded the guests with one of the prettiest little exhibition dances ever seen in Hollywood.

Over two hundred of the studio's friends are expected to attend the Country Dance scheduled for Saturday night, and as almost all promise to be in costume, the party should be a riot. The guests of honor at this party will be Rida Preisova, who has lately arrived in the city, and Mr. C. B. Currier, the New York artist. Aming the Picture Studios which are expected to be well represented are the Fox, Universal and Brunton, as large parties are being formed from those places for Saturday's dance. The Dug-Out and Studio Clubs also expect to have delegations present.

The Studio was opened for the purpose of having a place in Hollywood where the picture people and their friends may meet for an evening's informal enjoyment, and it is being conducted with the hearty co-operation of many friends in Hollywood. The dances are conducted every Tuesday, Friday and Saturday evening, under ideal summer conditions.

The dances next week will be held in honor of Misses Yvette Mitchell, Chase Herendeen, Edna Harris, Hullane Johnstone and Betty Peterson.

All ex-service men residing in the vicinity of Hollywood are urged to attend the next meeting of the Hollywood Service Men, which will take place in the Mitchell Hollywood studio, on Monday, July 21st, at eight o'clock.

Mrs. J. E. Ware of Hollywood is making elaborate plans for a reception and dance to be held at the Studio in the near future in honor of her son Frank, who just returned after two years' service with the A. E. F. in France.

Seventy-five guests attended the informal dance given last Friday evening at the Studio Club.

George Du Bois Proctor has joined the Fox staff.

Mrs. Lamar Johnstone and Renee Beaman are now living at the Studio Club.

Miss Maie B. Hovey, author of four of Bessie Barriscale's pictures, is writing another story for the same star. She is under contract with Robertson-Cole.

BESSIE BARRISCALE

By Mildred Davis

In New York City there was a time, not very long ago, when child actresses did not flourish in such generous abundance as they do now. In fact there was one theatrical manager who was compelled to insert an advertisement in a daily paper in order to get the youthful talent that he desired. Bessie Barriscale's mother saw the ad, answered it, and another star was started on her way. The new candidate for astral planes was very tiny, five years old, and we believe that the most of her was large brown eyes, and a mass of thick yellow curls. There were other children to be provided for, each an added strain on the small family income, so Bessie became an actress through sheer necessity.

For years Miss Barriscale toured the United States doing child parts. The roles varied, gradually becoming more important. The little sunny haired girl finally went to London where she played several seasons with Mr. and Mrs. Russ Whythal. With the Whythal company she toured the West Indies, playing in Jamaica, Haiti, Porto Rico and Cuba. Little Lord Fountleroy was her principle role with the Whythals. But she has East Lynned and Little Eva-ed far more than to "hearts content." Those years were filled with time and energy well spent, to prepare her for her present position.

"The Bird of Paradise" was the vehicle for Miss Barriscale's first big stage success away from her child parts. Since then she has "just starred around," as she puts it. In the role of Launa, Miss Bessie's fair hair was covered and her skin darkened as a real Hawaiian maid.

During the first few days of the "Bird of Paradise" run various people came to interview her at the hotel.

"As I entered the room, their expressions of disappointment," said Miss Barriscale, "were very amusing. They had expected a lovely brown-skinned dark-haired Hawaiian. Then I walked in. A blond always looks washed out, anyway, so the contrast must have been shocking. After a few of these incidents I was interviewed in my dressing room, in make-up. Of course I would tell them that I was a blonde but, unless they saw me as myself, the knowledge wouldn't spoil their story."

Miss Bessie feels the same way about personal appearances for motion picture people. She never makes an appearance where one of her pictures is being shown if she can avoid it. She says that the only applause a picture actress receives comes in the letters sent by the fans. Most of these letter senders are very frank with their criticism and praise.

"We can study and profit by the criticism, and if the praise betrays the adoration of an ideal, why shatter the ideal" she askes us. "No matter what one looks like each person has his own vision of the actuality, and he prefers his own conception. So let him have it."

About five years ago Miss Barriscale was with the Alcazar Stock Company at San Francisco, playing the "Rose of the Rancho," written by the author of "The Bird of Paradise." She was asked to play the title role in the picture version of "The Rose of the Rancho." That was her first picture experience. Since then she has been starred with Ince and the Paralta. For the last year and a half she has been at the head of her own company, with studios in Hollywood and lately at the Brunton Studios.

Miss Barriscale is now doing a part entirely different from any other she has ever done. It is a modern Egyptian girl, and the bright hair will be covered again, with a dark wig.

The little star likes to do a variety of characters, as it keeps life and vitality in her work, even though some of her characterizations are not so good as others, and some are "the bunk," as she smilingly remarked.

"I want to keep out of a rut, but if I play similiar characters in all my pictures, I will not only get in a rut, but I will bore the public. 'She is always the same.' I don't want people to say that of me, not even if they must sometimes say that my portrayal is very poor," she informed us.

We hope that Miss Barriscale will continue to maintain the courage of her convictions, for by so doing she will be able to create the type of characters that by virtue of their merit will live and be remembered.

WHERE TO FIND PEOPLE YOU KNOW

BOND AT FOX

Fred Bond has signed for the present Fox production, under the direction of Scott Dunlap.

ART DIRECTOR

Charles H. Kyson has been engaged by Allan Dwan as art director and will take up his duties immediately at the Brunton Studios.

REPRESENTATIVES

The Screen Talent Representatives have opened offices in the California Building, with Dave Allen as manager and James Fish, Casting.

FIRST RUN

"Better Times," the Brentwood production, under King Vidor's direction, will be shown at the Symphony Theatre on the 27th of July.

IN RACES

Larry Semon entered a comedy car, a racing car, and his own beautifully equipped Marmon in the Ascot races held last Sunday for the benefit of the Actors' Fund.

NEW D. T.

Joe "Daddy" Moranti, formerly technical director for Triangle, is T. D. for the Model Comedy Company, producers of Gale Henry comedies, in Hollywood.

KING WITH GALE

Louis King, who has been playing in pictures starring Gladys Brockwell and William Farnum, has been engaged to play character parts in Gale Henry comedies.

FITZROY FINISHED

Louis Fitzroy just closed a three weeks' engagement at the Metro Studios, with Hale Hamilton, in "The Four-Flusher," under Harry Franklyn's direction.

STARR WITH SWEET

The cast of the forthcoming Blanche Sweet picture, now being filmed at the Hampton studios, includes Frederic Starr, who is playing a heavy role.

SUPPORT WASHBURN

Walter Heirs, who played with Bryant Washburn in "When Smith Left Home," has been re-engaged by Lasky to support the star in his new picture, "It Pays to Advertise." Donald Crisp will direct.

WITH DANA

Wadsworth Harris, since his return from Santa Barbara, where he passed a few days' vacation, has been cast with Viola Dana Company at Metro, for a prominent part in the picturization of "Loot," under the direction of Mr. Wm. Dowlan.

ROSSON BACK

Hal Rosson of New York 27th regiment will leave New York in a few days for Los Angeles where he will start work as cameraman with the Allan Dwan Feature Productions who are producing for the Mayflower Photoplay Corporation.

AT BIG BEAR

George Beban is enjoying a much-needed vacation at his camp at Big Bear Lake. After catching his limit each day before most of his neighbor-campers have thought of starting out, he hangs around the stream waiting for someone he can "show now" or "help out" as he puts it—but before they realize it, he has caught their limit too! Beban Camp is always open while its most is there, and as one of Mr. Beban's many accomplishments is cooking, an appetite is all one need really take with him.

PICK-UPS BY THE STAFF

NORMAND AUTHOR

Bob Hall is the author of the story for the latest Mabel Normand picture.

INGENUE

Beatrice Joy is palying the ingenue role in George Loane Tucker's present picture.

WILBUR AUTHOR

Maude Fealy is to appear in Crane Wilbur's "A Fool's Game," under the management of John Cort.

YOUNGER MOROSCO

Walter Morosco, son of Oliver Morosco, of legitime fame, has been engaged to support Lew Cody in his new productions.

SUPPORTING MARY

Jack Gilbert, who is supporting Mary Pickford at the present time, is becoming a swimming shark and is seen daily in the Los Angeles Athletic Club swimming tank.

THE VILLAIN

Bertram Grassby is becoming quite an "old inhabitant" at the Ince studio, for he is still playing the bad man with Louise Glaum in the feature under the management of Parker Read.

BORROWING MOWER

During the vacation Super-Art Productions company is having, while Director Wayne Mack is out of town, Jack Mower has been loaned to the Louis Gasnier company, but he will be seen in the coming Mary Anderson production now being prepared.

FACIAL ADORNMENT

At last Jack Connolly has fallen, too! And it's going to be a cute little auburn one, waxed at each end —an' everything (if it isn't worried to death before it grows up!) But like everyone else he has an alibi. Says he didn't want the blooming thing, but Bob Hunter created it along with his role in the Mary Anderson picture.

KIRKWOOD TO ACT

James Kirkwood, who for the past year has been directing, has decided to return to the screen as an actor and has been engaged by Allan Dwan to appear in one of the principal roles of his next picture. Mr. Kirkwood arrived in Los Angeles on Wednesday to get ready for work which will start in the near future.

BETTER TIMES

Brentwood entered the "Better Times Flivver" which was used in the filming of the picture of that name for the comedy race at Ascot Park today. ZuSu Pitts personally conducted this ancient product of Henry Ford's factory around the race course arrayed in the costume which she wore for the picture.

DOUBLING IN STRIPES

Tom Bates has completed the character part of the "King" in Huckleberry Finn. Mr. Bates informs us that this part called for great versatility, necessitating a successful portrayal of Shakespeare's Juliet, ragged-royalty, and a Bengal tiger. All of this in spite of his pink whiskers, too.

BIRD'S EYE STUFF

Harry Gersteadt, cameraman for the Bill Desmond company, is flying high of late. Last Sunday with Bob Thornby, Desmond's director, he made the Sid Chaplin aeroplane trip from San Pedro to Catalina, later flying up the coast about fifty miles. Gersteadt shot many feet of film in scenes of Catalina Island and the Santa Barbara Island, from the aeroplane.

WITH NAZIMOVA

W. A. Orlando is now playing with Mme. Nazimova.

HALL ROOM BOYS

Eddie Flanagan and Neely Edwards will start on the fifth of "The Hall Room Boys" series of comedies at the National the first of the week, under the direction of Harry Edwards.

NEW ADVERTISING MAN

Alfred King has taken over the advertising end of Camera. In the future he will devote his time to that phase of the paper and "The Pulse of the Studios" feature.

See Mr. King when you are arranging your publicity campaign.

BOSWORTH SIGNS

Thomas H. Ince has closed a contract with Hobart Bosworth to star under his direction in a number of big productions. Mr. Bosworth will undoubtedly direct his own company under the personal supervision of Thomas H. Ince.

ART DIRECTOR

Frank Ormston has been appointed art director of the Lew Cody productions and A. C. Sprague, technical director. Mr. Cody has surrounded himself with some very beautiful women, including Doris Pawn, Eileen Percy and Kathleen Kirkham. Important in his male cast are Jack Mower, Fredrick Broom and Andrew Robson.

SOME JOB

Once more A. S. Widom has had occasion to prove his competency as the head of the wardrobe department of a big concern. Douglas Fairbanks on Friday had a set of 1500 people. Mr. Widom successfully superintended the costuming and everything turned out without a hitch.

DALTON FILM

Dorothy Dalton, Thomas Ince star, has begun work in New York City, on the second production to be made for the screen by her in the metropolis. This is a film version of the novel, "The White Rock," by J. B. Harris-Burland. It was picturized by R. Cecil Smith and will be directed by Joseph DeGrasse.

IN WYOMING

The Fred Stone company, under Frank Borzage's direction, is leaving Los Angeles for the Charles Irwin ranch in Wyoming, to take scenes for Stone's second production, "The Duke of Chimney Butte," by George W. Ogden. At the same time the company will attend the roundup at Cheyenne. Josie Sedgwick and Vola Vale have good parts in this production.

AT BULLS-EYE

Harry Mann and Miss Matie Connolly, both supporters of Nazimova in Metro's "Red Lantern," are now with Bulls-Eye.

May Foster, well known character woman, is now with Bulls-Eye.

Beatrice Lovejoy, formerly with Griffith, has signed a long-term contract with Bulls-Eye.

Evelyn Nelson is featured in the newest Bulls-Eye release, "Lock Your Car."

BUSY BOY

"Bob White," the clever little five-year-old son of George Beban, writes to his dad from New York that he's anxious to get home to California and get to work! In view of the tremendous success he made of the role assigned him in Mr. Beban's first production, the young artist probably has a raise of salary in sight—so he should linger idly in new York! "Hearts of Men" brought him a four-figure salary in Liberty Bonds.

AT INCE

Claire DuBrey has started work once more, this time at the Ince studios.

MAY FEATURE

Lloyd Ingraham is well on the way with his feature, "The House of Intrigue," with Peggy May as his star. The story is by Arthur Stringer.

TROPICAL LOCATIONS

Maurice Tourneur is preparing to take his company to Palm Springs for some scenes in "Victory," and later will go to the center of Catalina Island.

CAREFUL! CAREFUL!

Hale Hamilton burst into the Metro publicity office attired in a suit of pajamas and astonished Mr. Jacobs of the Picture Show, who was chatting wit hthte Hon. P. A.

LOST AND FOUND

Ethel Clayton, who was reported "lost," has turned up in New York. She has been on a trip to Japan and other countries. She will return to Los Angeles shortly.

GLENNON CRANKING

Lieut. Bert Glennon, former head of photography at the National Film Corporation, is now handling the camera for Director Hal Hurst, who is producing the eighteen episode serial, "Lightning Bryce," in which Ann Little and Jack Hoxie costarred.

BOB BUSY

Bob McGowan, story writer and assistant director to Wm. Seiter, is providing vehicles for both the De Haven and Parson companies besides his regular duties of assisting.

The assistant director thing isn't all beer and skittles—especially the beer

FARNUM BOOKING

Walter C. Farnum, well known actor-manager, has opened a booking office in the Grant Building, Los Angeles. Mr. Farnum has had over twenty years experience as actor, theater manager, producer and booking agent.

DORETY FEATURED

Charles Dorety is to be featured in the new Bulls-Eye series of comedies, the first of which is now being filmed under the direction of Charles Parrott. The stories are being written by Jay Mulhauser, formerly with Cohan and Harris, who will also write the subtitles.

O'HARA BACK

Norman O'Hara of Los Angeles, for years a stage carpenter in many of the picture studios on the Pacific coast, has returned to his home. O'Hara, who was discharged with the rank of first sergeant, went overseas with the 91st Division in September, 1918. His regiment, the 363rd Infantry, was immediately sent to the front. O'Hara was wounded three times in the Argonne Forest.

Thos. Geraghty leaves for Europe for Marshal Neilan.

Marie Correlli's "Sorrows of Satan" is to be filmed in London by the Famous Players-Lasky British Productions.

Ernest Butterworth, who will be remembered for his characterization of the little German boy in the De Mille picture, "Till I Come Back to You," has been cast for the next Alan Dwan production.

Mr. and Mrs. Carter De Haven will begin on a new comedy production at the National studios in the course of a few days, directed by William Seiter.

CHIT, CHAT & CHATTER OF INTEREST

BY HARRY BURNS

Roy Comstock has been promoted by Mitchell Lewis for his earnest work in his company, by being handed the position of assistant director.

Eugene Pellette, 'tis said, claims to be the only living rival of the late Theodore Roosevelt as a huntsman. But if what I have been told about one trip he made up north is the truth, he had better be good to me or I'll be publishing the facts about his actions when he saw or rather heard some wild animals growling, or was it howling, Gene?

Howard Gaye informs us that Wilfred Lucas and Bess Meredith are going to make up two of the passengers aboard a steamer that sails for Australia the 12th of next month, signed by Snowy Baker to produce pictures in the Antipodes country for that famous sportsman.

Roscoe Arbuckle, Lou Anger and Jean Havez put over a very amusing skit Sunday night last at the Mason Opera House at the Actors Fund benefit, when they knocked every one from the Arbuckle pictures to Bill Hart. They did it according to the progra mm a talkfest such as is staged in the Alexandria hotel tea room every afternoon, or was it on the million dollar rug? At any rate they did well.

Eddie Cline, formerly director for Mack Sennnett Company, is working on his first Fox Sunshine Comedy, starring Polly Moran. The picture will be released some time in September. The supporting cast includes Slim Somerville and Jack Cooper.

Ralph Lewis has been engaged by Mary Pickford for her next picture, "Pollyanna." This is Mr. Lewis second consecutive picture with Miss Pickford.

Mae Gatson has decided to make a trip east and rest up for a while before facing the camera once more.

Max Asher is around acting mysterious of late. Some one tipped me off that he just received an offer from the King of England to come and manage the country or something like that, or perhaps he has been asked to try and straighten this land out. I didn't get just which.

Noel R. Smith just finished a western comedy with Jimmy Aubry in the stellar role. Joimes, they tell me, was funnier than ever in his present subject.

Irving Luddy has been at Laguna listening to the sad sea waves and at the same time keeping the Gilbert W. Pratt features smiling, while the Montgomery Rock funsters whom he directs are keeping the people of that locality laughing at their antics.

M. R. Schlank, who handles Hank Mann, returned from New York City with his pockets bulging out with contracts for the releases of the Hank Mann Feature Comedies, and the company will be up and at 'em by the time this goes to press.

Marion Davis is said to be the greatest find among babies now appearing in the movies. Over at Sennett's lot they have Marion doing all sorts of baby stunts in the Reggie Morris Company, which features Louise Fazenda, Harry Gribbon, Billy Armstrong, Phil Dunham and others.

H. A. McCarthy, who is aiding his brother, John P., in the handling of the McCarthy Picture Productions, is the fellow responsible for the goblins, imps and nomes moulded out of clay that are used in "Little Orphant Annie" story taken from the poem of James Whitcomb Riley. The picture will be at Quinn's Rialto all this week.

W. S. Campbell is very much elated over the way his initial Joe Martin Comedy went over at the California Theater.

John P. McCarthy is directing Russell Simpson at the Universal.

Dan Crimmins and Rose Gore just finished with the Vitagraph and were immediately engaged by Lyons and Moran through Eugene De Rue the latter present picture at the Big U.

Blanche Rose has been engaged to work with the Marjorie Wilson-Herman Company and reports that the company is fast rounding into top-ing shape which means that they are slugging fast and getting some excellent scenes.

Fred Starr is working with the Blanche Sweet Company at Hampton's studio, so Fred, after here any time after finishing with Elmo Lincoln at the Great Western studio.

Mildred Lee finishes her engagement with the Lyons and Moran Company at the Universal and expects to sign up with another organization to play ingenue leads. So she should worry about changing her post office address.

F. H. Wise, one of the interest boys, has landed in our midst with both feet and a healthy pair of hands and is desirous of getting back into harness. He used to be an assistant before he signed on overseas in the company of other Americans.

W. P. S. Earle is directing Lottie Pickford at Inceville studio and Billy Silvernail has gone to work there to assist Director Earle.

Jack Freulich, who is the official photographer for the Universal, has just completed a series of still pictures of the cinema fights of the studio that should turn every one's attention to any lobby that they are displayed in.

Bobby Vernon is on the warpath all on account of his having a very pleasant trip to the beach suddenly broken up, and to be called back to start working at the studio.

Theo Madison and Eileen Sedgwick are to be featured in a serial at the Great Western Studio [LMO], under the direction of Bob Broadwell, who will have Fred Haymer as his assistant.

Duke Lee is making good with the Harry Carey company as a writer, actor and general all around man and will be worth watching for future reference.

Hammons is using her own home, Laura Cayou, way for the present short due to the making of the Irving which means that she can have an extra room at home and be ready to work, and when her days work is over she doesn't worry about getting ready to go home.

Mel St. Clair and Roy Del Ruth came out to the Big U and borrowed one of the cops and the trainer, Peter Steiner, to work the animal for the Fox Comedies. Everything worked like a charm and the cop seemed to know just what was expected of him.

Florence La Rue has been offered a leading part in a wild animal serial, and she is on the verge of accepting the offer.

Chester Bennett is chairman of the entertainment committee in charge of the first annual ball dance of the Assistant Directors Association, which is to take place at Brunton's studio, Thursday night, July 31st.

Pat Moore has been cast to work with Monroe Salisbury in the next picture. This calls for a trip to Hamilton, Lake and the Lake Tahoe. It is a pretty soft job when people who a company pays them to go to the hills and enjoy a vacation.

Jack Cooper has taken to attending, one can be seen every morning trying to do a few rolls on the top of the Sennett-Fox bathing. Here's hoping that he soon gets up enough nerve to make a trip in a real aeroplane.

Larry Wheeler, who appears in W. S. Campbell Comedies has been working and every day with the Thomas Tamer. Fred Fleisher was going to have him get rid of the rabbit due for planning, so Larry to prevent himself, started with the Tigers. Fred changed his mind and Larry is wearing the Tamer uniform.

DOINGS OF ASSISTANT DIRECTORS ASSOCIATION

By Harry Burns

In order to improve their members in everything that they do in their every day studio life, the Assistant Directors Association is setting aside nights aside for lectures on different countries, customs of the people the clothes they wear the way they act, and invitations have been sent out to some of the most learned scholars to give the boys a nightly talk on these subjects.

Not content with this the organization is also having the world's greatest producers, directors, cameramen, technical directors, laboratory executives and actors to spend an evening with the assistant directors give them, every private, matter of going a talk to what interests them most and become better acquainted.

On top of all this there will soon be added to the club rooms a complete library, which will contain such information as is desired from time to time, and which may cause an assistant to spend many hours in a downtown library.

The Assistant Directors Association has served a aid to build up its worthy institution, and will add many dollars to its treasury the night of July 31st at Brunton's studio, when they are staging their first annual barn dance for the express purpose of getting the very things that they need to help one another in their daily work. In other words, they will have every bit of information that any member or studio needs right at their finger tips and if any member of the club wants any assistance he can turn to the hundred members in the different studios and they will turn over every obstacle for him to obtain the desired person, location, character, prop or whatever may be the thing in question. So we have the true facts about the A. D. A. and its excellent purposes.

M. J. Murphy, who assists Jack Jaccard at the Big U, has topped his worthy experience by accepting the fiendish job of adding his pose pot on an aviation serial with Lawrence Lowmaster in the leading role. Murphy worked under sea in "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea." Now he figures to go that high above the ocean so they call him the jack of all trades, has he?

Manny O'Shea returned from San Quentin after spending a short time there with Director George Siegmann. No, they weren't sent up, they went up there to film some scenes which feature Kenneth Harlan and Hallie Eddy.

Charles Hall, who aids George Holt in producing the two-reel western scenes at the Big U, seems to be putting fat on the job, even if he has to work 24 hours out of every 24 in keeping ahead of the cussing George who is directing Marie Walcamp. "It has turned hot some temps," chirped Mr. Hall and he told the truth.

In the picture version of the famous Players-Lasky Hollywood studio was the scene in Cecil B. deMille's new Artcraft Special, "Male and Female" "Created He Them" which depicts a vision of ancient times, which may be termed the Babylonian period. The entire space on stage now known as the open stage was occupied by the settings arranged for deMille's picture. The tank was transformed temporarily into a den of lions inhabited by eight or ten animals who kept the air filled with their roars, and the spectators and actors generally speaking as a diversion. These beasts were untamed, and only by strenuous methods was it possible to work with them at all.

Gloria Swanson, Thomas Meighan, Bebe Daniels, Noah Beery and many others of the cast that has been selected for this picture worked in these scenes in costumes of a forty-below period, while upward of a hundred Nubian slaves, portrayed by genuine negroes dressed in animal skins lent color to every scene in one way. The picture is entirely modern, but the Babylonian scenes are merely supposed to be the vision of one of the characters.

Allen Watt and Bob Wells took a vacation to Cheyenne, Wyoming, to photograph the rodeo for the Universal. They left late Saturday morning and expect to make a couple of short pictures while there.

As James Marshall and his sister will enter the pictures in August under the Jewish name Prosora, the name of the studio will be changed on the first of August to the Prosora Studio.

Director Wesley Ruggles of Super Art Productions leaves Culver City on July 30 for New York where he has gone to sign releasing contracts for American and Foreign rights to the first of his productions in which Mary Anderson plays the title role, "Bettina." While in New York Mr. Ruggles will also picture two additional stars, these—with the Mary Anderson troupe making three companies in operation. To accommodate this rapidly growing family, the old Bay City Studio on Washington Boulevard has been leased in addition to the companies present quarters and Bayside studio which they are still retaining. It has not yet been officially announced under whose direction the two new stars will work but all productions will be under personal supervision of Wesley Ruggles.

General Manager Milton H. Hoffman of the Lasky studio states that work will be commenced immediately on the construction of a new and complete photograph gallery and experimental laboratory at the plant. The gallery will be for the use of the publicity department in making portraits of stars and others while the laboratory will be used by Arthur Wyhoff, director of photography, in developing new methods in photographic work.

LIONS AN EVERYTHING

The sensation of the week at the Famous Players-Lasky Hollywood studio was the scene in Cecil B. deMille's new Artcraft Special, "Male and Female" "Created He Them" which depicts a vision of ancient times, which may be termed the Babylonian period. Casting Directory

Copyright Applied For.

In order to be listed in this column, it is necessary that you be sufficiently well known locally that there shall be no doubt as to your ability to play the parts for which you are listed. If you have not appeared in the films recently, it will be necessary to bring proof that you have successfully filled the part under which you wish to be listed.

This precaution is taken as a safeguard for this paper and for the people who are capable. Further, this precaution has been suggested to us by casting directors, as the column was inaugurated chiefly for their information.

Abbreviations: Characters (ch.); Heavies (hv.); Juveniles (juv.); Foreign (for.); Ingenues (ing.).

Changes in this column must be reported to the office of CAMERA! not later than Friday of each week.

Charge for listing, including change each week, is $1.00 for two months.

Graphological Readings of Famous Persons.

who is well fitted for a histrionic career. Her hand shows magnetism and she will always attract the wearer of the bifurcated.

No. 6—J. S. Woodhouse (Publicity Man for Thos. Ince Studios)

This is an emotional and imaginative bit of writing, showing sudden changes of mood, quick impressionability, love of change and travel, quick inspirations, and sensitiveness. Mr. Woodhouse is one who takes the short cut to work, who hates delays, but who is not fond of being coerced or ruled by another. He does not like to be rushed into things, and yet he is impulsive.

The writing further shows talkativeness combined with an uncommunicative strain at times; it all depends on how people affect his sensitive spirit. He is very deductive, a born diagnostician and an observant critic, who is good-natured in speaking of people.

He is generous to a fault, is prophetic in vision, can make money but not keep it long, and is much happier when working on his sudden inspirations than when doing any routine duties. He should not long sit at a desk, because he loves variety. He will always take the shortest way, provided it is a good one, to do his work. He is impatient, just a trifle obstinate at times, but can easily be led by love and sympathy. He would always make great sacrifices, and, while a fighter for his principles, and sensitive to ridicule and neglect, Mr. Woodhouse is highly good-natured, easy to meet and ready to meet any argument intelligently.

No. 7—Thos. N. Miranda (Editor, Goldwyn Studios)

This is an intelligent and cultured hand, betrays the idealism of a poet, combined with the practicality of a surgeon. Such a blending of common sense, deductive logic and inspiration, with idealism and unselfish motives, surely means mental balance of high order.

The writer is diplomatic, but a fighter for his principles. He knows when to keep silent, yet he has the gift of language. He connects cause and effect like a lawyer, and is close-mouthed as a secret service man upon occasion. Yet the talkative strain is there also, and Mr. Miranda is blessed with imagination and sentiment. His writing shows good wit, keen discrimination, positive assertions, strong individuality, magnetism, and love of unconventional thinking.

His writing is creative from its very beautiful capital "T" in his Christian name to the elegant "F," which betrays his love of quality, refinement, proportion, placement and system. This hand is routined and shows love of neatness and order; it is that of a well-ordered mentality and shows shrewdness and resourcefulness to boot.

No sacrifice would be too great for this man to make. He is not self-seeking. He saves time, energy and words, yet he gives lavishly and charitably. He is promotive, shows initiative, and has many social traits. He has been born with a quick temper, but has acquired self-control. His tact and kindness will always win loyal friendships, and he is of the type which retains such for many years. The hand is both emotional and impressionistic, shows character dissection and logical solution of life's problems as they present themselves for his inspection.

FRITZI REMONT,
Box 208, Station C, Los Angeles.

MURDER WILL OUT

Brooklyn has been called New York's bedroom and no less than eleven million wheezes have been devised to prove that Gotham's borough is the original home of the sleeping-sickness.

Its reputation for peace and quiet, however, has been disturbed by Miss Katie Livio of 116 Union Avenue, Brooklyn, who has suddenly manifested a blood-thirsty desire.

In an informal note addressed to the publicity department at Universal City, California, Miss Livio writes:

Dear Sir:

Kindly send me Priscilla Dean and Helen Gibson which I would be glad to hang in my house, so please send them.

Yours truly,
KATIE LIVIO.

WILLARD OUT!

Jack Connolly commutes to Super Arts studio on the electric cars. Stripped of its Willard batteries, his car stands in the repair shop. Not that the Willards haven't stood up through countless "rounds"—but Jack's a loyal fellow, and until they make Dempsies——!

"MONKEY STUFF"

Joe Martin, Universal's orang-outang comedian, saw himself for the first time on the screen when "Monkey Stuff," the first of his series, was shown at the California Theater, Los Angeles.

RARE

Assistant Director R. Hathaway, of the National, has literally lost his goat. That is said animal is lost pro tem., for he is now being cared for by an animal hospital and all because of his uncontrollable curiosity concerning a rather large bull dog. All of which is very annoying to Mr. Hathaway, since good goats are a decided rarity.

Change in Films

F. Ely Paget, of the Thomas H. Ince scenario staff, predicts that in the near future the familiar "five-reeler" will be replaced by two other lengths of film. In its place will be the "short stry" of the screen, the three-reel production, and the screen "novel"—seven or eight reels in length.

According to Mr. Paget, the five-reel photoplay has a tendency to be much too short for some screen stories, and as much too long for others.

BETTER BEGIN BY TREATING 'EM RIGHT

The following comes from the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce:

"The supremacy of Los Angeles as a film producing center will be made known throughout the rank and file of the cinema industry as a result of the action of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce yesterday.

"The Chamber has arranged with Harvey E. Gausman, Pacific coast manager for Wid's to gather data and information among the studios for a novel and elaborate exploitation of studio activity in this city and vicinity. It will consist of well prepared reading material and figures bearing on the development of film production in this quarter, and will embody a large map of Los Angeles and vicinity on which the location of every motion picture studio will be shown.

"The map will also show automobile roads to be used in reaching the various studios as well as the Pacific Electric and street car lines.

"The plan is to make this exposition so complete as to refute utterly any claim that some other locality might offer facilities to the cinema producer that would compare with those of Los Angeles.

"By placing this sort of information before the many thousands of exhibitors throughout the country, as well as all persons connected with the distribution and production of films, the Chamber of Commerce believes it will be reaching that portion of the public most vitally concerned and most deeply interested in the commercial progress and welfare of the industry."

"Gee, another vacation has been spoiled," was the remark I heard this morning from that well-known child character actor, Ernest Butterworth. On asking him what was the matter he replied, "It's always the same when I want a vacation for some director to frame a big part for me. What could I do when I knew that it was my old friend, J. Warren Kerrigan, who sought my services? I started my vacation determined to have a good time, but I remembered that six years ago J. Warren Kerrigan was the one who gave me my start in Santa Barbara with the American Company.

"Since then I have worked with such well known stars as Frank Keenan in 'The Crab' as Warts Warner; with Wm. Hart in 'Selfish Yates' as Hotfoot; with Mary Pickford in 'The Little American, "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm;' with Alan Holubar in 'The Heart of Humanity;' Bert Lytell in 'The Lion's Den' and in 'One-Thing-at-a-Time-O'Day;' with Jack Pickford in 'Bill Apperson's Boy;' with Miriam Cooper in 'The Innocent Sinner——' "

"Stop, stop, that's enough!"

But Ernest cried: "Dont forget the number of kid pictures of mine which have been released by Universal. But never mind the vacation. When I get through with Mr. J. Warren Kerrigan, me for the cool mountains and a good time."

Having seen this clever boy on the screen impressed me greatly but my personal acquaintance confirmed my first impression, and convinced me of his great talent and sparkling wit. I feel certain he will become the most brilliant star on the firmament of juvenile screen players. A strange coincident occurred while talking to Ernest—James Hogan, assistant to Alan Dwan, signed this clever boy to play opposite James Kirkwood in the next Alan Dwan production.

Where to Sell Your Scenarios

This feature is for the guidance of scenario writers who have something to sell, but who do not know just where to take it. CAMERA! keeps this column for announcements by the various studios. Some of the matter stands from week to week as a reference guide. It will be noted that many of the studios do not wish scenarios submitted by any one; some want synopses only; others wisn the continuity written.

As the difficulties of the past years in regard to the submissions of scenarios no longer exist, it is safe for any one with a good idea to send scenarios to any company mentioned in this column. While this paper is not responsible for the use or misuse of scenarios by the companies listed, it believes that any scenario sent to any of the companies will receive honest and prompt treatment. Any action to the contrary will receive full publicity if reported to this office.

MABEL CONDON EXCHANGE, 6035-37 HOLLYWOOD BLVD. Buying only books, plays and magazine stories, except the work of a few authors on contract.

MOROSCO FILM COMPANY, 201 N. OCCIDENTAL. See Laskey Market.

CHRISTIE COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. In the market for one and two reel comedies. Breezy, snappy incidents must be present in a marked degree. The Christie Comedies feature Bobby Vernon, Earl Rodney, Dorothy De Vore, Jay Belasco, Ethel Lynn, Fay Tincher and Patricia Palmer. Please sumbit by mail.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA PRODUCING COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. Scott Sydney, the producer, wants one reel stories suitable for Elinor Field.

WILLIS AND INGLIS, WRIGHT & CALLENDER BLDG. Neither purchasing nor accepting on consignment any original scenarios. Handling only photoplay rights to books, plays and short stories.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS COMPANY, SUNSET AND ARGYLE. Prefers considering the original work of screen authors, having always been keen to develop those writers who showed ability.

NATIONAL FILM COMPANY, 6107 SANTA MONICA BLVD. In demand for 5-reel comedy-dramas featuring "Billie" Rhodes. Also 2-reel comedies for "Smiling Bill" Parsons, and 5-reel heavy dramas for Henry Walthall, and 2-reel comedies for the de Havens, with domestic situations.

VITAGRAPH COMPANY, 1708 TALMADGE ST. The company buys no scenarios in the West, the same being taken care of by the Eastern Vitagraph Company at East Fifteenth and Locust avenue, New York.

DAVID WARK GRIFFITH occasionally buys synopses suited to Mr. Griffith's people and style. Stories should be submitted to M. M. Stearns, 4500 Sunset Blvd.

FOX STUDIO, SUNSET AND WESTERN. The company has its own staff writers, but will consider comedy-dramas and straight dramas with a strong love element. Also Western comedy-dramas for Tom Mix. Nothing less than 5 reels.

METRO, 1025 LILLIAN WAY. Maxwell Karger is manager of productions and June Mathis is head of the scenario department. Outside material is also considered. Good live American stories with a melodramatic touch for Bert Lytell. Comedy-romances of a lighter nature for May Allison. Snappy melodramas for Hale Hamilton; comedy-romances and comedy-dramas for Viola Dana, and dramas that are typically Nazimova for Nazimova.

WILLIAM HART STUDIO, 1215 BATES ST. Maintains no scenario department, but manuscriptts for Bill Hart will be considered. The stories must not take Mr. Hart out of his characterization, but they must have new ideas, a different twist. Pays upon acceptance.

GOLDWYN PICTURE CORPORATION, CULVER CITY. Will consider good comedies for Mabel Normand; ingenue roles having a touch of pathos, for May Marsh; ingenue roles that are rather fantastic, for Madge Kennedy; strong emotional dramas for Pauline Frederick; 5-reel comedies for Tom Moore; strong emotional dramas for Geraldine Farrar. Nothing under 5 reels.

THE AMERICAN FILM COMPANY. SANTA BARBARA, CAL., is in the market for five-reel photoplays suitable for either male or female leads; also for strong stories requiring balanced casts. Arthur J. Zellner is head of the Scenario Department.

THOMAS H. INCE COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Buys no outside material except from well-known writers on contract. Has own staff writers.

BRUNTON STUDIOS, 5341 MELROSE AVE. Scenarios for the following companies may be addressed to R. B. Kidd, Scenario Editor, or to the individual companies.

TOURNEUR FILM COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Interested only inscripts of large calibre, 6 or 7 reels. No society plays and no comedy.

FATTY ARBUCKLE COMEDIES, 1723 ALLESANDRO ST. Two-reel comedies having the essentiais of a good opening and a good finish, and the gags must be unusually clever.

MUTUAL FILM COMPANY, 72 WEST TWENTY-THIRD ST., NEW YORK. Will consider feature photoplays with parts suitable for Gail Kane.

BACON-PACKER FILM CORPORATION, 230 WEST THIRTY-EIGHTH ST., NEW YORK. Society dramas with women leads are needed.

ANITA STEWART CO., 4634 SANTA MONICA BLVD. In the market for 5-reel society dramas for Anita Stewart.

CHAPLIN STUDIO, 1420 LA BREA. Buys no outside material. Charlie Chaplin writes his own scripts.

PALMER ADVISORY BUREAU, 571-591 I. W. HELLMAN BLDG. We market material for Palmer members and recognized writers only. Have calls for all types of stories including serials.

L-KO FILM COMPANY, SUNSET AND GOWER. Not in the market for outside material.

UNITED PICTURE THEATRES CORPORATION, BRUNTON STUDIOS. Buying only high-class stories having Eastern or Western atmosphere which have sufficient action for 6 reels. Address scenarios to William Lord Wright.

THE DOROTHY GISH COMPANY, SUNSET STUDIO, 4520 SUNSET BLVD. Is in the market for five and six reel comedy-dramas, featuring Miss Gish.

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG is in the market for straight drama; 6 reels.

JACK PICKFORD can use stories of the good-natured, small-town boy; 6 reels.

BESSIE BARRISCALE will consider strong emotional roles with the society element; also comedy-dramas; 5 to 7 reels.

FRANK KEENAN'S scenarios must contain strong, virile, masterful character delineation; 6 reels.

MAYFLOWER COMPANY, GEORGE TUCKER, All Star cast, will consider 7-reel super-features dealing with modern society.

J. WARREN KERRIGAN—Six-reel dramas with marked romantic element.

EARLE WILLIAMS uses 5 and 6-reel society plays.

STEWART EDWARD WHITE CO. Produces only Mr. White's books.

KEWPY KOMEDY KOMPANY, 321 WEST 3RD ST. In market for one and two-reel Klean-kut-komedies—no slapstick. Also five and seven-reel dramas and comedy dramas.

MARY PICKFORD COMPANY. Not in the market at present for outside material.

UNIVERSAL FILM CO., UNIVERSAL CITY. In the market for 1-reel comedies and 2-reel Western. Will consider Western feature stories for Harry Carey; strong emotional drama for Dorothy Phillips and Mary MacLaren; feature character stories for Priscilla Dean; and outdoor character material for Monroe Salisbury.

FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CO., BOYLE AND STEPHENSON AVE. Two and 5-reel dramatic stories of the West for Texas Guinan. One-reel comedies for Mack Swain.

UNITED PICTURES CORPORATION, 1600 BROADWAY, N. Y. In market for strong emotional features with problem theme for Florence Reed—five reels.

SESSUE HAYAKAWA plays Japanese, Chinese and Far Eastern characters. Sympathetic roles and roles having to do with self-sacrifice are preferred to sentimental parts; 6 reels.

JESSE D. HAMPTON CO., 1425 FLEMMING ST. Will consider scenarios suitable for H. B. Warner, W. Desmond and Jack Kerrigan; five reels.

KATHERINE MACDONALD CO., PICO AND GEORGIA STS. Society or emotional dramas of 5 reels for Miss MacDonald. Address scenarios to Ursula March.

BRENTWOOD FILM CO., 4811 FOUNTAIN AVE. In market for modern American stories, with good theme predomination, and also good 5-reel comedy-dramas. Must have human interest, with characterization true to life. Five-reel features only.

ZANE GREY FILM CO. Not in market. Films Mr. Grey's novels.

POPPY COMEDY CO., 735 BOYLE AVE. Wants one-reel comedies for Mack Swain, which include dancing and swimming girls; and six-reel dramas of semi-western type for Tom Santschi. Also want a series of four pictures. Address Santschi, care Stuart, Camera!, 4513 Sunset Blvd.

MODEL COMEDY COMPANY, 1329 GORDON ST., HOLLYWOOD, is in the market for two-reel comedies featuring Gale Henry. Stories must contain strikingly snappy situations for female boob characters. No slap-stick will be considered. Please remit by mail.

MAURICE TOURNEUR, CULVER CITY. Masterly stories suited to all-star cast only. Must have some special appeal. No propaganda.

TO OREGAN AND WASHINGTON POINTS VIA PACIFIC HIGHWAY

In driving from Los Angeles to San Francisco, it is optional from a road condition standpoint whether the Coast or Inland route is used. Both routes are in excellent condition.

Going north via the Inland route, it is unnecessary to go into San Francisco—instead, go via Stockton to Sacramento, then east to Davis and north via the Woodland and Willow road to Red Bluff. All paved road except for a 12-mile dirt stretch between Blacks and Dunnigan.

In using the Coast route, go into San Francisco—ferry to Oakland—follow highway via Berkeley to Martinez—ferry to Benecia, then go north through Vacaville to Davis and continue to Red Bluff—then north through Red Bluff to Redding, 32 miles. Redding to Dunsmuir, 67 miles, road now in excellent conidtion except for a few miles of detours just south of Dunsmuir. Dunsmuir to Medford, Oregon, 109 miles, via Weed, Yreka, Hornbrook and Ashland. All over excellent graveled and graded highway—with concrete and macadam between Ashland and Medford. Medford to Roseburg, 113 miles. Excellent dirt and graveled roads, except for detours around construction work north of Grant's Pass in Cow Creek Canyon. Detours rough and afford slow driving.

Roseburg to Eugene, 76 miles. Fair dirt road.

Eugene to Albany, 52 miles, via Corvallis and Junction City. Gravel road the entire distance. This route is five miles longer than the Harrisburg route, but eliminates the necessity of ferrying at Harrisburg.

Albany to Salem, 28 miles, via Liberty. Stretches of dirt and concrete road.

Salem to Portland, 55 miles, via Wheatland, Dayton and Newburg. Paved between Newburg and Portland, balance mostly good gravel road.

Portland to Seattle, via Woodland, Chehalis and Centralia. Paved as far north as Scappose—good gravel to Gable. Ferry Gable to Kalama, then fair gravel road to Forest, then pavement to Grand Mound; good gravel road to Tenino and Olympia, then pavement to Seattle.

In general, conditions over the Pacific Highway are excellent this season—despite the fact that considerable construction work is under way through Oregon and several small detours are encountered. The only detour worth making note of is the one found in Cow Creek Canyon just north of Grant's Pass.

The approximate distance from Los Angeles to Portland is 1,200 miles, and the average running time is six or seven days.

KERRIGAN FEATURES

Two of J. Warren Kerrigan's new series of Brunton-produced photoplays, made by the star's own company, have been completed. Mr. Kerrigan is enjoying a week's rest and vacation between productions while the screen version of his next feature is being finished. Ten productions will be made under the new arrangement, of which two, "A White Man's Chance" and "The Joyous Liar," have been filmed and are ready for release through the W. W. Hodkinson Corporation. In these productions Miss Lillian Walker was the star's leading woman. Ernest C. Warde directs the series.

CECIL HOLLAND

CECIL HOLLAND RETURNS

Among the most recent arrivals from the front is Cecil Holland, who returned to Los Angeles Thursday. Mr. Holland will be well remembered as a prominent member of the old Selig company, with whom he was associated for practically four years, being known at that time as "the finest make-up artist in the business."

Holland was with Company C, 316th Engineers, 91st Division, and whenever there was a lull in the strafing by the genial Germans, Mr. Holland forgot all about war and sudden death, and was instrumental, with others, in putting on plays for the entertainment of the men in the trenches.

Six months after the signing of the armistice, he returned to the United States, though not directly to Los Angeles. The last two months have been spent in rest and recreation at Livermore, Cal.

ORGANIZED LABOR STEPS UP ONE MORE NOTCH

Out at the Douglas Fairbanks studio, Saturday morning, June 28, the Actors' Union and union labor received one of the largest boosts that could be expected in Los Angeles.

Al MacQuarrie, Fairbanks' assistant director, made the announcement that he wanted to hire a crowd of men, and that he would pay $7.50 per day to the union men whom he engaged, and $5 per day to the men engaged who were not members of the Motion Picture Actors' Union.

Or course they all tried to be "union men," but they could not slip it over on MacQuarrie, who made them show their cards.

Later in the day another long-needed boost for the cause was introduced when Al MacQuarrie called all the men who had charge of the horses, and informed them that Mr. Fairbanks had decided to pay the men who brought the horses to and from work an extra $2.50 for their additional time.

The men cheered "Mac" loudly and someone suggested a cheer for "Doug" and Al MacQuarrie. Immediately the boys took off their hats and gave three of the wildest Indian whoops that were ever put forth by three hundred and fifty voices.

We say, "On with the dance!" More power to the followers of "Doug" and MacQuarrie, and the Actors' Union.

A. C. WALKER.

MOTION PICTURE PATENTS

Attachment for Cameras. August J. Oering, Chicago, Ill. Filed Dec. 13, 1915. Serial No. 66,410.

1. In a camera, the combination with a camera box, of a sensitized-member supporting-frame adapted to contact with and define the exposure area of a contained sensitized-member, said box having a slot opening through one wall thereof, said slot extending parallel to and in close proximity to the plane of such sensitized member, means for obstructing the entrance of light through said slot, a printing slide adapted to be inserted through said slot and to project into the exposure area; said slide comprising an opaque, light obstructing part of a length equal to that of said slot, and a translucent extension adapted to project into the exposure area, said extension being capable of being written upon, and means for limiting the insertion movement of the said printing slide.

Moving Picture Camera. Samuel M.Lawhun, Jersey City, N. J. Serial No. 236,213.

1. A moving picture camera comprising a film chamber having an opening, a door for the opening having an exposure aperture, a lens in line with the door and aperture, means on the door for engraving the film, means for moving the door to carry the film away from its normal position, and a focusing tube adjustable to the door opening for focusing the camera without exposing the film to light.

Synchronizing Means for Motion Picture Projectors and Sound-Reproducing Mechanisms. Charles W. Edeling, New York, N. Y. Filed Sept. 14, 1914. Serial No. 861,697.

1. In a device of the class inscribed, the combination with two machines, and independent motor for each machine, means controlled by one machine for setting in motion the motor of the second machine and a differential speed transmission means interposed between the one machine and its motor, of automatic means controlled by both machines for controlling the latter means, whereby the speed of one machine is regulated in accordance with the speed of the other machine.

Picture Projecting Machine. Chas. Francis Jenkins, Washington, D. C. Filed Oct. 17, 1916. Serial No. 126,061.

The combination with a suitable standard, of a storing and delivering film box hinged to the top of the standard and provided with means for progressively rocking it about its hinge axis and locking it in each position a narrow suitably slotted table fixed to the top of the box with its axis parallel to the hinge axis and bearing all the necessary picture projecting mechanisms arranged to project laterally with respect to the table; whereby the entire apparatus above the standard is set as a unit to project at any desired point above or below its normal plane.

Motion Picture Aparatus. Charles Francis Jenkins, Washington, D. C. Serial No. 126,066. Filed Oct. 17, 1916.

In devices of the class described, the combination with a shutter and automatic devices for opening and closing the same as the operating parts of the apparatus pass from and to a state of rest, of means whereby the shutter is held in either the open or the closed position in which it may be, while said devices are temporarily entirely free therefrom.

Film Gate. Christen J. Peterson, Chicago, Ill. Filed June 11, 1918. Serial No. 239,412.

In combination with the head of a motion picture machine having a light aperture therein, a film gate enabling it to move outwardly from the head, tension mechanism for holding the gate in engagement with the film when in closed position, and an adjustable catch for holding the gate in closed position, said catch when adjusted serving to vary the pressure of said tension mechanism, substantially as described.

Motion-Picture Camera. Charles Uehelnesser, New York, N. P. Filed March 11, 1915. Serial No. 13,818.

In a motion picture device, a shutter screening device consisting of a pair of shutters, means to rotate same in opposition directions, a spiral gear slidably mounted on the shaft for one of said shutters, a year carried by said shaft, a gear mounted on the shaft of the other shutter, an idle gear meshing with said gears to reverse the direction thereof, means to rotate said spiral gear, and means to slide said gear upon its shaft whereby the position of the shutters relative to each other can be changed.

BURY YOUR BOTTLES

Empty bottles and flasks made friendless by the opening of the dry era on July 1 are finding unwelcome havens on the boulevards of Southern California, if numerous complaints from motorists are any indication, say officials of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Automobile Club branch offices and the touring bureau headquarters are receiving from ten to fifteen wild telephone calls a day from the irate auto owners, who state that their tires are being cut to ribbons by broken glass on the highways and city streets of the southern part of the state.

So numerous have the complaints become, that the club has issued special instructions to all signposting and scout crews to stop at all times and sweep up the broken bottles and flasks wherever found. Milkmen and garbage collectors are likewise blamed for the trouble, as evidence collected shows that milk bottles, looking shamed and innocent, are among dark brown beer and whisky containers which are being smashed on the roads.

All motorists are requested to continue to report spots where broken glass is found, and the Auto Club will do all in its power to abate the nuisance. If the complaints continue, the organiation will take steps to establish a regular "glass patrol" of the highways, it is stated.

J. B. Hoyt, proprietor of the cafeteria near Griffith's Studio, mourns the loss of his mother, Eliza B. Hoyt, widow of the late Hhomas J. Hoyt. Funeral services were held at the late residence of the deceased Saturday afternoon.

An Open Letter in Answer to a Closed Letter!!!!

Mr. Producer, Casting Director, and All Concerned:

In answer to W. J. Reynolds' letter to you to the effect that the SCREEN TALENT REPRESENTATIVES had organized for the purpose of exclusively representing the evening dress people and compel you to come to us and pay our price for them, we wish to state is an absolute untruth, as the only object we have in organizing is to take care of the calls for these people, so that the casting directors at the various studios may be able to locate them at all times.

Also in answer to the same letter that the only owners of the Screen Talent Representatives are Dave Allen and James R. Fish and that there are absolutely no studio casting dirctors, assistant directors or anyone else connected with it.

The business policies of this office are open to the investigation of the producer at all times, and we wish to say that we welcome it. The SCREEN TALENT REPRESENTATIVES wish to announce that it will never use any unfair or petty methods of competing for your business, relying upon its merits at all times.

Trusting that this letter will receive your attention, we are Very truly yours,

SCREEN TALENT REPRESENTATIVES,

By DAVE ALLEN,
JAMES R. FISH.

PRODUCTION NOTES AMONG STUDIOS

AUBREY FILM

Jimmy Aubrey is in the second week of his comedy under Noel Smith's direction.

NEW STORY

Henry King is preparing his second story which will again feature Douglas MacLean and Doris May.

FREDERICK'S STORY

Pauline Frederick is using one of Sir Arthur Wing Pinero's plays directed by Frank Lloyd, for her new picture.

INDEPENDENT PRODUCTION

Carlyle Blackwell has arrived in Los Angeles and will produce an independent seven reel feature. Charles Swickard has been engaged as director.

WILLIAMS BUSY

Theodore Marsden, formerly associated with the Vitagraph Company has been engaged to direct Earle Williams in his next Vitagraph picture, "The Black Gate."

AT HUNTINGTON LAKE

The William Duncan company at Huntington Lake report that they have completed five episodes of the new Vitagraph serial, "Daredevil Dick." This company will not return to the studio for at least another month.

"LESS THAN THE DUST"

Prohibition means nothing in William Beaudine's life. No sooner had July Thirst passed into history than the Christie director started "Home Brew," a timely comedy featuring Jay Belasco.

ROGERS FINISHING

Will Rogers is completing his initial picture made in California and Director Clarence Badger is putting the finishing touches to the production. It will be called "9lmost a Husband," and is adapted from Opie Read's "Old Ebenezer."

CHRISTIE SPECIAL

Al E. Christie has started production upon his new Christie Special in two reels featuring Edith Roberts, Neal Burns and Eddie Barry. Neal Burns is author of the story as well. The picture, which will be ready for release sometime in September, will be called "He Married His Wife."

NEW LOVE PICTURE

Bessie Love has returned from Seattle, where she was the guest of the North-Western exhibitors at the convention and has started work on a new feature. Chas. Spear will play the leading role opposite Miss Love supported by Jay Morley, Ann Schaefer, George Kunkel and Beulah Clark. David Smith is directing.

MORENO RETURNING

The Antonio Moreno-Carol Holloway company will be back in the studio from Truckee by the first of August and will bring with them completed, the final episodes of the "Perils of Thunder Mountain" serial.

The entire company will return to the Hollywood studios, but Mr. Moreno and Miss Holloway will remain only long enough to see the action screened for the final O. K. and then both will leave for a short vacation. Mr. Moreno will go to New York where he will remain for several weeks, while Miss Holloway has arranged to spend a vacation in the mountains before starting work on the new serial which is now being put into its final continuity form.

Wm. J. Baumann, the director of the "Perils of Thunder Mountain" serial, will undoubtedly direct in the next serial starring Mr. Moreno and Miss Holloway.

WEEK BEGINNING TODAY

Ethel Clayton is back "on the job" and is ready to begin work August 11th under Robert G. Vignola's direction in "The Fear Market."

UNDER WM. C. DEMILLE

William C. deMille will take charge of Robert Warwick and about the middle of August begin production of "The Tree of Knowledge."

"A GIRL NAMED MARY"

Marguerite Clark has started "A Girl Named Mary" with Walter Edwards as director. Kathlyn Williams plays one of the leading roles and Wallace MacDonald is leading man.

REID RESTING

Wallace Reid, on his return from Seattle, will have a vacation of several weeks before beginning on August 18th with James Cruze in "Hawthorne of the U. S. A."

LILA UNDER DEMILLE

Lila Lee is in the middle of her picture, as yet unnamed, under the direction of Robert G. Vignola, and on completing this film will again appear in C. B. deMille's company, playing an important role in "Why Change Your Wife."

GOES EAST

Peggy Wood, who has been in the West for the past five weeks playing in a Goldwyn Picture opposite Will Rogers, left this week for New York.

"The Kentucky Colonel" by Opie Read, has been purchased by the National Film Corporation, for Henry B. Walthall. Continuity will be written by Mr. Hall, of National.

HART FILMS

William S. Hart will make nine pictures under his new Artcraft contract.

"FOUR FLUSHER" FINISHING

Hale Hamilton finishes the last scenes of his "The Four Flusher," sometime this week.

BEBAN STORY

George Beban is preparing the story for his next picture. He has in mind several people for the cast, but as yet he has not announced when he will begin production.

AUTHORS HERE

The writers are invading the Los Angeles film colony. Rupert Hughes and Gertrude Atherton have arrived and Gouveneur Morris will come soon.

McCARTHY FINISHED

The McCarthy Picture Productions company will not make public the character of its first release, or its general plans until the pre-view occurs, a week or more later. However, Supervisor McCarthy is actively engaged in preparing his story for the next film.

HENRY COMEDY

"Don't Chase our Wife" with funny Gale Henry is in the course of production at the Model Comedy studio in Hollywood. The comedienne plays the role of a vivacious wife, craving excitement and pleasure, while her husband, Rip Van Winkle, as she calls him prefers the easy chair seven nights ofthe week, smoking and reading lifeless dime novels.

Bruno J. Beckeris directing and the supporting cast includes Milburn Moranti, Hap H. Ward, Eddie Baker and a number of pretty girls.

"ALMOST A HUSBAND"

Will Rogers' first production, "Almost a Husband," is being directed by Clarence C. Badger.

GLAUM CAST

Mr. J. Parker Read Jr., has surrounded Louise Glaum, with an excellent supporting cast, in her new Louis Joseph Vance story, which is at the present unnamed. Thomas Holding will be seen playing the leading male role, while Edwin Stevens and Bertram Grassby, help to make up the splendidly balanced company.

NEW NORMAND FILM

Mabel Normand's newest picture, with Victor Schertzinger directing, is under way at Goldwyn.

Cullen Landis again finds himself Mabel Normand's leading man. Florence Carpenter, Ogden Crane, Clarence Arper and Blanche Payson assume telling roles, while Gertrude Claire plays a maternal characters.

FREDERICKS CAST

Florence Deshon, recently arrived from New York to fulfill a five-year contract with Goldwyn, while John Bowers, now Goldwyn favorite leading man, assumes his first role with Miss Frtderick. W. Lawson Butt and others to whom excellent opportunities are given being Willard Louis, Leila Bliss, Dick L'Estrange and Sydney Ainsworth, who has recently become a permanent Goldwyn acquisition.

FARRAR FILM

Geraldine Farrar's second Goldwyn Picture this season has been begun at the Culver City Studios on a large scale. Once more she shares honors with Lou-Tellegen, and Reginald Barker renews his allegiance as her director par excellence.

Written by Charles A. Logue and arranged for the screen by E. Richard Schayer, the locale of the drama is London and Cairo and the Egyptian desert. Miss Farrar's role is that of a titled Englishwoman, while Lou-Tellegen plays an Arabian sheik.

The settings have been designed by Hugo Ballin.

In this production Casson Ferguson makes his first appearance with Goldwyn, plays the juvenile lead, while Alec. B. Francis, Edith Chapman have good roles.

SAN FRANCISCO LOCATION

Albert Parker will take the Clara Kimball Young company to San Francisco Saturday to photograph the opening scenes there of Miss Young's new screen vehicle, "The Eyes of Youth." The director and his players will be gone a fortnight.

In addition to writing the script of "The Eyes of Youth," Mr. Parker has selected the cast of the production. The players comprise Sam Sothern, brother of E. H. Sothern, Anders Randolph, the original John Burkett Rider in "The Lion and the Mouse"; Gareth Hughes, the young Welsh actor, protege of Richard Ordynski; William Courtleigh, Edmund Lowe, former leading man of the Morosco Stock company; Vincent Serrano, Pauline Starke and Rodolfo Valantino.

In San Francisco the company will "shoot" in the wharf and shipping district the opening scenes of the production, later proceeding to the residential sections of Belvedere and Piedmont.

Thomas Meighan leaves this week for Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, to spend a couple of weeks with his mother, who is in poor health. On his return, he will play a lead in some forthcoming picture.

Elliott Dexter is still under the weather, though improving, and it is hoped that in a couple of months he will be in shape to begin his screen career again.

INTERESTING UNIVERSAL NOTES

From Ham Beall

Four six-reel features were completed this week at Universal City. and turned over to the editorial department for cutting and titling.

"Loot," the Arthur Somers Roche mystery story, which ran serially in the Saturday Evening Post, was finished by Director William C. Dowlan; "Common Property," written by Elliott J. Clawson, was completed by Director Paul Powell, with Robert Anderson, Nell Craig and Colleen Moore as featured players; Lynn Reynolds shot the final scenes for "The Brute Breaker," by Johnston McCulley, the magazine author, and starring in this production Frank Mayo and Kathryn Adams, who last appeared together in "A Little Brother of the Rich;" Monroe Salisbury completed "Sundown Trail," from the pen of J. G. Hawks, a vivid story of the west that was, in which Alice Elliot played Salisbury's feminine opposite, with Rollin Sturgeon at the directorial helm.

Reeves Eason is producing "The Jack of Hearts" with Jack Ferrin and Josephine Hill in the leading roles; Edward Kull is directing Pete Morrison and Magda Lane in "The Return of Striped Shirt Ransom"; while George Holt is producing another one of the Tempest Cody series starring Marie Walcamp. The title of this latest western is "Tempest Cody Saves the Day."

Douglas Gerrard, who has returned to Universal to direct Monroe Salisbury, took the entire company this week to Pine Knot Inn in the San Bernardino mountains to shoot the opening scenes for a picture.

Norman Dawn's novel production "The Eternal Triangle," in which canine actors only are used, has been completed so far as camera work is concerned and it is now being cut and titled.

Allen Holuber is still seeking a suitable vehicle for Dorothy Phillips' next production, while Eric von Stroheim is also seeking a new vehicle to direct and in which he can also be starred.

A new comedy company headed by Harry Mann, the well-known director-comedian, has been put to work. Mann will star in the one-reel comedies as well as handle the megaphone.

James W. Horne, who directed James J. Corbett in his first big Uni versal serial, "The Midnight Man," broke all records at Catalina Island recently when he captured a giant fish weighing 124 and one-half pounds after a fight lasting two hours and 35 minutes. The weight was taken by J. Willacy, the official weigher of the Tuna Club of the Pacific Coast, which includes the master anglers of the world. By contrast the Universal director weighs only 105 pounds.

Rex Hodge, former production estimator at Universal, has been chosen by Douglas Gerrard as his assistant director. Hodge also acted as directorial assistant to Rupert Julian during the filming of his recent success "The Fire Flingers."

AliceElliott, who played with Monroe Salisbury in "The Sleeping Lion" and in "Sundown Trail," is again to play opposite the Universal masculine star in his newest production.

Others in the cast include Charles West, the well known heavy of Ince, Vitagraph and Lois Weber productions, Ray Gallagher, Alfred Allen and Salisbury in "The Sleeping Lion."

THE ORIGINAL VS. THE PUBLISHED STORY BY A STUDIO READER

There are reasons why, at present, the free-lance writer has about a 50—1 chance to place a story with one of the larger producers. Chief among these is the fact that the final selection of a story for a production is in the hands of the producer himself.

Being anxious to obtain as much pre-release advertising as possible for the forthcoming picture, a short story, book or play that has had a success in its own line has the call over the original story, entirely outside of their relative merits. Occasionally the well advertised story is successful, more often, by reason of a lavish production, the weakness of the story is covered up, and it gets by. Another reason is that, the writers being expressly told that only a synopsis is acceptable, neglect to fill out the stories to the minutest detail. All these details are found in the novel and short story, and furnish the material for the continuity writer with which to build his scenario. The continuity writer is a highly paid workman, and it is quite within reason to expect that he should be able to hmself furnish these details, which are, after all, part of his stock in trade. Another reason is the staff writer, who, when, there is urgent need for a story will grind out five reels of stuff to order. Said stuff, being a cut-to-fit vehicle for the star, naturally escapes rejection under the unsuitable clause. That the story is trite, which in view of the fact that it is turned out without inspiration is not surprising, cuts no figure whatever. If the free-lance should happen to turn in a brilliant original story, entirely within the capabilities of the star; garnished with a wealth of picturesque detail and filled with unusual characterization he would have, possibly, an even chance to sell it. But if he persists in sending in stories which are just as good, or even a little better, than those the staff writers are sending to the screen, his chances of success are small.

The producer, by this we mean, the man who is responsible for the making and marketing of the picture, but who may have no hand in its actual manufacture, and whose chief guage to the merits of a picture is the amount it cost to make, is the most serious obstacle in the path of the free-lance. Do not blame the Editor so much. It often happens that a story selected by him, is rejected by the producer.

WHY ARE SO MANY GOOD BOOKS A FAILURE WHEN TRANSFERED TO THE SCREEN?

Thereare few of us who have not at some time or another, gone to the theatre in a state of pleasant anticipation to see a favorite book translated in to terms of the Screen times.

And how many times does our visit result in disappointment?

In most cases the blame is laid on the story, where in most cases it does not belong.

Granted that all books are not screen material, yet how often do we find an intelligent effort to make use of the material to the best advantage.

In these cases the blame rests entirely with the adapter and scenario writer, in most cases with the latter.

The average scenario writer has a weakness for what is called "pretty stuff", and will gratify this weakness to such an extent that the vital and necessary elements are so compressed or befogged through want of footage, needlessly sacrificed to the pretty stuff, that is impossible to recognize the story. The heroine mothering a basketfull of kittens will take up more footage than the reasons that lead up to a murder or divorce.

A thousand feet will be used up to establish some peculiar characterization in clever pictures, when the same result might have been obtained by a dozen feet of sub-title. That the picture characterization is clever, does not atone for the fact that it has crowded out a lot of stuff that would have helped materially in the presentation of the story. The scenario writer not only glories in this kind of work, but actually claims that it is necessary on account of the dearth of material in the story.

We wonder what the modern continuity writer would have done with "The Spoilers", which contains about 12,000 feet, with absolutely no deviation from the story.

NEW CORPORATION

Three new names have been added to the Goldwyn roster of directorial stars. They are T. Hayes Hunter, Wallace Worsley and Rupert Julian.

It is probable that productions of Eminent Authors, Ins., the million-dollar corporation recently formed by Rex Beach and Samuel Goldwyn in affiliation with Rupert Hughes, Gertrude Atherton, Basil King, Leroy Scott and Gouverneur Morris, will be directed by the triumvirate.

Already T. Hayes Hunter has been assigned to "The Cup of Fury," by Rupert Hughes, first of the Eminent Authors to come to the Goldwyn Studios. Major Hughes arrived Sunday, accompanied by Mrs. Hughes, and is at the Beverly Hills Hotel.

Rupert Julian will direct Gertrude Atherton's "Perch of the Devil." Mrs. Atherton arrived Monday and is now in consultation with Rex Taylor, who is preparing the scenario of her novel. Although he has directed scores of successful photoplays and acted in even more, Rupert Julian's achievement both as the creator of and impersonator in his memorable propaganda picture will never be forgotten.

Wallace Worsley's first undertaking for Goldwyn is as yet undecided. Whether he will direct a star or one of The Eminent Authors' productions with a star-cast will be determined during the week.

"LUCK OF THE IRISH"

Allen Dwan expects to finish the cutting of the "Soldiers of Fortune" this week and will start immediately on his second production for the Mayflower Photoplay Corporation. This will be a visualization of Harold MacGrath's romantic mystery story, "The Luck of the Irish."

Charles H. Kyson, a well known architect, has been engaged as Mr. Dwan's art director. Mr. Kyson is already supervising the building of a number of the sets that will be used for the early scenes of the story, including a reproduction of the port of Singapore, a number of street scenes and interiors in Singapore, as well as scenes reproducing spots in Cairo and other places through the Orient.

"The Luck of the Irish" is not an Oriental story, as might be expected from the local of a number of the scenes but a romance written in MacGrath's best vein.

Ferdinand Phinney Earle is designing the art titles for "Soldiers of Fortune" and in addition to the art designs, unusual color effects will give an added charm and blend the titles into the action of the story.

Jimmie Hogan, assistant director to Allan Dwan, is in his delight. What could be more wonderful for a man with a name like Jimmie Hogan than to be casting "The Luck of the Irish."

EUROPEAN PRODUCTION

Ed Horkeheimer, formerly of the Balboa Film company, will go to Europe early in August. He expects to begin production immediately on his arrival in southern France.

SOCIAL FRICASSEE AND CAPER SAUCE

BY MILDRED DAVIS

ROBBINS-NICHOLS MARRIAGE

Bill Parsons has lost his smile—also his secretary, and Harry Nichols of the Exhibitors Herald Motography is responsible for the fact. Mr. Nichols, after a whirlwind courtship of four weeks, persuaded Miss Clarice Robbins of National, to become his bride, and they were married at the Hollywood Episcopal church, on Friday evening, July 18th.

The marriage has created exceptional interest in the Hollywood studios, as Mrs. Nichols is widely known, having been identified with studio work here and in New York for several years.

Mr. Nichols served with the British army overseas for two and one half years, returning to this country after the armistice was signed.

The young couple will tour the United States and Canada.

LIEUT. PAISLEY HONORED

At her home Monday evening, Katherine Surtess entertained a party of friends in honor of Lieut. G. Charles Paisley, who recently returned from overseas. The evening was spent in dancing.

Among the guests were Doris May Howe, Estelle Allen, Grace Austin, Edith Lomberg, Winnie Winstrom, Joe Whalen, Barney Wolf, Ed Frazier and J. Mathison Purvess.

Miss Katherine's mother, Mrs. Surtess, chaperoned the party.

FROM CHRISTIE'S

The surprise of the day came when Jimmie Clemens, the congenial little stage superintendent of the Christie Film Company, announced the fact of his marriage on Saturday, July 19.

After having spent a year on the Christie lot in various capacities and proposing to all the eligible young ladies, Mr. Clemens has at last done the deed. Needless to say, there are many long faces among the feminine quota of the studio, but we all wish Jimmie good luck.

We wonder who the fortunate young lady is.

MACDONALD VACATIONING

Wallace MacDonald is at the club again after a delightful vacation at the home of D. M. Delmas on San Vincente boulevard, in Santa Monica. Mr. MacDonald was in the surf, or playing golf, most of the time. Judging from his coat of tan you need not be surprised if you hear that Wallace aspires to Hindu heavies.

AT THE "ALEX"

Margarita Fisher motored to Los Angeles Monday, accompanied by her mother and sister and will stop at the Alexandria. Miss Fisher has just completed her latest picture, "The Dangerous Talent," by Daniel Whitcomb and after a week of sight-seeing in Los Angeles will return to commence work on her new picture.

"'TAINT SO BAD"

Eddie Flanagan and Neely Edwards, of the National, are now willing to admit that the picture game is an almost human proposition after all. They have actually had a rest of four days between comedies and are now rarin' to go. They will. Director Edwards says so. 'Tis enough.

KEATON AT L-KO

Harry Keaton is on the L-KO lot again with the Kitty Howe company after finishing a picture with Jim Davis. The cast includes Chi Hueng, and Claire McDowell.

PAT WITH McCARTHYS

Little Pat and Micky Moore are playing with the McCarthy brothers at the U. Micky does the part of Pat's grandson in the prologue.

WEATHERBY AT TRUCKEE

Carlton Weatherby is with the Moreno company at Truckee.

MITCHELL STUDIO

The stage is set for the most interesting dance of the season which will take place at the Studio next Tuesday evening. The drawing for the moleskin fur set that Mr. Mitchell is giving away will take place at that time, and all those who have been fortunate enough to have won chances for the drawing are expected to be present to witness the event. Those who have won numerous chances in the various dancing contests staged at the Studio are Misses Chase Herendeen, Aileen Ware, Edith Roberts, Gene Connley, Esther Smith, Bertha Patterson, Marion Dreseke, Beula Booker, Betty Peterson, Agnes Nowatney, Yvette Mitchell Jane Plaskett and Messrs. Neal Burns, Jean Carey, Don Campbell, Harold Marmaduke, Louis Jackson, Frank Roberts, Neal Kelly, Elmer Ellsworth, Bud Corcier, R. W. Bassett, Warren Walsh, Ed Berry, Ross Urquhart, C. von Herzen and Ed Jackson. for the winners of all the previous contests, to take place at this time.

The Studio was turned over last Wednesday evening to Mrs. J. E. Ware for a brilliant reception and dance in honor of her son Frank, who has just retured to Hollywood after more than a year's service with the A. E. F. in France and Germany. Mr. Ware will soon begin work with the Universal.

The Hollywood Service Men have been temporarily granted the use of the Studio for their meetings, and held their second meeting there on Monday, July 21. At this meeting the organization voted to join forces with the American Legion, the recognized National Organization of American service men. The next meeting of this Post of the American Legion will be held at the Studio on Monday, Aug. 4, and all ex-service men residing in or near Hollywood are urged to attend the meeting. It is requested that all members of the American Legion notify all Hollywood ex-soldiers and sailors as to the time and place of this next meeting.

VIDORS RESTING

The Vidor family has slipped away to "parts unknown" for a few days' complete rest before starting the actual filming of the next Brentwood feature.

CAREFREE

Enid Bennett is enjoying a much needed vacation, while her husband, Fred Niblo, is piloting the "ways and means" of the new anti-Bolsheviki picture. "It seems too good to be true," smiles Enid, "to think I don't have to get up early, and can don my sport clothes, or bathing suit, without the slightest care, whether I get sunburned or not." Miss Bennett has been spending some time with her sister-in-law motoring, and at the Mission Inn, at Riverside.

NEW HOME

The population of Beverley Hills has increased by the Glaum family. Louise Glaum has purchased a home in the foot-hill section of Beverley Hills.

CAPT. CONKLIN RETURNS

Captain F. R. Conklin, who recently returned from overseas, has joined the scenario staff of the Christie Comedy Company. Captain Conklin is a scenario writer of ability.

DAVID BUTLER

By Mildred Davis

Many of the most prominent actors and actresses of the stage and screen received much of their early training with the Alcazar Stock Company in San Francisco. One summer, eight years ago, during a school vacation, the Alcazar players staged a football play. At that time David Butler's father was the stage director at the Alcazar, and David was a law student in the University of California, at Berkeley. So David went across the bay taking the entire football team with him, to appear in the summer production. But when school opened in the fall Berkeley lost an aspiring lawyer, for Dave stayed at the theatre. For five years he remained there, playing many different roles. Bert Lytell was the leading man, Bessie Barriscale, the ingenue, and Howard Hickman the second lead. The company also included Charles Ruggles, Louis Bennison and Roy Neal, who was the assistant stage director. David became an enthusiastic worker and trouped with the rest of them.

After his Alcazar experience David toured with Arnold Bennett in "Damaged Goods."

Stage managing appears to be a family trait, for when the "Damaged Goods" tour was finished, Dave became stage manager at the Morosco Theatre Mr. Butler was officiating when some of Oliver Morosco's greatest successes made their premier Los Angeles showings. Some of these were "Upstairs and Down," "Lombardi, Ltd.", "One Of Us," "Sadie Love" and "The Brat."

Mr. Butler appeared in his first picture four years ago. "The Day That Is Dead" was the title of this famous two-reeler, in which Seena Owen and Charles Clary also appeared. David did not hold the same attitude toward pictures then as now, so he continued his stage work until a year ago.

Then came D. W. Griffith's "Greatest Thing In Life," with the appealing, unforgetable M'siuer Bebe

"That part," Mr. Butler informs us, "was my one great chance in pictures, and I certainly appreciated the fact that I was the fortunate one. I like this work much better than the stage. Now I can have a home with my evenings free, and there is not the continual strain that a legitimate actor is under. I refer to the stock player, of course. Do you know when I was at the Morosco I lost nine pounds regularly, every Sunday, when the bill changed. The actor who travels a season, or longer, in the same play is not under that tension, but he is very apt to become rusty, and he certainly is not learning anything new."

In the past year David has worked in "The Greatest Thing In Life," "The Girl Who Stayed At Home," "Up Stairs And Down," "Better Times," "The Other Half," "The County Fair," "The Unpainted Woman," "Petal On The Current," "Old Jermiah," and "Nuggett Nell."

"A lot of pictures for one year," he laughed, "and it has kept me busy."

No, there is not much rest for David, even though he does manage to retain his weekly nine pounds.

David admits being born in San Francisco in 1894. We cannot blame the juvenile character man for straying from the bar, as both of his parents were theatrical people. His mother was leading woman with Salvini, and other well known actors of his time, and his father was an actor and director, with the Alcazar company, alone, for thirteen years.

MORE GOLF

A. B. W. Hodges and Jas. W. Hum of the Brentwood studio evidently laid the foundation for a permanent interest in golf among motion picture people when they got up their first tournament early this month. The golf players among the Famous-Players Lasky organization have since taken up the matter even more seriously and now announce a tournament for August 2nd and 3rd at the Brentwood Country club, open to all motion picture golfers. They have secured a number of exceptionally handsome cups for prizes from George Melford, W. L. Hall, Wally Reid, I. H. Sample, and from the Lasky studio, besides certain others to be known as the Howland and Dewey trophy, the Tibbetts-Oldfield trophy and the Wagner Woodruff trophy. Moreover it is reported that still richer trophies are to be "hung up" for a series of special tournaments and awarded to the player whose name appears thereon as three times a winner. Entries for the tournament are being received by Edmund Mitchell of the Lasky studio and arrangements have been made with Mr. Davis of the Brentwood Country Club for a dinner-dance on the evening of Saturday, August 2nd. Inasmuch as the members of the club have agreed to postpone their usual Saturday night dinner dance in favor of the motion picture players, it is expected that this event will be patronized by all who can secure reservations from the local "film colony" whether they are golfers or not.

IT'S BEING DONE

Eddie Baker, heavy man with Gale Henry, had a birthday recently and as a result he is now the proud owner of a brand new roadster which was presented him by his father as a gift. It has been secretly learned that in the back of the car, under heavy lock, E. B. has stored a fair amount of the pre-July thirst stock, but this he says is for "emergency purposes" only. As a precaution the owner and operator of car and contents has issued a request that bomb throwers will please refrain from heaving their missils near the rear end of the vehicle.

DISCOVERED

Louis Chaudet, having completed his latest production, "The Blue Bonnet," starring Billie Rhodes, is now devoting his spare time, prior to starting a new feature, in the study of voice culture. He assests that some day, in the hazy future, he intends to graduate from the picture business and enter the field of light opera. One's loss is the other's agin and the public will benefit either way.

"BOY GIRL" ON SCREEN

Mary Savage, the Boy Girl who made such a tremendous hit in her original skit under the direction of Martin Beck on Orpheum Time has given up the speaking stage for the screen.

IN FRISCO

June Delight has deserted Los Angeles for the City by the Golden Gate. Miss Delight had an offer from Techau Tavern, and as she is a clever little entertainer, she decided to leave films for her first love, the stage.

HERO STUFF

The Antonio Moreno-Carol Holloway troupe are having some exciting times at Truckee, Calif. Jack Waltermeyer, who plays the heavy in the serial, "The Perils of Thunder Mountain," is the hero of the town after having rescued a little girl from drowning in the river.

FARNUM EXPANDS

Walter Farnum has added a lyceum department to his booking office and is planning a series of artist recitals to be given here in the Fall. He is also arranging vaudeville and club dates for artists now working in pictures, so as to keep them busy between their picture engagements.

RUTH CLIFFORD LEADING LADY

Ruth Clifford has been secured by the Vitagraph Company to play the leading role opposite Earle Williams in Hilliard Booth's story, "The Black Gate."

Others in the cast of this picture are Harry Springler, Brinsley Shaw, Melbourne McDowell, Clarrise Selwynne and Parks Jones.

Cuddles Stearn believes in commencing young as a film actress. Although Miss Cuddles is but three months old, she has worked with such stars as Geraldine Farrar, Billie Rhodes and Henry B. Walthall. One wonders what heights she will have reached, by the time she has reached the advanced age of one year.

Yea brother, Friend Irving Cummings has had a play accepted. The boy is versatile to the umph degree.

NEW SCRIPT

Miss Violet Clark, continuity writer at Universal, is preparing the continuity for "No Experience Required." The picture will be filmed under Paul Powell's direction.

AT LASKY'S

Helen Chadwick is another blonde, who has been added to the Lasky Company's pay roll. She is playing opposite Robert Warwick.

OPPOSITE LINCOLN

Mabel Ballin who played the lead in Maurice Tourneaur's "White Heather" has been signed for a big part in the forthcoming Universal production "The Beach Comber," to play opposite Elmo Lincoln.

"BETTER TIMES" LEAD

Through an error in Camera's year book they impression was given that George Hackathorn played the lead in "Better Times." Mr. Hackathorn asks us to correct the statement, as the credit for the "Better Times" lead belongs to David Butler.

GRAUMAN'S RIVAL

The most unique motion picture theatre in the world, in which the audience is always one and the same person, where only premier showings of films take place and where the projection machine operator is also the manager, usher, janitor and owner of the place in general is located in the home of Nat H. Spitzer of the Bulls-Eye Film Corporation at Ocean Park, Calif. Mr. Spitzer is the manager, usher, janitor and owner of the place in general while the one and the same person in the audience is—well, you guessed it—Mrs. Spitzer.

RETURN TO SCREEN

Lurline Lyons who is remembered for her splendid work in 'Romona" and the "Eyes of the World," returns to the screen after an absence of more than a year in a Spanish role with the H. B. Warner Company at the Jesse D. Hampton Studio. It was somewhat of a coinsidence that the part Miss Lyons plays in this production is similiar in character to that which she played in "Ramona," namely a triple characterization in which she takes an age range from twenty as a bride to sixty as a mother.

The noted stage comedienne, Louise Dresser, and her mother were dinner guests of Miss Irene Rich, Thursday night of last week. Miss Rich lives in a charming bungalow close to the Brunton Studios, and the party, with the film actress's mother also, slipped down to watch Bessie Barriscale filming some night scenes on her latest picture. Miss Dresser is one stage person who never saw a motion picture filmed, and she was much interested.

INGRAHAM AT INCE

Lloyd Ingraham wil soon have completed his Peggy May picture and rumor connects his name with a return to the Ince studios, another Peggy May feature, and a special production, so there you are and also take your choice, as Ingraham will probably do.

Henry Lehrman, producer of Lehrman Comedies, has just issued a positive denial of a statement recently published, which declared that Roscoe Arbuckle is half owner of the new Henry Lehrman Studios now being erected at Culver City, Cal.

"The new studios are entirely my own property," said Mr. Lehrman, "and I have no partners nor associates whatever in their ownership. When I contracted with the First National Exhibitors' Circuit for the distribution of future Lehrman Comedies, I determined to build a production home which would in every respect meet my ideas of what a modern studio should be, and the plant which I am now bringing to completion is the result.

"Mr. Arbuckle has leased space for the making of his pictures, but his position at the studios will be solely that of a tenant. I am moved to make this point clear in justice to both Mr. Arbuckle and myself."

WINNERS AMONG STARS

Parade and beauty contest—Clara Kimball Young, in Daniels, first; Juanita Hansen, in Stutz, second; Una Trevelyn, in Stutz, third.

Fifteen-mile race, stars' entry—Tiffany, driving for Ince stars, first; Donald Crisp, driving for Lasky stars, second; Ray Kirwood, driving for Ince third. Time, 14m. 3 1-5s.

Australian pursuit race—Won by Hilyard, driving for Hart, in five laps.

PLAY BALL

The Metro Baseball nine defeated the Universal team in a hard-fought battle on the Vernon diamonds last Sunday. The score was 4-2. This is the third win for Metro out of four games played, the other games being with Goldwyn, Ince and Fox, and the latter being the only victor. Lewis and Critchley for Metro, Shipworth, Domes and Nobel for Universal were the batteries.

This game marked Barney Wolf's retirement as captain of the Metro team, he having resigned his position in favor of Reggie Lanning. Barney will continue to play his position at short stop however.

HAINES PARTY

Rhea Haines entertained with a very unique affair at her home Friday night. The table was elevated about a foot from the floor, and the guests grouped around it on cushions. In the center of the table was a small top horse, a token of the riding parties that Miss Haines' friends have been taking evenings when work was finished.

The rooms were decorated in greenery. Speedy Hansen, with his boys, accompanied by Miss Haines, furnished the music for dancing.

Among the guests were: Dorothy Gish, Robert Harron, Frances Parks, Rose Smith, James Smith, Raymond Cannon, Clarine Seymour, Mrs. Haynes, Evyln Cavine, Lieut. Hills.

CHIT, CHAT & CHATTER OF INTEREST

BY HARRY BURNS

Al Green, is starting a new picture with Peggy Hyland at Fox's and he has Walter De Coursey as his assistant, and the pair to my way of thinking are an ideal loking duo, full of pep and know their end of the game.

Frank Thorne, just finished a very good heavy part with Fred Stone and expects to be cast with another feature production before the first of the week has gone by. He is one of our best heavies and still wears the same size hat he did when he first landed in our midst.

Wayne Mack, wired from New York City that he leaves for the Southland Sunday and has some very good news for his company that will once more start working at Culver City upon his return here. Jack Connley is looking forward to some very big things when the boss hits town.

Arthur Rose, has been promoted to stage manager of the Goldwyn studio, working under the supervision of Mason Litsor, production manager, and things are sure humming along down that way since the new combination was formed.

Chas Chaplin, 'tis said will only make five reel comedy drama from now on, according to some inside information, it is that the greatest of all funsters is becoming serious and wants to just poke fun at us once in a while?

J. Gordon Edwards, and his associate workers who are responsible for the William Farnum picture are down at Balboa where they are doing some water scenses which are said to be both dangerous and thrilling.

Gladys Goulding, is to appear on the Orpheum time in a single, she will be well remembered over that same circuit of the team of Alf and Gladys Goulding, she has had some songs written for her and she is having a complete elaborate wardrobe made for her tour.

Sid Smith, well known comic is back from the seat of war, and working for the Bulls Eye studio, he is being directed with Chas. Doherty, by Chas. Parrott.

Monte Bank is to have his own company at Balboa, so reads a notification hurled at us from the sad sea waves city which is a wee bit confusing to those who don't know who Monte is, but let it be known that it is our old friend Frenchy Mario Bianci.

Henry Hathaway married Jimmie Wiel daughter of Hary Wiel who is assistant to Francis Grandon, director of Texas Guinan, while Henry's sister, Wanda, married Jimmy Lewis, which means that Jean Hathaway and friend husband, Rody Hathaway, better watch their only child and daughter, Dodo, or she will follow suit.

Pat Dowling, went to Seattle to help boost the Fay Tincher?Christie comedies and interests and was taken down with a bad spell of appendicitis, but last reports says he is doing well and expects to be up and at 'em shortly.

Morrie Rauch and G. C. Gerald, have taken over the Trocadero Cafe and are catering to filmlands people, both are well known by the followers of the profession, and have the good wishes of their many friends in their new location.

W. S. Campbell, is cutting his third Joe Martin comedy, and New York is anxiously awaiting it's completion, for wires have been coming in asking how much longer it will take before they can set a date for the release of the subject.

Nelson McDowell, has been offered an engagement with a stock company up north to appear in some legitimate production, it sems the stage manager of the organization saw one of his screen characterizations and traced him to the Southland.

Bobby Vernon, is doing a great rube character for Al Christie in his present story, and says that he never was more pleased with a narrative as is with this one, which means that it sure ought to be funny to look at.

Bob Broadwall is doing some good work for the Great Western studio with Fred Haymer as his assistant, they started the ball a rolling by working out at the Universal where they found some very good locations for their present vehicle.

Chester Bennett, Joe McDonough, Bill Dyer, Harry Schenck, and yours truly H. B., will be busier than a bird dog after some game, the night of nights.

Bob McGowan, was seen ordering some rube clothes at the National wardrobe room, wonder what for Robert? Oh yes, that's right for the dance.

Jimmy Clemmens will leave his wife long enough to be on hand to help make the barn dance the success of the season. Thata boy, Joimes.

Abe Alt, sold tickets so fast for the A. D. A. affair that he thought he was out in the woods handing out hot cakes to lumber jacks.

Dave Allen, says the artists he represents will be on hand, wish I could get a little picture of his line-up. I'll bet they're class A artists.

Boy Marshall says that Brentwood studio will be there to the last man, wonder who he is? The way they bought tickets,listens good to me.

Claude Mitchell says he's glad he won't have to count the money taken in Thursday night, for it will keep the boys up most of the night.

George Webster, says the fellow who invented barn dancing knew the secret channel to people's hearts, for everybody's promised to attend.

Arthur Rose, says that the Goldwynites will trolley and motor up from Culver City and the beaches like attending a society function.

Walter De Coursey, says he heard the masked marvel of airdom is going to fly over to Brunton's, look the doings over and fly home in the morning.

Scott Beal, secretary and treasurer of the organization is very happy over the outlook for Thursday night's barn dance, for in his own words it will be a "humdinger of an affair." All right let's go and get in the fun.

Martin Murphy, who assists Jack Jaccard, says that Lieut. Locklear will give the boys a thrill as he flies towards the A. D. A. barn dance Thursday evening. It will be some sight boys, so look out for him.

U will be responsible for much activity Thursday night, that the A. D. A. boys from Universal City will be very much in evidence, as will stars, directors and auxilliary artists.

Allen Watt, wired from Cheyenne, "Sorry can't be with you Thursday night, know every one will have a wonderful time." That about tells it's own tale.

Norman Taroug says all of his former Sunshine comedy workers will be on hand, maybe they will pick up a few new laughs or stunts, who can tell?

Eugene De Rue, has sold every member of the Lyons-Moran troupe tickets and says they will be well represented there, which will help some.

Mack Wright, who raced at Ascot, promises not to mention any of the particulars about how he nearly won the race, which should make every one happy, and should place Mack back in good standing.

Fred Tyler, Reaves Eason, Irving Luddy, Roy Meeker, Douglas Dawson, Al Russell are having a ticket selling bee with Bert King, Fred Robinson, Harry Tennbrook, Lew Howland, Henry Murray, Bill Gdinley and Chas Hall, there is all sorts of speculation as to who will come out vistor.

Art Flaven wants to bet his entire ranch that there will be more stars directors, actors and actresses of the first waters on hand Thursday night and have ever been gathered under one roof at a similar affair.

Juanita Hanson, crashed into Reggie Morris' car at Western and Santa Monica Boulevard and almost caused a young riot, for in the Morris car there sat Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vernon, Mrs. Reggie Morris and Reggie, Jr., Mrs. Reppetto and her son. While Miss Hanson was driving alone in her runabout car, in which she was heading for the Metro studio where she is at present employed.

Robert McKim, is playing a very important part in the John P. McCarthy feature production, that is now in the making out niversal way. The role that Mr. McKim is called upon to portray, is another of those characters for which he has become noted for of late, and Director McCarthy comes forward with a wee bit of information, that he never saw a more wonderful portrayal of such an intricate part, as Robert McKim is puttin over for him in the present vehicle.

Hughey Fay is a very much sought actor actor these days, having offers from both comedy and dramatic producers, and it is getting to be a hard thing for him to decide which he would rather work in, for the price he is offered for one is on a par with the other so he should worry.

Chas Doherty has been signed by Nat Spitzer for a period of time, which means that the Bulls-Eye corporation think a whole lot of Mister Doherty and if they move up to San Mateo or go to Honolulu, Charles will be among those enroute there when they pull up stakes and go away.

Darrell Foss and Ora Carewe, made a hit with the Universal officials in their initial effort for that studio, and wouldn't be surprised in the least to see them appear in a number of feature subjects for the Big U under William Dowlan's direction.

Chas. Conklin is telling the boys that the drinks and cigars are on him, all on account of a six-pound boy paying him an unexpected visit via the stork route, which means that Heinie Conklin is one happy guy these summery days. Can't blame him. Who wouldn't be?

T. H. Gibson Gowland has been signed by George Loane Tucker, to appear in his next picture, which will give him an opportunity to play another part like he did as Capt. Hudson in the White Heather.

Bert Apling, is still playing heavies with George Holt at the Big U and it looks like he is booked for life at that studio. Fair Enough Bert.

Eddie Sowers, is working at Thos. Ince's studio helping friend director to keep Louise Glaum happy and contented and making a good job of it.

Marie Paris, who is the lightest heavy girl in the profession, is working with the Ben Wilson serial out at the Universal. Marie is light in weight and size but a mighty big factor in doing vampire roles.

Texas Guinan, has a map of Texas plastered on her dressing room, it is in the shape of a star, which tells the tale about her prowess and also the Lone Star cognomen answers for her connection with her own company which is producing two-reel western stories for the Frohman company.

Mack Swain, has moved his bag and baggage out to the Big U where he will disport his funny antics which will be released as Poppy Comedies, the big fellow is very much in evidence out that way right now.

Hank Mann, has been writting his own story, aided and abetted by Bob Kerr, who just returned from the seat of war, and will be associated with Hankus Pankus Mann, meaning that they will ramble fast and high and hit on all cylinders.

Rosalie Sershon, just finished an excellent part with Tom Moore and is expecting to again be cast in the next picture, one of her best efforts of late was a Spanish dancing girl for the Tom Mix organization.

Frances Burnham, recently returned from New York City where she worked opposite George Walsh and after taking a rest feels ready to once more get back to work. Frances always was a popular girl with theatergoers.

Rex Ingraham, they tell me is to direct Elmo Lincoln at the Big U, so we gather from this that Elmo The Mighty, landed mighty strong on the Universal and theatergoers the last time he labored for them.

Rex Hodge, says he has lost close to ten pounds keeping his many friends supplied with tickets for the barn dance. Keep up the good work, Rex.

DOINGS OF ASSISTANT DIRECTORS ASSOCIATION

By Harry Burns

Followers of the doings of filmland, will no doubt be out Thursday night to help put over the Assistant Directors Association Barn Dance scheduled to be run off at Robert Brunton's motion picture studio located at Melrose and Western.

The A. D. A. boys who number close 100 will be on hand tis said to look after the interests of their guests, which means that every one who attends will have a general good time.

Hay wagons and busses will meet the street cars at Western and Melrose Avenues, and will give the fun seekers a life to the seat of the dance activities and back again after the festivities are over, which is another point of interest for those who intend to help make up what looms right up at the present writing, the most representative gathering of the profession that have congregated upon such an occasion.

The largest orchestra that ever played for any similar dance will be on hand to tickle the heart strings of the dancers, for they will be prepared to play such selections as will gladden the young as well as the old, and every one who isn't out on the floor dancing will be looked upon as either sick or a sacker, for the music will make 'em step fast and lively.

The talk of the film rialto is the burning question of "How is everybody going to dress for the affair? The answer to this comes in as few words. Come as you please, dressed as you please, it's a barn dance. it's photoplayers night, and rain or shine, your due for a good time.

The boys are running the affair for the express purpose of getting a library, fixtures and furnishings for the club rooms located at 5444 Hollywood Boulevard, and also to bring the Star, Director, Producer and Assistant director in a sort of a get-acquainted spirit, so they will understand one another better, thereby getting cooperation from all connected with the industry.

Casting Directory

Copyright Applied For.

In order to be listed in this column, it is necessary that you be sufficiently well known locally that there shall be no doubt as to your ability to play the parts for which you are listed. If you have not appeared in the films recently, it will be necessary to bring proof that you have successfully filled the part under which you wish to be listed.

This precaution is taken as a safeguard for this paper and for the people who are capable. Further, this precaution has been suggested to us by casting directors, as the column was inaugurated chiefly for their information.

Abbreviations: Characters (ch.); Heavies (hv.); Juveniles (juv.); Foreign (for.); Ingenues (ing.).

Changes in this column must be reported to the office of CAMERA! not later than Friday of each week.

Charge for listing, including change each week, is $1.00 for two months.

PIRATE SHIP

In William Farnum's latest production, "Wings of the Morning," a picturization of the novel of the same name by Louis Tracy, one of the thrilling incidents is a fight between the screen star and a band of pirates of the China Seas. Special sampans were built at the Fox studios and towed over to Catalina Island where the scenes were photographed.

In making a tour of the island, Mr. Farnum and his director, Director General J. Gordon Edwards came across an old Chinese pirate ship, the "Ning Poo," which was anchored in a landlocked bay on the western coast of the island. This junk, more than 168 years old, had had a varied bloody and piratical career, and had been used at times as a slaver and as a marauder of the China seas. A few years ago the ship was bought by some Americans and towed across the Pacific for show purposes at the various California seaside resorts.

After serving its show purposes it was towed to the hidden harbor of the island and there it is gradually rotting away. The super structure is in good condition and Director Edwards was able to use this historical vessel as the headquarters of the pirates who set out to get the white man who held possession of an island which they coveted.

The "Ning Poo" still contains many of the relics of barbarism, among them being the starvation cage, the head-chopping block and the doorless and windowless dungeon in which more than a hundred captured men and women would be thrown in at one time, and slowly suffocate to death.

CECIL B. DE MILLE FLIES
By Helen Carlisle

Cecil B. de Mille is making the world unsafe for telephone poles. Also Innocent Bystanders. Tuesday afternoon he paid an almost personal visit to the studios, flying so low in his aeroplane that he had to "zoom" over the three tops.

Hundreds of astounded Hollywoodites rushed into the streets, to watch Mr. De Mille graceful loop-the-loops around telephone wires, dive down almost on to the roofs of the studios, and then with a farewell wave of the hand head away for De Mille Field.

However, if Mr. De Mille can shift gears (or whatever you call 'em, on an aeroplane) as easily as he does husbands and wives in his picture—he's safe, so why worry about the telephone poles?

ASCOT RACES

A large crowd of fans and nearly "everyone" in pictures turned out for the races staged by the film people at Ascot Park last Sunday. All the proceeds went into the Photoplayers' fund.

Everything turned out well, especially Pete Morrison and Luke Gibson when their car tipped over in the home stretch of the fifteen-mile race. Another near-tragedy occurred when Donald Crisp spun around three times, held the car upright, backed on to the track, and came in second in the Australian pursuit race Crisp smashed through the fence. No one was hurt in either case.

Tom Mix was the modest young hero of the day. He won the twenty-five-mile race, and the silver cup that went to the winner. He made his twenty-five miles in 24m. 3 4-5s.

Clara Kimball Young walked away with first place in the parade of cars made by the picture queens. Juanita Hansen was second and Una Trevelyn third. The competition was certainly keen. The entry list showed such names as Pauline Fredericks Gloria Swanson, Marie Walcamp, Lila Lee, Gertrude Selby, Ethel Lynn, Lois Wilson Virginia Lee Corbin and Mary MacAlister. Clara Kimball Young won in a Daniels minus decorations.

L. H. Hillyer driving for Hart, won the Australian pursuit race, and came in second to Mix in the twenty-five-mile, and third in the ten-mile studio race.

Cecil de Mille drove his airplane, skimming Eddie Hearne's head for three laps, and ran away from the racing car. Emory Rogers was another aviator who did some nice driving. He came to the races in his plane making a clever landing and ascent when he left.

Tiffany, driving for Tom Ince, made the fastest lap of the day, in 52 2-5s. Making under a mile a minute, he won the ten and fifteen-mile races.

The racing showed some very good amateur driving.

FOX NOTES

This week the Farnum Company, under the direction of Director J. Gordon Edwards, returned from Santa Catalina Island, where it had been at work on a story from "Wings of the Morning," Louis Tracy's popular novel.

Gladys Brockwell this week began work on a new crook picture, "Thieves," under the direction of Frank Neal, with William Scott leading.

Madlaine Traverse has just finished "The Splendid Sin," under the direction of Howard M. Mitchell, and has begun another picture, "The Snares of Paris," with Mr. Mitchell. "The Splendid Sin' is a story of political and social life in Paris, by Denison Clift.

Al E. Green will begin work with Miss Peggy Hyland, Monday, with a story by Edgar Franklin, "Right After Brown." She finished this week with Edmund Lawrence, "The Merry-Go-Round."

Tom Mix is finishing "The Hard Boiled Tenderfoot." He is now preparing a new story.

STUDIO CLUB TO EXPAND

A meeting of the members of the Studio Club was called, last Tuesday evening, to discuss plans for the enlargement and improvement of the club, that it might better meet the demands made upon it by the scores of girls from the Hollywood studios, who look upon it as "home."

Suggestions that classes in literature and dramatic art be formed, were enthusiastically received by different members of the club. Gymnasium work is already carried on to some extent, one evening a week being set aside for the swimming class, at the Y. W. C. A. A dancing class would also prove popular with the girls, and one of the most excellent suggestions, was that educational classes be formed, providing for a vocational teacher, who would instruct the girls, individually, along lines for which they had natural ability.

Realizing that the Studio Club has far outgrown its present quarters, Miss Harris brought before the Club tentative plans for a dormitory, to house a hundred girls, and to be built on the Club grounds. Such a dormitory would fill a long-felt need of the Club, and would prove invaluable to the many girls of the studios, whose homes are in distant cities, and who have found difficulty in obtaining lodgings in over-crowded Hollywood.

MORGAN DANCERS

The Morgan dancers, fancy terpsichorean artists, who have been touring the Orpheum circuit for the past two years, are to be cast this week in "Don't Chase Your Wife," the latest comedy starring Gale Henry. This will mark their first appearance in moving pictures. The troupe, at present on a three weeks' vacation, prior to going to Europe, comprises six girls, headed by Miss Van Pelt, teacher of fancy dancing at the California Temple of Art, from whom two of the dancers received their training. Two of their most popular dance numbers, "The Ballet from Faust" and "Naila" will be given in the picture. An elaborate ball room set has been constructed and a ten-piece orchestra has been engaged to furnish music.

BULLS-EYE NOTES

The second release of the new Bulls-Eye Films featuring Charlie Dorety, has been titled "Haunted Hearts," and will be ready for its premier showing shortly. "Haunted Hearts" is a travesty on spiritualism written by Jay Mulhauser.

Dave Morris has been engage to direct several new Bulls-Eye novelties, which will be ready for release about September 15th.

One of the October Bulls-Eye comedies releases will be made entirely in San Francisco. A story that deals wholly with a certain Bay City politicians attempt to get public attention has been satirized by Jay Mulhauser, Bulls-Eye writer, which will be filmed in its original setting.

The Bulls-Eye will announce a new one-reel novelty soon.

THE ACCUSED

Casson Ferguson is under deep suspicion by the entire cast of the Geraldine Farram Company. For. after the disapperance of the two demijohns of developer which the company had taken to San Francisco, Mr. Ferguson was reported seriously ill, and was hurried back to Los Angeles. His recovery was complete. and he is again shouldering the juvenile honors in the Farrar feature. Film friends and true of Mr. Ferguson believe with him that his recent illness was an attack of ptomaine.

HE'LL LEARN

Bob Bludder, the boy who rushes "props" at the Model Comedy studio, was asked the other day by Director Becker if he had a tuxedo.

"A tuxedo?" asked Bob. "what's that; one of those high hats?"

TRAVELOGUE

With his photographic equipment and personal effects in three automobiles L. J. ("Dick") Burrud, producer of American and foreign travelogues, left Los Angeles last week for a fifty-two weeks' tour of the American and Canadian Rockies. Burrud, who will release his pictures through Bulls-Eye, is one of the pioneers in travelogue photography, and has the distinction of having received government commendation for his pictures of the Yosemite Valley and the new Roosevelt National Park. After completing his present tour Burrud will go to the Orient, where he will take "shots" of the Shantung penisula, which the Paris peace conference awarded to Japan, and over which there is much discussion at present in Washington.

THREE GUESSES—?

Proof that it is not necessary to have "pull" in order to succeed as a scenario writer, was shown recently in the experience of Miss N. B. Havey. Although Miss Havey has written several of Bessie Barriscale's successes, and is a close personal friend of Fay Tincher, the Christia Comedy star, she submitted a scenario to the Christie company under an assumed name. It was promptly purchased, and not until then did Miss Havey disclose her identity. The story is being filmed under the title, "Dangerous Nan McGrew."

BULLS-EYE ARTIST

Herbert Acker of Los Angeles, Cal., who has been engaged by Bulls-Eye to draw art titles and cartoons, had the unique experience of being one of a handful of Americans that were in Munich, Germany, in August, 1914, when the world war broke out. Acker, who was then studying art in one of the German ateliers, immediately applied for aid at the American consulate and, with the rest of the refugees, was sent home via Holland. When American entered the war Acker enlisted. He served in France with the 40th Division Artillery.

NOT P. A. STUFF

June Love has become so popular that some of her silent admirers are provoked to violence, in order to procure Miss Love's pictures. Mr. Barber, of the Sunland studio, was displaying June's photographs when the window was broken one night and all of the young lady's pictures stolen. Repairs were made, a new display arranged and promptly at night the window was broken with the Love pictures disappearing. Warrants were issued but the art collectors have not been found.

CARELESS WITH THE TRUTH

We noticed in last week's issue of a certain paper a statement to the effect that an exchange of this city engaged in the handling of engagements and publicity of the professional talent were organized along the lines of the American Federation of Labor, which was untrue. We believe as a matter of principle that the person responsible for the statement would confer a great favor upon his paper by being more careful with his assertions.

IS HE MUM?

John Mackay is now with Reginald Barker in the Mary MacLaren picture, doing an Egyptian mummy prince.

George Swan who has lately returned from overseas service with the Canadian Army, has been cast by the Jesse Hampton Company to play the juvenile heavy in a forthcoming production.

Beulah Booker having recovered from her recent illness is now returning to work with Henry Walthal. Miss Booker played the ingenue lead with Walthal in his greatest success, "The Boomerang."

By courtesy of Maurice Tourneur, Wallace Beary who is now working in "The Victory" is being loaned to Thos. Ince for his latest massive production which is under the direction of Irvin Willat.

MOTORING ITEMS

Automobile Club of So. Cal.

Dogs and cats are not allowed in the Yosemite National Park, nor are they allowed loose in the Sequoia or General Grant Parks.

Motorists who are planning to give Fido or Pussy an airing this summer must look to other places for the animal vacations, according to a warning issued yesterday by the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Auto Club touring bureaus throughout the southern counties are advising automobilists, on the request of W. B. Lewis, Superintendent of the Yosemite domain, that dogs or cats cannot be taken into the Valley, nor can they be given a ride over the scenic Tioga route between Yosemite and Owens Lake.

Dogs chase the deer, and cats catch the chipmunks, it is pointed out, and little Fido makes himself a general nuisance. Therefore, camping parties leaving Southern California for the National Parks must leave their pets at home, or suffer the pangs of turning back from the Park gates when they get there.

That there is no truth in numerous wild rumors being circulated throughout the state to the effect that typhoid is raging in the mountains of Big Bear Valley, is the official announcement made yesterday by the Automobile Club of Southern California after an investigation of conditions.

Somewhere the rumor started that it was unsafe to take children up into Southern California's scenic wonderland, and an average of thirty calls a day for the past ten days have been received by the Automobile Club as to its authenticity.

No typhoid will be found in or near Big Bear Lake, says the Club.

"Shooting snipes" from open windows in the cities and towns of Southern California will have to stop, or irate motorists will take the matter of punishment for the offense into their own hands, warn officials of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Numerous complaints received and filed at the Auto Club from motorists who have had large and unsightly holes burned in their car tops by cigar and cigarette stubs thrown out of second, third or fourth floor windows of business buildings indicate those who are accustomed to so "shoot their snipes" are going to be tarred-and-feathered or something if they don't quit it.

Here is the latest signed complaint, from Albert E. Bruce, of Los Angeles, who as an Automobile Club member, complains that to that organization as follows:

"I recently had a small hole about half an inch in diameter burned through the top of my auto. My wife and I were sitting in the car which was standing still, in front of a business block in Hollywood.

"An investigation seemed to indicate that the hole was burned by a cigar or cigarette stub thrown out of one of the upper story windows of the business block. I have an impression that there is an ordinance prohibiting the throwing of anything out of upper story windows, but I am not certain of this. I simply call your attention to the matter so that if you have other reports of like character you can take whatever action seems advisable to try to stop this practice."

Well, the Club had had other reports of a similar nature, from members. There have been many reports of burned tops, burned rugs and burned hats, from cigar and cigarette stubs.

If the Legal Department of the organization is not able to take action, the motorists themselves are liable to, say Club officials.

Where to Sell Your Scenarios

This feature is for the guidance of scenario writers who have something to sell, but who do not know just where to take it. CAMERA! keeps this column for announcements by the various studios. Some of the matter stands from week to week as a reference guide. It will be noted that many of the studios do not wish scenarios submitted by any one; some want synopses only; others wisn the continuity written.

As the difficulties of the past years in regard to the submissions of scenarios no longer exist, it is safe for any one with a good idea to send scenarios to any company mentioned in this column. While this paper is not responsible for the use or misuse of scenarios by the companies listed, it believes that any scenario sent to any of the companies will receive honest and prompt treatment. Any action to the contrary will receive full publicity if reported to this office.
